2 Even as they delivered them unto us, which from the beginning were eye-witnesses and ministers of the word;

3 It seemed good to me also, having had perfect understanding of all things from the very first, to write unto thee in order, most excellent Theophilus,

4 That thou mightest know the certainty of those things wherein thou hast been instructed.

5 ¶ THERE was, in the days of Herod the king of Judea, a certain priest named Zacharias, of the course of Abia: and his wife was of the daughters of Aaron, and her name was Elisabeth.

6 And they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless.

7 And they had no child, because that Elisabeth was barren; and they both were now well stricken in years.

8 And it came to pass, that while he executed the priest's office before God in the order of his course,

9 According to the custom of the priest's office, his lot was to burn incense when he went into the temple of the Lord.

10 And the whole multitude of the people were praying without, at the time of incense.

11 And there appeared unto him an angel of the Lord, standing on the right side of the altar of incense.

12 And when Zacharias saw him, he was troubled, and fear fell upon him.

13 But the angel said unto him, Fear not, Zacharias: for thy prayer is heard; and thy wife Elisabeth shall bear thee a son, and thou shalt call his name John.

14 And thou shalt have joy and gladness, and many shall rejoice at his birth.

15 For he shall be great in the sight of the Lord, and shall drink neither wine nor strong drink; and he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost, even from his mother's womb.

16 And many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the Lord their God.

17 And he shall go before him in the spirit and power of Elias, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready a people prepared for the Lord.

18 And Zacharias said unto the angel, Whereby shall I know this? for I am an old man, and my wife well stricken in years.

19 And the angel answering, said unto him, I am Gabriel, that stand in the presence of God; and am sent to speak unto thee, and to shew thee these glad tidings.

20 And,

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 1. Forasmuch as many, &c.] This must refer to some histories of the life of Christ which are now lost; for Matthew and Mark, the only evangelists that can be supposed to have written before Luke, could not with any propriety be called many.

5. Of the course of Abia.] The descendants of Aaron multiplied to such a degree, that they could not all do duty in the temple at one time; David therefore divided them into twenty-four courses, who ministered weekly in their turns. Abia, the course to which Zacharias belonged, was the eighth in David's regulation.

9. His lot, &c.] Because some parts of the sacred service were more honourable than others, both the priests and Levites divided the whole among them by lot. The burning of incense was the part that fell to Zacharias, and was the most honourable in the whole service.

10. The people were praying without, &c.] This is the foundation of that elegant figure by which prayer is often compared to incense; see Psa. 141. 2. and Mal. 1. 11.

13. John.] In the Hebrew, this name signifies the grace and favour of the Lord. Hence it was fitly given to the Messiah's forerunner, who was sent to proclaim the immediate accomplishment of God's merciful intentions towards men, the expectation of which had been raised in them by all the preceding dispensations of religion.

20 And, behold, thou shalt be dumb, and not able to speak, until the day that these things shall be performed, because thou believest not my words, which shall be fulfilled in their season.

21 And the people waited for Zacharias, and marvelled that he tarried so long in the temple.

22 And when he came out, he could not speak unto them: and they perceived that he had seen a vision in the temple; for he beckoned unto them, and remained speechless.

23 And it came to pass, that as soon as the days of his ministration were accomplished, he departed to his own house.

24 And after those days his wife Elisabeth conceived, and hid herself five months, saying,

25 Thus hath the Lord dealt with me in the days wherein he looked on me, to take away my reproach among men.

26 ¶ And in the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God, unto a city of Galilee, named Nazareth, 27 To a virgin espoused to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the virgin's name was Mary.

28 And the angel came in unto her, and said, Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

29 And when she saw him, she was troubled at his saying, and cast in her mind what manner of salutation this should be.

30 And the angel said unto her, Fear not, Mary: for thou hast found favour with God.

31 And, behold, thou shalt conceive in thy womb, and bring forth a son, and shalt call his name JESUS.

32 He shall be great, and shall be called the Son of the Highest; and the Lord God shall give unto him the throne of his father David.

33 And he shall reign over the house of Jacob for ever; and of his kingdom there shall be no end.

34 Then said Mary unto the angel, How shall this be, seeing I know not a man?

35 And the angel answered and said unto her, The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee: therefore also that holy thing, which shall be born of thee, shall be called The Son of God.

36 And, behold, thy cousin Elisabeth, she hath also conceived a son in her old age: and this is the sixth month with her who was called barren.

37 For with God nothing shall be impossible.

38 And Mary said, Behold the handmaid of the Lord; be it unto me according to thy word. And the angel departed from her.

39 And Mary arose in those days, and went into the hill-country with haste, into a city of Juda, 40 And entered into the house of Zacharias, and saluted Elisabeth.

41 And it came to pass, that when Elisabeth heard the salutation of Mary, the babe leaped in her womb: and Elisabeth was filled with the Holy Ghost.

42 And she spake out with a loud voice, and said, Blessed art thou among women, and blessed is the fruit of thy womb.

43 And whence is this to me, that the mother of my Lord should come to me?

44 For, lo, as soon as the voice of thy salutation sounded in mine ears, the babe leaped in my womb for joy.

45 And blessed is she that believed: for there shall be a performance of those things which were told her from the Lord.

46 ¶ And Mary said, My soul doth magnify the Lord,

47 And my spirit hath rejoiced in God my Saviour.

48 For he hath regarded the low estate of his handmaiden: for, behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed.

49 For he that is mighty hath done to me great things; and holy is his name.

50 And his mercy is on them that fear him, from generation to generation.

51 He hath shewed strength with his arm; he hath scattered the proud in the imagination of their hearts.

52 He hath put down the mighty from their seats, and exalted them of low degree.

53 He hath filled the hungry with good things; and the rich he hath sent empty away.

54 He hath holpen his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy, 55 As he spake to our fathers, to Abraham, and to his seed for ever.

56 And Mary abode with her about three months, and returned to her own house.

57 ¶ Now Elisabeth's full time came that she should be delivered; and she brought forth a son.

58 And her neighbours and her cousins heard how the Lord had shewed great mercy upon her; and they rejoiced with her.

59 And it came to pass, that on the eighth day they came to circumcise the child; and they called him Zacharias, after the name of his father.

60 And his mother answered and said, Not so; but he shall be called John.

61 And they said unto her, There is none of thy kindred that is called by this name.

62 And they made signs to his father, how he would have him called.

63 And he asked for a writing-table, and wrote, saying, His name is John. And they marvelled all.

64 And his mouth was opened immediately, and his tongue loosed, and he spake, and praised God.

65 And fear came on all that dwelt round about them: and all these sayings were noised abroad throughout all the hill-country of Judea.

66 And all they that had heard them laid them up in their hearts, saying, What manner of child shall this be? And the hand of the Lord was with him.

67 ¶ And his father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Ghost, and prophesied, saying,

68 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel; for he hath visited and redeemed his people,

69 And hath raised up an horn of salvation for us, in the house of his servant David;

70 As he spake by the mouth of his holy prophets, which have been since the world began;

71 That we should be saved from our enemies, and from the hand of all that hate us,

72 To perform the mercy promised to our fathers, and to remember his holy covenant,

73 The oath which he sware to our father Abraham,

74 That he would grant unto us, that we being delivered out of the hand of our enemies, might serve him without fear,

75 In holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our life.

76 And thou, child, shalt be called the Prophet of the Highest:

22. Speechless.] The Greek word signifies both deaf and dumb; so that he lost both his hearing and his speech during this interval.

33. Of his kingdom there shall be no end.] The kingdom of Christ signifies, 1st, His spiritual kingdom, or the dominion of righteousness in the minds of men: 2dly, His temporal kingdom, or the outward dispensation of the gospel. This distinction removes the difficulty arising from 1 Cor. 15. 28. where we are told, that after the world is judged, Christ shall deliver up the kingdom to God the Father; whereas Gabriel said to Mary on this occasion, that our Lord's kingdom should be everlasting. His temporal kingdom indeed, or the gospel dispensation, will end with the world; but his spiritual kingdom, or the dominion of righteousness in the minds of reasonable beings, which he came down to establish, will continue with him to all eternity.

34. How shall this be, &c.] It seems natural to suppose, that she understood the angel's words as an intimation that the effect was immediately to take place, to which her present circumstances seemed, humanly speaking, an invincible objection.

46. My soul doth magnify, &c.] In all this canticle Mary calls to her remembrance the marvellous acts which God had done formerly in favour of his people, and in making the application to the present conjuncture, borrows the expressions of holy men and women from the Old Testament; see Gen. 30. 13. 1 Sam. 2. 1—5.

55. As he spake to our fathers, &c.] If these words were included in a parenthesis, the sense would be easier and stronger.

And the Angel said, Hail thou that art highly favored, the Lord is with thee: blessed art thou among women.

Highest: for thou shalt go before the face of the Lord, to prepare his ways;

77 To give knowledge of salvation unto his people, by the remission of their sins,

78 Through the tender mercy of our God, whereby the day-spring from on high hath visited us,

79 To give light to them that sit in darkness, and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.

80 And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, and was in the deserts till the day of his shewing unto Israel.

C H A P. II.

Augustus taxeth all the Roman empire.

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Cesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

2 (And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

3 And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Beth-lehem, (because he was of the house and lineage of David,)

5 To be taxed, with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child.

6 ¶ And so it was, that while they were there the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

7 And she brought forth her first-born son, and wrapped him in swaddling-clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn.

8 And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

9 And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

10 And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

11 For unto you is born this day, in the city of David, a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

12 And this shall be a sign unto you; Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling-clothes, lying in a manger.

13 And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host, praising God, and saying,

14 Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

15 ¶ And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Beth-lehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

16 And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

17 And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

18 And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

19 But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

20 And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

21 And when eight days were accomplished for the circumcising of the child, his name was called JESUS, which was so named of the angel before he was conceived in the womb.

22 ¶ And when the days of her purification, according to the law of Moses, were accomplished, they brought him to Jerusalem, to present him to the Lord;

23 (As it is written in the law of the Lord, Every male that openeth the womb shall be called holy to the Lord;)

24 And to offer a sacrifice according to that which is said in the law of the Lord, A pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons.

25 And, behold, there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon; and the same man was just and devout, waiting for the Consolation of Israel; and the Holy Ghost was upon him.

26 And it was revealed unto him by the Holy Ghost, that he should not see death before he had seen the Lord's Christ.

27 And he came by the Spirit into the temple: and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him after the custom of the law,

28 Then took he him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said,

29 Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word;

30 For mine eyes have seen thy salvation,

31 Which thou hast prepared before the face of all people;

32 A light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel.

33 And Joseph and his mother marvelled at those things which were spoken of him.

34 And Simeon blessed them, and said unto Mary his mother, Behold, this child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel, and for a sign which shall be spoken against;

35 (Yea, a sword shall pierce through thy own soul also,) that the thoughts of many hearts may be revealed.

36 ¶ And there was one Anna a prophetess, the daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Aser; she was of a great age, and had lived with an husband seven years from her virginity:

37 And she was a widow of about fourscore and four years; which departed not from the temple, but served God with fastings and prayers night and day.

38 And she, coming in that instant, gave thanks likewise unto the Lord, and spake of him to all them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem.

39 ¶ And when they had performed all things according to the law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own city Nazareth.

40 And the child grew, and waxed strong in spirit, filled with wisdom; and the grace of God was upon him.

41 ¶ Now his parents went to Jerusalem every year at the feast of the passover.

42 And when he was twelve years old, they went up to Jerusalem, after the custom of the feast.

43 And when they had fulfilled the days, as they returned, the child Jesus tarried behind in Jerusalem; and Joseph and his mother knew not of it.

44 But they, supposing him to have been in the company, went a day's journey; and they sought him among their kinsfolk and acquaintance.

45 And when they found him not, they turned back again to Jerusalem, seeking him.

46 And it came to pass, that, after three days, they found him in the temple, sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them, and asking them questions.

47 And all that heard him were astonished at his understanding and answers.

48 And

79. In the shadow of death.] Such phrases as these do with peculiar propriety describe the ignorant and miserable state of the Gentile world.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 1. That all the world should be taxed.] This affair of the taxing is mentioned by St. Luke, not so much to mark the time of Christ's birth, as to prove, 1st, That he was born in Beth-lehem. 2dly, That his parents were at that time universally known to be branches of the royal family of David. The importance of ascertaining these two points arose from hence, that they were fixed by the prophets as express characters of the Messiah. Hath not the scripture said that Christ cometh of the seed of David, and out of the town of Beth-lehem, where David was? John 7.

42. By all the world is here meant the Roman empire.

3. To be taxed:] To be enrolled.

25. The Consolation of Israel:] i. e. The coming of the Messiah. The Holy Ghost here, means the spirit of prophecy.

34. Behold, this child, &c.] In this prediction Simeon was directed to use a metaphor corresponding to that found in Isa. 8. 14. which passages St. Paul has joined in one citation, and applied to the Messiah. Behold, I lay in Zion a stumbling-stone, and rock of offence; and whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed. Rom. 9. 33. In allusion to this metaphor, Simeon, holding up the child in his arms, cried, Behold, this child is set for the fall and rising again of many in Israel.

35. Yea, a sword, &c.] These words in a very lively manner express the agony of grief which Mary should feel on seeing him crucified.

46. After three days.] The first was spent in their journey homeward, the second in their return to Jerusalem, the third in searching for him.

48 And when they saw him they were amazed: and his mother said unto him, Son, why hast thou thus dealt with us; behold, thy father and I have sought thee sorrowing.

49 And he said unto them, How is it that ye sought me? wist ye not that I must be about my Father's business?

50 And they understood not the saying which he spake unto them.

51 And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was subject unto them: but his mother kept all these sayings in her heart.

52 And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man.

C H A P. III.

John's preaching and baptism.

NOW in the fifteenth year of the reign of Tiberius Cesar, Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea, and Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and his brother Philip tetrarch of Iturea, and of the region of Trachonitis, and Lysanias the tetrarch of Abilene,

2 Annas and Caiaphas being the high priests, the word of God came unto John, the son of Zacharias, in the wilderness.

3 And he came into all the country about Jordan, preaching the baptism of repentance for the remission of sins;

4 As it is written in the book of the words of Esaias the prophet, saying, The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his paths straight.

5 Every valley shall be filled, and every mountain and hill shall be brought low; and the crooked shall be made straight, and the rough ways shall be made smooth;

6 And all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

7 Then said he to the multitude that came forth to be baptized of him, O generation of vipers, who hath warned you to flee from the wrath to come?

8 Bring forth therefore fruits worthy of repentance, and begin not to say within yourselves, We have Abraham to our father: for I say unto you, That God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham.

9 And now also the axe is laid unto the root of the trees: every tree therefore which bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down, and cast into the fire.

10 And the people asked him, saying, What shall we do then?

11 He answereth and saith unto them, He that hath two coats, let him impart to him that hath none; and he that hath meat, let him do likewise.

12 Then came also publicans to be baptized, and said unto him, Master, what shall we do?

13 And he said unto them, Exact no more than that which is appointed you.

14 And the soldiers likewise demanded of him, saying, And what shall we do? And he said unto them, Do violence to no man, neither accuse any falsely; and be content with your wages.

15 ¶ And as the people were in expectation, and all men mused in their hearts of John, whether he were the Christ or not;

16 John answered, saying unto them all, I indeed baptize you with water, but one mightier than I cometh, the latchet of whose shoes I am not worthy to unloose: he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, and with fire;

17 Whose fan is in his hand, and he will thoroughly purge his floor, and will gather the wheat into his garner; but the chaff he will burn with fire unquenchable.

18 And many other things in his exhortation preached he unto the people.

19 ¶ But Herod the tetrarch, being reproved by him for Herodias his brother Philip's wife, and for all the evils which Herod had done, 20 Added yet this above all, that he shut up John in prison.

21 ¶ Now when all the people were baptized, it came to pass, that Jesus also being baptized, and praying, the heaven was opened:

22 And the Holy Ghost descended in a bodily shape like a dove upon him, and a voice came from heaven, which said, Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.

23 ¶ And Jesus himself began to be about thirty years of age, being (as was supposed) the son of Joseph, which was the son of Heli,

24 Which was the son of Matthat, which was the son of Levi, which was the son of Melchi, which was the son of Janna, which was the son of Joseph,

25 Which was the son of Mattathias, which was the son of Amos, which was the son of Naum, which was the son of Esli, which was the son of Nagge,

26 Which was the son of Maath, which was the son of Mattathias, which was the son of Sermei, which was the son of Joseph, which was the son of Juda,

27 Which was the son of Joanna, which was the son of Rhesa, which was the son of Zorobabel, which was the son of Salathiel, which was the son of Neri,

28 Which was the son of Melchi, which was the son of Addi, which was the son of Cosam, which was the son of Elmodam, which was the son of Er,

29 Which was the son of Jose, which was the son of Eliezer, which was the son of Jorim, which was the son of Matthat, which was the son of Levi,

30 Which was the son of Simeon, which was the son of Juda, which was the son of Joseph, which was the son of Jonan, which was the son of Eliakim,

31 Which was the son of Melea, which was the son of Menan, which was the son of Mattatha, which was the son of Nathan, which was the son of David,

32 Which was the son of Jesse, which was the son of Obed, which was the son of Booz, which was the son of Salmon, which was the son of Naasson,

33 Which was the son of Aminadab, which was the son of Aram, which was the son of Esrom, which was the son of Pharez, which was the son of Juda,

34 Which was the son of Jacob, which was the son of Isaac, which was the son of Abraham, which was the son of Thara, which was the son of Nachor,

35 Which was the son of Saruch, which was the son of Ragau, which was the son of Phalec, which was the son of Heber, which was the son of Sala,

36 Which was the son of Cainan, which was the son of Arphaxad, which was the son of Sem, which was the son of Noe, which was the son of Lamech,

37 Which was the son of Mathusala, which was the son of Enoch, which was the son of Jared, which was the son of Maleleel, which was the son of Cainan, 38 Which was the son of Enos, which was the son of Seth, which was the son of Adam, which was the son of God.

C H A P. IV.

Christ's temptation and victory.

AND Jesus, being full of the Holy Ghost, returned from Jordan, and was led by the spirit into the wilderness,

2 Being forty days tempted of the devil. And in those days he did eat nothing: and when they were ended he afterward hungered.

3 And the devil said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, command this stone that it be made bread.

4 And Jesus answered him, saying, It is written, That man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word of God.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 2. Annas and Caiaphas being the high priests, &c.] According to the institution of the Jewish religion there could be only one high-priest at a time, that minister being typical of the one Mediator between God and man. The most probable solution therefore of this difficulty is, that Annas was the high priest, and Caiaphas his sagan or deputy, to whom also the title of high priest might not improperly be given.

16. I indeed baptize, &c.] See Matt. 3. 11.

23. Jesus himself began, &c.] It should be rendered, Jesus himself had then lived in subjection about thirty years.

38. Which was the son of God.] On account of having received life from the hands of God, the life of an intelligent and rational being, our first father Adam is called the son of God.

ANNO.

5 And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time.

6 And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will I give it.

7 If thou, therefore, wilt worship me, all shall be thine.

8 And Jesus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve.

9 And he brought him to Jerusalem, and set him on a pinnacle of the temple, and said unto him, If thou be the Son of God, cast thyself down from hence:

10 For it is written, He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee;

11 And in their hands they shall bear thee up, lest at any time thou dash thy foot against a stone.

12 And Jesus answering, said unto him, It is said, Thou shalt not tempt the Lord thy God.

13 And when the devil had ended all the temptation, he departed from him for a season.

14 ¶ And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit into Galilee: and there went out a fame of him through all the region round about.

15 And he taught in their synagogues, being glorified of all.

16 ¶ And he came to Nazareth, where he had been brought up: and, as his custom was, he went into the synagogue on the sabbath-day, and stood up for to read.

17 And there was delivered unto him the book of the prophet Esaias: and, when he had opened the book, he found the place where it was written,

18 The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he hath anointed me to preach the gospel to the poor; he hath sent me to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty them that are bruised;

19 To preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

20 And he closed the book, and he gave it again to the minister, and sat down. And the eyes of all them that were in the synagogue were fastened on him.

21 And he began to say unto them, This day is this scripture fulfilled in your ears.

22 And all bare him witness, and wondered at the gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth. And they said, Is not this Joseph's son?

23 And he said unto them, Ye will surely say unto me this proverb, Physician, heal thyself: whatsoever we have heard done in Capernaum, do also here in thy country.

24 And he said, Verily I say unto you, No prophet is accepted in his own country.

25 But I tell you of a truth, Many widows were in Israel in the days of Elias, when the heaven was shut up three years and six months, when great famine was throughout all the land;

26 But unto none of them was Elias sent, save unto Sarepta, a city of Sidon, unto a woman that was a widow.

27 And many lepers were in Israel in the time of Eliseus the prophet; and none of them was cleansed saving Naaman the Syrian.

28 And all they in the synagogue, when they heard these things, were filled with wrath,

29 And rose up, and thrust him out of the city, and led him unto the brow of the hill whereon their city was built, that they might cast him down headlong.

30 But he, passing through the midst of them, went his way,

31 And came down to Capernaum, a city of Galilee, and taught them on the sabbath-days.

32 And they were astonished at his doctrine: for his word was with power.

33 ¶ And in the synagogue there was a man which had a spirit of an unclean devil, and cried out with a loud voice,

34 Saying, Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art; the holy One of God.

35 And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him. And when the devil had thrown him in the midst, he came out of him, and hurt him not.

36 And they were all amazed, and spake among themselves, saying, What a word is this! for with authority and power he commandeth the unclean spirits, and they come out.

37 And the fame of him went out into every place of the country round about.

38 ¶ And he arose out of the synagogue, and entered into Simon's house: and Simon's wife's mother was taken with a great fever; and they besought him for her.

39 And he stood over her, and rebuked the fever; and it left her. And immediately she arose, and ministered unto them.

40 ¶ Now when the sun was setting, all they that had any sick with divers diseases brought them unto him: and he laid his hands on every one of them, and healed them.

41 And devils also came out of many, crying out, and saying, Thou art Christ, the Son of God. And he, rebuking them, suffered them not to speak; for they knew that he was Christ.

42 ¶ And when it was day he departed, and went into a desert place: and the people sought him, and came unto him, and stayed him, that he should not depart from them.

43 And he said unto them, I must preach the kingdom of God to other cities also; for therefore am I sent.

44 And he preached in the synagogues of Galilee.

A miraculous draught of fishes.

AN D it came to pass, that as the people pressed upon him to hear the word of God, he stood by the lake of Gennesaret,

2 And saw two ships standing by the lake: but the fishermen were gone out of them, and were washing their nets.

3 And he entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land: and he sat down, and taught the people out of the ship.

4 ¶ Now when he had left speaking, he said unto Simon, Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught.

5 And Simon answering, said unto him, Master, we have toiled all the night, and have taken nothing: nevertheless, at thy word I will let down the net.

6 And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes; and their net brake.

7 And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 16. He came to Nazareth—and stood up for to read.] They who are acquainted with Jewish literature know that the five books of Moses have long ago been divided in such a manner, that by reading a section of them every sabbath, the whole is gone through in the space of a year. He that read in the synagogue was obliged to stand upright, and not suffered so much as to lean against a wall.

17. When he had opened the book.] The sacred books were written anciently on skins of vellum sewed together, as Josephus asserts, Antiq. 12. 11. who adds, that the Hebrew copy of the law, which was sent from Jerusalem to Ptolemy to be translated into Greek, was in letters of gold, upon skins of vellum wonderfully thin and fine; and that the conjunction of the several skins was so artful as to be scarce discoverable; and that the sacred books, thus written, were rolled up into volumes, (like the modern Pentateuchs used in the Jewish synagogues,) appears from this passage of St. Luke. The Greek word, translated he opened, is allowed to imply, he unfolded or unrolled the volume.

22. The gracious words.] This seems to refer to the agreeable manner of Christ's discourse, as well as to the matter of it.

27. Eliseus.] Elisha, 2 Kings, 5. 10.

30. He, passing through the midst of them, went his way.] How our blessed Saviour escaped from them is uncertain; as he was God, as well as man, it was easy for him to escape from any mortal enemies, either by rendering himself invisible, or changing their tempers; whichever way he chose, it was doubtless miraculous; and therefore deprived the Nazarenes of the liberty of complaining, that he had wrought no miracle among them.

8 When Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord.

9 For he was astonished, and all that were with him, at the draught of the fishes which they had taken:

10 And so was also James and John, the sons of Zebedee, which were partners with Simon. And Jesus said unto Simon, Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men.

11 And when they had brought their ships to land, they forsook all, and followed him.

12 ¶ And it came to pass, when he was in a certain city, behold, a man full of leprosy; who, seeing Jesus, fell on his face, and besought him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean.

13 And he put forth his hand, and touched him, saying, I will; be thou clean. And immediately the leprosy departed from him.

14 And he charged him to tell no man: but go, and shew thyself to the priest, and offer for thy cleansing according as Moses commanded, for a testimony unto them.

15 But so much the more went there a fame abroad of him: and great multitudes came together to hear, and to be healed by him of their infirmities.

16 ¶ And he withdrew himself into the wilderness, and prayed.

17 ¶ And it came to pass on a certain day, as he was teaching, that there were Pharisees and doctors of the law sitting by, which were come out of every town of Galilee, and Judea, and Jerusalem: and the power of the Lord was present to heal them.

18 And, behold, men brought in a bed a man which was taken with a palsy: and they sought means to bring him in, and to lay him before him.

19 And when they could not find by what way they might bring him in, because of the multitude, they went upon the house-top, and let him down through the tiling, with his couch, into the midst before Jesus.

20 And when he saw their faith, he said unto him, Man, thy sins are forgiven thee.

21 And the scribes and the Pharisees began to reason, saying, Who is this which speaketh blasphemies? Who can forgive sins but God alone?

22 But when Jesus perceived their thoughts, he, answering, said unto them, What reason ye in your hearts?

23 Whether is easier to say, Thy sins be forgiven thee; or to say, Rise up and walk?

24 But that ye may know that the Son of man hath power upon earth to forgive sins, (he said unto the sick of the palsy,) I say unto thee, Arise, and take up thy couch, and go unto thine house.

25 And immediately he rose up before them, and took up that whereon he lay, and departed to his own house, glorifying God.

26 And they were all amazed, and they glorified God, and were filled with fear, saying, We have seen strange things to-day.

27 ¶ And after these things he went forth and saw a publican named Levi, sitting at the receipt of custom: and he said unto him, Follow me.

28 And he left all, rose up, and followed him.

29 And Levi made him a great feast in his own house: and there was a great company of publicans, and of others, that sat down with them.

30 But their scribes and Pharisees murmured against his disciples, saying, Why do ye eat and drink with publicans and sinners?

31 And Jesus answering, said unto them, They that are whole need not a physician; but they that are sick.

32 I came not to call the righteous, but sinners, to repentance.

33 ¶ And they said unto him, Why do the disciples of John fast often, and make prayers, and likewise the disciples of the Pharisees; but thine eat and drink?

34 And he said unto them, Can ye make the children of the bride-chamber fast, while the bridegroom is with them?

35 But the days will come, when the bridegroom shall be taken away from them, and then shall they fast in those days.

36 ¶ And he spake also a parable unto them; No man putteth a piece of a new garment upon an old: if otherwise, then both the new maketh a rent, and the piece that was taken out of the new agreeth not with the old.

37 And no man putteth new wine into old bottles; else the new wine will burst the bottles, and be spilled, and the bottles shall perish.

38 But new wine must be put into new bottles; and both are preserved.

39 No man also having drunk old wine, straightway desireth new: for he saith, The old is better.

C H A P. VI.

Christ chooseth the Twelve.

AND it came to pass, on the second sabbath after the first, that he went through the corn-fields: and his disciples plucked the ears of corn, and did eat, rubbing them in their hands.

2 And certain of the Pharisees said unto them, Why do ye that which is not lawful to do on the sabbath-days?

3 And Jesus answering them, said, Have ye not read so much as this, what David did, when himself was an hungered, and they which were with him:

4 How he went into the house of God, and did take and eat the shew-bread, and gave also to them that were with him, which is not lawful to eat but for the priests alone?

5 And he said unto them, That the Son of man is Lord also of the sabbath.

6 ¶ And it came to pass also on another sabbath, that he entered into the synagogue and taught: and there was a man whose right hand was withered.

7 And the scribes and Pharisees watched him, whether he would heal on the sabbath-day; that they might find an accusation against him.

8 But he knew their thoughts, and said to the man which had the withered hand, Rise up, and stand forth in the midst. And he arose, and stood forth.

9 Then said Jesus unto them, I will ask you one thing, Is it lawful on the sabbath-days to do good, or to do evil? to save life, or to destroy it?

10 And looking round about upon them all, he said unto the man, Stretch forth thy hand. And he did so; and his hand was restored whole as the other.

11 And they were filled with madness; and communed one with another what they might do to Jesus.

12 ¶ And it came to pass in those days, that he went out into a mountain to pray, and continued all night in prayer to God.

13 And when it was day, he called unto him his disciples; and of them he chose twelve, whom also he named Apostles.

14 Simon (whom he also named Peter) and Andrew his brother, James and John, Philip and Bartholomew,

15 Matthew and Thomas, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon called Zelotes, 16 And Judas the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot, which also was the traitor.

17 ¶ And he came down with them, and stood in the plain, and the company of his disciples, and a great multitude of people out of all Judea and Jerusalem, and from the sea-coast of Tyre and Sidon, which came to hear him, and to be healed of their diseases;

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 8. Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord.] These words of St. Peter seem to be expressive of his high sentiments of our Lord, and the consciousness of his own unworthiness to be found in such a person's company; and greatly resemble that glorious declaration of the Centurion, Lord, I am not worthy that thou shouldst come under my roof; but speak the word only, and my servant shall be healed, Matt. 8. 8.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 12. In prayer to God.] It is literally, In the prayer of God: the phrase is singular and emphatical, to import an extraordinary and sublime devotion.

18 And they that were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed.

19 And the whole multitude sought to touch him; for there went virtue out of him, and healed them all.

20 ¶ And he lifted up his eyes on his disciples, and said, Blessed be ye poor, for yours is the kingdom of God.

21 Blessed are ye that hunger now: for ye shall be filled. Blessed are ye that weep now: for ye shall laugh.

22 Blessed are ye when men shall hate you, and when they shall separate you from their company, and shall reproach you, and cast out your name as evil, for the Son of man's sake.

23 Rejoice ye in that day, and leap for joy; for, behold, your reward is great in heaven: for in the like manner did their fathers unto the prophets.

24 But woe unto you that are rich! for ye have received your consolation.

25 Woe unto you that are full! for ye shall hunger. Woe unto you that laugh now: for ye shall mourn and weep.

26 Woe unto you when all men shall speak well of you! for so did their fathers to the false prophets.

27 ¶ But I say unto you which hear, Love your enemies, do good to them which hate you;

28 Bless them that curse you, and pray for them which despitefully use you.

29 And unto him that smiteth thee on the one cheek, offer also the other: and him that taketh away thy cloak, forbid not to take thy coat also.

30 Give to every man that asketh of thee; and of him that taketh away thy goods, ask them not again,

31 And as ye would that men should do to you, do ye also to them likewise.

32 For if ye love them which love you, what thank have ye? for sinners also love those that love them.

33 And if ye do good to them which do good to you, what thank have ye? for sinners also do even the same.

34 And if ye lend to them of whom ye hope to receive, what thank have ye? for sinners also lend to sinners, to receive as much again.

35 But love ye your enemies, and do good, and lend, hoping for nothing again; and your reward shall be great, and ye shall be the children of the Highest: for he is kind unto the unthankful, and to the evil.

36 Be ye therefore merciful, as your Father also is merciful.

37 Judge not, and ye shall not be judged: condemn not, and ye shall not be condemned: forgive, and ye shall be forgiven:

38 Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal, it shall be measured to you again.

39 And he spake a parable unto them, Can the blind lead the blind? shall they not both fall into the ditch?

40 The disciple is not above his master: but every one that is perfect shall be as his master.

41 And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but perceivest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

42 Either how canst thou say to thy brother, Brother, let me pull out the mote that is in thine eye, when thou thyself beholdest not the beam that is in thine own eye? Thou hypocrite, cast out first the beam out of thine own eye, and then shalt thou see clearly to pull out the mote that is in thy brother's eye.

43 For a good tree bringeth not forth corrupt fruit: neither doth a corrupt tree bring forth good fruit.

44 For every tree is known by his own fruit: for of thorns men do not gather figs, nor of a bramble-bush gather they grapes.

45 A good man, out of the good treasure of his heart, bringeth forth that which is good; and an evil man, out of the evil treasure of his heart, bringeth forth that which is evil: for of the abundance of the heart his mouth speaketh.

46 ¶ And why call ye me Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?

47 Whosoever cometh to me, and heareth my sayings, and doeth them, I will shew you to whom he is like.

48 He is like a man which built an house, and digged deep, and laid the foundation on a rock; and when the flood arose, the stream beat vehemently upon that house, and could not shake it: for it was founded upon a rock.

49 But he that heareth, and doeth not, is like a man that without a foundation built an house upon the earth, against which the stream did beat vehemently, and immediately it fell, and the ruin of that house was great.

C H A P. VII.

Christ raiseth the widow's son.

NOW when he had ended all his sayings in the audience of the people, he entered into Capernaum.

2 And a certain centurion's servant, who was dear unto him, was sick, and ready to die.

3 And when he heard of Jesus, he sent unto him the elders of the Jews, beseeching him that he would come and heal his servant.

4 And when they came to Jesus, they besought him instantly, saying, That he was worthy for whom he should do this;

5 For he loveth our nation, and he hath built us a synagogue.

6 Then Jesus went with them. And when he was now not far from the house, the centurion sent friends to him, saying unto him, Lord, trouble not thyself; for I am not worthy that thou shouldest enter under my roof.

7 Wherefore neither thought I myself worthy to come unto thee: but say in a word, and my servant shall be healed.

8 For I also am a man set under authority, having under me soldiers; and I say unto one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it.

9 When Jesus heard these things, he marvelled at him, and turned him about, and said unto the people that followed him, I say unto you, I have not found so great faith, no, not in Israel.

10 And they that were sent, returning to the house, found the servant whole that had been sick.

11 ¶ And it came to pass the day after, that he went into a city called Nain: and many of his disciples went with him, and much people.

12 Now when he came nigh to the gate of the city, behold there was a dead man carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow: and much people of the city was with her.

13 And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her, and said unto her, Weep not.

14 And he came and touched the bier: and they that bare him stood still. And he said, Young man, I say unto thee, Arise.

15 And he that was dead sat up, and began to speak: and he delivered him to his mother.

16 And there came a fear on all: and they glorified God, saying, That a great prophet is risen up among us; and, That God hath visited his people.

17 And this rumour of him went forth throughout all Judea, and throughout all the region round about.

18 And the disciples of John shewed him of all these things.

19 ¶ And John calling unto him two of his disciples, sent

24. Woe unto you that are rich! The parable of the rich man and Lazarus may be considered as a beautiful illustration of this malediction. By the rich are meant those who trust in their riches.

26. Woe unto you when all men shall speak well of you, &c.] Woe unto those who, propagating such doctrines as encourage men in sin, gain to themselves the applause of the generality of men; for thus, in ancient times, false prophets, who accommodated their doctrines to the lusts and passions of men, were more courted, and better received, than the true prophets of God.

No.

29. Taketh away thy cloak.] See Matt. 5. 40.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verse 2. A certain centurion's servant, who was dear unto him, &c.] The kindness of this centurion to his slave, and the anxiety he shewed to get him healed, was suitable to the character of a humane master, and exhibits an excellent pattern of duty, very proper for the imitation of Christian masters.

sent them to Jesus, saying, Art thou he that should come, or look we for another?

20 When the men were come unto him, they said, John Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou he that should come, or look we for another?

21 And in that same hour he cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits; and unto many that were blind he gave sight.

22 Then Jesus answering, said unto them, Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard, how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached.

23 And blessed is he whosoever shall not be offended in me.

24 ¶ And when the messengers of John were departed, he began to speak unto the people concerning John, What went ye out into the wilderness for to see? A reed shaken with the wind?

25 But what went ye out for to see? A man clothed, in soft raiment? Behold, they which are gorgeously apparelled, and live delicately, are in kings' courts.

26 But what went ye out for to see? A prophet? Yea, I say unto you, and much more than a prophet.

27 This is he of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face, which shall prepare thy way before thee.

28 For I say unto you, Among those that are born of women, there is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist: but he that is least in the kingdom of God is greater than he.

29 And all the people that heard him, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John.

30 But the Pharisees and lawyers rejected the counsel of God against themselves, being not baptized of him.

31 ¶ And the Lord said, Whereunto then shall I liken the men of this generation? and to what are they like?

32 They are like unto children sitting in the marketplace, and calling one to another, and saying, We have piped unto you, and ye have not danced; we have mourned to you, and ye have not wept.

33 For John the Baptist came neither eating bread, nor drinking wine; and ye say, He hath a devil.

34 The Son of man is come eating and drinking; and ye say, Behold a gluttonous man, and a wine-bibber, a friend of publicans and sinners!

35 But Wisdom is justified of all her children.

36 ¶ And one of the Pharisees desired him that he would eat with him. And he went into the Pharisee's house, and sat down to meat.

37 And, behold, a woman in the city, which was a sinner, when she knew that Jesus sat at meat in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster-box of ointment,

38 And stood at his feet behind him, weeping, and began to wash his feet with tears, and did wipe them with the hairs of her head, and kissed his feet, and anointed them with the ointment,

39 Now when the Pharisee which had bidden him saw it, he spake within himself, saying, This man, if he were a prophet, would have known who and what manner of woman this is that toucheth him: for she is a sinner.

29. Justified God:] i. e. Obeyed God's invitation to repentance.

30. The—lawyers rejected, &c.] The lawyers, i. e. the expounders of the law, rejected the gracious offers of divine mercy against themselves, i. e. against their own interest, against their own both temporal and eternal welfare.

33. Neither eating nor drinking:] In a severe way of austerity and mortification.

34. Eating and drinking:] In the more familiar way of a free conversation.

36. One of the Pharisees, &c.] Dr. Whitby has abundantly proved this to be a different story from that of Mary's anointing Christ's head a little before his death.

37. Behold, a woman in the city, &c.] It is generally supposed, that the woman who anointed our Lord in the house of Simon was Mary Magdalene; but Mary Magdalene seems rather to have been a woman of high station and opulent fortune, being mentioned by St. Luke even before Joanna, though the wife of so great a man as Herod's steward, chap. 8. 2. This must therefore have been some woman that had formerly been a great and scandalous sinner.

44. Thou gavest me no water for my feet, &c.] Dr. Shaw tells us, that 40 And Jesus answering, said unto him, Simon, I have sowewhat to say unto thee. And he saith, Master, say on.

41 There was a certain creditor, which had two debtors: the one owed five hundred pence, and the other fifty.

42 And when they had nothing to pay, he frankly forgave them both. Tell me therefore which of them will love him most?

43 Simon answered and said, I suppose that he to whom he forgave most. And he said unto him, Thou hast rightly judged.

44 And he turned to the woman, and said unto Simon, Seest thou this woman? I entered into thine house, thou gavest me no water for my feet: but she hath washed my feet with tears, and wiped them with the hairs of her head.

45 Thou gavest me no kiss: but this woman, since the time I came in, hath not ceased to kiss my feet.

46 Mine head with oil thou didst not anoint: but this woman hath anointed my feet with ointment.

47 Wherefore I say unto thee, Her sins, which are many, are forgiven; for she loved much: but to whom little is forgiven, the same loveth little.

48 And he said unto her, Thy sins are forgiven.

49 And they that sat at meat with him began to say within themselves, Who is this that forgiveth sins also?

50 And he said to the woman, Thy faith hath saved thee; go in peace.

C H A P. VIII.

The parable of the sower.

AND it came to pass afterward, that he went throughout every city and village preaching, and shewing the glad tidings of the kingdom of God; and the twelve were with him,

2 And certain women which had been healed of evil spirits and infirmities, Mary called Magdalene, out of whom went seven devils,

3 And Joanna the wife of Chuza, Herod's steward, and Susanna, and many others, which ministered unto him of their substance.

4 ¶ And when much people were gathered together, and were come to him out of every city, he spake by a parable.

5 A sower went out to sow his seed, and as he sowed some fell by the way-side; and it was trodden down, and the fowls of the air devoured it.

6 And some fell upon a rock; and as soon as it was sprung up, it withered away, because it lacked moisture.

7 And some fell among thorns; and the thorns sprang up with it, and choked it.

8 And other fell on good ground, and sprang up, and bare fruit an hundred-fold. And when he had said these things, he cried, He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

9 ¶ And his disciples asked him, saying, What might this parable be?

10 And he said, Unto you it is given to know the mysteries of the kingdom of God; but to others in parables: that seeing they might not see, and hearing they might not understand.

11 ¶ Now the parable is this: The seed is the word of God.

12 Those by the way-side are they that hear; then cometh the devil, and taketh away the word out of their hearts, lest they should believe and be saved.

these customs still subsist among the eastern nations to this very day, particularly among the Arabs, who are remarkable for retaining the ancient manners; and that the person who first presents himself to welcome a stranger, and wash his feet, is the master of the family; for, as they still walk bare-footed, or with sandals only, this piece of civility is absolutely necessary.

47. For she loved much.] The sense is, Because her sins are forgiven, therefore she hath loved me much, as being persuaded that she can never sufficiently express her sense of the obligation.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 1. The glad tidings of the kingdom of God, &c.] i. e. Of God's reconciliation to men, the necessity of reformation, and the acceptableness of repentance, even in the greatest sinners.

10. Unto you it is given to know the mysteries, &c.] i. e. I speak the truth of the gospel to you in a proper and spiritual style, because you are disposed to understand them so delivered; but I must borrow metaphors and similitudes from temporal and bodily things, to make others receive my words, and bring them gradually to understand the spirit and substance of my doctrine.

15. Bring

13 They on the rock are they which, when they hear, receive the word with joy; and these have no root, which for a while believe, and in time of temptation fall away.

14 And that which fell among thorns, are they which, when they have heard, go forth, and are choked with cares, and riches, and pleasures of this life, and bring no fruit to perfection.

15 But that on the good ground are they which, in an honest and good heart, having heard the word, keep it, and bring forth fruit with patience.

16 ¶ No man, when he hath lighted a candle, covereth it with a vessel, or putteth it under a bed; but setteth it on a candlestick, that they which enter in may see the light.

17 For nothing is secret, that shall not be made manifest; neither any thing hid, that shall not be known and come abroad.

18 Take heed therefore how ye hear: for whosoever hath, to him shall be given; and whosoever hath not, from him shall be taken even that which he seemeth to have.

19 ¶ Then came to him his mother and his brethren, and could not come at him for the press.

20 And it was told him by certain, which said, Thy mother and thy brethren stand without, desiring to see thee.

21 And he answered and said unto them, My mother and my brethren are these which hear the word of God, and do it.

22 ¶ Now it came to pass on a certain day, that he went into a ship with his disciples: and he said unto them, Let us go over unto the other side of the lake. And they launched forth.

23 But as they sailed, he fell asleep: and there came down a storm of wind on the lake, and they were filled with water, and were in jeopardy.

24 And they came to him, and awoke him, saying, Master, master, we perish. Then he arose, and rebuked the wind, and the raging of the water: and they ceased, and there was a calm.

25 And he said unto them, Where is your faith? And they being afraid, wondered, saying one to another, What manner of man is this? for he commandeth even the winds and water, and they obey him.

26 ¶ And they arrived at the country of the Gadarenes, which is over against Galilee.

27 And when he went forth to land, there met him out of the city a certain man which had devils long time, and ware no clothes, neither abode in any house, but in the tombs.

28 When he saw Jesus, he cried out, and fell down before him, and with a loud voice said, What have I to do with thee, Jesus, thou Son of God most high? I beseech thee torment me not.

29 (For he had commanded the unclean spirit to come out of the man. For oftentimes it had caught him: and he was kept bound with chains, and in fetters; and he brake the bands, and was driven of the devil into the wilderness.)

30 And Jesus asked him, saying, What is thy name? And he said, Legion; because many devils were entered into him.

31 And they besought him, that he would not command them to go out into the deep.

32 And there was there an herd of many swine feeding on the mountain: and they besought him that he would suffer them to enter into them. And he suffered them.

33 Then went the devils out of the man, and entered into the swine: and the herd ran violently down a steep place into the lake, and were choked.

15. Bring forth fruit with patience;] i. e. As corn sown, if it be ever like to come to any perfection, must take such deep and firm root in the earth, as not to be scorched with heat, nor withered by cold, nor wasted away with floods, nor choked and overrun with weeds; so a good Christian must be armed with patience, to resist the assaults of persecution, the temptations of the world, the enticements of bad company, the allurements of pleasure and profit, and the perpetual treachery of our own corrupt affections and inordinate passions.

34 When they that fed them saw what was done, they fled, and went and told it in the city, and in the country:

35 Then they went out to see what was done, and came to Jesus, and found the man, out of whom the devils were departed, sitting at the feet of Jesus, clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid:

36 They also which saw it told them by what means he that was possessed of the devils was healed.

37 ¶ Then the whole multitude of the country of the Gadarenes round about besought him to depart from them; for they were taken with great fear: and he went up into the ship, and returned back again.

38 Now the man out of whom the devils were departed besought him that he might be with him: but Jesus sent him away, saying,

39 Return to thine own house, and shew how great things God hath done unto thee. And he went his way, and published throughout the whole city how great things Jesus had done unto him.

40 And it came to pass that, when Jesus was returned, the people gladly received him: for they were all waiting for him.

41 ¶ And, behold, there came a man named Jairus, and he was a ruler of the synagogue: and he fell down at Jesus' feet, and besought him that he would come into his house:

42 For he had one only daughter, about twelve years of age, and she lay a dying. (But as he went, the people thronged him.)

43 ¶ And a woman, having an issue of blood twelve years, which had spent all her living upon physicians, neither could be healed of any,

44 Came behind him, and touched the border of his garment: and immediately her issue of blood stancheth.

45 And Jesus said, Who touched me? When all denied, Peter, and they that were with him, said, Master, the multitude throng thee, and press thee, and sayest thou, Who touched me?

46 And Jesus said, Somebody hath touched me: for I perceive that virtue is gone out of me.

47 And when the woman saw that she was not hid, she came trembling, and falling down before him, she declared unto him before all the people for what cause she had touched him, and how she was healed immediately.

48 And he said unto her, Daughter, be of good comfort: thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace.)

49 ¶ While he yet spake, there cometh one from the ruler of the synagogue's house, saying to him, Thy daughter is dead; trouble not the Master.

50 But when Jesus heard it, he answered him, saying, Fear not; believe only, and she shall be made whole.

51 And when he came into the house, he suffered no man to go in, save Peter, and James, and John, and the father and the mother of the maiden.

52 And all wept and bewailed her: but he said, Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth.

53 And they laughed him to scorn, knowing that she was dead.

54 And he put them all out, and took her by the hand, and called, saying, Maid, arise.

55 And her spirit came again, and she arose straightway: and he commanded to give her meat.

56 And her parents were astonished: but he charged them that they should tell no man what was done.

C H A P. IX.

Christ sendeth out his apostles.

THEN he called his twelve disciples together, and gave them power and authority over all devils, and to cure diseases.

2 And

47. When she saw that she was not hid, she came trembling.] She might dread our Lord's displeasure, perhaps, for having touched him when she had a legal impurity from her disease. That she had a legal impurity may be suspected, from her presenting herself to Christ out of the city, and from her coming behind him and privately touching his robe, as knowing that it was forbidden her to touch any one at that time, or because whatever she did touch became immediately unclean.

2 And he sent them to preach the kingdom of God, and to heal the sick.

3 And he said unto them, Take nothing for your journey; neither staves, nor scrip, neither bread, neither money, neither have two coats apiece.

4 And whatsoever house ye enter into, there abide, and thence depart.

5 And whosoever will not receive you, when ye go out of that city, shake off the very dust from your feet for a testimony against them.

6 And they departed, and went through the towns, preaching the gospel, and healing every where.

7 ¶ Now Herod the tetrarch heard of all that was done by him: and he was perplexed, because that it was said of some, that John was risen from the dead:

8 And of some, that Elias had appeared: and of others, that one of the old prophets was risen again.

9 And Herod said, John have I beheaded: but who is this of whom I hear such things? And he desired to see him.

10 ¶ And the apostles, when they were returned, told him all that they had done. And he took them, and went aside privately into a desert place belonging to the city, called Bethsaida.

11 And the people, when they knew it, followed him: and he received them, and spake unto them of the kingdom of God, and healed them that had need of healing.

12 ¶ And when the day began to wear away, then came the twelve, and said unto him, Send the multitude away, that they may go into the towns and country round about, and lodge, and get victuals: for we are here in a desert place.

13 But he said unto them, Give ye them to eat. And they said, We have no more but five loaves, and two fishes; except we should go and buy meat for all this people.

14 For they were about five thousand men. And he said to his disciples, Make them sit down by fifties in a company.

15 And they did so, and made them all sit down.

16 Then he took the five loaves, and the two fishes, and, looking up to heaven, he blessed them, and brake, and gave to the disciples to set before the multitude.

17 And they did eat, and were all filled: and there was taken up of fragments that remained to them twelve baskets.

18 ¶ And it came to pass, as he was alone praying, his disciples were with him: and he asked them, saying, Whom say the people that I am?

19 They answering, said, John the Baptist: but some say, Elias: and others say, that one of the old prophets is risen again.

20 He said unto them, But whom say ye that I am? Peter answering, said, The Christ of God.

21 And he straitly charged them, and commanded them to tell no man that thing,

22 Saying, The Son of man must suffer many things, and be rejected of the elders, and chief priests, and scribes, and be slain, and be raised the third day.

23 ¶ And he said to them all, If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily, and follow me.

24 For whosoever will save his life, shall lose it; but whosoever will lose his life for my sake, the same shall save it.

25 For what is a man advantaged, if he gain the whole world, and lose himself, or be cast away?

26 For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words, of him shall the Son of man be ashamed, when he shall come in his own glory, and in his Father's, and of the holy angels.

27 But I tell you of a truth, There be some standing here, which shall not taste of death till they see the kingdom of God.

28 ¶ And it came to pass, about an eight days after these sayings, he took Peter, and John, and James, and went up into a mountain to pray.

29 And as he prayed, the fashion of his countenance was altered, and his raiment was white and glistering.

30 And, behold, there talked with him two men, which were Moses and Elias,

31 Who appeared in glory, and spake of his decease which he should accomplish at Jerusalem.

32 But Peter, and they that were with him, were heavy with sleep: and when they were awake, they saw his glory, and the two men that stood with him.

33 And it came to pass, as they departed from him, Peter said unto Jesus, Master, it is good for us to be here; and let us make three tabernacles, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elias: not knowing what he said.

34 While he thus spake, there came a cloud, and overshadowed them: and they feared as they entered into the cloud.

35 And there came a voice out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son; hear him.

36 And when the voice was past, Jesus was found alone: and they kept it close, and told no man in those days any of those things which they had seen.

37 ¶ And it came to pass, that on the next day, when they were come down from the hill, much people met him.

38 And, behold, a man of the company cried out, saying, Master, I beseech thee look upon my son, for he is mine only child.

39 And, lo, a spirit taketh him, and he suddenly crieth out, and it teareth him that he foameth again, and bruising him, hardly departeth from him.

40 And I besought thy disciples to cast him out, and they could not.

41 And Jesus answering, said, O faithless and perverse generation! how long shall I be with you, and suffer you? Bring thy son hither.

42 And as he was yet a coming, the devil threw him down, and tare him: and Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit, and healed the child, and delivered him again to his father.

43 ¶ And they were all amazed at the mighty power of God. But while they wondered every man at all things which Jesus did, he said unto his disciples, 44 Let these sayings sink down into your ears: for the Son of man shall be delivered into the hands of men.

45 But they understood not this saying, and it was hid from them, that they perceived it not: and they feared to ask him of that saying.

46 ¶ Then there arose a reasoning among them, which of them should be greatest.

47 And Jesus perceiving the thought of their heart, took a child, and set him by him,

48 And said unto them, Whosoever shall receive this child in my name, receiveth me; and whosoever shall receive me, receiveth him that sent me: for he that is least among you all, the same shall be great.

49 ¶ And John answered and said, Master, we saw one casting out devils in thy name; and we forbade him, because he followeth not with us.

50 And Jesus said unto him, Forbid him not: for he that is not against us is for us.

51 And it came to pass, when the time was come that he should be received up, he stedfastly set his face to go to Jerusalem, 52 And sent messengers before his face: and they went, and entered into a village of the Samaritans to make ready for him.

53 And they did not receive him, because his face was as though he would go to Jerusalem.

54 And when his disciples, James and John, saw this, they said, Lord, wilt thou that we command fire to come down down from heaven, and consume them, even as Elias did?

55 But he turned, and rebuked them, and said, Ye know not what manner of spirit ye are of.

56 For the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save them. And they went to another village.

57 ¶ And it came to pass that, as they went in the way, a certain man said unto him, Lord, I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest.

58 And Jesus said unto him, Foxes have holes, and birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.

59 And he said unto another, Follow me: but he said, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father.

60 Jesus said unto him, Let the dead bury their dead; but go thou and preach the kingdom of God.

CHAP. X.

Christ sendeth out seventy disciples.

AFTER these things, the Lord appointed other seventy also, and sent them two and two before his face into every city and place whither he himself would come.

2 Therefore said he unto them, The harvest truly is great, but the labourers are few: pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth labourers into his harvest.

3 Go your ways: behold, I send you forth as lambs among wolves.

4 Carry neither purse, nor scrip, nor shoes; and salute no man by the way.

5 And into whatsoever house ye enter, first say, Peace be to this house.

6 And if the son of peace be there, your peace shall rest upon it: if not, it shall turn to you again.

7 And in the same house remain, eating and drinking such things as they give: for the labourer is worthy of his hire. Go not from house to house.

8 And into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you, eat such things as are set before you;

9 And heal the sick that are therein, and say unto them, The kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

10 But into whatsoever city ye enter, and they receive you not, go your ways out into the streets of the same, and say,

11 Even the very dust of your city, which cleaveth on us, we do wipe off against you; notwithstanding, be ye sure of this, that the kingdom of God is come nigh unto you.

12 But I say unto you, That it shall be more tolerable in that day for Sodom than for that city.

13 Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon, which have been done in you, they had a great while ago repented, sitting in sackcloth and ashes.

14 But it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon at the judgment than for you.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 1. The Lord appointed other seventy.] Luke is the only evangelist who has given us this account; and it is the less to be wondered at that he should do it so particularly, if the ancient tradition be true, that he was himself one of the seventy.

4. Salute no man by the way.] Our Saviour did not forbid common civilities, but that chiefly they should be intent and earnest to dispatch their important business.

20. Your names are written in heaven;] i. e. In the book of life. This alludes to the custom of enrolling the names of those who are made free of a city. The phrase signifies their being approved and accepted of God, on account of their sincere love of truth, and practise of piety.

30. A certain man went down, &c.] All the circumstances of this beautiful parable are formed with the finest skill imaginable, to work the conviction designed; so that had the lawyer been ever so much disposed to reckon none his neighbours but men of his own religion, it was not in his power to do it on this occasion. By this admirable parable, our blessed Saviour hath powerfully recommended that universal benevolence which is so familiar in the mouths, but foreign to the hearts, of many pretenders to religion and morality.

No. 57.

15 And thou, Capernaum, which art exalted to heaven, shalt be thrust down to hell.

16 He that heareth you, heareth me: and he that despiseth you, despiseth me: and he that despiseth me, despiseth him that sent me.

17 ¶ And the seventy returned again with joy, saying, Lord, even the devils are subject unto us through thy name.

18 And he said unto them, I beheld Satan as lightning fall from heaven.

19 Behold, I give unto you power to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy; and nothing shall by any means hurt you.

20 Notwithstanding, in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you: but rather rejoice, because your names are written in heaven.

21 ¶ In that hour Jesus rejoiced in spirit, and said, I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes: even so, Father; for so it seemed good in thy sight.

22 All things are delivered to me of my Father: and no man knoweth who the Son is, but the Father; and who the Father is, but the Son, and he to whom the Son will reveal him.

23 And he turned him unto his disciples, and said privately, Blessed are the eyes which see the things that ye see.

24 For I tell you, That many prophets and kings have desired to see those things which ye see, and have not seen them; and to hear those things which ye hear, and have not heard them.

25 ¶ And, behold, a certain lawyer stood up; and tempted him, saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

26 He said unto him, What is written in the law? how readest thou?

27 And he answering, said, Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbour as thyself.

28 And he said unto him, Thou hast answered right: this do, and thou shalt live.

29 But he, willing to justify himself, said unto Jesus, And who is my neighbour?

30 And Jesus answering, said, A certain man went down from Jerusalem to Jericho, and fell among thieves, which stripped him of his raiment, and wounded him, and departed, leaving him half dead.

31 And by chance there came down a certain priest that way; and when he saw him, he passed by on the other side.

32 And likewise a Levite, when he was at the place, came and looked on him, and passed by on the other side.

33 But a certain Samaritan, as he journeyed, came where he was: and when he saw him, he had compassion on him, 34 And went to him, and bound up his wounds, pouring in oil and wine, and set him on his own beast, and brought him to an inn, and took care of him.

35 And on the morrow, when he departed, he took out two pence, and gave them to the host, and said unto him, Take

From Jerusalem to Jericho.] So many robberies and murders were committed on this road, which lay through a kind of wilderness, that Jerome tells us it was called the bloody way.

31. A certain priest, &c.] Strange that a teacher of religion should ever want humanity! or that a man, whose head might be thought full of the one, should have a heart void of the other!

32. Came and looked on him:] Considered his misfortunes, and gave time for reason and nature to have awoke—he saw the imminent danger he was in, and pressing necessity of immediate help, which so violent a case called aloud for—and, after all, turned aside, and unmercifully left him to all the distresses of his condition.

33. A certain Samaritan.] This is an instance of the humanity and goodness of the man who relieved the Jew, notwithstanding the implacable hatred between the two nations; which some writers tell us rose so high, that if a Jew and a Samaritan met in a narrow way, they were exceedingly solicitous that they might pass without touching each other, for fear of pollution on each side.

34. Oil and wine.] The ancients used to cleanse fresh wounds with wine, and mollify them with oil.

35. Two pence.] About fifteen pence of our money,

Take care of him; and whatsoever thou spendest more, when I come again, I will repay thee.

36 Which now of these three, thinkest thou, was neighbour unto him that fell among the thieves?

37 And he said, He that shewed mercy on him. Then said Jesus unto him, Go, and do thou likewise.

38 ¶ Now it came to pass as they went, that he entered into a certain village: and a certain woman named Martha received him into her house.

39 And she had a sister called Mary, which also sat at Jesus' feet, and heard his word.

40 But Martha was cumbered about much serving, and came to him, and said, Lord, dost thou not care that my sister hath left me to serve alone? bid her therefore that she help me.

41 And Jesus answered and said unto her, Martha, Martha, thou art careful, and troubled about many things:

42 But one thing is needful. And Mary hath chosen that good part, which shall not be taken away from her.

C H A P. XI.

Christ teacheth to pray.

AND it came to pass, that, as he was praying in a certain place, when he ceased, one of his disciples said unto him, Lord, teach us to pray, as John also taught his disciples.

2 And he said unto them, When ye pray, say, Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so in earth.

3 Give us day by day our daily bread.

4 And forgive us our sins; for we also forgive every one that is indebted to us. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil.

5 And he said unto them, Which of you shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him, Friend, lend me three loaves;

6 For a friend of mine in his journey is come to me, and I have nothing to set before him:

7 And he from within shall answer and say, Trouble me not: the door is now shut, and my children are with me in bed; I cannot rise and give thee.

8 I say unto you, Though he will not rise and give him because he is his friend, yet because of his importunity he will rise and give him as many as he needeth.

9 And I say unto you, Ask, and it shall be given you: seek, and ye shall find: knock, and it shall be opened unto you.

10 For every one that asketh, receiveth; and he that seeketh, findeth; and to him that knocketh, it shall be opened.

11 If a son shall ask bread of any of you that is a father, will he give him a stone? or if he ask a fish, will he for a fish give him a serpent?

12 Or, if he shall ask an egg, will he offer him a scorpion?

13 If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children: how much more shall your heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him?

14 ¶ And he was casting out a devil, and it was dumb. And it came to pass, when the devil was gone out, the dumb spake: and the people wondered.

15 But some of them said, He casteth out devils through Beelzebub, the chief of the devils.

16 And others tempting him, sought of him a sign from heaven.

17 But he, knowing their thoughts, said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself, is brought to desolation: and a house divided against a house, falleth.

18 If Satan also be divided against himself, how shall his kingdom stand? because ye say that I cast out devils through Beelzebub.

37. Do thou likewise; i. e. Since you commend the Samaritan for acting like a neighbour to the Jew, do you learn to act like a neighbour to the Samaritan.

42. Mary hath chosen that good part, &c.] Our Lord designed to signify, that though he was not displeased with Martha's civility, yet Mary's listening to his doctrine was more acceptable to him; because he had infinitely greater pleasure in instructing, sanctifying, and saving souls, than in any kind of sensual indulgences whatever.

19 And if I by Beelzebub cast out devils, by whom do your sons cast them out? therefore shall they be your judges.

20 But if I with the finger of God cast out devils, no doubt the kingdom of God is come upon you.

21 When a strong man armed keepeth his palace, his goods are in peace.

22 But when a stronger than he shall come upon him, and overcome him, he taketh from him all his armour wherein he trusted, and divideth his spoils.

23 He that is not with me, is against me: and he that gathereth not with me, scattereth.

24 When the unclean spirit is gone out of a man, he walketh through dry places, seeking rest; and finding none, he saith, I will return unto my house whence I came out.

25 And, when he cometh, he findeth it swept and garnished.

26 Then goeth he, and taketh to him seven other spirits more wicked than himself; and they enter in, and dwell there: and the last state of that man is worse than the first.

27 ¶ And it came to pass, as he spake these things, a certain woman of the company lifted up her voice, and said unto him, Blessed is the womb that bare thee, and the paps which thou hast sucked.

28 But he said, Yea, rather blessed are they that hear the word of God, and keep it.

29 ¶ And when the people were gathered thick together, he began to say, This is an evil generation: they seek a sign; and there shall no sign be given it, but the sign of Jonas the prophet.

30 For as Jonas was a sign unto the Ninevites, so shall also the Son of man be to this generation.

31 The queen of the south shall rise up in the judgment with the men of this generation, and condemn them: for she came from the utmost parts of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and, behold, a greater than Solomon is here.

32 The men of Nineveh shall rise up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonas; and, behold, a greater than Jonas is here.

33 No man, when he hath lighted a candle, putteth it in a secret place, neither under a bushel; but on a candlestick, that they which come in may see the light.

34 The light of the body is the eye: therefore, when thine eye is single, thy whole body also is full of light: but when thine eye is evil, thy body also is full of darkness.

35 Take heed, therefore, that the light which is in thee be not darkness.

36 If thy whole body, therefore, be full of light, having no part dark, the whole shall be full of light, as when the bright shining of a candle doth give thee light.

37 ¶ And as he spake, a certain Pharisee besought him to dine with him: and he went in, and sat down to meat.

38 And when the Pharisee saw it, he marvelled that he had not first washed before dinner.

39 And the Lord said unto him, Now do ye Pharisees make clean the outside of the cup and the platter: but your inward part is full of ravening and wickedness.

40 Ye fools, did not he that made that which is without make that which is within also?

41 But rather give alms of such things as ye have: and, behold, all things are clean unto you.

42 But woe unto you, Pharisees! for ye tithe mint and rue, and all manner of herbs, and pass over judgment and the love of God: these ought ye to have done, and not to leave the other undone.

43 Woe unto you, Pharisees! for ye love the uppermost seats in the synagogues, and greetings in the markets.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 39. Your inward part.] It should rather have been translated, Your minds or consciences.

41. Rather give alms of such things as ye have, &c.] We are not to imagine, that alms-giving was particularly mentioned by Christ, because it was of greater value and necessity than the other virtues: he recommended it to that sect, because they were generally remarkable for their covetousness and extortion.

44 Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye are as graves which appear not, and the men that walk over them are not aware of them.

45 ¶ Then answered one of the lawyers, and said unto him, Master, thus saying, thou reproachest us also.

46 And he said, Woe unto you also, ye lawyers! for ye lade men with burdens grievous to be borne, and ye yourselves touch not the burdens with one of your fingers.

47 Woe unto you! for ye build the sepulchres of the prophets, and your fathers killed them.

48 Truly ye bear witness that ye allow the deeds of yout fathers: for they indeed killed them, and ye build their sepulchres.

49 Therefore also said the wisdom of God, I will send them prophets and apostles, and some of them they shall slay and persecute;

50 That the blood of all the prophets, which was shed from the foundation of the world, may be required of this generation;

51 From the blood of Abel unto the blood of Zacharias, which perished between the altar and the temple: verily I say unto you, It shall be required of this generation.

52 Woe unto you, lawyers! for ye have taken away the key of knowledge: ye enter not in yourselves, and them that were entering in ye hindered.

53 And as he said these things unto them, the scribes and the Pharisees began to urge him vehemently, and to provoke him to speak of many things:

54 Laying wait for him, and seeking to catch something out of his mouth, that they might accuse him.

C H A P. XII.

To avoid hypocrisy and fearfulness in publishing Christ's doctrine.

IN the mean time, when there were gathered together an innumerable multitude of people, insomuch that they trode one upon another, he began to say unto his disciples first of all, Beware ye of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy.

2 For there is nothing covered that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known.

3 Therefore, whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the house-tops.

4 And I say unto you, my friends, Be not afraid of them that kill the body, and after that have no more that they can do:

5 But I will forewarn you whom ye shall fear: Fear Him, which, after he hath killed, hath power to cast into hell; yea, I say unto you, Fear him.

6 Are not five sparrows sold for two farthings? and not one of them is forgotten before God?

7 But even the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not, therefore; ye are of more value than many sparrows.

8 Also I say unto you, Whosoever shall confess me before men, him shall the Son of man also confess before the angels of God.

9 But he that denieth me before men, shall be denied before the angels of God.

10 And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; but unto him that blasphemeth against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven.

16 And he spake a parable unto them, saying, The ground of a certain rich man brought forth plentifully.

17 And he thought within himself, saying, What shall I do, because I have no room where to bestow my fruits?

18 And he said, This will I do: I will pull down my barns, and build greater; and there will I bestow all my fruits and my goods.

19 And I will say to my soul, Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, and be merry.

20 But God said unto him, Thou fool, this night thy soul shall be required of thee: then whose shall those things be which thou hast provided?

21 So is he that layeth up treasure for himself, and is not rich toward God.

22 ¶ And he said unto his disciples, Therefore I say unto you, Take no thought for your life, what ye shall eat; neither for the body, what ye shall put on.

23 The life is more than meat, and the body is more than raiment.

24 Consider the ravens; for they neither sow nor reap, which neither have storehouse nor barn; and God feedeth them: how much more are ye better than the fowls?

25 And which of you, with taking thought, can add to his stature one cubit?

26 If ye then be not able to do that thing which is least, why take ye thought for the rest?

27 Consider the lilies, how they grow: they toil not, they spin not; and yet I say unto you, that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these.

28 If then God so clothe the grass, which is to-day in the field, and to-morrow is cast into the oven: how much more will he clothe you, O ye of little faith!

29 And seek ye not what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; neither be ye of doubtful mind.

30 For all these things do the nations of the world seek after: and your father knoweth that ye have need of these things.

31 ¶ But rather seek ye the kingdom of God; and all these things shall be added unto you.

32 Fear not, little flock; for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom.

33 ¶ Sell that ye have, and give alms: provide yourselves bags which wax not old, a treasure in the heavens, that faileth not, where no thief approacheth, neither moth corrupteth.

34 For where your treasure is, there will your heart be also.

35 ¶ Let your loins be girded about, and your lights burning; their subsistence in their several seasons. How much more then will his all-wise Providence provide for you, whom he hath created with much greater excellencies, and for nobler ends?

36 And

29. Neither be ye of doubtful mind.] Rather, Live not in careful suspense.

32. Fear not, little flock, &c.] Fear not, ye little flock; ye who have forsaken this wicked world, and left the multitude to become my disciples. It is the good pleasure of God to bestow upon you an everlasting kingdom, and a happiness which shall have no end. Much more will be given you all the necessities of this short and transitory life; and if not, yet the wants of this life bear no proportion to the happiness of that which is to come.

35, 36. Let your loins be girded, &c.] This is spoken in allusion to the customs of the east, where anciently great entertainments were made in the evening, and so prolonged to the latest hours: on such occasions, servants shewed their faithfulness by watching, and keeping their lamps burning, and their loins girded, that they might be ready to open the door to the master at his first knock.

49. I am

36 And ye yourselves like unto men that wait for their lord, when he will return from the wedding, that, when he cometh and knocketh, they may open unto him immediately.

37 Blessed are those servants whom the lord, when he cometh, shall find watching: verily I say unto you, That he shall gird himself, and make them to sit down to meat, and will come forth and serve them.

38 And if he shall come in the second watch, or come in the third watch, and find them so, blessed are those servants.

39 And this know, that if the good man of the house had known what hour the thief would come, he would have watched, and not have suffered his house to be broken through.

40 Be ye, therefore, ready also: for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not.

41 ¶ Then Peter said unto him, Lord, speakest thou this parable unto us, or even to all.

42 And the Lord said, Who then is that faithful and wise steward, whom his lord shall make ruler over his household, to give them their portion of meat in due season?

43 Blessed is that servant, whom his lord, when he cometh, shall find so doing.

44 Of a truth I say unto you, That he will make him ruler over all that he hath.

45 But and if that servant say in his heart, My lord delayeth his coming; and shall begin to beat the menservants and maidens, and to eat and drink, and to be drunken;

46 The lord of that servant will come in a day when he looketh not for him, and at an hour when he is not aware, and will cut him in sunder, and will appoint him his portion with the unbelievers.

47 And that servant which knew his lord's will, and prepared not himself, neither did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes.

48 But he that knew not, and did commit things worthy of stripes, shall be beaten with few stripes. For unto whomsoever much is given, of him shall be much required; and to whom men have committed much, of him they will ask the more.

49 ¶ I am come to send fire on the earth; and what will I, if it be already kindled?

50 But I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I straitened till it be accomplished!

51 Suppose ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, Nay; but rather division.

52 For from henceforth there shall be five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three.

53 The father shall be divided against the son, and the son against the father; the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother; the mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and the daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law.

54 ¶ And he said also to the people, When ye see a cloud rise out of the west, straightway ye say, There cometh a shower; and so it is.

55 And when ye see the south wind blow, ye say, There will be heat; and it cometh to pass.

56 Ye hypocrites! ye can discern the face of the sky and of the earth; but how is it that ye do not discern this time?

57 ¶ Yea, and why even of yourselves judge ye not what is right?

58 When thou goest with thine adversary to the magistrate, as thou art in the way give diligence that thou mayest be delivered from him; lest he hale thee to the judge, and the judge deliver thee to the officer, and the officer cast thee into prison.

59 I tell thee, Thou shalt not depart thence till thou hast paid the very last mite.

Christ preacheth repentance.

T H E R E were present at that season some that told him of the Galileans, whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices.

2 And Jesus answering, said unto them, Suppose ye that these Galileans were sinners above all the Galileans, because they suffered such things?

3 I tell you, Nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

4 Or those eighteen upon whom the tower in Siloam fell, and slew them, think ye that they were sinners above all men that dwelt in Jerusalem?

5 I tell you, Nay; but, except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish.

6 ¶ He spake also this parable: A certain man had a fig-tree planted in his vineyard; and he came and sought fruit thereon, and found none.

7 Then said he unto the dresser of his vineyard, Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit on this fig-tree, and find none: cut it down, why cumbereth it the ground?

8 And he answering, said unto him, Lord, let it alone this year also, till I shall dig about it, and dung it:

9 And if it bear fruit, well; and if not, then after that thou shalt cut it down.

10 ¶ And he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the sabbath.

11 And, behold, there was a woman which had a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together, and could in no wise lift up herself.

12 And when Jesus saw her he called her to him, and said unto her, Woman, thou art loosed from thine infirmity.

13 And he laid his hands on her; and immediately she was made straight, and glorified God.

14 And the ruler of the synagogue answered with indignation, because that Jesus had healed on the sabbath-day, and said unto the people, There are six days in which men ought to work; in them, therefore, come and be healed, and not on the sabbath-day?

15 The Lord then answered him, and said, Thou hypocrite, doth not each one of you on the sabbath loose his ox or his ass from the stall, and lead him away to watering;

16 And ought not this woman, being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan hath bound, lo, these eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the sabbath-day.

17 And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed: and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him.

18 Then said he, Unto what is the kingdom of God like? and whereunto shall I resemble it?

19 It is like a grain of mustard-seed, which a man took, and cast into his garden: and it grew, and waxed a great tree; and the fowls of the air lodged in the branches of it.

20 ¶ And again he said, Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

21 It is like leaven, which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal, till the whole was leavened.

22 And he went through the cities and villages teaching, and journeying toward Jerusalem.

23 ¶ Then

49. I am come to send fire on the earth.] This will be the natural consequence, because my doctrine is so opposite to the prejudices and lusts of men.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 1. The Galileans—whose blood, &c.] Those unhappy Galileans, who had rendered themselves obnoxious to the Roman power, and whose blood Pilate had in effect mingled with their sacrifices, having slain them when they came to worship in the temple.

4. Upon whom the tower in Siloam fell.] The pool of Siloam seems to have been used as a bathing place for men, and, if it had, porticoes round about it for them to undress in, would answer the description of the pool of Bethesda, John 5. 2. The tower in Siloam, therefore, which fell and slew the eighteen persons here mentioned, was probably one of the porticoes of Bethesda.

7, 8, 9. Behold, these three years I come seeking fruit, &c.] The years of the parable denote the whole time of the Jewish dispensation, very properly represented by the term of three years, in a parable taken from the fig-tree, whose fruit does not come to perfection in less than three years. At the conclusion of the parable, an insinuation is made, that if they continued impenitent under these last and best means, no more pains would be taken with them, but they were to be destroyed without remedy. But tho' this parable was originally meant of the Jews, it may be applied to every man in every age. Every one is allowed a certain time of trial, during which he enjoys the means and helps necessary to salvation.

32. That

23 ¶ Then said one unto him, Lord, are there few that be saved? And he said unto them,

24 Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able.

25 When once the master of the house is risen up, and hath shut to the door, and ye begin to stand without, and to knock at the door, saying, Lord, Lord, open unto us; and he shall answer and say unto you, I know you not whence ye are:

26 Then shall ye begin to say, We have eaten and drunk in thy presence, and thou hast taught in our streets.

27 But he shall say, I tell you, I know you not whence ye are; depart from me, all ye workers of iniquity.

28 There shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when ye shall see Abraham, and Isaac, and Jacob, and all the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and you yourselves thrust out.

29 And they shall come from the east, and from the west, and from the north, and from the south, and shall sit down in the kingdom of God.

30 And, behold, there are last which shall be first, and there are first which shall be last.

31 ¶ The same day there came certain of the Pharisees, saying unto him, Get thee out, and depart hence; for Herod will kill thee.

32 And he said unto them, Go ye and tell that fox, Behold, I cast out devils, and I do cures to-day and to-morrow, and the third day I shall be perfected.

33 Nevertheless, I must walk to-day and to-morrow, and the day following: for it cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jerusalem.

34 O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, which killest the prophets, and stonest them that are sent unto thee; how often would I have gathered thy children together, as a hen doth gather her brood under her wings, and ye would not!

35 Behold, your house is left unto you desolate: and verily I say unto you, Ye shall not see me until the time come when ye shall say, Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord.

The dropsy healed on the sabbath.

AND it came to pass, as he went into the house of one of the chief Pharisees to eat bread on the sabbath-day, that they watched him.

2 And, behold, there was a certain man before him which had the dropsy.

3 And Jesus answering, spake unto the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, Is it lawful to heal on the sabbath-day?

4 And they held their peace. And he took him, and healed him, and let him go;

5 And answered them, saying, Which of you shall have an ass or an ox fallen into a pit, and will not straightway pull him out on the sabbath-day?

6 And they could not answer him again to these things.

7 ¶ And he put forth a parable to those which were bidden, when he marked how they chose out the chief rooms; saying unto them,

8 When thou art bidden of any man to a wedding, sit not down in the highest room, lest a more honourable man than thou be bidden of him;

9 And he that bade thee and him come and say to thee, Give this man place; and thou begin with shame to take the lowest room.

10 But when thou art bidden, go and sit down in the lowest room; that when he that bade thee cometh, he may say unto thee, Friend, go up higher: then shalt thou have worship in the presence of them that sit at meat with thee.

11 For whosoever exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

12 ¶ Then said he also to him that bade him, When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbours; lest they also bid thee again, and a recompence be made thee.

13 But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind:

14 And thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just.

15 ¶ And when one of them that sat at meat with him heard these things, he said unto him, Blessed is he that shall eat bread in the kingdom of God.

16 Then said he unto him, A certain man made a great supper, and bade many:

17 And sent his servant at supper-time to say to them that were bidden, Come, for all things are now ready.

18 And they all with one consent began to make excuse. The first said unto him, I have bought a piece of ground, and I must needs go and see it: I pray thee have me excused.

19 And another said, I have bought five yoke of oxen, and I go to prove them: I pray thee have me excused.

20 And another said, I have married a wife, and therefore I cannot come.

21 So that servant came, and shewed his lord these things. Then the master of the house being angry, said to his servant, Go out quickly into the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in hither the poor, and the maimed, and the halt, and the blind.

22 And the servant said, Lord, it is done as thou hast commanded, and yet there is room.

23 And the lord said unto the servant, Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled.

24 For I say unto you, That none of those men which were bidden shall taste of my supper.

25 ¶ And there went great multitudes with him: and he turned, and said unto them,

26 If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple.

27 And whosoever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple.

28 For which of you, intending to build a tower, sitteth not down first, and counteth the cost, whether he have sufficient to finish it?

29 Lest haply, after he hath laid the foundation, and is not able to finish it, all that behold it begin to mock him,

30 Saying, This man began to build, and was not able to finish.

31 Or what king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first and consulteth, whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand.

32 Or else, while the other is yet a great way off, he sendeth an ambassage, and desireth conditions of peace.

33 So likewise, whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be my disciple.

34 ¶ Salt is good: but if the salt have lost his savour, wherewith shall it be seasoned?

35 It is neither fit for the land, nor yet for the dung-hill; but men cast it out. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear.

32. That fox:] That crafty, wicked, and voracious prince.

I do cures to-day and to-morrow, &c.] The meaning of these words seems to be—I shall not be very long with you on earth; yet, while I am here, I will perform the duties of my ministry without being afraid of man; because my life cannot be taken from me but in the place, and at the time, appointed by the Almighty.

33. It cannot be that a prophet, &c.] i. e. It is unlikely: Jerusalem is so wicked and corrupt a place, that it would be a strange thing that a prophet should be slain in any other city.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIV.

Verse 12. Call not thy friends &c.] The New Testament speaks frequently after this manner, and pronounces many things simply and absolutely, which must be understood with a limitation: She is not dead, but sleepeth, Mark 5. 39. Labour not for the meat that perisheth, John 6. 27.

23. Compel them:] Not by force, but by persuasion or entreaty.

26. If any man come to me, &c.] One thing is said to be loved and another hated, in scripture, when the former is much preferred, and especially, when out of regard to it the latter is neglected.

33. So likewise whosoever he be, &c.] Whoever will be my disciple must consider and resolve before-hand to part readily with all temporal enjoyments whenever they come in competition with his duty.

The parable of the lost sheep.

THEN drew near unto him all the publicans and sinners for to hear him.

2 And the Pharisees and scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners, and eateth with them.

3 ¶ And he spake this parable unto them, saying,

4 What man of you, having an hundred sheep, if he lose one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it?

5 And when he hath found it, he layeth it on his shoulders, rejoicing.

6 And when he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them, Rejoice with me; for I have found my sheep which was lost.

7 I say unto you, That likewise joy shall be in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, more than over ninety and nine just persons, which need no repentance.

8 ¶ Either what woman having ten pieces of silver, if she lose one piece, doth not light a candle, and sweep the house, and seek diligently till she find it?

9 And when she hath found it, she calleth her friends and her neighbours together, saying, Rejoice with me; for I have found the piece which I had lost.

10 Likewise, I say unto you, There is joy in the presence of the angels of God over one sinner that repenteth.

11 ¶ And he said, A certain man had two sons:

12 And the younger of them said to his father, Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me. And he divided unto them his living.

13 And not many days after, the younger son gathered all together, and took his journey into a far country, and there wasted his substance with riotous living.

14 And when he had spent all, there arose a mighty famine in that land; and he began to be in want.

15 And he went and joined himself to a citizen of that country; and he sent him into his fields to feed swine.

16 And he would fain have filled his belly with the husks that the swine did eat: and no man gave unto him.

17 And when he came to himself, he said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough, and to spare, and I perish with hunger!

18 I will arise, and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against Heaven, and before thee,

19 And am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants.

20 And he arose, and came to his father: but, when he was yet a great way off, his father saw him, and had compassion, and ran, and fell on his neck, and kissed him.

21 And the son said unto him, Father, I have sinned against Heaven, and in thy sight, and am no more worthy to be called thy son.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XV.

Verse 11. A certain man had two sons.] This parable is generally supposed to be a representation of the murmurings of the Jews for the calling of the Gentiles; we shall therefore briefly explain it in that light. By a certain man we may understand the Deity, who is the creator and governor of all things, the common Father both of the Jews and Gentiles, of the obedient and disobedient.

14, 15. When he had spent all, &c.] Thus the Gentiles, after they had once fallen from the knowledge and worship of the true God, and plunged themselves into the practice of all abominable uncleanness, grew continually into a worse and worse state, overwhelmed with strange ignorance, superstitions, and cruel rites, till at length they were reduced to the most miserable slavery to Satan that can be imagined.

17, 18, 19. When he came to himself, &c.] Thus many of the Gentiles, weary of the intolerable burden and slavery of habitual sin, repented at last, and prepared themselves with great humility to entertain hopes of pardon and the mercy of God: thus likewise many other sinners come at all times to repent.

20. He arose, and came to his father, &c.] Thus God, in his great mercy, received the Gentiles, upon their true repentance, into his family the church. Thus also he readily accepts all penitent sinners, who return to him with hearty sorrow for their past offences, and sincere resolutions of amendment of life.

21, &c. The son said unto him, Father, &c.] Thus God not only admitted the Gentiles to the means of grace, and the possibility of salvation, but also bestowed singular favours upon them, and gave many marks of his being greatly pleased at their conversion. Thus also, when any sinner humbles himself, and shews a deep sense of his own unworthiness, does God most readily not only receive him to mercy, but 22 But the father said to his servants, Bring forth the best robe, and put it on him; and put a ring on his hand, and shoes on his feet.

23 And bring hither the fatted calf, and kill it; and let us eat and be merry.

24 For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found. And they began to be merry.

25 Now his elder son was in the field; and as he came, and drew nigh to the house, he heard music and dancing.

26 And he called one of the servants, and asked what these things meant.

27 And he said unto him, Thy brother is come; and thy father hath killed the fatted calf, because he hath received him safe and sound.

28 And he was angry, and would not go in; therefore came his father out, and entreated him.

29 And he answering, said to his father, Lo, these many years do I serve thee; neither transgressed I at any time thy commandment; and yet thou never gavest me a kid, that I might make merry with my friends:

30 But as soon as this thy son was come, which hath devoured thy living with harlots, thou hast killed for him the fatted calf.

31 And he said unto him, Son, thou art ever with me, and all that I have is thine.

32 It was meet that we should make merry and be glad: for this thy brother was dead, and is alive again; and was lost, and is found.

C H A P. XVI.

The parable of the unjust steward.

AND he said also unto his disciples, There was a certain rich man which had a steward; and the same was accused unto him that he had wasted his goods.

2 And he called him, and said unto him, How is it that I hear this of thee? give an account of thy stewardship, for thou mayest be no longer steward.

3 Then the steward said within himself, What shall I do, for my lord taketh away from me the stewardship? I cannot dig; to beg I am ashamed.

4 I am resolved what to do, that when I am put out of the stewardship, they may receive me into their houses.

5 So he called every one of his lord's debtors unto him, and said unto the first, How much owest thou unto my lord?

6 And he said, An hundred measures of oil. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and sit down quickly, and write fifty.

7 Then said he to another, And how much owest thou? And he said, An hundred measures of wheat. And he said unto him, Take thy bill, and write fourscore.

8 And the lord commended the unjust steward, because he had done wisely: for the children of this world are in their generation wiser than the children of light.

also frequently bestows extraordinary gifts upon him, as tokens of his being highly pleased at his recovery.

25—28. His elder son was in the field, &c.] Thus the Jews were displeased at the mercy of God in receiving the Gentiles. Thus many particular persons, who have never fallen into the habitual practice of any enormous crimes, may, through great infirmity, be tempted to be offended at God's equalling the repentance of notorious sinners to their constant uninterrupted obedience.

31, 32. Son, thou art ever with me, &c.] Thus, according to the reason of things, it was very fit, that though the Jews' profession of obedience had really always been as sincere as they pretended, yet, that the Gentiles, upon their repentance, should be admitted to an equal share with them in the covenant of grace and salvation; and that all good men among the Jews should have rejoiced at their conversion. Thus also it is highly reasonable, that good men at all times should rejoice at the conversion and happiness of penitent sinners, and not murmur at their being equalled with themselves in partaking of the undeserved mercy and bounty of the most High.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVI.

Verse 4. I am resolved what to do, &c.] Anciently stewards, besides taking care of their master's domestic affairs, granted leases of their lands, and settled the rent which each tenant was to pay. Accordingly the steward in the parable made use of this branch of his power to purchase the good-will and favour of his lord's tenants; he granted them their leases on reasonable terms, having lately racked the rents beyond what the farms were worth.

8. The lord commended the unjust steward.] He commended his worldly wisdom.

In their generation, &c.] Generation here signifies affairs or actions: the sense

9 And I say unto you, Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness; that, when ye fail, they may receive you into everlasting habitations.

10 He that is faithful in that which is least, is faithful also in much; and he that is unjust in the least, is unjust also in much.

11 If, therefore, ye have not been faithful in the unrighteous mammon, who will commit to your trust the true riches?

12 And if ye have not been faithful in that which is another man's, who shall give you that which is your own?

13 No servant can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.

14 ¶ And the Pharisees also, who were covetous, heard all these things; and they derided him.

15 And he said unto them, Ye are they which justify yourselves before men; but God knoweth your hearts: for that which is highly esteemed amongst men, is abomination in the sight of God.

16 The law and the prophets were until John: since that time the kingdom of God is preached, and every man presseth into it.

17 And it is easier for heaven and earth to pass, than one tittle of the law to fail.

18 Whosoever putteth away his wife, and marrieth another, committeth adultery: and whosoever marrieth her that is put away from her husband committeth adultery.

19 ¶ There was a certain rich man, which was clothed in purple and fine linen, and fared sumptuously every day.

20 And there was a certain beggar named Lazarus, which was laid at his gate, full of sores, 21 And desiring to be fed with the crumbs which fell from the rich man's table: moreover, the dogs came and licked his sores.

22 And it came to pass, that the beggar died, and was carried by the angels into Abraham's bosom: the rich man also died, and was buried;

23 And in hell he lifted up his eyes, being in torments, and seeth Abraham afar off, and Lazarus in his bosom.

24 And he cried, and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me; and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I am tormented in this flame.

25 But Abraham said, Son, remember that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and likewise Lazarus evil things: but now he is comforted, and thou art tormented.

26 And, besides all this, between us and you there is a great gulf fixed: so that they which would pass from hence to you cannot; neither can they pass to us that would come from thence.

27 Then he said, I pray thee, therefore, father, that thou wouldest send him to my father's house:

28 For I have five brethren; that he may testify unto them, lest they also come into this place of torment.

29 Abraham saith unto him, They have Moses and the prophets; let them hear them.

30 And he said, Nay, father Abraham: but if one went unto them from the dead, they will repent.

31 And he said unto him, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded, though one rose from the dead.

sense is, they generally act a more prudent part with respect to their secular interests, than even those who may be called the children of light, or than good men themselves, who are enlightened by God to see where their true happiness lies, do with respect to theirs, which are so much more important; for they seldom appear so thoughtful in the great concerns of religion, as worldly men do in their pursuit of the precarious happiness of this present life.

9. Make to yourselves friends of the mammon of unrighteousness. By the mammon of unrighteousness is not here meant riches unjustly gotten, but riches in general; the false, the uncertain, the transitory riches of this present world.

12. If ye have not been faithful, &c. Our Lord's meaning is; Since you have dared to be unfaithful in that which was only a trust committed to you by God for a short time, and of which you knew you were to give him an account, it is evident that you are not fit to be entrusted by him with the riches of heaven.

C H A P. XVII.

To avoid occasions of offence.

THEN said he unto his disciples, It is impossible but that offences will come; but woe unto him through whom they come!

2 It were better for him that a milstone were hanged about his neck, and he cast into the sea, than that he should offend one of these little ones.

3 ¶ Take heed to yourselves: If thy brother trespass against thee, rebuke him; and if he repent, forgive him.

4 And if he trespass against thee seven times in a day, and seven times in a day turn again to thee, saying, I repent; thou shalt forgive him.

5 ¶ And the apostles said unto the Lord, Increase our faith.

6 And the Lord said, If ye had faith as a grain of mustard-seed, ye might say unto this sycamine-tree, Be thou plucked up by the root, and be thou planted in the sea; and it should obey you.

7 But which of you having a servant plowing, or feeding cattle, will say unto him by and by, when he is come from the field, Go and sit down to meat:

8 And will not rather say unto him, Make ready wherewith I may sup, and gird thyself, and serve me, till I have eaten and drunken; and afterward thou shalt eat and drink?

9 Doth he thank that servant because he did the things that were commanded him? I trow not.

10 So likewise ye, when ye shall have done all those things which are commanded you, say, We are unprofitable servants; we have done that which was our duty to do.

11 ¶ And it came to pass, as he went to Jerusalem, that he passed through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.

12 And as he entered into a certain village, there met him ten men that were lepers, which stood afar off.

13 And they lifted up their voices, and said, Jesus, Master, have mercy on us.

14 And when he saw them, he said unto them, Go, shew yourselves unto the priests. And it came to pass, that as they went they were cleansed.

15 And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice glorified God, 16 And fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks; and he was a Samaritan.

17 And Jesus answering, said, Were there not ten cleansed? but where are the nine?

18 There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger.

19 And he said unto him, Arise, go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole.

20 ¶ And when he was demanded of the Pharisees when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them, and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with observation.

21 Neither shall they say, Lo here; or, lo there: for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you.

22 And he said unto the disciples, The days will come when ye shall desire to see one of the days of the Son of man, and ye shall not see it.

23 And they shall say to you, See here; or, see there: go not after them, nor follow them.

24 For as the lightning that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven shineth unto the other part under heaven, so shall also the Son of man be in his day.

25 But

31. If they hear not Moses and the prophets, &c. i. e. If they be so immersed in the sinful pleasures of this present world, as not to be concerned about the certainty of a future state, and of the punishment which shall therein be inflicted on all impenitent sinners; nor be convinced of it by the revelations which God has already made; it is plain they would, for the same reason, reject all other means whatsoever, even though God should send one from the dead to prevent them.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVII.

Verse 17. Where are the nine? The ingratitude of these Jews will appear monstrous, if we consider, that the malady from which they were delivered is, in itself, one of the most loathsome diseases incident to human nature, and a disease which, by the law of Moses, subjected them to greater hardships than any distemper whatsoever.

31. He

25 But first must he suffer many things, and be rejected of this generation.

26 And as it was in the days of Noe, so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man.

27 They did eat, they drank, they married wives, they were given in marriage; until the day that Noe entered into the ark: and the flood came and destroyed them all.

28 Likewise also as it was in the days of Lot; they did eat, they drank, they bought, they sold, they planted, they builded:

29 But the same day that Lot went out of Sodom, it rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all:

30 Even thus shall it be in the day when the Son of man is revealed.

31 In that day, he which shall be upon the house-top, and his stuff in the house, let him not come down to take it away: and he that is in the field, let him likewise not return back.

32 Remember Lot's wife.

33 Whosoever shall seek to save his life shall lose it; and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it.

34 I tell you, In that night there shall be two men in one bed; the one shall be taken, and the other shall be left.

35 Two women shall be grinding together; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

36 Two men shall be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left.

37 And they answered, and said unto him, Where, Lord? And he said unto them, Wheresoever the body is, thither will the eagles be gathered together.

C H A P. XVIII.

The importunate widow.

AND he spake a parable unto them to this end, that men ought always to pray, and not to faint:

2 Saying, There was in a city a judge, which feared not God, neither regarded man.

3 And there was a widow in that city; and she came unto him, saying, Avenge me of mine adversary.

4 And he would not for a while: but afterward he said within himself, Though I fear not God, nor regard man;

5 Yet because this widow troubleth me, I will avenge her, lest by her continual coming she weary me.

6 And the Lord said, Hear what the unjust judge saith.

7 And shall not God avenge his own elect, which cry day and night unto him, though he bear long with them?

8 I tell you that he will avenge them speedily. Nevertheless, when the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?

9 ¶ And he spake this parable unto certain, which trusted in themselves that they were righteous, and despised others:

10 Two men went up into the temple to pray; the one a Pharisee, and the other a publican.

11 The Pharisee stood and prayed thus with himself, God, I thank thee that I am not as other men are, extortioners, unjust, adulterers, or even as this publican.

12 I fast twice in the week, I give tithes of all that I possess.

13 And the publican, standing afar off, would not lift up so much as his eyes unto heaven, but smote upon his breast, saying, God be merciful to me a sinner:

14 I tell you, This man went down to his house justified rather than the other; for every one that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted.

15 ¶ And they brought unto him also infants, that he would touch them: but when his disciples saw it, they rebuked them.

16 But Jesus called them unto him, and said, Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of God.

17 Verily I say unto you, Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, shall in no wise enter therein.

18 ¶ And a certain ruler asked him, saying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?

19 And Jesus said unto him, Why callest thou me good? none is good, save one, that is, God.

20 Thou knowest the commandments, Do not commit adultery, Do not kill, Do not steal, Do not bear false witness, Honour thy father and thy mother:

21 And he said, All these have I kept from my youth up.

22 Now when Jesus heard these things, he said unto him, Yet lackest thou one thing: sell all that thou hast, and distribute unto the poor, and thou shalt have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me.

23 And when he heard this, he was very sorrowful; for he was very rich.

24 ¶ And when Jesus saw that he was very sorrowful, he said, How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!

25 For it is easier for a camel to go through a needle's eye, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.

26 And they that heard it said, Who then can be saved?

27 And he said, The things which are impossible with men are possible with God.

28 ¶ Then Peter said, Lo, we have left all, and followed thee.

29 And he said unto them, Verily I say unto you, There is no man that hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake,

30 Who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting.

31 ¶ Then he took unto him the twelve, and said unto them, Behold, we go up to Jerusalem, and all things that are written by the prophets concerning the Son of man shall be accomplished.

32 For he shall be delivered unto the Gentiles, and shall be mocked, and spitefully entreated, and spitted on,

33 And they shall scourge him, and put him to death; and the third day he shall rise again.

34 And they understood none of these things: and this saying was hid from them, neither knew they the things which were spoken.

35 ¶ And it came to pass, that as he was come nigh unto Jericho, a certain blind man sat by the way-side, begging.

36 And hearing the multitude pass by, he asked what it meant.

37 And they told him, that Jesus of Nazareth passeth by.

38 And he cried, saying, Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me.

39 And they which went before rebuked him, that he should hold his peace: but he cried so much the more, Thou Son of David, have mercy on me.

40 And Jesus stood, and commanded him to be brought unto him: and when he was come near, he asked him,

41 Saying,

31. He which shall be upon the house-top, &c.] The Jewish houses were flat-roofed, and commonly had two flights of stairs, one within, and another without the house, by which they went up to the roof. This shews that this discourse refers not to the final judgment, from which there can be no escape, but to the destruction of Jerusalem, from which, it is well known, that many Christians were preserved by this caution.

37. Wheresoever the body is, &c.] Wherever the Jews are, there will the sword of the Romans (whose ensign is the eagle) be ready to devour them, and their army will assemble to destroy them.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVIII.

Verse 3. Avenge me of mine adversary.] Do me justice against mine adversary, and his oppressive attempts.

5. Wear me.] The meaning is, that the uneasy sensations which this widow raised in the judge's breast, by the moving representations which she gave him of her distress, affected him to such a degree, that he could not bear it; and therefore, to be rid of those feelings, he resolved to do her justice.

8. When the Son of man cometh, shall he find faith on the earth?] When he comes to exercise his vengeance on the Jewish nation, how few shall he find in that nation that will believe it!

11. The Pharisee stood.] At a distance from the publican, for fear of being polluted by him.

12. I fast twice, &c.] The Pharisees used generally to keep private fasts on Mondays and Thursdays.

14. Justified.] Absolved from his sins.

17. As a little child.] i. e. With the same humility, meekness, and simplicity.

18. Good Master.] It is said, the Jewish rabbies affected this title; if so, it might be an additional reason for our Lord's remark upon it.

41 Saying, What wilt thou that I shall do unto thee? And he said, Lord, that I may receive my sight.

42 And Jesus said unto him, Receive thy sight; thy faith hath saved thee.

43 And immediately he received his sight, and followed him, glorifying God: and all the people, when they saw it, gave praise unto God.

C H A P. XIX.

Of Zaccheus the publican.

AND Jesus entered and passed through Jericho.

2 And, behold, there was a man named Zaccheus, which was the chief among the publicans, and he was rich.

3 And he sought to see Jesus who he was, and could not for the press, because he was little of stature.

4 And he ran before, and climbed up into a sycamore-tree to see him; for he was to pass that way.

5 And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up, and saw him, and said unto him, Zaccheus, make haste, and come down; for to-day I must abide at thy house.

6 And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully.

7 And when they saw it, they all murmured, saying, That he was gone to be guest with a man that is a sinner.

8 And Zaccheus stood, and said unto the Lord, Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor: and if I have taken any thing from any man by false accusation, I restore him four-fold.

9 And Jesus said unto him, This day is salvation come to this house, forasmuch as he also is a son of Abraham.

10 For the Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.

11 ¶ And, as they heard these things, he added, and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem, and because they thought that the kingdom of God should immediately appear.

12 He said therefore, A certain nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom, and to return.

13 And he called his ten servants, and delivered them ten pounds, and said unto them, Occupy till I come.

14 But his citizens hated him, and sent a message after him, saying, We will not have this man to reign over us.

15 And it came to pass, that when he was returned, having received the kingdom, then he commanded these servants to be called unto him to whom he had given the money, that he might know how much every man had gained by trading.

16 Then came the first, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained ten pounds.

17 And he said unto him, Well, thou good servant: because thou hast been faithful in a very little, have thou authority over ten cities.

18 And the second came, saying, Lord, thy pound hath gained five pounds.

19 And he said likewise to him, Be thou also over five cities.

20 And another came, saying, Lord, behold, here is thy pound, which I have kept laid up in a napkin:

21 For I feared thee, because thou art an austere man: thou takest up that thou laidest not down, and reapest that thou didst not sow.

22 And he saith unto him, Out of thine own mouth will I judge thee, thou wicked servant. Thou knewest that I was an austere man, taking up that I laid not down, and reaping that I did not sow:

23 Wherefore then gavest not thou my money into the bank, that at my coming I might have required mine own with usury?

24 And he said unto them that stood by, Take from him the pound, and give it to him that hath ten pounds.

25 (And they said unto him, Lord, he hath ten pounds.)

26 For I say unto you, That unto every one which hath shall be given: and from him that hath not, even that he hath shall be taken away from him.

27 But those mine enemies, which would not that I should reign over them, bring hither, and slay them before me.

28 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he went before, ascending up to Jerusalem.

29 And it came to pass, when he was come nigh to Bethphage and Bethany, at the mount called the mount of Olives, he sent two of his disciples,

30 Saying, Go ye into the village over against you; in the which at your entering ye shall find a colt tied, whereon yet never man sat: loose him, and bring him hither.

31 And if any man ask you, Why do ye loose him? thus shall ye say unto him, Because the Lord hath need of him.

32 And they that were sent went their way, and found even as he had said unto them.

33 And as they were loosing the colt, the owners' thereof said unto them, Why loose ye the colt?

34 And they said, The Lord hath need of him.

35 And they brought him to Jesus: and they cast their garments upon the colt, and they set Jesus thereon.

36 And, as he went, they spread their clothes in the way.

37 And when he was come nigh, even now at the descent of the mount of Olives, the whole multitude of the disciples began to rejoice, and praise God with a loud voice, for all the mighty works that they had seen,

38 Saying, Blessed be the King that cometh in the name of the Lord: peace in heaven, and glory in the highest.

39 And some of the Pharisees from among the multitude said unto him, Master, rebuke thy disciples.

40 And he answered and said unto them, I tell you, that if these should hold their peace, the stones would immediately cry out.

41 ¶ And when he was come near, he beheld the city, and wept over it,

42 Saying, If thou hadst known, even thou, at least in this thy day, the things which belong unto thy peace! but now they are hid from thine eyes.

43 For the days shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, 44 And shall lay thee even with the ground, and thy children within thee; and they shall not leave in thee one stone upon another: because thou knewest not the time of thy visitation.

45 ¶ And he went into the temple, and began to cast out them that sold therein, and them that bought,

46 Saying unto them, It is written, My house is the house of prayer: but ye have made it a den of thieves.

47 And he taught daily in the temple. But the chief priests, and the scribes, and the chief of the people, sought to destroy him, 48 And could not find what they might do: for all the people were very attentive to hear him.

C H A P. XX.

Christ avoucheth his authority.

AND it came to pass, that on one of those days, as he taught the people in the temple, and preached the gospel,

23. With usury:] With increase: See Matt. 25. 27.

40. If these should hold their peace, the stones, &c.] One might then expect that the very stones would proclaim my kingdom: God would even animate the stones on such an occasion, rather than he would suffer me to want this triumph, so evidently marked out by his prophets.

42. In this thy day:] i.e. After having rejected the prophets, if thou hadst known the manifestations of the Messiah, who was particularly sent to the Jews.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIX.

Verse 12—15. A certain nobleman went into a far country, &c.] By the nobleman here is probably represented our Saviour; his going into a far country signifies his return from earth to heaven; his servants are the disciples, who are to render him an account of the money entrusted to their care, i.e. of the progress of the gospel; the citizens are the Jews, who rejected him from being king; his return is the day of vengeance on the Jewish nation, and likewise an image and prelude of the last judgment, when he will render to every man according to his works.

gospel, the chief priests and the scribes came upon him, with the elders,

2 And spake unto him, saying, Tell us, By what authority doest thou these things? or who is he that gave thee this authority?

3 And he answered and said unto them, I will also ask you one thing; and answer me:

4 The baptism of John, was it from heaven, or of men?

5 And they reasoned with themselves, saying, If we shall say, From heaven; he will say, Why then believed ye him not?

6 But and if we say, Of men; all the people will stone us: for they be persuaded that John was a prophet.

7 And they answered, That they could not tell whence it was.

8 And Jesus said unto them, Neither tell I you by what authority I do these things.

9 ¶ Then began he to speak to the people this parable: A certain man planted a vineyard, and let it forth to husbandmen, and went into a far country for a long time.

10 And at the season he sent a servant to the husbandmen, that they should give him of the fruit of the vineyard: but the husbandmen beat him, and sent him away empty.

11 And again he sent another servant: and they beat him also, and entreated him shamefully, and sent him away empty.

12 And again he sent a third: and they wounded him also, and cast him out.

13 Then said the Lord of the vineyard, What shall I do? I will send my beloved son: it may be they will reverence him when they see him.

14 But when the husbandmen saw him, they reasoned among themselves, saying, This is the heir; come, let us kill him, that the inheritance may be ours.

15 So they cast him out of the vineyard, and killed him. What therefore shall the lord of the vineyard do unto them?

16 He shall come and destroy these husbandmen, and shall give the vineyard to others. And when they heard it they said, God forbid.

17 And he beheld them, and said, What is this then that is written, The stone which the builders rejected, the same is become the head of the corner?

18 Whosoever shall fall upon that stone shall be broken; but on whomsoever it shall fall, it will grind him to powder.

19 ¶ And the chief priests and the scribes the same hour sought to lay hands on him; and they feared the people: for they perceived that he had spoken this parable against them.

20 And they watched him, and sent forth spies, which should feign themselves just men, that they might take hold of his words, that so they might deliver him unto the power and authority of the governor.

21 And they asked him, saying, Master, we know that thou sayest and teachest rightly, neither acceptest thou the person of any, but teachest the way of God truly;

22 Is it lawful for us to give tribute unto Cæsar, or no?

23 But he perceived their craftiness, and said unto them, Why tempt ye me?

24 Shew me a penny. Whose image and superscription hath it? They answered and said, Cæsar's.

25 And he said unto them, Render therefore unto Cæsar the things which be Cæsar's, and unto God the things which be God's.

26 And they could not take hold of his words before the people: and they marvelled at his answer, and held their peace.

27 ¶ Then came to him certain of the Sadducees, (which deny that there is any resurrection), and they asked him,

28 Saying, Master, Moses wrote unto us, If any man's brother die, having a wife, and he die without children, that his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.

29 There were therefore seven brethren: and the first took a wife, and died without children.

30 And the second took her to wife, and he died childless.

31 And the third took her; and in like manner the seven also. And they left no children, and died.

32 Last of all the woman died also.

33 Therefore, in the resurrection, whose wife of them is she? for seven had her to wife.

34 And Jesus answering said unto them, The children of this world marry, and are given in marriage:

35 But they which shall be accounted worthy to obtain that world, and the resurrection from the dead, neither marry, nor are given in marriage:

36 Neither can they die any more; for they are equal unto the angels, and are the children of God, being the children of the resurrection.

37 Now that the dead are raised even Moses shewed at the bush, when he calleth the Lord the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.

38 For he is not a God of the dead, but of the living: for all live unto him.

39 ¶ Then certain of the scribes answering said, Master, thou hast well said.

40 And after that they durst not ask him any question at all.

41 ¶ And he said unto them, How say they that Christ is David's son?

42 And David himself saith in the book of Psalms, The Lord said unto my Lord, Sit thou on my right hand, 43 Till I make thine enemies thy footstool.

44 David therefore calleth him Lord; how is he then his son?

45 ¶ Then, in the audience of all the people, he said unto his disciples,

46 Beware of the scribes, which desire to walk in long robes, and love greetings in the markets, and the highest seats in the synagogues, and the chief rooms at feasts;

47 Which devour widows' houses, and for a shew make long prayers: the same shall receive greater damnation.

C H A P. XXI.

The destruction of the temple and city is foretold.

AND he looked up, and saw the rich men casting their gifts into the treasury.

2 And he saw also a certain poor widow, casting in thither two mites.

3 And he said, Of a truth I say unto you, that this poor widow hath cast in more than they all.

4 For all these have of their abundance cast in unto the offerings of God: but she of her penury hath cast in all the living that she had.

5 ¶ And as some spake of the temple, how it was adorned with goodly stones and gifts, he said,

6 As for these things which ye behold, the days will come, in the which there shall not be left one stone upon another that shall not be thrown down.

7 And they asked him, saying, Master, but when shall these things be? and what sign will there be when these things shall come to pass?

8 And he said, Take heed that ye be not deceived: for many

36. They are equal unto the angels;] i. e. Of an angelic nature or constitution.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXI.

Verse 5. As some spake of the temple, &c.] See Matt. 22. 2, 3.

8. Take heed that ye be not deceived, &c.] Take heed that ye be not imposed upon by false pretenders; for many impostors shall appear, each of them boasting himself to be the Messiah, and declaring that he is sent of God to deliver his servants; that the time of their obtaining the kingdom approaches; and that they must all immediately gather themselves together, and follow him. It is a wonderful instance of the care of Providence for the Christian church, that Josephus, an eye-witness, and in these things of so great credit, should be preserved, to transmit to us a collection of important facts, which so exactly illustrate this noble prophecy in almost every circumstance.

many shall come in my name, saying, I am Christ; and the time draweth near: go ye not therefore after them.

9 But when ye shall hear of wars, and commotions, be not terrified: for these things must first come to pass; but the end is not by and by.

10 Then said he unto them, Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom:

11 And great earthquakes shall be in divers places, and famines, and pestilences, and fearful sights and great signs shall there be from heaven.

12 But before all these they shall lay their hands on you, and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues, and into prisons, being brought before kings and rulers for my name's sake.

13 And it shall turn to you for a testimony.

14 Settle it therefore in your hearts, not to meditate before what ye shall answer.

15 For I will give you a mouth and wisdom, which all your adversaries shall not be able to gainsay nor resist.

16 And ye shall be betrayed both by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolks, and friends; and some of you shall they cause to be put to death.

17 And ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake;

18 But there shall not an hair of your head perish.

19 In your patience possess ye your souls.

20 And when ye shall see Jerusalem compassed with armies, then know that the desolation thereof is nigh.

21 Then let them which are in Judea flee to the mountains; and let them which are in the midst of it depart out; and let not them that are in the countries enter thereinto.

22 For these be the days of vengeance, that all things which are written may be fulfilled.

23 But woe unto them that are with child, and to them that give suck in those days! for there shall be great distress in the land, and wrath upon this people.

24 And they shall fall by the edge of the sword, and shall be led away captive into all nations: and Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled.

25 ¶ And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity: the sea and the waves roaring;

26 Men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth; for the powers of heaven shall be shaken.

27 And then shall they see the Son of man coming in a cloud with power and great glory.

28 And when these things begin to come to pass, then look up, and lift up your heads; for your redemption draweth nigh.

29 And he spake to them a parable: Behold the fig-tree, and all the trees;

30 When they now shoot forth, ye see and know of your own selves that summer is now nigh at hand.

31 So likewise ye, when ye see these things come to pass, know ye that the kingdom of God is nigh at hand.

32 Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass away till all be fulfilled.

33 Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away.

34 ¶ And take heed to yourselves, lest at any time your hearts be overcharged with surfeiting, and drunkenness, and cares of this life, and so that day come upon you unawares.

16. Ye shall be betrayed both by parents and brethren, &c.] Though the wisdom and excellency of my doctrine be really such as men can neither resist nor deny; yet, because its precepts are utterly inconsistent with their vices, men incorrigibly wicked will hate and persecute you, not only against all the laws of reason and common humanity, but even contrary to the strictest ties of relation and natural affection; so that fathers and brothers, and the very nearest friends, shall cause one another to be put to death.

19. In your patience possess, &c.] Be calm, serene, and resigned, under all calamities.

24. Jerusalem shall be trodden down of the Gentiles, &c.] i. e. Jerusalem shall continue desolate until God hath poured upon it the whole wrath he had determined, and until he shall destroy the Roman empire, whose armies brought this desolation upon Judea. A new city, called Elia, was built within the circuit of Jerusalem, when the foundations

35 For as a snare shall it come on all them that dwell on the face of the whole earth.

36 Watch ye therefore, and pray always, that ye may be accounted worthy to escape all these things that shall come to pass, and to stand before the Son of man.

37 And in the day-time he was teaching in the temple, and at night he went out, and abode in the mount that is called the mount of Olives.

38 And all the people came early in the morning to him in the temple, for to hear him.

C H A P. XXII.

The Jews conspire against Christ.

NOW the feast of unleavened bread drew nigh, which is called the passover.

2 And the chief priests and scribes sought how they might kill him; for they feared the people.

3 ¶ Then entered Satan into Judas, surnamed Iscariot, being of the number of the twelve.

4 And he went his way, and communed with the chief priests and captains how he might betray him unto them.

5 And they were glad, and covenanted to give him money.

6 And he promised, and sought opportunity to betray him unto them in the absence of the multitude.

7 ¶ Then came the day of unleavened bread, when the passover must be killed.

8 And he sent Peter and John, saying, Go and prepare us the passover, that we may eat.

9 And they said unto him, Where wilt thou that we prepare?

10 And he said unto them, Behold, when ye are entered into the city, there shall a man meet you, bearing a pitcher of water: follow him into the house where he entereth in.

11 And ye shall say unto the good man of the house, The Master saith unto thee, Where is the guest-chamber, where I shall eat the passover with my disciples?

12 And he shall shew you a large upper room furnished: there make ready.

13 And they went and found as he had said unto them: and they made ready the passover.

14 And when the hour was come, he sat down, and the twelve apostles with him.

15 And he said unto them, With desire I have desired to eat this passover with you before I suffer.

16 For I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God.

17 And he took the cup, and gave thanks, and said, Take this, and divide it among yourselves.

18 For I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come.

19 ¶ And he took bread, and gave thanks, and brake it, and gave unto them, saying, This is my body which is given for you: this do in remembrance of me.

20 Likewise also the cup after supper, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood, which is shed for you.

21 ¶ But, behold, the hand of him that betrayeth me is with me on the table.

22 And truly the Son of man goeth, as it was determined: but woe unto that man by whom he is betrayed!

23 And they began to enquire among themselves which of them it was that should do this thing.

24 ¶ And there was also a strife among them, which of them should be accounted the greatest.

of the old were plowed up; a heathen temple was afterwards erected where the temple of God had stood, and a Turkish mosque pollutes it to this day; so remarkably was the hand of God upon the Jews.

35. As a snare shall it come on all, &c.] As a snare to a thoughtless bird, which, in the midst of its security, finds itself inextricably taken. The word all is here limited, and put for the generality of mankind.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXII.

Verse 9. Where wilt thou that we prepare?] As Jerusalem was common to all the tribes of Israel, all strangers of the Jewish nation had the liberty of lodging there gratis.

18. Until the kingdom of God shall come.] After what passes this evening, I will not drink any more with you of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God come, and that complete and spiritual redemption, which is typified by this ordinance, shall be fulfilled and perfected.

¶ 1. Satan

25 And he said unto them, The kings of the Gentiles exercise lordship over them; and they that exercise authority upon them are called Benefactors.

26 But ye shall not be so: but he that is greatest among you, let him be as the younger; and he that is chief, as he that doth serve.

27 For whether is greater, he that sitteth at meat, or he that serveth? is not he that sitteth at meat? but I am among you as he that serveth.

28 Ye are they which have continued with me in my temptations:

29 And I appoint unto you a kingdom, as my Father hath appointed unto me;

30 That ye may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom, and sit on thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

31 ¶ And the Lord said, Simon, Simon, behold, Satan hath desired to have you, that he may sift you as wheat:

32 But I have prayed for thee, that thy faith fail not: and when thou art converted strengthen thy brethren.

33 And he said unto him, Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both into prison and to death.

34 And he said, I tell thee, Peter, the cock shall not crow this day before that thou shalt thrice deny that thou knowest me.

35 And he said unto them, When I sent you without purse, and scrip, and shoes, lacked ye any thing? And they said, Nothing.

36 Then said he unto them, But now, he that hath a purse, let him take it, and likewise his scrip; and he that hath no sword, let him sell his garment and buy one.

37 For I say unto you, That this that is written must yet be accomplished in me, And he was reckoned among the transgressors: for the things concerning me have an end.

38 And they said, Lord, behold, here are two swords. And he said unto them, It is enough.

39 ¶ And he came out, and went, as he was wont, to the mount of Olives; and his disciples also followed him.

40 And, when he was at the place, he said unto them, Pray that ye enter not into temptation.

41 And he was withdrawn from them about a stone's cast, and kneeled down, and prayed, 42 Saying, Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me: nevertheless, not my will, but thine, be done.

43 And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him.

44 And, being in an agony, he prayed more earnestly: and his sweat was as it were great drops of blood falling down to the ground.

45 And when he rose up from prayer, and was come to his disciples, he found them sleeping for sorrow, 46 And said unto them, Why sleep ye? rise and pray, lest ye enter into temptation.

47 ¶ And, while ye yet spake, behold, a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss him.

48 But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?

49 When they which were about him saw what would follow, they said unto him, Lord, shall we smite with the sword?

50 ¶ And one of them smote a servant of the high-priest, and cut off his right ear.

51 And Jesus answered and said, Suffer ye thus far. And he touched his ear, and healed him.

52 Then Jesus said unto the chief priests, and captains of the temple, and the elders, which were come to him, Be ye come out, as against a thief, with swords and staves?

31. Satan hath desired to have you, &c.] You, i. e. the apostles. This alludes to the history of Job, where Satan is represented as accusing Job before God.

32. When thou art converted, &c.] When thou art returned from those wanderings, into which I know thou wilt fall, to the paths of wisdom and duty, and thy faith is thoroughly established, then strengthen thy brethren.

37. The things concerning me have an end;] i. e. As mediator: all the things written concerning me in the scripture prophecies will receive their accomplishment in my sufferings and death.

38. Here are two swords.] Probably some of the apostles brought these swords along with them in their journey from Galilee, to defend them against robbers.

53 When I was daily with you in the temple, ye stretched forth no hands against me: but this is your hour, and the power of darkness.

54 ¶ Then took they him, and led him, and brought him into the high-priest's house. And Peter followed afar off.

55 And when they had kindled a fire in the midst of the hall, and were set down together, Peter sat down among them.

56 But a certain maid beheld him as he sat by the fire, and earnestly looked upon him, and said, This man was also with him.

57 And he denied him, saying, Woman, I know him not.

58 And after a little while another saw him, and said, Thou art also of them. And Peter said, Man, I am not.

59 And, about the space of one hour after, another confidently affirmed, saying, Of a truth this fellow also was with him; for he is a Galilean.

60 And Peter said, Man, I know not what thou sayest. And immediately, while he yet spake, the cock crew.

61 And the Lord turned, and looked upon Peter. And Peter remembered the word of the Lord, how he had said unto him, Before the cock crow thou shalt deny me thrice.

62 And Peter went out, and wept bitterly.

63 ¶ And the men that held Jesus mocked him, and smote him.

64 And when they had blindfolded him, they struck him on the face, and asked him, saying, Prophecy, who is it that smote thee?

65 And many other things blasphemously spake they against him.

66 ¶ And, as soon as it was day, the elders of the people, and the chief priests, and the scribes, came together, and led him into their council,

67 Saying, Art thou the Christ? tell us. And he said unto them, If I tell you, ye will not believe:

68 And if I also ask you, ye will not answer me, nor let me go.

69 Hereafter shall the Son of man sit on the right hand of the power of God.

70 Then said they all, Art thou then the Son of God? And he said unto them, Ye say that I am.

71 And they said, What need we any further witness? for we ourselves have heard of his own mouth.

C H A P. XXIII.

Jesus is accused before Pilate.

AND the whole multitude of them arose, and led him unto Pilate.

2 And they began to accuse him, saying, We found this fellow perverting the nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Cesar, saying, that he himself is Christ a king.

3 And Pilate asked him, saying, Art thou the King of the Jews? And he answered him and said, Thou sayest it.

4 Then said Pilate to the chief priests, and to the people, I find no fault in this man.

5 And they were the more fierce, saying, He stirreth up the people, teaching throughout all Jewry, beginning from Galilee to this place.

6 When Pilate heard of Galilee, he asked whether the man were a Galilean.

7 And as soon as he knew that he belonged unto Herod's jurisdiction, he sent him to Herod, who himself was also at Jerusalem at that time.

8 ¶ And when Herod saw Jesus, he was exceeding glad; for he was desirous to see him of a long season, because he had heard many things of him; and he hoped to have seen some miracle done by him.

9 Then

44. His sweat was as it were great drops of blood.] It is imagined that our Saviour now struggled with the spirits of darkness, who exercised all their power and malice to persecute and distract him.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXIII.

Verse 1. Led him unto Pilate.] Having thus gained from Jesus a confession of his being the Messiah, the council thought they had now sufficient ground to carry him before the Roman governor, with a grievous accusation of blasphemy against God, and sedition against the emperor; by which means they hoped to procure that he might be condemned to die.

9 Then he questioned with him in many words; but he answered him nothing.

10 And the chief priests and scribes stood, and vehemently accused him.

11 And Herod with his men of war set him at nought, and mocked him, and arrayed him in a gorgeous robe, and sent him again to Pilate.

12 ¶ And the same day Pilate and Herod were made friends together; for before they were at enmity between themselves.

13 ¶ And Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests, and the rulers, and the people,

14 Said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold, I, having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things whereof ye accuse him;

15 No, nor yet Herod: for I sent you to him; and, lo, nothing worthy of death is done unto him;

16 I will therefore chastise him, and release him.

17 (For of necessity he must release one unto them at the feast.)

18 And they cried out all at once, saying, Away with this man, and release unto us Barabbas:

19 (Who for a certain sedition made in the city, and for murder, was cast into prison.)

20 Pilate, therefore, willing to release Jesus, spake again to them.

21 But they cried, saying, Crucify him, crucify him.

22 And he said unto them the third time, Why, what evil hath he done? I have found no cause of death in him: I will therefore chastise him, and let him go.

23 And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified: and the voices of them, and of the chief priests, prevailed.

24 And Pilate gave sentence that it should be as they required.

25 And he released unto them him that for sedition and murder was cast into prison, whom they had desired; but he delivered Jesus to their will.

26 And as they led him away, they laid hold upon one Simon a Cyrenian, coming out of the country, and on him they laid the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

27 ¶ And there followed him a great company of people, and of women, which also bewailed and lamented him.

28 But Jesus, turning unto them, said, Daughters of Jerusalem, weep not for me, but weep for yourselves, and for your children.

29 For, behold, the days are coming, in the which they shall say, Blessed are the barren, and the wombs that never bare, and the paps which never gave suck.

30 Then shall they begin to say to the mountains, Fall on us; and to the hills, Cover us.

31 For if they do these things in a green tree, what shall be done in the dry?

32 And there were also two other malefactors led with him to be put to death.

33 And when they were come to the place which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors; one on the right hand, and the other on the left.

34 ¶ Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do. And they parted his raiment, and cast lots.

35 And the people stood beholding: and the rulers also with them derided him, saying, He saved others; let him save himself, if he be Christ, the chosen of God.

36 And the soldiers also mocked him, coming to him, and offering him vinegar, 37 And saying, If thou be the king of the Jews, save thyself.

38 And a superscription also was written over him in letters of Greek, and Latin, and Hebrew, THIS IS THE KING OF THE JEWS.

39 ¶ And one of the malefactors, which were hanged, railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself and us.

40 But the other answering, rebuked him, saying, Dost thou not fear God, seeing thou art in the same condemnation?

41 And we indeed justly; for we receive the due reward of our deeds: but this man hath done nothing amiss.

42 And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.

43 And Jesus said unto him, Verily I say unto thee, To-day shalt thou be with me in paradise.

44 ¶ And it was about the sixth hour, and there was a darkness over all the earth until the ninth hour.

45 And the sun was darkened, and the vail of the temple was rent in the midst.

46 ¶ And when Jesus had cried with a loud voice, he said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said thus, he gave up the ghost.

47 Now when the centurion saw what was done, he glorified God, saying, Certainly this was a righteous man.

48 And all the people that came together to that sight, beholding the things which were done, smote their breasts, and returned.

49 And all his acquaintance, and the women that followed him from Galilee, stood afar off, beholding these things.

50 ¶ And, behold, there was a man named Joseph, a counsellor; and he was a good man, and a just:

51 (The same had not consented to the counsel and deed of them:) he was of Arimathea, a city of the Jews; who also himself waited for the kingdom of God.

52 This man went unto Pilate, and begged the body of Jesus.

53 And he took it down, and wrapped it in linen, and laid it in a sepulchre that was hewn in stone, wherein never man before was laid.

54 And that day was the preparation, and the sabbath drew on.

55 ¶ And the women also which came with him from Galilee followed after, and beheld the sepulchre, and how his body was laid.

56 And they returned, and prepared spices and ointments; and rested the sabbath-day, according to the commandment.

CH A P. XXIV.

Christ's resurrection declared.

NOW upon the first day of the week, very early in the morning, they came unto the sepulchre, bringing the spices which they had prepared, and certain others with them.

2 And

32. Two other malefactors, &c.] What a grievous error is this in our Translation, that he who was unspotted with sin should be called a malefactor! The mistake is owing to the want of two commas: the passage should be pointed thus, There were also two others, malefactors, led with him, &c.

42. Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom.] The faith of the penitent thief has in it something very remarkable; for he seems to have entertained a more exalted notion of the Messiah's kingdom than the disciples themselves. They expected nothing but a secular empire; he gave strong intimations of his having an idea of Christ's spiritual dominion; for, at the very time that Jesus was dying on the cross, he begged to be remembered by him, when he came into his kingdom.

48. All the people—smote their breasts, and returned.] The people who came to behold this melancholy spectacle were wonderfully affected when Jesus gave up the ghost. They had been instant with loud voices to have him crucified; but when they saw the face of the creation darkened with a sullen gloom during his crucifixion, and found his death accompanied with an earthquake, as if Nature had been in an agony when he died, they rightly interpreted these prodigies to be so many testimonies from God of his innocence.

[9. He answered him nothing;] Knowing him to be a vile tyrant, that lived in open adultery, and had murdered John the Baptist. This was Herod-Antipas.

[11. Arrayed him in a gorgeous robe:] In derision, for having pretended to be a king.

[17. Of necessity, &c.] He was not obliged to it by any law; but it was customary, and a sort of act of grace.

[23. Weep not for me, &c.] My death is not, as ye suppose, a calamity fallen upon me, but what I freely submit to, in obedience to the will of God, and for the benefit and salvation of mankind: weep rather for yourselves, and for your families, because of the dreadful judgments which God will shortly inflict upon this city and nation.

[31. In a green tree, &c.] This is a proverbial expression: Good men are represented under the metaphor of a green tree, Psa. 1. 3. and 52. 8. Hosea 14. 8, &c. God threatens, Ezek. 20. 47. that he will cut off every green tree, and every dry tree; i. e. both the righteous and the wicked. As if Christ had said, If I who am innocent must suffer such agonies, what will become of those wretches, whose personal guilt makes them as proper fuel for the Divine vengeance as dry wood is to the consuming fire?

2 And they found the stone rolled away from the sepulchre.

3 And they entered in, and found not the body of the Lord Jesus.

4 And it came to pass, as they were much perplexed thereabout, behold, two men stood by them in shining garments.

5 And as they were afraid, and bowed down their faces to the earth, they said unto them, Why seek ye the living among the dead?

6 He is not here, but is risen: remember how he spake unto you, when he was yet in Galilee,

7 Saying, The Son of man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men, and be crucified, and the third day rise again.

8 And they remembered his words,

9 And returned from the sepulchre, and told all these things unto the eleven, and to all the rest.

10 It was Mary Magdalene, and Joanna, and Mary the mother of James, and other women that were with them, which told these things unto the apostles.

11 And their words seemed to them as idle tales, and they believed them not.

12 Then arose Peter, and ran unto the sepulchre, and stooping down, he beheld the linen clothes laid by themselves, and departed, wondering in himself at that which was come to pass.

13 ¶ And, behold, two of them went that same day to a village called Emmaus, which was from Jerusalem about threescore furlongs.

14 And they talked together of all these things which had happened.

15 And it came to pass, that while they communed together, and reasoned, Jesus himself drew near, and went with them.

16 But their eyes were holden, that they should not know him.

17 And he said unto them, What manner of communications are these that ye have one to another, as ye walk, and are sad?

18 And the one of them, whose name was Cleopas, answering, said unto him, Art thou only a stranger in Jerusalem, and hast not known the things which are come to pass there in these days?

19 And he said unto them, What things? And they said unto him, Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, which was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people:

20 And how the chief priests and our rulers delivered him to be condemned to death, and have crucified him.

21 But we trusted that it had been he which should have redeemed Israel: and besides all this, to-day is the third day since these things were done.

22 Yea, and certain women also of our company made us astonished, which were early at the sepulchre:

23 And when they found not his body, they came, saying, that they had also seen a vision of angels, which said that he was alive.

24 And certain of them which were with us went to the sepulchre, and found it even so as the women had said; but him they saw not.

25 Then he said unto them, O fools, and slow of heart to believe all that the prophets have spoken!

26 Ought not Christ to have suffered these things, and to enter into his glory?

27 And beginning at Moses, and all the prophets, he expounded unto them in all the scriptures the things concerning himself.

28 And they drew nigh unto the village whither they went: and he made as though he would have gone further.

29 But they constrained him, saying, Abide with us, for it is toward evening, and the day is far spent. And he went in to tarry with them.

30 And it came to pass, as he sat at meat with them, he took bread, and blessed it, and brake, and gave to them.

31 And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and he vanished out of their sight.

32 And they said one to another, Did not our heart burn within us, while he talked with us by the way, and while he opened to us the scriptures?

33 And they rose up the same hour, and returned to Jerusalem, and found the eleven gathered together, and them that were with them, 34 Saying, The Lord is risen indeed, and hath appeared to Simon.

35 And they told what things were done in the way, and how he was known of them in breaking of bread.

36 ¶ And as they thus spake, Jesus himself stood in the midst of them, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

37 But they were terrified and affrighted, and supposed that they had seen a spirit.

38 And he said unto them, Why are ye troubled, and why do thoughts arise in your hearts?

39 Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have.

40 And when he had thus spoken, he shewed them his hands and his feet.

41 And while they yet believed not for joy, and wondered, he said unto them, Have ye here any meat?

42 And they gave him a piece of a broiled fish, and of an honey-comb.

43 And he took it, and did eat before them.

44 And he said unto them, These are the words which I spake unto you, while I was yet with you, that all things must be fulfilled which were written in the law of Moses, and in the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning me.

45 Then opened he their understanding, that they might understand the scriptures,

46 And said unto them, Thus it is written, and thus it behoved Christ to suffer, and to rise from the dead the third day;

47 And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name, among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem.

48 And ye are witnesses of these things.

49 ¶ And, behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you: but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem, until ye be endued with power from on high.

50 ¶ And he led them out as far as to Bethany: and he lifted up his hands, and blessed them.

51 And it came to pass, while he blessed them, he was parted from them, and carried up into heaven.

52 And they worshipped him, and returned to Jerusalem with great joy:

53 And were continually in the temple, praising and blessing God. Amen.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXIV.

Verse 25. O fools!] The meaning is, O thoughtless creatures!

29. They constrained him;] Not by violence, but the force of persuasion.

41. While they believed not for joy;] While some of them were so transported, that as yet they believed not their own eyes for joy.

44. These are the words, &c.] He explained to them the nature of the gospel dispensation, shewing them the end and design of his sufferings, death, and resurrection; and causing them to recollect and consider, that these were the very things he had formerly told them, while he yet dwelt with them upon earth; that they were predicted in the law, and the prophets, and in the psalms, concerning himself.

46, 47. Thus it is written, &c.] He shewed them plainly, out of the writings of the prophets, how it was necessary for Christ thus to suffer, and to rise again from the dead; and that, by this means, was to be established a new and gracious covenant of repentance, and forgiveness of sins, which should be preached in his name, first to the Jews, and afterwards to the Gentiles in all the nations of the earth. It was to begin at Jerusalem, because it thereby graciously encouraged the repentance of the greatest sinners, when they saw that even the murderers of Christ were not exempted from the offers of gospel-mercy.

49. Behold, I send the promise of my Father upon you, &c.] Before you begin this great work, continue a few days at Jerusalem, till ye receive the plentiful and miraculous effusion of the Holy Spirit, which I will send you, according to my Father's promise, in order to qualify you with extraordinary gifts for such an undertaking.

THE GOSPEL

ACCORDING TO

St. JOHN.

THE ARGUMENT.

St. JOHN was the son of Zebedee, and the younger brother of James: he was particularly remarkable for being the beloved disciple of our Lord. He lived to a very great age, and survived all the Apostles, and is supposed to have wrote his Gospel Ann. Dom. 96. His death closed up the apostolical age. His Gospel is a noble history of his Master's life, miracles, divine discourses, death, and conversation with his disciples, before his triumphant ascension: it is a supplement to the three inspired writers before him, and a completion of the evangelical history. It is said, that the heresies of Cerinthus and Ebion, who denied the divinity of Christ, gave occasion to the writing of this Gospel; for he speaks more explicitly and largely of our Saviour's divine nature than any of the other Evangelists had done. The style and character of St. John is grave and simple, short and perspicuous.

CHAP. I.

The divinity, humanity, and office, of Christ.

IN the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

2 The same was in the beginning with God.

3 All things were made by him; and without him was not any thing made that was made.

4 In him was life, and the life was the light of men.

5 And the light shineth in darkness, and the darkness comprehended it not.

6 ¶ There was a man sent from God, whose name was John.

7 The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through him might believe.

8 He was not that Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light.

9 That was the true Light, which lighteth every man that cometh into the world.

10 He was in the world, and the world was made by him, and the world knew him not.

11 He came unto his own, and his own received him not:

12 But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name:

13 Which were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God.

14 ¶ And the Word was made flesh, and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only-begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth.

15 ¶ John bare witness of him, and cried, saying, This was he of whom I spake, He that cometh after me is preferred before me; for he was before me.

16 And of his fulness have all we received, and grace for grace.

17 For the law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ.

18 No man hath seen God at any time; the only-begotten Son, which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared him.

19 ¶ And this is the record of John, when the Jews sent priests and Levites from Jerusalem, to ask him, Who art thou?

20 And he confessed, and denied not; but confessed, I am not the Christ.

21 And they asked him, What then? art thou Elias? And he saith, I am not. Art thou that prophet? And he answered, No.

22 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? that we may give an answer to them that sent us: what sayest thou of thyself?

23 He said, I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make straight the way of the Lord, as said the prophet Esaias.

24 And they which were sent were of the Pharisees.

25 And they asked him, and said unto him, Why baptizest thou then, if thou be not that Christ, nor Elias, neither that prophet?

26 John answered them, saying, I baptize with water: but there standeth one among you, whom ye know not;

27 He it is, who, coming after me, is preferred before me; whose shoes' latchet I am not worthy to unloose.

28 These things were done in Bethabara beyond Jordan, where John was baptizing.

29 ¶ The next day John seeth Jesus coming unto him, and saith, Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world!

30 This is he of whom I said, After me cometh a Man, which is preferred before me; for he was before me.

31 And I knew him not: but that he should be made manifest to Israel, therefore am I come baptizing with water.

32 And John bare record, saying, I saw the Spirit descending from heaven like a dove, and it abode upon him.

33 And I knew him not: but he that sent me to baptize with water, the same said unto me, Upon whom thou shalt see the Spirit descending and remaining on him, the same is he which baptizeth with the Holy Ghost.

34 And I saw, and bare record, that this is the Son of God.

35 ¶ Again the next day after, John stood, and two of his disciples:

36 And looking upon Jesus as he walked, he saith, Behold the Lamb of God!

37 And the two disciples heard him speak, and they followed Jesus.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 1. In the beginning was the Word, &c.] The Evangelist, to impress every reader with a sense of Christ's dignity as God, has given an account of his pre-existence in quality of the Logos, or Word of God, and Creator of the world. The word Logos, which St. Paul applies to the eternal Son of God, signifies, according to the Greek etymology, the Reason of God, or the Wisdom of God.

The Word was God:] i. e. The same in substance, equal in power and glory with the Father.

5. The light shineth in darkness:] On the minds of the most ignorant and prejudiced of mankind.

6. Whose name was John:] i. e. The Baptist.

13. Which were born, not of blood, &c.] Not because they were descended from the patriarchs; nor of the will of the flesh, nor of their own superior wisdom and goodness; nor of the will of man, nor was it owing to the wisest advice of their fellow creatures; but of God.

16. Of his fulness have all we received:] i. e. Through the fulness of those divine perfections, and of that grace which was conferred upon him without measure, God has communicated unto us a proportional fulness of divine knowledge, according to our capacities.

17. The law was given by Moses, &c.] The meaning is, the law was only a type or shadow of that truth, an emblem of that grace, or mercy, of God, which was to be clearly and fully revealed in the gospel.

20. He confessed, and denied not.] This is a noble Hebrew pleonasm, very beautiful and emphatical.

46. Can

38 The Jesus turned, and saw them following, and saith unto them, What seek ye? They said unto him, Rabbi, (which is to say, being interpreted, Master,) where dwellest thou?

39 He saith unto them, Come and see. They came and saw where he dwelt, and abode with him that day : for it was about the tenth hour.

40 One of the two which heard John speake, and followed him, was Andrew, Simon Peter's brother.

41 He first findeth his own brother Simon, and saith unto him, We have found the Messias, which is, being interpreted, the Christ.

42 And he brought him to Jesus. And when Jesus beheld him, he said, Thou art Simon the son of Jona : thou shalt be called Cephas, which is, by interpretation, A stone.

43 ¶ The day following, Jesus would go forth into Galilee, and findeth Philip, and saith unto him, Follow me.

44 Now Philip was of Bethsaida, the city of Andrew and Peter.

45 Philip findeth Nathanael, and saith unto him, We have found him of whom Moses in the law, and the prophets, did write, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph.

46 And Nathanael said unto him, Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth? Philip saith unto him, Come and see.

47 Jesus saw Nathanael coming to him, and saith of him, Behold an Israelite indeed, in whom is no guile!

48 Nathanael saith unto him, Whence knowest thou me? Jesus answered and said unto him, Before that Philip called thee, when thou wast under the fig-tree, I saw thee.

49 Nathanael answered and said unto him, Rabbi, thou art the Son of God, thou art the King of Israel.

50 Jesus answered and said unto him, Because I said unto thee, I saw thee under the fig-tree, believest thou? thou shalt see greater things than these.

51 And he saith unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Hereafter ye shall see heaven open, and the angels of God ascending and descending upon the Son of man:

C H A P. II.

Christ turneth water into wine.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there.

2 And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage.

3 And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine.

4 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come.

5 His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it.

6 And there were set there six water-pots of stone, after the manner of the purifying of the Jews, containing two or three firkins apiece.

7 Jesus saith unto them, Fill the water-pots with water. And they filled them up to the brim.

8 And he saith unto them, Draw out now, and bear unto the governor of the feast. And they bare it.

9 When the ruler of the feast had tasted the water that was made wine, and knew not whence it was, (but the servants which drew the water knew,) the governor of the feast called the bridegroom,

46. Can—any good thing come out of Nazareth? [Nazareth was a town of Galilee. The Jews had a great contempt for the Galileans.]

47. An Israelite indeed. [One that deserves the honourable title of one of God's people, and is worthy of his descent from Jacob.]

49. Rabbi, thou art the Son of God, thou art the King of Israel. [This conviction produced in Nathanael's mind may be accounted for on the supposition that he had been praying under the fig-tree, and that in his prayer he made confession of his sins in such a particular manner, as to merit the ample character given this apostle by our Saviour. Accordingly, when Jesus insinuated that he had given it to him on account of what had passed under the fig-tree, Nathanael immediately perceived that he could survey the thoughts of the heart; so that he cried out, in great astonishment, that he was the long-expected Messiah.]

51. The angels—ascending and descending, &c. [This is an allusion to Jacob's ladder.]

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 1. The third day, &c. [Lamy thinks this should be translated, On the third day of the marriage, which was in Cana of Galilee, Jesus came, &c. And this is the reason why; on the coming of our Lord and the apostles, they wanted wine.]

10 And saith unto him, Every man at the beginning doth set forth good wine; and when men have well drunk, then that which is worse: but thou hast kept the good wine until now.

11 This beginning of miracles did Jesus in Cana of Galilee, and manifested forth his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

12 ¶ After this, he went down to Capernaum, he, and his mother, and his brethren, and his disciples: and they continued there not many days.

13 And the Jews' passover was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem,

14 And found in the temple those that sold oxen, and sheep, and doves, and the changers of money, sitting:

15 And when he had made a scourge of small cords, he drove them all out of the temple, and the sheep, and the oxen; and poured out the changers' money, and overthrew the tables;

16 And said unto them that sold doves, Take these things hence; make not my Father's house an house of merchandise.

17 And his disciples remembered that it was written, The zeal of thine house hath eaten me up.

18 ¶ Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, What sign shewest thou unto us, seeing that thou doest these things?

19 Jesus answered and said unto them, Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up:

20 Then said the Jews, Forty and six years was this temple in building, and wilt thou rear it up in three days?

21 But he spake of the temple of his body.

22 When therefore he was risen from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this unto them: and they believed the scripture, and the word which Jesus had said.

23 ¶ Now when he was in Jerusalem, at the passover, in the feast-day, many believed in his name, when they saw the miracles which he did.

24 But Jesus did not commit himself unto them, because he knew all men,

25 And needed not that any should testify of man: for he knew what was in man.

C H A P. III.

Christ teacheth Nicodemus the necessity of regeneration.

THERE was a man of the Pharisees named Nicodemus, a ruler of the Jews:

2 The same came to Jesus by night, and said unto him, Rabbi, we know that thou art a teacher come from God: for no man can do these miracles that thou doest, except God be with him.

3 Jesus answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter the second time into his mother's womb, and be born?

5 Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water, and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 That which is born of the flesh, is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit, is spirit.

7 Marvel not that I said unto thee, Ye must be born again.

13. The Jews' passover. [This was the principal of the Jewish festivals, being instituted and celebrated the first time in Egypt, on the night when God destroyed the first-born of that land, but spared the children of Israel. This feast the Jews observed, in succeeding ages, with great solemnity, Exod. 12. 11, 12, 13.]

15. When he had made a scourge, &c. [The reason nobody resisted our Saviour was, there was a law among the Jews, that whosoever did profane the holiness of God, or the temple, it was lawful for any of them to kill him, or to scourge him. They that put this law in execution were called Zealots. The scourge might be designed for driving out beasts: see Matt. 21. 13.]

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 3. Except a man be born again, &c. [Christ here alludes to the doctrine of the elders, among whom a proselyte was always looked upon as a new-born infant. The usual ceremonies performed, one of which was baptism, he received a new name, and no longer owned any relations in the world. He meant also, that they should be renewed in their minds, wills, and affections, by the operation of the Holy Spirit, and so become new creatures.]

8 The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh, and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit.

9 Nicodemus answered and said unto him, How can these things be?

10 Jesus answered and said unto him, Art thou a master of Israel, and knowest not these things?

11 Verily, verily, I say unto thee, We speak that we do know, and testify that we have seen; and ye receive not our witness.

12 If I have told you earthly things, and ye believe not, how shall ye believe if I tell you of heavenly things?

13 And no man hath ascended up to heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the Son of man which is in heaven.

14 ¶ And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of man be lifted up:

15 That whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have eternal life.

16 ¶ For God so loved the world, that he gave his only-begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

17 For God sent not his Son into the world to condemn the world; but that the world through him might be saved.

18 ¶ He that believeth on him is not condemned: but he that believeth not is condemned already; because he hath not believed in the name of the only-begotten Son of God.

19 And this is the condemnation, that light is come into the world, and men loved darkness rather than light, because their deeds were evil.

20 For every one that doeth evil hateth the light, neither cometh to the light, lest his deeds should be reproved.

21 But he that doeth truth cometh to the light, that his deeds may be made manifest that they are wrought in God.

22 ¶ After these things came Jesus and his disciples into the land of Judea, and there he tarried with them, and baptized.

23 ¶ And John also was baptizing in Ænon, near to Salim, because there was much water there: and they came, and were baptized.

24 For John was not yet cast into prison.

25 ¶ Then there arose a question between some of John's disciples and the Jews, about purifying.

26 And they came unto John, and said unto him, Rabbi, he that was with thee beyond Jordan, to whom thou barest witness, behold, the same baptizeth, and all men come to him.

27 John answered and said, A man can receive nothing, except it be given him from heaven.

28 Ye yourselves bear me witness, that I said, I am not the Christ, but that I am sent before him.

29 He that hath the bride is the bridegroom: but the friend of the bridegroom, which standeth and heareth him, rejoiceth greatly because of the bridegroom's voice: this my joy therefore is fulfilled.

30 He must increase, but I must decrease.

31 He that cometh from above, is above all: he that is of the earth, is earthly, and speaketh of the earth; he that cometh from heaven is above all.

32 And what he hath seen and heard, that he testifieth; and no man receiveth his testimony.

8. The wind bloweth where it listeth, &c.] The meaning is not, that the Spirit regenerates men without any care or co-operation of their own, (for that would make all the exhortations of the gospel absurd;) but the sense is, that the manner and degrees, by which the grace of the gospel enables a man to reform the whole moral frame and temper of his mind, are as imperceptible to sense, as the secret causes of many great effects and operations in nature.

13. No man hath ascended up to heaven, &c.] In this passage, the immensity of Christ's nature, and consequently his divinity, is plainly asserted.

31. He that cometh from above, &c.] He that cometh from above, as Christ only came, is greater than I am, or than all the prophets, not excepting even Moses himself.

32. He that hath received his testimony, &c.] The testimonies by which he proves his authority are so evident to all unprejudiced minds, that believing in him is only acting according to the most manifest principles

33 He that hath received his testimony hath set to his seal that God is true.

34 For he whom God hath sent speaketh the words of God: for God giveth not the Spirit by measure unto him.

35 The Father loveth the Son, and hath given all things into his hand.

36 He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life: and he that believeth not the Son shall not see life; but the wrath of God abideth on him.

C H A P. IV.

Christ talketh with a woman of Samaria.

W H E N therefore the Lord knew how the Pharisees had heard that Jesus made and baptized more disciples than John,

2 (Though Jesus himself baptized not, but his disciples,)

3 He left Judea, and departed again into Galilee.

4 And he must needs go through Samaria.

5 Then cometh he to a city of Samaria, which is called Sychar, near to the parcel of ground that Jacob gave to his son Joseph.

6 Now Jacob's well was there. Jesus therefore being wearied with his journey, sat thus on the well: and it was about the sixth hour.

7 There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water: Jesus saith unto her, Give me to drink.

8 For his disciples were gone away unto the city to buy meat.

9 Then saith the woman of Samaria unto him, How is it that thou, being a Jew, askest drink of me, which am a woman of Samaria? (for the Jews have no dealings with the Samaritans.)

10 Jesus answered and said unto her, If thou knewest the gift of God, and who it is that saith to thee, Give me to drink; thou wouldest have asked of him, and he would have given thee living water.

11 The woman saith unto him, Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, and the well is deep: from whence then hast thou that living water?

12 Art thou greater than our father Jacob, which gave us the well, and drank thereof himself, and his children, and his cattle?

13 Jesus answered and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again:

14 But whosoever drinketh of the water that I shall give him shall never thirst: but the water that I shall give him shall be in him a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

15 The woman saith unto him, Sir, give me this water, that I thirst not, neither come hither to draw.

16 Jesus saith unto her, Go, call thy husband, and come hither.

17 The woman answered and said, I have no husband. Jesus said unto her, Thou hast well said, I have no husband:

18 For thou hast had five husbands, and he whom thou now hast is not thy husband: in that saidst thou truly.

19 The woman saith unto him, Sir, I perceive that thou art a prophet.

20 Our fathers worshipped in this mountain; and ye say, that in Jerusalem is the place where men ought to worship.

21 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, believe me, the hour cometh, when ye shall neither in this mountain, nor yet at Jerusalem, worship the Father.

of reason, and declaring a firm persuasion that God, who is the author of all truth, is himself faithful and true, and will not impose delusions upon men.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 4. He must needs go through Samaria;] Unless he would have taken a large circuit through Judea, and the neighbouring parts.

10. He would have given thee living water.] i. e. He would have taught thee the doctrine of salvation contained in the gospel.

11. Sir, thou hast nothing to draw with, &c.] It is plain, by this answer, she did not understand the metaphor, but imagined he spake of real water.

13, 14. Whosoever drinketh of this water shall thirst again.] It was common for our Saviour to introduce his discourses from the objects that surrounded him: and being now sitting by Jacob's well, under the image of living or springing water, he beautifully describes the efficacy of grace.

22 Ye worship ye know not what: we know what we worship; for salvation is of the Jews.

23 But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the Father in spirit and in truth: for the Father seeketh such to worship him.

24 God is a spirit, and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth.

25 The woman saith unto him, I know that Messiah cometh, which is called Christ: when he is come, he will tell us all things.

26 Jesus saith unto her, I that speak unto thee am he.

27 ¶ And upon this came his disciples, and marvelled that he talked with the woman; yet no man said, What seekest thou? or, Why talkest thou with her?

28 The woman then left her water-pot, and went her way into the city, and saith to the men,

29 Come, see a man which told me all things that ever I did: is not this the Christ?

30 Then they went out of the city, and came unto him.

31 ¶ In the mean-while his disciples prayed him, saying, Master, eat.

32 But he said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of.

33 Therefore said the disciples one to another, Hath any man brought him ought to eat?

34 Jesus saith unto them, My meat is to do the will of him that sent me, and to finish his work.

35 Say not ye, There are yet four months, and then cometh harvest? behold, I say unto you, Lift up your eyes, and look on the fields; for they are white already to harvest.

36 And he that reapeth receiveth wages, and gathereth fruit unto life eternal; that both he that soweth, and he that reapeth, may rejoice together.

37 And herein is that saying true, One soweth, and another reapeth.

38 I sent you to reap that whereon ye bestowed no labour: other men laboured, and ye are entered into their labours.

39 ¶ And many of the Samaritans of that city believed on him, for the saying of the woman, which testified, He told me all that ever I did.

40 So when the Samaritans were come unto him, they besought him that he would tarry with them: and he abode there two days.

41 And many more believed, because of his own word;

42 And said unto the woman, Now we believe; not because of thy saying: for we have heard him ourselves, and know that this is indeed the Christ, the Saviour of the world.

43 ¶ Now after two days he departed thence, and went into Galilee:

44 For Jesus himself testified, that a prophet hath no honour in his own country.

45 Then, when he was come into Galilee, the Galileans received him, having seen all the things that he did at Jerusalem at the feast: for they also went unto the feast.

46 So Jesus came again into Cana of Galilee, where he made the water wine. And there was a certain nobleman, whose son was sick at Capernaum.

47 When he heard that Jesus was come out of Judea into Galilee, he went unto him, and besought him that he would come down and heal his son: for he was at the point of death.

48 Then said Jesus unto him, Except ye see signs and wonders, ye will not believe.

49 The nobleman saith unto him, Sir, come down ere my child die.

50 Jesus saith unto him, Go thy way; thy son liveth.

And the man believed the word that Jesus had spoken unto him, and he went his way.

51 And as he was now going down, his servants met him, and told him, saying, Thy son liveth.

52 Then enquired he of them the hour when he began to amend: and they said unto him, Yesterday at the seventh hour the fever left him.

53 So the father knew that it was at the same hour in the which Jesus said unto him, Thy son liveth; and himself believed, and his whole house.

54 This is again the second miracle that Jesus did, when he was come out of Judea into Galilee.

C H A P. V.

Jesus cureth him that was diseased eight and thirty years.

AFTER this there was a feast of the Jews; and Jesus went up to Jerusalem.

2 Now there is at Jerusalem by the sheep-market a pool, which is called in the Hebrew tongue, Bethesda, having five porches.

3 In these lay a great multitude of impotent folk, of blind, halt, withered, waiting for the moving of the water.

4 For an angel went down at a certain season into the pool, and troubled the water: whosoever then first after the troubling of the water stepped in, was made whole of whatsoever disease he had.

5 And a certain man was there, which had an infirmity thirty and eight years.

6 When Jesus saw him lie, and knew that he had been now a long time in that case, he saith unto him, Wilt thou be made whole?

7 The impotent man answered him, Sir, I have no man, when the water is troubled, to put me into the pool: but while I am coming, another steppeth down before me.

8 Jesus saith unto him, Rise, take up thy bed, and walk.

9 And immediately the man was made whole, and took up his bed, and walked: and on the same day was the sabbath.

10 ¶ The Jews therefore said unto him that was cured, It is the sabbath-day; it is not lawful for thee to carry thy bed.

11 He answered them, He that made me whole, the same said unto me, Take up thy bed and walk.

12 Then asked they him, What man is that which said unto thee, Take up thy bed and walk?

13 And he that was healed wist not who it was: for Jesus had conveyed himself away, a multitude being in that place.

14 Afterward Jesus findeth him in the temple, and said unto him, Behold, thou art made whole: sin no more, lest a worse thing come unto thee.

15 The man departed, and told the Jews that it was Jesus which had made him whole.

16 And therefore did the Jews persecute Jesus, and sought to slay him, because he had done these things on the sabbath-day.

17 ¶ But Jesus answered them, My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.

18 Therefore the Jews sought the more to kill him, because he not only had broken the sabbath, but said also, that God was his Father, making himself equal with God.

19 Then answered Jesus, and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise.

20 For the Father loveth the Son, and sheweth him all things that himself doeth: and he will shew him greater works than these, that ye may marvel.

21 For as the Father raiseth up the dead, and quickeneth them: even so the Son quickeneth whom he will.

3. The moving of the water.] This pool was probably remarkable for some mineral virtue attending the water, which being at some seasons miraculously stirred, had the virtue of curing the person that first went into it after the commotion.

17. My Father worketh hitherto, &c.] His meaning is, You have a very wrong notion of the true sabbatical rest which God has commanded. From his work of creation God does indeed now rest; but in acts of providence, preservation, government, and doing good to his creatures, in these things my Father worketh hitherto, and will work for ever; and in these instances I also work, and every good man works, both on the sabbath-day and continually.

22 For the Father judgeth no man; but hath committed all judgment unto the Son:

23 That all men should honour the Son, even as they honour the Father. He that honoureth not the Son, honoureth not the Father which hath sent him.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that heareth my word, and believeth on him that sent me, hath everlasting life, and shall not come into condemnation; but is passed from death unto life.

25 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God: and they that hear shall live.

26 For as the Father hath life in himself; so hath he given to the Son to have life in himself;

27 And hath given him authority to execute judgment also, because he is the Son of man.

28 Marvel not at this: for the hour is coming, in the which all that are in the graves shall hear his voice,

29 And shall come forth; they that have done good, unto the resurrection of life; and they that have done evil, unto the resurrection of damnation.

30 I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge; and my judgment is just: because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me.

31 ¶ If I bear witness of myself, my witness is not true.

32 There is another that beareth witness of me; and I know that the witness which he witnesseth of me is true.

33 Ye sent unto John, and he bare witness unto the truth.

34 But I receive not testimony from man: but these things I say, that ye might be saved.

35 He was a burning and a shining light; and ye were willing for a season to rejoice in his light.

36 ¶ But I have greater witness than that of John: for the works which the Father hath given me to finish, the same works that I do bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me.

37 And the Father himself, which hath sent me, hath borne witness of me. Ye have neither heard his voice at any time, nor seen his shape.

38 And ye have not his word abiding in you: for whom he hath sent, him ye believe not.

39 ¶ Search the scriptures, for in them ye think ye have eternal life, and they are they which testify of me.

40 And ye will not come to me that ye might have life.

41 I receive not honour from men.

42 But I know you, that ye have not the love of God in you.

43 I am come in my Father's name, and ye receive me not: if another shall come in his own name, him ye will receive.

44 How can ye believe, which receive honour one of another, and seek not the honour that cometh from God only?

45 Do not think that I will accuse you to the Father: there is one that accuseth you, even Moses, in whom ye trust.

46 For had ye believed Moses, ye would have believed me: for he wrote of me.

47 But if ye believe not his writings, how shall ye believe my words?

Christ feedeth five thousand.

AFTER these things Jesus went over the sea of Galilee, which is the sea of Tiberias.

2 And a great multitude followed him, because they saw his miracles which he did on them that were diseased.

3 And Jesus went up into a mountain, and there he sat with his disciples.

25. The hour is coming, &c.] The time is at hand when, by the preaching of the doctrine of the Son of God, many who were dead in sin, and falling into everlasting destruction, shall be called back to the inheritance of eternal life.

28. The hour is coming, &c.] Hereafter all mankind, even all that ever did or shall live, shall hear my voice at once, and be raised out of their graves, and shall stand before my judgment seat, and give an account of all their works.

31. My witness is not true:] It is not to be admitted as true.

4 And the passover, a feast of the Jews, was nigh.

5 ¶ When Jesus then lifted up his eyes, and saw a great company come unto him, he saith unto Philip, Whence shall we buy bread, that these may eat?

6 (And this he said to prove him: for he himself knew what he would do.)

7 Philip answered him, Two hundred pennyworth of bread is not sufficient for them, that every one of them may take a little.

8 One of his disciples, Andrew, Simon Peter's brother, saith unto him,

9 There is a lad here, which hath five barley-loaves, and two small fishes; but what are they among so many?

10 And Jesus said, Make the men sit down. Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, in number about five thousand.

11 And Jesus took the loaves; and, when he had given thanks, he distributed to the disciples, and the disciples to them that were set down; and likewise of the fishes, as much as they would.

12 When they were filled, he said unto his disciples, Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost.

13 Therefore they gathered them together, and filled twelve baskets with the fragments of the five barley-loaves, which remained over and above unto them that had eaten.

14 Then those men, when they had seen the miracle that Jesus did, said, This is of a truth that Prophet that should come into the world.

15 ¶ When Jesus, therefore, perceived that they would come and take him by force to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

16 And when even was now come, his disciples went down unto the sea,

17 And entered into a ship, and went over the sea toward Capernaum: and it was now dark, and Jesus was not come to them.

18 And the sea arose, by reason of a great wind that blew.

19 So when they had rowed about five and twenty, or thirty furlongs, they see Jesus walking on the sea, and drawing nigh unto the ship; and they were afraid.

20 But he saith unto them, It is I; be not afraid.

21 Then they willingly received him into the ship: and immediately the ship was at the land whither they went.

22 ¶ The day following, when the people which stood on the other side of the sea saw that there was none other boat there, save that one whereinto his disciples were entered, and that Jesus went not with his disciples into the boat, but that his disciples were gone away alone:

23 (Howbeit there came other boats from Tiberias, nigh unto the place where they did eat bread, after that the Lord had given thanks.)

24 When the people therefore saw that Jesus was not there, neither his disciples, they also took shipping, and came to Capernaum, seeking for Jesus.

25 And when they had found him on the other side of the sea, they said unto him, Rabbi, when camest thou hither?

26 Jesus answered them, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Ye seek me, not because ye saw the miracles, but because ye did eat of the loaves, and were filled.

27 Labour not for the meat which perisheth, but for that meat which endureth unto everlasting life, which the Son of man shall give unto you: for him hath God the Father sealed.

28 Then said they unto him, What shall we do, that we might work the works of God?

29 Jesus answered and said unto them, This is the work of God, that ye believe on him whom he hath sent.

30 They

32. There is another that beareth witness of me:] i. e. John the Baptist.

40. Ye will not come, &c.] The reason why ye will not believe on me, and embrace the conditions of eternal life, is not for want of sufficient means of conviction; but only because of your own inexcusable prejudices, wilful obstinacy, and incurable love and affection to the world.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 15. Make him a king.] He refused to be made a king, because his kingdom was not of this world.

30 They said therefore unto him, What sign shewest thou then, that we may see, and believe thee? what dost thou work?

31 Our fathers did eat manna in the desert; as it is written, He gave them bread from heaven to eat.

32 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Moses gave you not that bread from heaven; but my Father giveth you the true bread from heaven.

33 For the bread of God is he which cometh down from heaven, and giveth life unto the world.

34 Then said they unto him, Lord, evermore give us this bread.

35 And Jesus said unto them, I am the bread of life: he that cometh to me shall never hunger; and he that believeth on me shall never thirst.

36 But I said unto you, that ye also have seen me, and believe not.

37 All that the Father giveth me shall come to me; and him that cometh to me I will in no wise cast out.

38 For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me.

39 And this is the Father's will which hath sent me, that of all which he hath given me I should lose nothing, but should raise it up again at the last day.

40 And this is the will of him that sent me, that every one which seeth the Son, and believeth on him, may have everlasting life: and I will raise him up at the last day.

41 The Jews then murmured at him, because he said, I am the bread which came down from heaven.

42 And they said, Is not this Jesus the son of Joseph, whose father and mother we know? how is it then that he saith, I came down from heaven?

43 Jesus therefore answered and said unto them, Murmur not among yourselves.

44 No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day.

45 It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me.

46 Not that any man hath seen the Father, save he which is of God; he hath seen the Father.

47 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me hath everlasting life.

48 I am that bread of life.

49 Your fathers did eat manna in the wilderness, and are dead.

50 This is the bread which cometh down from heaven, that a man may eat thereof, and not die.

51 I am the living bread which came down from heaven. If any man eat of this bread, he shall live for ever: and the bread that I will give is my flesh, which I will give for the life of the world.

52 The Jews therefore strove among themselves, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat?

53 Then Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you.

54 Whoso eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day.

55 For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed.

56 He that eateth my flesh, and drinketh my blood, dwelleth in me, and I in him.

57 As the living Father hath sent me, and I live by the Father; so, he that eateth me, even he shall live by me.

58 This is that bread which came down from heaven: not as your fathers did eat manna, and are dead. He that eateth of this bread shall live for ever.

59 These things said he in the synagogue, as he taught in Capernaum.

60 Many therefore of his disciples, when they had heard this, said, This is an hard saying; who can hear it?

61 When Jesus knew in himself that his disciples murmured at it, he said unto them, Doth this offend you?

62 What and if ye shall see the Son of man ascend up where he was before?

63 It is the Spirit that quickeneth, the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit, and they are life.

64 But there are some of you that believe not. For Jesus knew from the beginning who they were that believed not, and who should betray him.

65 And he said, Therefore said I unto you, That no man can come unto me, except it were given unto him of my Father.

66 ¶ From that time many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him.

67 Then said Jesus unto the twelve, Will ye also go away?

68 Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? thou hast the words of eternal life.

69 And we believe, and are sure, that thou art that Christ, the Son of the living God.

70 Jesus answered them, Have not I chosen you twelve, and one of you is a devil?

71 He spake of Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon: for he it was that should betray him, being one of the twelve.

C H A P. VII.

Christ teacheth in the temple.

AFTER these things Jesus walked in Galilee: for he would not walk in Jewry, because the Jews sought to kill him.

2 Now the Jews' feast of tabernacles was at hand.

3 His brethren therefore said unto him, Depart hence, and go into Judea, that thy disciples also may see the works that thou doest.

4 For there is no man that doeth any thing in secret, and he himself seeketh to be known openly: if thou do these things, shew thyself to the world.

5 For neither did his brethren believe in him.

6 Then Jesus said unto them, My time is not yet come: but your time is alway ready.

7 The world cannot hate you; but me it hateth, because I testify of it, that the works thereof are evil.

8 Go ye up unto this feast; I go not up yet unto this feast; for my time is not yet full come.

9 When he had said these words unto them, he abode still in Galilee.

10 ¶ But when his brethren were gone up, then went he also up unto the feast, not openly, but as it were in secret.

11 Then the Jews sought him at the feast, and said, Where is he?

12 And there was much murmuring among the people

con-

31. Our fathers did eat manna, &c.] It is true, thou gavest us in our need bread to eat, making five loaves serve about five thousand of us: but what was this to Moses feeding our fathers in the desert, who were vastly a greater number, and that for forty years together; and with manna also, which was not earthly food, such as we ate yesterday, but bread from heaven?

35. Shall never hunger.] Whosoever believeth on me, and embraceth my doctrine, and obeyeth my instructions, shall never want any thing necessary towards obtaining eternal happiness.

37. All that the Father giveth me, &c.] My Father hath sent me into the world to save mankind; and all such as are of an humble and teachable disposition, prepared and capable to embrace the salvation which I propose to them, these will certainly learn of me; and not one of them shall want means requisite for his conviction and instruction.

41. The Jews then murmured, &c.] The Jews, seeing now plainly, that by the bread of life coming down from heaven he meant only himself and his doctrine; and that, instead of feeding their bodies, he promised them all spiritual food to instruct and nourish their souls; were disappointed, and set themselves to disparage him, and took occasion to murmur against him.

44. No man can come to me, &c.] God did not send me into the world to force or compel men, but only to preach such doctrine, and perform such works, as should be sufficient to convince and bring to salvation men of plain honesty and sincere intention.

56. He that eateth my flesh, &c.] To eat my flesh and drink my blood, in this sense, is to become spiritually a member of my body, and consequently to be made partaker of my life and immortality.

58. This is that bread which came down from heaven, &c.] This is the true bread of life, even the word and doctrine which God has sent you from heaven.

70. Have not I chosen you twelve, &c.] Or elected you twelve, and one of you, under the influence of the malignant spirit of darkness, will turn my betrayer.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verse 1. He would not walk in Jewry, &c.] Here, and in some other places, by Jews are meant the inhabitants of Judea, as distinguished from those of Galilee.

5. Neither did his brethren believe him.] This is astonishing—but they expected the Messiah would be a temporal prince.

concerning him: for some said, He is a good man: others said, Nay; but he deceiveth the people.

13 Howbeit, no man spake openly of him, for fear of the Jews.

14 ¶ Now, about the midst of the feast, Jesus went up into the temple and taught.

15 And the Jews marvelled, saying, How knoweth this man letters, having never learned?

16 Jesus answered them, and said, My doctrine is not mine, but his that sent me.

17 If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself.

18 He that speaketh of himself seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh his glory that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him.

19 Did not Moses give you the law, and yet none of you keepeth the law? Why go ye about to kill me?

20 The people answered and said, Thou hast a devil: who goeth about to kill thee?

21 Jesus answered and said unto them, I have done one work, and ye all marvel.

22 Moses therefore gave unto you circumcision, (not because it is of Moses, but of the fathers,) and ye on the sabbath-day circumcise a man.

23 If a man on the sabbath-day receive circumcision, that the law of Moses should not be broken; are ye angry at me, because I have made a man every whit whole on the sabbath-day?

24 Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment.

25 Then said some of them of Jerusalem, Is not this he whom they seek to kill?

26 But, lo, he speaketh boldly, and they say nothing unto him: do the rulers know indeed that this is the very Christ?

27 Howbeit, we know this man whence he is: but when Christ cometh, no man knoweth whence he is.

28 Then cried Jesus in the temple as he taught, saying, Ye both know me, and ye know whence I am: and I am not come of myself, but he that sent me is true, whom ye know not.

29 But I know him, for I am from him, and he hath sent me.

30 Then they sought to take him: but no man laid hands on him, because his hour was not yet come.

31 And many of the people believed on him, and said, When Christ cometh, will he do more miracles than these which this man hath done?

32 ¶ The Pharisees heard that the people murmured such things concerning him: and the Pharisees and the chief priests sent officers to take him.

33 Then said Jesus unto them, Yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto him that sent me.

34 Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and where I am, thither ye cannot come.

35 Then said the Jews among themselves, Whither will he go, that we shall not find him? will he go unto the dispersed among the Gentiles, and teach the Gentiles?

36 What manner of saying is this that he said, Ye shall seek me, and shall not find me: and, Where I am, thither ye cannot come?

37 In the last day, that great day of the feast, Jesus stood and cried, saying, If any man thirst, let him come unto me and drink.

38 He that believeth on me, as the scripture hath said, out of his belly shall flow rivers of living water.

39 (But this spake he of the Spirit, which they that believe on him should receive: for the Holy Ghost was not yet given, because that Jesus was not yet glorified.)

40 ¶ Many of the people therefore, when they heard this saying, said, Of a truth this is the Prophet.

41 Others said, This is the Christ. But some said, Shall Christ come out of Galilee?

42 Hath not the scripture said, that Christ cometh of the seed of David, and out of the town of Beth-lehem, where David was?

43 So there was a division among the people because of him.

44 And some of them would have taken him; but no man laid hands on him.

45 ¶ Then came the officers to the chief priests and Pharisees; and they said unto them, Why have ye not brought him?

46 The officers answered, Never man spake like this man.

47 Then answered them the Pharisees, Are ye also deceived?

48 Have any of the rulers, or of the Pharisees, believed on him?

49 But this people who knoweth not the law are cursed.

50 Nicodemus saith unto them, (he that came to Jesus by night, being one of them,)

51 Doth our law judge any man before it hear him, and know what he doeth?

52 They answered and said unto him, Art thou also of Galilee? Search, and look: for out of Galilee ariseth no prophet.

53 And every man went unto his own house.

C H A P. VIII.

Christ delivereth the woman taken in adultery.

JESUS went unto the mount of Olives:

2 And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him: and he sat down and taught them.

3 And the scribes and Pharisees brought unto him a woman taken in adultery; and when they had set her in the midst,

4 They say unto him, Master, this woman was taken in adultery, in the very act.

5 Now Moses in the law commanded us, that such should be stoned: but what sayest thou?

6 This they said, tempting him, that they might have to accuse him. But Jesus stooped down, and with his finger wrote on the ground, as though he heard them not.

7 So when they continued asking him, he lifted up himself, and said unto them, He that is without sin among you, let him first cast a stone at her.

8 And again he stooped down, and wrote on the ground.

9 And they which heard it, being convicted by their own conscience, went out one by one, beginning at the eldest, even unto the last: and Jesus was left alone, and the woman standing in the midst.

10 When Jesus had lifted up himself, and saw none but the woman, he said unto her, Woman, where are those thine accusers? hath no man condemned thee?

derness, and also as an offering, with prayers, for rain against the following seed-time: Jesus observing this solemnity, stood in a convenient place; and, alluding to the rite they were at present employed in, cried aloud, saying, If any man thirst, &c.

38. Out of his belly;] Or, from within him. The belly is frequently put for the mind or heart.

40. Never man spake like this man.] Plutarch mentions it as a memorable proof of the extraordinary eloquence of Mark Anthony, when Marius sent soldiers to kill him, that when he began to plead for his life, he disarmed their resolution, and melted them into tears: but these officers are thus vanquished, merely by hearing Christ's gracious discourses to the people, which is a circumstance much more remarkable.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 12. I am the light of the world, &c.] As he that travels in the day-time cannot easily err, but may see both whither and which way he goes; so whosoever believes and follows my doctrine shall not remain under any uncertainty concerning the way to salvation, but shall have a sufficient knowledge of all things necessary to eternal life.

15. How knoweth this man letters?] Our Saviour taught in the temple with such strength of expression and clearness of argument, with such evidence of truth and such authority of speech, that all the people, and even his very enemies, were astonished, and said, How comes this man to understand any thing of the scriptures, who never was the disciple of any learned professor of the law? and how comes he to pretend to expound the prophets, who never was taught, or educated, in any of the schools of the scribes?

18. He that speaketh of himself, &c.] An impartial person will easily believe, that a doctrine fitted not to please and flatter men, but only to correct their errors and reform their lives, and to promote the glory of God, without respect to the opinion of men, or to any temporal advantages, certainly comes from God.

37. In the last day, &c.] Which was the day of an holy convocation, it being the custom of the people on that day to fetch water from Siloam; some of which they drank with loud acclamations, and some of which they brought for a drink-offering to God, both as a commemoration of their fathers being miraculously relieved when they thirsted in the wil-

No. 53.

11 She said, No man, Lord. And Jesus said unto her, Neither do I condemn thee: go, and sin no more.

12 ¶ Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.

13 The Pharisees therefore said unto him, Thou bearest record of thyself; thy record is not true.

14 Jesus answered and said unto them, Though I bear record of myself, yet my record is true: for I know whence I came, and whither I go; but ye cannot tell whence I come, and whither I go.

15 Ye judge after the flesh; I judge no man.

16 And yet if I judge, my judgment is true; for I am not alone, but I and the Father that sent me.

17 It is also written in your law, that the testimony of two men is true.

18 I am one that bear witness of myself, and the Father that sent me beareth witness of me.

19 Then said they unto him, Where is thy Father? Jesus answered, Ye neither know me, nor my Father: if ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also.

20 These words spake Jesus in the treasury as he taught in the temple: and no man laid hands on him, for his hour was not yet come.

21 Then said Jesus again unto them, I go my way, and ye shall seek me, and shall die in your sins: whither I go ye cannot come.

22 Then said the Jews, Will he kill himself? because he saith, Whither I go ye cannot come.

23 And he said unto them, Ye are from beneath; I am from above: ye are of this world; I am not of this world.

24 I said therefore unto you, that ye shall die in your sins: for if ye believe not that I am he, ye shall die in your sins.

25 Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus saith unto them, Even the same that I said unto you from the beginning.

26 I have many things to say, and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true: and I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him.

27 (They understood not that he spake to them of the Father.)

28 Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myself; but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things.

29 And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone: for I do always those things that please him.

30 As he spake these words, many believed on him.

31 ¶ Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed;

32 And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.

33 ¶ They answered him, We be Abraham's seed, and were never in bondage to any man: how sayest thou, Ye shall be made free?

34 Jesus answered them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Whosoever committeth sin is the servant of sin.

35 And the servant abideth not in the house for ever: but the Son abideth ever.

36 If the Son therefore shall make you free, ye shall be free indeed.

37 I know that ye are Abraham's seed; but ye seek to kill me, because my word hath no place in you.

38 I speak that which I have seen with my Father: and ye do that which ye have seen with your father.

39 They answered and said unto him, Abraham is our father. Jesus saith unto them, If ye were Abraham's children, ye would do the works of Abraham.

40 But now ye seek to kill me, a man that hath told you the truth, which I have heard of God: this did not Abraham.

41 Ye do the deeds of your father. Then said they to him, We be not born of fornication; we have one Father, even God.

42 Jesus said unto them, If God were your Father, ye would love me: for I proceeded forth and came from God; neither came I of myself, but he sent me.

43 Why do ye not understand my speech? even because ye cannot hear my word.

44 Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father ye will do: he was a murderer from the beginning, and abode not in the truth; because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie, he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father of it.

45 And because I tell you the truth, ye believe me not.

46 Which of you convinceth me of sin? And if I say the truth, why do ye not believe me?

47 He that is of God, heareth God's words: ye therefore hear them not, because ye are not of God.

48 Then answered the Jews, and said unto him, Say we not well that thou art a Samaritan, and hast a devil?

49 Jesus answered, I have not a devil; but I honour my Father, and ye do dishonour me.

50 And I seek not mine own glory: there is one that seeketh and judgeth.

51 Verily, verily, I say unto you, If a man keep my saying he shall never see death.

52 Then said the Jews unto him, Now we know that thou hast a devil. Abraham is dead, and the prophets; and thou sayest, If a man keep my saying, he shall never taste of death.

53 Art thou greater than our father Abraham, which is dead? and the prophets are dead: whom makest thou thyself?

54 Jesus answered, If I honour myself, my honour is nothing: it is my Father that honoureth me, of whom ye say, that he is your God:

55 Yet ye have not known him; but I know him: and if I should say, I know him not, I shall be a liar like unto you: but I know him, and keep his saying.

56 Your father Abraham rejoiced to see my day; and he saw it, and was glad.

57 Then said the Jews unto him, Thou art not yet fifty years old, and hast thou seen Abraham?

58 Jesus said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Before Abraham was, I am.

59 Then took they up stones to cast at him: but Jesus hid himself, and went out of the temple, going through the midst of them, and so passed by.

C H A P. IX.

The man born blind restored to sight.

AND as Jesus passed by, he saw a man which was blind from his birth.

2 And his disciples asked him, saying, Master, who did sin, this man, or his parents, that he was born blind?

3 Jesus answered, Neither hath this man sinned, nor his parents: but that the works of God should be made manifest in him.

4 I must work the works of him that sent me while it is day: the night cometh when no man can work.

5 As

15. Ye judge after the flesh, &c.] Ye judge according to outward appearance; I, as yet, judge no man.

32. Ye shall know the truth, &c.] As by believing me, you begin to know the truth; so by doing according to my word, you shall know it more perfectly: and by this means you shall gain the greatest and most desirable freedom in the world.

37. I know that ye are Abraham's seed, &c.] By natural descent: but ye go about to destroy me, and that for no other reason but because my doctrine is too holy and good for you; and because your minds are so possessed with worldly affections and lusts that it can take no place in you.

38. I speak that which I have seen, &c.] By this he intimated, that their works as much resembled the nature of the devil, as his doctrine answered to that of God.

41. He be not born of fornication;] i. e. Of an idolatrous race.

46. Which of you convinceth, &c.] If I have done any thing that makes me unworthy of belief, why do not some of you convince me of it?

51. Shall never see death,] But shall assuredly be entitled to eternal life, and immediately advanced to so glorious and happy a state, that the dissolution of his body shall, with respect to him, hardly deserve to be called death.

53. Art thou greater than our father?] Abraham and the prophets could not so much as make themselves immortal; and thou pretends to make others so.

56. Your father Abraham rejoiced, &c.] The original signifies, he earnestly desired: and so it should be rendered, and then the tautology is avoided—he saw it, i. e. by faith.

59. Jesus hid himself;] Rather, conveyed himself away.

5 As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

6 When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay,

7 And said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam, (which is, by interpretation, Sent :) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing.

8 ¶ The neighbours therefore, and they which before had seen him, that he was blind, said, Is not this he that sat and begged?

9 Some said, This is he: others said, He is like him: but he said, I am he.

10 Therefore said they unto him, How were thine eyes opened?

11 He answered and said, A man that is called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam and wash: and I went and washed, and I received sight.

12 Then said they unto him, Where is he? He said, I know not.

13 ¶ They brought to the Pharisees him that aforetime was blind.

14 And it was the sabbath-day when Jesus made the clay and opened his eyes.

15 Then again the Pharisees also asked him how he had received his sight. He said unto them, He put clay upon mine eyes, and I washed, and do see.

16 Therefore said some of the Pharisees, This man is not of God, because he keepeth not the sabbath-day. Others said, How can a man that is a sinner do such miracles? And there was a division among them.

17 They say unto the blind man again, What sayest thou of him? that he hath opened thine eyes? He said, He is a prophet.

18 But the Jews did not believe concerning him, that he had been blind and received his sight, until they called the parents of him that had received his sight.

19 And they asked them, saying, Is this your son, who ye say was born blind? how then doth he now see?

20 His parents answered them and said, We know that this is our son, and that he was born blind;

21 But by what means he now seeth we know not; or who hath opened his eyes we know not: he is of age, ask him; he shall speak for himself.

22 These words spake his parents, because they feared the Jews: for the Jews had agreed already, that if any man did confess that he was Christ he should be put out of the synagogue.

23 Therefore said his parents, He is of age, ask him.

24 Then again called they the man that was blind, and said unto him, Give God the praise: we know that this man is a sinner.

25 He answered and said, Whether he be a sinner or no, I know not: one thing I know, that, whereas I was blind, now I see.

26 Then said they to him again, What did he to thee? how opened he thine eyes?

27 He answered them, I have told you already; and ye did not hear: wherefore would ye hear it again? will ye also be his disciples?

28 Then they reviled him, and said, Thou art his disciple; but we are Moses' disciples.

29 We know that God spake unto Moses: as for this fellow, we know not from whence he is.

30 The man answered and said unto them, Why, herein is a marvellous thing, that ye know not from whence he is, and yet he hath opened mine eyes.

31 Now, we know that God heareth not sinners: but if any man be a worshipper of God, and doeth his will, him he heareth.

32 Since the world began was it not heard that any man opened the eyes of one that was born blind.

33 If this man were not of God, he could do nothing.

34 ¶ They answered and said unto him, Thou wast altogether born in sins, and dost thou teach us? And they cast him out.

35 ¶ Jesus heard that they had cast him out; and when he had found him, he said unto him, Dost thou believe on the Son of God?

36 He answered and said, Who is he, Lord, that I might believe on him?

37 And Jesus said unto him, Thou hast both seen him, and it is he that talketh with thee.

38 And he said, Lord, I believe. And he worshipped him.

39 ¶ And Jesus said, For judgment I am come into this world: that they which see not, might see; and that they which see, might be made blind.

40 And some of the Pharisees which were with him heard these words, and said unto him, Are we blind also?

41 Jesus said unto them, If ye were blind, ye should have no sin: but now ye say, We see; therefore your sin remaineth.

C H A P. X.

Christ is the door, and the good shepherd.

VERILY, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheep-fold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber.

2 But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep.

3 To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out.

4 And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him; for they know his voice.

5 And a stranger will they not follow, but will flee from him: for they know not the voice of strangers.

6 This parable spake Jesus unto them: but they understood not what things they were which he spake unto them.

7 Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.

8 All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers; but the sheep did not hear them.

9 I am the door; by me, if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture.

10 The

and, on the contrary, they that think they see best might be discovered to be truly blind.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 1. He that entereth not by the door, &c.] Whosoever undertakes to feed and guide the flock of God, to teach and instruct his people, and yet goes not to them in the way that God has appointed, but will go in a by-way of his own invention, is certainly, notwithstanding any pretences of zeal or authority, an enemy and hinderer of men's salvation; for, without question, every one that sincerely, and free from worldly designs, intends only to instruct men in the way of salvation, will use solely such methods as God shall think fit to appoint, and entirely submit to his directions.

3. To him the porter openeth, &c.] Thus to all sincere preachers of righteousness, who come not with any worldly designs, but wholly in the way which God has appointed, the Holy Ghost openeth the door of inspiration, and sends down upon them the healthful spirit of his grace. The sheep-folds to be hired in the market-place are here probably alluded to.

He calleth his own sheep by name.] The eastern shepherds gave particular names to their sheep, as most men do to their horses and dogs.

7. I am the door of the sheep.] It is by faith in Christ that we must enter into the sheep-fold of our Lord, and that the Christian religion is the only way to salvation.

16. Other

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IX.

Verse 17. He said, He is a prophet, &c.] The man answered, I suppose he must needs be a prophet; for such a cure as this cannot, I presume, be the effect either of accident or art.

22. These words spake his parents, &c.] This the man's parents said with great cautiousness and fear; for the chief priests and Pharisees had already agreed in council, that whosoever believed Jesus to be the Messiah, should immediately be excommunicated, and declared an apostate from their religion.

24. Give God the praise—this man is a sinner.] Give God the praise, who has vouchsafed you so great and wonderful a mercy, and freely confess the fraud; if there be any collusion in this matter; but do not think that this Jesus, who you say pretends to have cured you, was at all the author or instrument of this blessing; for we are well assured that he is a wicked man and a deceiver, being a breaker of the sabbath, and a neglecter of our traditions.

28. We are Moses' disciples.] Hereby they craftily, but maliciously and falsely, insinuated, that there was such an opposition between Moses and Jesus, that it was impossible for the same persons to be disciples of both.

34. They cast him out.] They excommunicated him.

39. Jesus said, For judgment I am come, &c.] That by means of my coming into the world, they that were blind might receive their sight;

10 The thief cometh not but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.

11 I am the good shepherd: the good shepherd giveth his life for the sheep.

12 But he that is an hireling, and not the shepherd, whose own the sheep are not, seeth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth: and the wolf catcheth them, and scattereth the sheep.

13 The hireling fleeth, because he is an hireling, and careth not for the sheep.

14 I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine.

15 As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep.

16 And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd.

17 Therefore doth my Father love me, because I lay down my life, that I might take it again.

18 No man taketh it from me, but I lay it down of myself: I have power to lay it down, and I have power to take it again. This commandment have I received of my Father.

19 ¶ There was a division therefore again among the Jews for these sayings.

20 And many of them said, He hath a devil, and is mad; why hear ye him?

21 Others said, These are not the words of him that hath a devil: can a devil open the eyes of the blind?

22 ¶ And it was at Jerusalem the feast of the dedication, and it was winter.

23 And Jesus walked in the temple in Solomon's porch.

24 Then came the Jews round about him, and said unto him, How long dost thou make us to doubt? If thou be the Christ, tell us plainly.

25 Jesus answered them, I told you, and ye believed not: the works that I do in my Father's name, they bear witness of me.

26 But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep, as I said unto you.

27 My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me.

28 And I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand.

29 My Father which gave them me is greater than all; and no man is able to pluck them out of my Father's hand.

30 I and my Father are one.

31 ¶ Then the Jews took up stones again to stone him.

32 Jesus answered them, Many good works have I shewed you from my Father; for which of those works do ye stone me?

33 The Jews answered him, saying, For a good work we stone thee not; but for blasphemy, and because that thou, being a man, makest thyself God.

34 Jesus answered them, Is it not written in your law, I said, Ye are gods?

35 If he called them gods unto whom the word of God came, and the scripture cannot be broken;

36 Say ye of him whom the Father hath sanctified, and sent into the world, Thou blasphemest; because I said, I am the Son of God?

37 If I do not the works of my Father, believe me not.

38 But if I do, though ye believe not me, believe the works; that ye may know and believe that the Father is in me, and I in him.

16. Other sheep I have, &c.] Besides those of God's ancient flock, the Israelites, who shall believe and obey me, and by me be brought to salvation, there are also other sheep, viz. among the Gentiles, who shall at length hear the sound of my doctrine, and become my disciples.

28. Neither shall any pluck them out of my hand.] The sheep of Christ are exposed to so great danger from the infernal lion, that doubtless this text most eminently refers to the care of their shepherd to guard them from his assaults.

40. Went—where John at first baptized.] Probably he chose that place on this account, that John had there been preparing a way for him, by pointing out Christ as the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sins of the world.

39 Therefore they sought again to take him; but he escaped out of their hand,

40 And went away again beyond Jordan, into the place where John at first baptized; and there he abode.

41 And many resorted unto him; and said, John did no miracle; but all things that John spake of this man were true.

42 And many believed on him there.

CHAP. XI.

Christ raiseth Lazarus from the dead.

NOW a certain man was sick, named Lazarus, of Bethany, the town of Mary and her sister Martha.

2 (It was that Mary which anointed the Lord with ointment, and wiped his feet with her hair, whose brother Lazarus was sick.)

3 Therefore his sisters sent unto him, saying, Lord, behold, he whom thou lovest is sick.

4 When Jesus heard that, he said, This sickness is not unto death, but for the glory of God, that the Son of God might be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus.

6 When he had heard therefore that he was sick, he abode two days still in the same place where he was.

7 Then after that saith he to his disciples, Let us go into Judea again.

8 His disciples say unto him, Master, the Jews of late sought to stone thee; and goest thou thither again?

9 Jesus answered, Are there not twelve hours in the day? If any man walk in the day, he stumbleth not, because he seeth the light of this world.

10 But if a man walk in the night, he stumbleth, because there is no light in him.

11 These things said he: and after that, he saith unto them, Our friend Lazarus sleepeth; but I go, that I may awake him out of sleep.

12 Then said his disciples, Lord, if he sleep he shall do well.

13 Howbeit Jesus spake of his death: but they thought that he had spoken of taking of rest in sleep.

14 Then said Jesus unto them plainly, Lazarus is dead:

15 And I am glad for your sakes that I was not there, to the intent ye may believe; nevertheless, let us go unto him.

16 Then said Thomas, which is called Didymus, unto his fellow-disciples, Let us also go, that we may die with him.

17 Then, when Jesus came, he found that he had lain in the grave four days already.

18 (Now Bethany was nigh unto Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off.)

19 And many of the Jews came to Martha and Mary, to comfort them concerning their brother.

20 Then Martha, as soon as she heard that Jesus was coming, went and met him: but Mary sat still in the house.

21 Then said Martha unto Jesus, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

22 But I know, that even now, whatsoever thou wilt ask of God, God will give it thee.

23 Jesus saith unto her, Thy brother shall rise again.

24 Martha saith unto him, I know that he shall rise again in the resurrection at the last day.

25 Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live;

26 And

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 6. He abode two days still.] To the end, that Lazarus being dead and buried, the miracle of his resurrection might be incontestible.

19. Many of the Jews.] One reason why our Lord delayed his coming might be, that he might meet a great number of the people there, as, for wise purposes, he determined to make this miracle very public.

24. I know that he shall rise again, &c.] Hence it appears that the resurrection was generally believed by the Jews.

25. I am the resurrection and the life, &c.] I am the author of life, both present and future; and as I have power to raise up all men at last to the general judgment, so I have also power to raise up whomsoever I please at present.

26 And whosoever liveth, and believeth in me, shall never die. Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: I believe that thou art the Christ, the Son of God, which should come into the world.

28 And when she had so said, she went her way, and called Mary her sister secretly, saying, The Master is come, and calleth for thee.

29 As soon as she heard that, she arose quickly, and came unto him.

30 Now Jesus was not yet come into the town, but was in that place where Martha met him.

31 The Jews then which were with her in the house, and comforted her, when they saw Mary that she rose up hastily, and went out, followed her, saying, She goeth unto the grave to weep there.

32 Then when Mary was come where Jesus was, and saw him, she fell down at his feet, saying unto him, Lord, if thou hadst been here, my brother had not died.

33 When Jesus therefore saw her weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and was troubled,

34 And said, Where have ye laid him? They say unto him, Lord, come and see.

35 Jesus wept.

36 Then said the Jews, Behold, how he loved him!

37 And some of them said, Could not this man, which opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that even this man should not have died?

38 Jesus therefore again groaning in himself, cometh to the grave. It was a cave, and a stone lay upon it.

39 Jesus said, Take ye away the stone. Martha, the sister of him that was dead, saith unto him, Lord, by this time he stinketh: for he hath been dead four days.

40 Jesus saith unto her, Said I not unto thee, that, if thou wouldest believe, thou shouldest see the glory of God?

41 Then they took away the stone from the place where the dead was laid. And Jesus lifted up his eyes, and said, Father, I thank thee that thou hast heard me.

42 And I knew that thou hearest me always: but because of the people which stand by I said it, that they may believe that thou hast sent me.

43 And when he had thus spoken, he cried with a loud voice, Lazarus, come forth.

44 And he that was dead came forth, bound hand and foot with grave-clothes: and his face was bound about with a napkin. Jesus saith unto them, Loose him, and let him go.

45 Then many of the Jews which came to Mary, and had seen the things which Jesus did, believed on him.

46 But some of them went their ways to the Pharisees; and told them what things Jesus had done.

47 ¶ Then gathered the chief priests and the Pharisees a council, and said, What do we? for this man doeth many miracles.

48 If we let him thus alone, all men will believe on him; and the Romans shall come and take away both our place and nation.

49 And one of them, named Caiaphas, being the high-priest that same year, said unto them, Ye know nothing at all;

50 Nor consider, that it is expedient for us, that one man should die for the people, and that the whole nation perish not.

51 And this spake he not of himself: but being high-priest that year, he prophesied that Jesus should die for that nation:

52 And not for that nation only, but that also he should gather together in one the children of God that were scattered abroad.

53 Then from that day forth they took counsel together for to put him to death.

54 Jesus therefore walked no more openly among the Jews; but went thence unto a country near to the wilderness, into a city called Ephraim, and there continued with his disciples.

55 ¶ And the Jews' passover was nigh at hand: and many went out of the country up to Jerusalem before the passover, to purify themselves.

56 Then sought they for Jesus, and spake among themselves, as they stood in the temple, What think ye? that he will not come to the feast?

57 Now both the chief priests and the Pharisees had given a commandment, that if any man knew where he were, he should shew it, that they might take him.

C H A P. XII.

Jesus excuseth Mary anointing his feet.

THEN Jesus, six days before the passover, came to Bethany, where Lazarus was which had been dead, whom he raised from the dead.

2 There they made him a supper, and Martha served: but Lazarus was one of them that sat at the table with him.

3 Then took Mary a pound of ointment of spikenard, very costly, and anointed the feet of Jesus, and wiped his feet with her hair: and the house was filled with the odour of the ointment.

4 Then saith one of his disciples, Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, which should betray him,

5 Why was not this ointment sold for three hundred pence, and given to the poor?

6 This he said, not that he cared for the poor; but because he was a thief, and had the bag, and bare what was put therein.

7 Then said Jesus, Let her alone: against the day of my burying hath she kept this.

8 For the poor always ye have with you; but me ye have not always.

9 ¶ Much people of the Jews therefore knew that he was there: and they came, not for Jesus' sake only, but that they might see Lazarus also, whom he had raised from the dead.

10 But the chief priests consulted that they might put Lazarus also to death;

11 Because that by reason of him many of the Jews went away, and believed on Jesus.

12 ¶ On the next day much people that were come to the feast, when they heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem, move; and when he had brought him in this miraculous manner from the tomb, to convince them fully of the truth of his divine power—Loose him, said he, remove those bandages which undeniably prove his death, and let him go. One cannot help thinking that the cry, "Lazarus, come forth," might have produced on all the people present an effect some way similar to that which it had on Lazarus. It raised him from natural death, and might have raised them from the spiritual, by working in them the living principle of faith. Nevertheless, some of them departed as violent enemies to Jesus as they had come, and as firmly resolved to oppose him. We have in this a most amazing instance of incorrigible hardness of heart, and a dreadful confirmation of our Lord's remark, If they hear not Moses and the prophets, neither will they be persuaded though one rose from the dead.

49. The high-priest that same year.] The high-priesthood among the Jews was not annual, but the many revolutions about that time might justify such a manner of expression, which signifies no more than at that time.

51. He prophesied, &c.] As God was wont anciently to communicate his oracles to the high-priest, so he inspired these words into Caiaphas, though he was not himself sensible of the inspiration.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XII.

Verse 5. Three hundred pence.] About nine pounds seven shillings and sixpence, sterling.

26. Shall never die, &c.] Rather, Shall not die for ever.

39. He hath been dead four days.] The word dead is not here in the original, being improperly supplied by the translators. The Greek word, in the former part of the verse, rendered dead, rather signifies, "one who has continued in any state or place four days." Martha's meaning therefore was, that her brother had been in the grave four days; as is plain likewise from verse 17. Providence directed Martha to mention this circumstance before Lazarus was raised, that the greatness of the miracle might be manifest to all that were present; for, if her brother was four days buried, he must have been dead at least six or seven. It is beautiful to observe the gradations in the resurrections of the dead performed by our Lord. The first person whom he raised, Jairus's daughter, had been in the state of the dead only a few hours; the second, namely, the widow of Nain's son, was raised as his friends were carrying him out to burial; but when Jesus recalled Lazarus to life, he had been in the grave no less than four days.

44. He that was dead came forth bound, &c.] It has been frequently objected by infidels, "That he could not come forth when bound with grave-clothes;" for the Jews used to swathe their dead bodies so close, that it was impossible for them to move their feet, supposing them to recover. Jesus called Lazarus, and thus he came forth, bound hand and foot: certainly he who could raise him could easily enable him to 13 Took branches of palm-trees, and went forth to meet him, and cried, Hosanna: Blessed is the King of Israel that cometh in the name of the Lord.

14 And Jesus, when he had found a young ass, sat thereon; as it is written,

15 Fear not, daughter of Zion: behold, thy King cometh, sitting on an ass's colt.

16 These things understood not his disciples at the first: but when Jesus was glorified, then remembered they that these things were written of him, and that they had done these things unto him.

17 The people therefore that was with him when he called Lazarus out of his grave, and raised him from the dead, bare record.

18 For this cause the people also met him, for that they heard that he had done this miracle.

19 The Pharisees therefore said among themselves, Perceive ye how ye prevail nothing? behold, the world is gone after him.

20 ¶ And there were certain Greeks among them that came up to worship at the feast:

21 The same came therefore to Philip, which was of Bethsaida of Galilee, and desired him, saying, Sir, we would see Jesus.

22 Philip cometh and telleth Andrew; and again, Andrew and Philip tell Jesus.

23 ¶ And Jesus answered them, saying, The hour is come that the Son of man should be glorified.

24 Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die, it abideth alone: but if it die, it bringeth forth much fruit.

25 He that loveth his life, shall lose it: and he that hateth his life in this world, shall keep it unto life eternal.

26 If any man serve me, let him follow me; and where I am, there shall also my servant be: if any man serve me, him will my Father honour.

27 Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour: but for this cause came I unto this hour.

28 Father, glorify thy name. Then came there a voice from heaven, saying, I have both glorified it, and will glorify it again.

29 The people, therefore, that stood by and heard it, said, That it thundered: others said, An angel spake to him.

30 Jesus answered and said, This voice came not because of me, but for your sakes.

31 Now is the judgment of this world: now shall the prince of this world be cast out.

32 And I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me.

33 (This he said, signifying what death he should die.)

34 The people answered him, We have heard out of the law, that Christ abideth for ever: and how sayest thou, The Son of man must be lifted up? who is this Son of man?

35 Then Jesus said unto them, Yet a little while is the light with you; walk while ye have the light, lest darkness come upon you: for he that walketh in darkness knoweth not whither he goeth.

36 While ye have light, believe in the light, that ye may be the children of light. These things spake Jesus, and departed, and did hide himself from them.

37 ¶ But though he had done so many miracles before them, yet they believed not on him:

38 That the saying of Esaias the prophet might be fulfilled, which he spake, Lord, who hath believed our report? and to whom hath the arm of the Lord been revealed?

39 Therefore they could not believe, because that Esaias said again,

40 He hath blinded their eyes, and hardened their heart; that they should not see with their eyes, nor understand with their heart, and be converted, and I should heal them.

41 These things said Esaias, when he saw his glory, and spake of him.

42 ¶ Nevertheless, among the chief rulers also many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess him, lest they should be put out of the synagogue.

43 For they loved the praise of men more than the praise of God.

44 ¶ Jesus cried and said, He that believeth on me, believeth not on me, but on him that sent me.

45 And he that seeth me, seeth him that sent me.

46 I am come a light into the world, that whosoever believeth on me should not abide in darkness.

47 And if any man hear my words, and believe not, I judge him not: for I came not to judge the world, but to save the world.

48 He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath one that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day.

49 For I have not spoken of myself; but the Father which sent me, he gave me a commandment, what I should say, and what I should speak.

50 And I know that his commandment is life everlasting: whatsoever I speak therefore, even as the Father said unto me, so I speak.

C H A P. XIII.

Jesus washeth his disciples' feet.

NOW before the feast of the passover, when Jesus knew that his hour was come that he should depart out of this world unto the Father, having loved his own which were in the world, he loved them unto the end.

2 And supper being ended, (the devil having now put into the heart of Judas Iscariot, Simon's son, to betray him,)

3 Jesus knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he was come from God, and went to God;

4 He riseth from supper, and laid aside his garments, and took a towel, and girded himself.

5 After that he poureth water into a bason, and began to wash the disciples' feet, and to wipe them with the towel wherewith he was girded.

6 Then cometh he to Simon Peter; and Peter said unto him, Lord, dost thou wash my feet?

7 Jesus answered and said unto him, What I do thou knowest not now; but thou shalt know hereafter.

8 Peter saith unto him, Thou shalt never wash my feet. Jesus answered him, If I wash thee not, thou hast no part with me.

9 Simon Peter saith unto him, Lord, not my feet only, but also my hands and my head.

10 Jesus saith to him, He that is washed needeth not, save to wash his feet, but is clean every whit: and ye are clean, but not all.

11 For he knew who should betray him: therefore said he, Ye are not all clean.

12 So after he had washed their feet, and had taken his garments, and was set down again, he said unto them, Know ye what I have done to you?

13 Ye call me Master and Lord: and ye say well; for so I am.

14 If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet, ye also ought to wash one another's feet.

15 For I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you.

16 Verily, verily, I say unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord, neither he that is sent greater than he that sent him.

17 If

28. I have both glorified it, &c.] The sound of this voice was evidently preternatural, being strong and loud as thunder, but at the same time so articulate, that all who had heard Jesus pray understood what it said.

31. The judgment of this world:] i. e. The condemnation passed upon its wicked principles and practices, and of the victory which Christians were to gain over it, in consequence of the death of Christ.

37, 38. They believed not on him; that the saying of Esaias, &c.] The meaning is, not that Isaiah's prophecy was the cause of their unbelief; but that their unbelief was the accomplishment of Isaiah's prophecy.

39. Could not believe.] This does not imply an absolute impossibility, but that they, having long willfully opposed the sufficient methods of conviction, were at length given up by God to a judicial hardness and blindness, as Pharaoh's heart was suffered to be hardened.

47. If any man hear my words, &c.] If men obstinately reject my words, and continue willfully impenitent, notwithstanding all reasonable means of conviction, I judge or condemn them not; but they will condemn themselves, contrary to the intention of Christ who came to save them.

17 If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them.

18 ¶ I speak not of you all; I know whom I have chosen; but that the scripture may be fulfilled, He that eateth bread with me hath lifted up his heel against me.

19 Now I tell you before it come, that, when it is come to pass, ye may believe that I am he.

20 Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that receiveth whomsoever I send, receiveth me; and he that receiveth me, receiveth him that sent me.

21 When Jesus had thus said, he was troubled in spirit, and testified, and said, Verily, verily, I say unto you, that one of you shall betray me.

22 Then the disciples looked one on another, doubting of whom he spake.

23 Now there was leaning on Jesus' bosom one of his disciples, whom Jesus loved.

24 Simon Peter therefore beckoned to him, that he should ask who it should be of whom he spake.

25 He then lying on Jesus' breast, saith unto him, Lord, who is it?

26 Jesus answered, He it is to whom I shall give a sop, when I have dipped it. And when he had dipped the sop, he gave it to Judas Iscariot, the son of Simon.

27 And after the sop Satan entered into him. Then said Jesus unto him, That thou doest, do quickly.

28 Now no man at the table knew for what intent he spake this unto him.

29 For some of them thought, because Judas had the bag, that Jesus had said unto him, Buy those things that we have need of against the feast; or, that he should give something to the poor.

30 He then, having received the sop, went immediately out: and it was night.

31 ¶ Therefore when he was gone out, Jesus said, Now is the son of man glorified, and God is glorified in him.

32 If God be glorified in him, God shall also glorify him in himself, and shall straightway glorify him.

33 Little children, Yet a little while I am with you. Ye shall seek me; and, as I said unto the Jews, Whither I go ye cannot come; so now I say to you.

34 A new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another: as I have loved you, that ye also love one another.

35 By this shall all men know that ye are my disciples, if ye have love one to another.

36 ¶ Simon Peter said unto him, Lord, whither goest thou? Jesus answered him, Whither I go thou canst not follow me now; but thou shalt follow me afterwards.

37 Peter said unto him, Lord, why cannot I follow thee now? I will lay down my life for thy sake.

38 Jesus answered him, Wilt thou lay down thy life for my sake? Verily, verily, I say unto thee, The cock shall not crow till thou hast denied me thrice.

C H A P. XIV.

Christ comforteth his disciples.

LET not your heart be troubled: ye believe in God, believe also in me.

2 In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you: I go to prepare a place for you.

3 And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and receive you unto myself, that where I am, there ye may be also.

4 And whither I go ye know, and the way ye know.

5 Thomas saith unto him, Lord, we know not whither thou goest, and how can we know the way?

6 Jesus saith unto him, I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father but by me.

7 If ye had known me, ye should have known my Father also: and from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him.

8 Philip saith unto him, Lord, shew us the Father, and it sufficeth us.

9 Jesus saith unto him, Have I been so long time with you, and yet hast thou not known me, Philip? he that hath seen me hath seen the Father; and how sayest thou then, Shew us the Father?

10 Believest thou not that I am in the Father, and the Father in me? the words that I speak unto you, I speak not of myself: but the Father that dwelleth in me, he doeth the works.

11 Believe me that I am in the Father, and the Father in me: or else believe me for the very works' sake.

12 Verily verily, I say unto you, He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also, and greater works than these shall he do, because I go unto my Father.

13 And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.

14 If ye shall ask any thing in my name, I will do it.

15 ¶ If ye love me, keep my commandments:

16 And I will pray the Father, and he shall give you another Comforter, that he may abide with you for ever;

17 Even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it seeth him not, neither knoweth him: but ye know him, for he dwelleth with you, and shall be in you.

18 I will not leave you comfortless; I will come to you.

19 Yet a little while, and the world seeth me no more; but ye see me: because I live, ye shall live also.

20 At that day ye shall know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you.

21 He that hath my commandments, and keepeth them, he it is that loveth me: and he that loveth me shall be loved of my Father; and I will love him, and will manifest myself to him.

22 Judas saith unto him (not Iscariot) Lord, how is it that thou wilt manifest thyself unto us, and not unto the world?

23 Jesus answered and said unto him, If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him.

24 He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me.

25 These things have I spoken unto you, being yet present with you.

26 But the Comforter, which is the Holy Ghost, whom the Father will send in my name, he shall teach you all things, and bring all things to your remembrance, whatsoever I have said unto you.

27 ¶ Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.

28 Ye have heard how I said unto you, I go away, and come again unto you. If ye loved me, ye would rejoice, because

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 31. Now is the Son of man glorified, &c.] Now is the time come, when, having manifested the glory of God in my life, I shall yet further manifest it by my sufferings and death.

34. A new commandment I give, &c.] Not that it was not always men's duty in general, but that it was to be, in a new and distinguishing manner, the character and badge of Christians; the support, the life, and the essence, of true Christianity.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIV.

Verse 2. In my Father's house are many mansions, &c.] In heaven, my Father's house, there is room abundant to receive you; otherwise I would not have raised in you a hope and expectation of happiness.

3. I will come again.] This coming ultimately refers to Christ's solemn appearance at the last day.

5. Thomas saith unto him, Lord, &c.] We know not where thy Father's house stands, and consequently cannot know the way to it.

6. I am the way, &c.] Perhaps our Lord had now in view the metaphor which he formerly used, namely, I am the door of the sheep, John

10. 7. The meaning is this: Faith in me, and obedience to my commandments, will lead you to the Father's house, whither I am going.

12. Greater works than these shall he do.] How fully Jesus performed this promise is plain from the history of the Acts throughout; particularly chap. 5. 15. where we find, that the very shadow of Peter passing by cured the sick on whom it fell, and who were laid in the street for that purpose; and also chap. 19. 12. which informs us, that handkerchiefs and aprons which had touched the body of Paul, being applied to the sick and possessed, banished both the diseases and the devils: also the apostles' miracles were vastly superior to Christ's, converting more people in one day, than was done by all the miracles which Jesus performed during the whole course of his ministry.

26. But the Comforter, &c.] But when the Comforter is come, he shall instruct you more fully; recalling to your remembrance what you have forgotten, explaining what is yet obscure, and supplying what is further necessary to be understood by you.

27. Peace I leave with you.] As the best legacy which I can bequeath. This is that peace which cometh only by Jesus Christ, and passeth all understanding.

because I said, I go unto the Father: for my Father is greater than I.

29 And now I have told you before it come to pass, that, when it is come to pass, ye might believe.

30 Hereafter I will not talk much with you: for the prince of this world cometh, and hath nothing in me.

31 But that the world may know that I love the Father; and as the Father gave me commandment, even so I do. Arise, let us go hence.

C H A P. XV.

Mutual love between Christ and his members.

I AM the true vine, and my Father is the husbandman.

2 Every branch in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh away; and every branch that beareth fruit, he purgeth it, that it may bring forth more fruit.

3 Now ye are clean through the word which I have spoken unto you.

4 Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, except it abide in the vine; no more can ye, except ye abide in me.

5 I am the vine, ye are the branches. He that abideth in me, and I in him, the same bringeth forth much fruit: for without me ye can do nothing.

6 If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned.

7 If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you.

8 Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.

9 As the Father hath loved me, so have I loved you; continue ye in my love.

10 If ye keep my commandments, ye shall abide in my love; even as I have kept my Father's commandments, and abide in his love.

11 These things have I spoken unto you, that my joy might remain in you, and that your joy might be full.

12 ¶ This is my commandment, That ye love one another, as I have loved you.

13 Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends.

14 Ye are my friends, if ye do whatsoever I command you.

15 Henceforth I call you not servants; for the servant knoweth not what his lord doeth: but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard of my Father I have made known unto you.

16 Ye have not chosen me, but I have chosen you, and ordained you, that ye should go and bring forth fruit, and that your fruit should remain; that whatsoever ye shall ask of the Father in my name, he may give it you.

17 These things I command you, that ye love one another.

18 If the world hate you, ye know that it hated me before it hated you.

19 If ye were of the world, the world would love his own; but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you.

20 Remember the word that I said unto you, The servant is not greater than his lord. If they have persecuted me, they will also persecute you; if they have kept my saying, they will keep yours also.

21 But all these things will they do unto you for my name's sake, because they know not him that sent me.

22 If I had not come and spoken unto them, they had not had sin: but now they have no cloak for their sin.

23 He that hateth me, hateth my Father also.

24 If I had not done among them the works which none other man did, they had not had sin; but now have they both seen and hated both me and my Father.

25 But this cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled that is written in their law, They hated me without a cause.

26 But when the Comforter is come, whom I will send unto you from the Father, even the Spirit of truth, which proceedeth from the Father, he shall testify of me:

27 And ye also shall bear witness, because ye have been with me from the beginning.

The promise of the Holy Ghost.

THESE things have I spoken unto you, that ye should not be offended.

2 They shall put you out of the synagogues; yea, the time cometh, that whosoever killeth you will think that he doeth God service.

3 And these things will they do unto you, because they have not known the Father nor me.

4 But these things have I told you, that, when the time shall come, ye may remember that I told you of them. And these things I said not unto you at the beginning, because I was with you.

5 But now I go my way to him that sent me; and none of you asketh me, Whither goest thou?

6 But, because I have said these things unto you, sorrow hath filled your heart.

7 Nevertheless, I tell you the truth; It is expedient for you that I go away: for if I go not away, the Comforter will not come unto you; but if I depart, I will send him unto you.

8 And when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment.

9 Of sin, because they believe not on me;

10 Of righteousness, because I go to my Father, and ye see me no more;

11 Of judgment, because the prince of this world is judged.

12 I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now.

13 Howbeit, when he, the Spirit of truth, is come, he will guide you into all truth: for he shall not speak of himself; but whatsoever he shall hear, that shall he speak; and he will shew you things to come.

14 He shall glorify me; for he shall receive of mine, and shall shew it unto you.

15 All things that the Father hath are mine: therefore said I, that he shall take of mine, and shew it unto you.

16 A little while, and ye shall not see me; and again a little while, and ye shall see me; because I go to the Father.

17 Then

is fulfilled in me what David long since prophetically complained of, Psa. 35. 19. that they hated him without a cause.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVI.

Verse 8. He will reprove the world, &c.] Rather, He will convince the world: here is expressed the office of an advocate, who will so plead the cause of Christ as to convince the world.

9. Of sin, &c.] He shall convince the world of the greatness and heinousness of their sin, in disbelieving and rejecting me.

10. Of righteousness, &c.] He shall convince the world of the righteousness and justice of my cause, and of the excellency of that dispensation which I preached and declared unto mankind; because my ascension into heaven will be an evident proof of my innocence.

11. Of judgment, &c.] Lastly, by destroying the power of the devil, and the dominion of sin, and propagating the doctrine of true religion in the world with wonderful success.

14. He shall receive of mine, &c.] As all that I have taught is only what I received of my Father; so all that the Spirit shall teach you is only what he receives from me.

15. All things that the Father hath, &c.] All things that the Father hath are common to me; and all power and dominion are by him committed to me.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XV.

Verse 1. I am the true vine, and my Father, &c.] There is great beauty in observing, as has been before hinted, that our Saviour in his parabolical discourses was wont to allude to things present: thus, being now in the mount of Olives, a place remarkable for plenty of vines, he spake many things mystically of the husbandman, and of the vine and its branches.

2. Every branch in me that beareth not, &c.] As in the management of a choice vine the skilful dresser cuts off all barren and superfluous branches, that they may not burden or exhaust the tree, and prunes the fruitful branches, that they may bear more fruit; so in the government of my church, all useless and incorrigible members, my Father, by his judgments, destroys; but those who are sincerely pious he tries, purifies, and amends, that they may daily improve, and be more and more abundant in all good works.

14. Ye are my friends, &c.] A conformity of will to him we love is the test of sincere friendship.

16. Ye have not chosen me, &c.] It was customary for disciples among the Jews to chuse themselves a master.

22. They had not had sin:] i. e. Comparatively speaking, their sin had been nothing to what it now is; see verse 24.

25. This cometh to pass, that the word might be fulfilled, &c.] Hereby 17 Then said some of his disciples among themselves, What is this that he saith unto us, A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again, a little while, and ye shall see me: and, Because I go to the Father?

18 They said, therefore, What is this that he saith, A little while? we cannot tell what he saith.

19 Now Jesus knew that they were desirous to ask him, and said unto them, Do ye enquire among yourselves of that I said, A little while, and ye shall not see me; and again, a little while, and ye shall see me?

20 Verily, verily, I say unto you, that ye shall weep and lament, but the world shall rejoice: and ye shall be sorrowful, but your sorrow shall be turned into joy.

21 A woman when she is in travail hath sorrow, because her hour is come: but as soon as she is delivered of the child, she remembereth no more the anguish, for joy that a man is born into the world.

22 And ye now therefore have sorrow; but I will see you again, and your heart shall rejoice, and your joy no man taketh from you.

23 And in that day ye shall ask me nothing: verily, verily, I say unto you, Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in my name, he will give it you.

24 Hitherto have ye asked nothing in my name: ask, and ye shall receive, that your joy may be full.

25 These things have I spoken unto you in proverbs: but the time cometh, when I shall no more speak unto you in proverbs, but I shall shew you plainly of the Father.

26 At that day ye shall ask in my name; and I say not unto you, that I will pray the Father for you:

27 For the Father himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God.

28 I came forth from the Father, and am come into the world: again, I leave the world, and go to the Father.

29 His disciples said unto him, Lo! now speakest thou plainly, and speakest no proverb.

30 Now are we sure that thou knowest all things, and needest not that any man should ask thee: by this we believe that thou camest forth from God.

31 Jesus answered them, Do ye now believe?

32 Behold, the hour cometh, yea, is now come, that ye shall be scattered, every man to his own, and shall leave me alone: and yet I am not alone, because the Father is with me.

33 These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation: but be of good cheer, I have overcome the world.

Christ prayeth to his Father to glorify him.

TH E S E words spake Jesus, and lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, Father, the hour is come; glorify thy Son, that thy Son also may glorify thee.

2 As thou hast given him power over all flesh, that he should give eternal life to as many as thou hast given him.

3 And this is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom thou hast sent.

4 I have glorified thee on the earth: I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do.

5 And now, O Father, glorify thou me with thine own self, with the glory which I had with thee before the world was.

6 I have manifested thy name unto the men which thou gavest me out of the world: thine they were, and thou gavest them me; and they have kept thy word.

23. In that day, &c.] When ye receive the Comforter, ye shall have no need to ask me any thing for the resolution of your doubts, as ye now do.

26. I say not—I will pray, &c.] I need not tell you, that I will intercede with my Father on your behalf; for he has himself a great love for you, and a ready disposition to grant all your prayers; because ye are acceptable to him by reason of your love towards me.

8 For I have given unto them the words which thou gavest me: and they have received them, and have known surely that I came out from thee, and they have believed that thou didst send me.

9 I pray for them: I pray not for the world, but for them which thou hast given me; for they are thine.

10 And all mine are thine, and thine are mine, and I am glorified in them.

11 And now I am no more in the world, but these are in the world, and I come to thee. Holy Father, keep through thine own name those whom thou hast given me, that they may be one, as we are.

12 While I was with them in the world, I kept them in thy name: those that thou gavest me I have kept, and none of them is lost, but the son of perdition; that the scripture might be fulfilled.

13 And now come I to thee; and these things I speak in the world, that they might have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

14 I have given them thy word: and the world hath hated them, because they are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

15 I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil.

16 They are not of the world, even as I am not of the world.

17 Sanctify them through thy truth: thy word is truth.

18 As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world.

19 And for their sakes I sanctify myself, that they also might be sanctified through the truth.

20 Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word;

21 That they all may be one, as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee; that they also may be one in us: that the world may believe that thou hast sent me.

22 And the glory which thou gavest me I have given them; that they may be one, even as we are one.

23 I in them, and thou in me, that they may be made perfect in one; and that the world may know that thou hast sent me, and hast loved them, as thou hast loved me.

24 Father, I will that they also whom thou hast given me be with me where I am; that they may behold my glory which thou hast given me: for thou lovedst me before the foundation of the world.

25 O righteous Father, the world hath not known thee; but I have known thee, and these have known that thou hast sent me.

26 And I have declared unto them thy name, and will declare it; that the love wherewith thou hast loved me may be in them, and I in them.

Judas betrayeth Jesus.

WH E N Jesus had spoken these words, he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into the which he entered, and his disciples.

2 And Judas also which betrayed him knew the place: for Jesus oft-times resorted thither with his disciples.

3 Judas then, having received a band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh thither, with lanterns, and torches, and weapons.

ANNO.

4 Jesus, therefore, knowing all things that should come upon him, went forth, and said unto them, Whom seek ye?

5 They answered him, Jesus of Nazareth. Jesus saith unto them, I am he. (And Judas also, which betrayed him, stood with them.)

6 As soon then as he had said unto them, I am he, they went backward, and fell to the ground.

7 Then asked he them again, Whom seek ye? And they said, Jesus of Nazareth.

8 Jesus answered, I have told you that I am he. If, therefore, ye seek me, let these go their way:

9 That the saying might be fulfilled which he spake, Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none.

10 ¶ Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it, and smote the high-priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus.

11 Then said Jesus unto Peter, Put up thy sword into the sheath: the cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?

12 ¶ Then the band, and the captain, and officers of the Jews, took Jesus, and bound him,

13 And led him away to Annas first (for he was father-in-law to Caiaphas, which was the high-priest that same year.)

14 Now Caiaphas was he which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people.

15 ¶ And Simon Peter followed Jesus, and so did another disciple. That disciple was known unto the high-priest, and went in with Jesus into the palace of the high-priest.

16 But Peter stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple, which was known unto the high-priest, and spake unto her that kept the door, and brought in Peter.

17 Then saith the damsel that kept the door unto Peter, Art not thou also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am not.

18 And the servants and officers stood there, who had made a fire of coals, (for it was cold) and they warmed themselves: and Peter stood with them, and warmed himself.

19 ¶ The high-priest then asked Jesus of his disciples, and of his doctrine.

20 Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort, and in secret have I said nothing.

21 Why askest thou me? ask them which heard me what I have said unto them: behold, they know what I said.

22 And, when he had thus spoken, one of the officers which stood by struck Jesus with the palm of his hand, saying, Answerest thou the high-priest so?

23 Jesus answered him, If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil; but if well, why smitest thou me?

24 (Now Annas had sent him bound unto Caiaphas the high-priest.)

25 ¶ And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself: they said therefore unto him, Art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not.

26 One of the servants of the high-priest, (being his kinsman whose ear Peter cut off,) saith, Did not I see thee in the garden with him?

27 Peter then denied again; and immediately the cock crew.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVIII.

Verse 6. I am he, &c.] There went forth such a secret energy of divine power with these words, that they were utterly unable to resist it, but fell to the ground, as if struck by lightning.

8. Let these go their way.] Let my disciples depart in safety. What tenderness is here expressed towards those who had so lately neglected him, (sleeping when he was in an agony,) that he would not suffer them to be terrified by a short imprisonment!

13. Led him away to Annas first, &c.] Annas, having himself discharged the office of high-priest, was a person of distinguished character. He refused singly to meddle in the affair; they therefore carried Jesus away to Caiaphas, at whose palace the chief priests, elders, and scribes, were assembled, having staid there the whole night to see the issue of their stratagem.

34. Sayest thou this thing of thyself?] Have you ever heard any thing

28 ¶ Then led they Jesus from Caiaphas unto the hall of judgment: and it was early; and they themselves went not into the judgment-hall, lest they should be defiled; but that they might eat the passover.

29 Pilate then went out unto them, and said, What accusation bring ye against this man?

30 They answered and said unto him, If he were not a malefactor, we would not have delivered him up unto thee.

31 Then said Pilate unto them, Take ye him, and judge him according to your law. The Jews, therefore, said unto him, It is not lawful for us to put any man to death:

32 That the saying of Jesus might be fulfilled, which he spake, signifying what death he should die.

33 Then Pilate entered into the judgment-hall again, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the King of the Jews?

34 Jesus answered him, Sayest thou this thing of thyself, or did others tell it thee of me?

35 Pilate answered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation, and the chief priests, have delivered thee unto me: what hast thou done?

36 Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence.

37 Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice.

38 Pilate saith unto him, What is truth? And when he had said this, he went out again unto the Jews, and saith unto them, I find in him no fault at all.

39 But ye have a custom that I should release unto you one at the passover: will ye therefore that I release unto you the King of the Jews?

40 Then cried they all again, saying, Not this man, but Barabbas. Now Barabbas was a robber.

C H A P. XIX.

Christ is scourged, crowned with thorns, and beaten, &c.

THE N Pilate therefore took Jesus, and scourged him.

2 And the soldiers platted a crown of thorns, and put it on his head, and they put on him a purple robe,

3 And said, Hail, King of the Jews! and they smote him with their hands.

4 Pilate therefore went forth again, and saith unto them, Behold, I bring him forth to you, that ye may know that I find no fault in him.

5 Then came Jesus forth, wearing the crown of thorns and the purple robe. And Pilate saith unto them, Behold the man!

6 When the chief priests, therefore, and officers saw him, they cried out, saying, Crucify him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Take ye him, and crucify him: for I find no fault in him.

7 The Jews answered him, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, because he made himself the Son of God.

8 ¶ When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he was the more afraid,

9 And went again into the judgment-hall, and saith unto of me, that gave you any reason to suspect me guilty of seditious designs against the government?

35. Am I a Jew? &c.] Do I know any thing of your peculiarities further than I am informed by others?

38. What is truth?] What is the truth which thou referrest to?

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIX.

Verse 1. Pilate—took Jesus, and scourged him.] Seeing that the people would not by any means be satisfied, if he should release Jesus without inflicting any punishment on him at all, he delivered him to the soldiers to be scourged, hoping that severity would appease the people.

6. Take ye him, and crucify him:] i. e. Crucify him at your peril; for I cannot condemn an innocent person.

8. He was the more afraid.] Pilate, knowing the obstinacy of the Jews in all matters of religion, was afraid they would make a tumult in earnest. Or, probably, he remembered the miracles said to have been performed by Jesus, and began to think that he really was the Son of God.

12. Thou

unto Jesus, Whence art thou? But Jesus gave him no answer.

10 Then saith Pilate unto him, Speakest thou not unto me? knowest thou not that I have power to crucify thee, and have power to release thee?

11 Jesus answered, Thou couldest have no power at all against me, except it were given thee from above: therefore he that delivered me unto thee hath the greater sin.

12 And from thenceforth Pilate sought to release him: but the Jews cried out, saying, If thou let this man go, thou art not Cesar's friend: whosoever maketh himself a king speaketh against Cesar.

13 ¶ When Pilate therefore heard that saying, he brought Jesus forth, and sat down in the judgment-seat, in a place that is called the Pavement, but in the Hebrew, Gabbatha.

14 And it was the preparation of the passover, and about the sixth hour: and he saith unto the Jews, Behold your king!

15 But they cried out, Away with him, away with him, crucify him. Pilate saith unto them, Shall I crucify your king? The chief priests answered, We have no king but Cesar.

16 Then delivered he him therefore unto them to be crucified. And they took Jesus, and led him away.

17 And he, bearing his cross, went forth into a place called the place of a skull, which is called in the Hebrew, Golgotha:

18 Where they crucified him, and two others with him, on either side one, and Jesus in the midst.

19 ¶ And Pilate wrote a title, and put it on the cross. And the writing was, JESUS OF NAZARETH, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

20 This title then read many of the Jews; for the place where Jesus was crucified was nigh to the city: and it was written in Hebrew, and Greek, and Latin.

21 Then said the chief priests of the Jews to Pilate, Write not, The King of the Jews; but that he said, I am King of the Jews.

22 Pilate answered, What I have written, I have written.

23 ¶ Then the soldiers, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments, and made four parts, to every soldier a part; and also his coat: now the coat was without seam, woven from the top throughout.

24 They said therefore among themselves, Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, whose it shall be: that the scripture might be fulfilled, which saith, They parted my raiment among them, and for my vesture they did cast lots. These things therefore the soldiers did.

25 ¶ Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleopas, and Mary Magdalene.

26 When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son!

27 Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home.

28 ¶ After this, Jesus, knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst.

29 Now there was set a vessel full of vinegar: and they filled a sponge with vinegar, and put it upon hyssop, and put it to his mouth.

30 When Jesus therefore had received the vinegar, he said, It is finished: and he bowed his head, and gave up the ghost.

31 The Jews, therefore, because it was the preparation, that the bodies should not remain upon the cross on the sabbath-day, (for that sabbath-day was an high day,) besought Pilate that their legs might be broken, and that they might be taken away.

32 Then came the soldiers, and brake the legs of the first, and of the other, which was crucified with him.

33 But when they came to Jesus, and saw that he was dead already, they brake not his legs.

34 But one of the soldiers with a spear pierced his side, and forthwith came there out blood and water.

35 And he that saw it bare record, and his record is true; and he knoweth that he saith true, that ye might believe.

36 For these things were done, that the scripture should be fulfilled, A bone of him shall not be broken.

37 And again another scripture saith, They shall look on him whom they pierced.

38 ¶ And after this, Joseph of Arimathea, (being a disciple of Jesus, but secretly, for fear of the Jews,) besought Pilate that he might take away the body of Jesus: and Pilate gave him leave. He came therefore, and took the body of Jesus.

39 And there came also Nicodemus, (which at the first came to Jesus by night,) and brought a mixture of myrrh and aloes, about an hundred pound weight.

40 Then took they the body of Jesus, and wound it in linen clothes, with the spices, as the manner of the Jews is to bury.

41 Now in the place where he was crucified there was a garden; and in the garden a new sepulchre, wherein was never man yet laid.

42 There laid they Jesus therefore, because of the Jews' preparation-day; for the sepulchre was nigh at hand.

C H A P. XX.

Christ's resurrection.

THE first day of the week cometh Mary Magdalene early, when it was yet dark, unto the sepulchre, and seeth the stone taken away from the sepulchre.

2 Then she runneth, and cometh to Simon Peter, and to the other disciple whom Jesus loved, and saith unto them, They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulchre, and we know not where they have laid him.

3 Peter therefore went forth, and that other disciple, and came to the sepulchre.

4 So they ran both together: and the other disciple did outrun Peter, and came first to the sepulchre.

5 And he stooping down, and looking in, saw the linen clothes lying; yet went he not in.

6 Then cometh Simon Peter following him, and went into the sepulchre, and seeth the linen clothes lie;

7 And the napkin that was about his head, not lying with the linen clothes, but wrapped together in a place by itself.

8 Then went in also that other disciple, which came first to the sepulchre, and he saw, and believed.

9 For as yet they knew not the scripture, that he must rise again from the dead.

10 Then

crossed the upright beam which was fixed in the earth: this the criminal used to carry.

20. In Hebrew, and Greek, and Latin.] It was written in Hebrew, because it was the language of the place; in Greek, for the information of vast numbers of Hellenists, who made use of that language; and in Latin, in honour of the Roman empire.

22. What I have written, &c.] I am determined it shall stand, whoever may object against it.

26. When Jesus—saw his mother.] From this circumstance it appears, that the face of Jesus was not covered, as was usually done to those who were crucified. The crown of thorns prevented such covering; and this might be ordered providentially, that the divine composure and serenity of his countenance might be conspicuous to the spectators.

30. It is finished.] The important work, for which I came into the world, is now completed.

ANNO-

12. Thou art not Cesar's friend, &c.] Finding, by what the governor said to them, that he was determined to release Jesus, they told him, with a menacing air, that if he released his prisoner, who had set himself up for a king, and endeavoured to raise a rebellion in the country, he was not faithful to the emperor; insinuating, that they would accuse him to his master, if he did not do his duty. This argument was weighty, and shook Pilate's resolution to the foundation.

14. Behold your king!] Pilate, being thus obliged to yield to them contrary to his own inclination, was angry with the priests for stirring up the people to such a pitch of madness, and resolved to affront them; and therefore brought Jesus before them, wearing a purple robe and a crown of thorns, with his hands bound; and pointing to him, said, in ridicule of their national expectation, Behold your king!

17. Bearing his cross.] Not the whole cross, but only that transverse piece of wood to which his arms were afterwards fastened, and which

10 Then the disciples went away again unto their own home.

11 ¶ But Mary stood without at the sepulchre, weeping: and as she wept, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulchre,

12 And seeth two angels in white, sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain:

13 And they say unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? She saith unto them, Because they have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14 And when she had thus said, she turned herself back, and saw Jesus standing, and knew not that it was Jesus.

15 Jesus saith unto her, Woman, why weepest thou? whom seekest thou? She, supposing him to be the gardener, saith unto him, Sir, if thou have borne him hence, tell me where thou hast laid him, and I will take him away.

16 Jesus saith unto her, Mary. She turned herself, and saith unto him, Rabboni, which is to say, Master.

17 Jesus saith unto her, Touch me not; for I am not yet ascended to my Father: but go to my brethren, and say unto them, I ascend unto my Father and your Father, and to my God and your God.

18 Mary Magdalene came and told the disciples that she had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken these things unto her.

19 ¶ Then the same day at evening, being the first day of the week, when the doors were shut, where the disciples were assembled for fear of the Jews, came Jesus, and stood in the midst, and saith unto them, Peace be unto you.

20 And when he had so said, he shewed unto them his hands and his side. Then were the disciples glad when they saw the Lord.

21 Then said Jesus to them again, Peace be unto you: as my Father hath sent me, even so send I you.

22 And when he had said this, he breathed on them, and saith unto them, Receive ye the Holy Ghost.

23 Whose soever sins ye remit, they are remitted unto them; and whose soever sins ye retain, they are retained.

24 ¶ But Thomas, one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came.

25 The other disciples therefore said unto him, We have seen the Lord. But he said unto them, Except I shall see in his hands the print of the nails, and put my finger into the print of the nails, and thrust my hand into his side, I will not believe.

26 ¶ And after eight days again his disciples were within, and Thomas with them: then came Jesus, the doors being shut, and stood in the midst, and said, Peace be unto you.

27 Then saith he to Thomas, Reach hither thy finger, and behold my hands; and reach hither thy hand, and thrust it into my side: and be not faithless, but believing.

28 And Thomas answered and said unto him, My Lord, and my God.

29 Jesus saith unto him, Thomas, because thou hast seen me, thou hast believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XX.

Verse 19. Came Jesus.] He came in that natural body which was crucified and laid in the grave; and therefore it is absurd to suppose he could penetrate through the doors, which were shut, and doubtless fastened within. It is most natural to suppose, that by his miraculous power he caused them to fly open, as of themselves, and shut again very suddenly.

25. The print of the nails,—the print of the nails.] There seems to be a beauty in this repetition, which admirably represents the language of a positive man, declaring again and again what he insisted upon.

29. Blessed are they that have not seen, and yet, &c.] Not they who are credulous, and believe without reason; but they who are convinced of the truth by searching into the grounds of it.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXI.

Verse 7. He was naked;] i. e. In a manner naked; for we must observe, that among the Jews they were said to be naked, who had only an under garment on.

14. This is now the third time, &c.] It was in reality the seventh appearance at least that Jesus had made since his resurrection: for he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, Mark 16. 9.—then to the women, as they returned from the sepulchre, Matt. 28. 9.—after this he was seen

30 ¶ And many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book.

31 But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that believing ye might have life through his name.

C H A P. XXI.

Christ appeareth to his disciples.

AFTER these things Jesus shewed himself again to the disciples at the sea of Tiberias; and on this wise shewed he himself:

2 There were together Simon Peter, and Thomas called Didymus, and Nathanael of Cana in Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and two other of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter saith unto them, I go a fishing. They say unto him, We also go with thee. They went forth, and entered into a ship immediately; and that night they caught nothing.

4 But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore: but the disciples knew not that it was Jesus.

5 Then Jesus saith unto them, Children, have ye any meat? They answered him, No.

6 And he said unto them, Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find. They cast therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes.

7 Therefore that disciple whom Jesus loved saith unto Peter, It is the Lord. Now when Simon Peter heard that it was the Lord, he girt his fisher's coat unto him, (for he was naked,) and did cast himself into the sea.

8 And the other disciples came in a little ship, (for they were not far from land, but as it were two hundred cubits,) dragging the net with fishes.

9 As soon then as they were come to land, they saw a fire of coals there, and fish laid thereon, and bread.

10 Jesus saith unto them, Bring of the fish which ye have now caught.

11 Simon Peter went up, and drew the net to land full of great fishes, an hundred and fifty and three: and for all there were so many, yet was not the net broken.

12 ¶ Jesus saith unto them, Come and dine. And none of the disciples durst ask him, Who art thou? knowing that it was the Lord.

13 Jesus then cometh, and taketh bread, and giveth them, and fish likewise.

14 This is now the third time that Jesus shewed himself to his disciples, after that he was risen from the dead.

15 ¶ So when they had dined, Jesus saith to Simon Peter, Simon son of Jonas, lovest thou me more than these? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my lambs.

16 He saith to him again the second time, Simon son of Jonas, lovest thou me? He saith unto him, Yea, Lord; thou knowest that I love thee. He saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

17 He saith unto him the third time, Simon son of Jonas, lovest thou me? Peter was grieved, because he said unto him the third time, Lovest thou me? And he said unto him, Lord, thou knowest all things; thou knowest that I love thee. Jesus saith unto him, Feed my sheep.

18 Verily, verily, I say unto thee, When thou wast young, of Peter, 1 Cor. 15. 5.—then, the same day, by the two disciples that were going to Emmaus, Luke 24. 13.—and again, the same evening, he appeared to the disciples when Thomas was absent;—and on that day se'nnight he appeared again to the eleven, when Thomas was with them;—and now he shewed himself a seventh time at the sea of Tiberias. But we must observe, that as John had particularly mentioned before the two appearances which Jesus made to his disciples when they were together, (see chap. 20.) it seems most reasonable to conclude, that he reckoned this the third, as referring to these.

15. Lovest thou me more than these?] As Peter had shewn great eagerness just before in hastening to his Master, by casting himself into the sea, while the other disciples went in a boat, it might have been apprehended, that he still flattered himself with having a more intense love for Christ than any of them. Hence the question to him the first time is, Simon, lovest thou me more than these? this comparison being to him a lesson that was proper to recall to his mind the rashness he had had of preferring himself to others, and making himself judge of a secret known only to God. Wherefore the apostle contents himself with saying, Lord, thou knowest that I love thee; and he avoids the second question, which makes him remember his former presumption, and greatly humbles him in his own eyes.

young, thou girdedst thyself, and walkedst whither thou wouldest: but when thou shalt be old, thou shalt stretch forth thy hands, and another shall gird thee, and carry thee whither thou wouldest not.

19 This spake he, signifying by what death he should glorify God. And when he had spoken this, he saith unto him, Follow me.

20 Then Peter, turning about, seeth the disciple whom Jesus loved following; which also leaned on his breast at supper, and said, Lord, which is he that betrayeth thee?

21 Peter seeing him, saith to Jesus, Lord, and what shall this man do?

18. Carry thee whither thou wouldest not;] i. e. Shall carry thee to be crucified. Peter's crucifixion happened about forty years after this.

22. If I will that he tarry, &c.] Or continue alive, till I come in power and great glory to execute judgment upon mine enemies, what is that to thee? This reply of our Lord seems very strongly to discourage a curiosity of inquiring into other men's affairs, and into doctrines that are of no importance to religion.

22 Jesus saith unto him, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee? follow thou me.

23 Then went this saying abroad among the brethren, that that disciple should not die: yet Jesus said not unto him, He shall not die: but, If I will that he tarry till I come, what is that to thee?

24 This is the disciple which testifieth of these things, and wrote these things: and we know that his testimony is true.

25 And there are also many other things which Jesus did, the which, if they should be written every one, I suppose that even the world itself could not contain the books that should be written. Amen.

25. The world itself could not contain the books, &c.] Most interpreters look upon this as a noble hyperbole; though some explain it thus: If they were all to be particularly written, the unbelieving world would not admit them; not for the greatness of the books, but for the greatness of the works recorded in them.

THE ARGUMENT.

AFTER the Gospel, or the History of our Lord JESUS CHRIST, follows the history of what passed after his Ascension, and was transacted by the Apostles; and therefore the book which contains this history is called The Acts of the Apostles. It is a history of the rising church for about the space of thirty years. St. Luke is undoubtedly the author of it, and most probably finished it before the end of the year sixty-four. As St. Luke speaks of St. Paul's journey to Rome, and his continuance there for some time after it, it is probable he wrote this book at Rome, while he remained with St. Paul, during the time of his imprisonment, and a little before the end of it; for it is said, chap. 28. 30. that Paul had been at Rome two whole years; and it is plain, by many circumstances in his epistles, that he did not at that time continue there much longer.

C H A P. I.

Matthias chosen an apostle.

THE former treatise have I made, O Theophilus, of all that Jesus began both to do and teach,

2 Until the day in which he was taken up, after that he through the Holy Ghost had given commandments unto the apostles whom he had chosen.

3 To whom also he shewed himself alive after his passion by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God:

4 And being assembled together with them, commanded them that they should not depart from Jerusalem, but wait for the promise of the Father, which, saith he, ye have heard of me.

5 For John truly baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost not many days hence.

6 When they therefore were come together, they asked of him, saying, Lord, wilt thou at this time restore again the kingdom to Israel?

7 And he said unto them, It is not for you to know the times or the seasons, which the Father hath put in his own power.

8 But ye shall receive power, after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you: and ye shall be witnesses unto me, both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth.

9 And when he had spoken these things, while they beheld, he was taken up, and a cloud received him out of their sight.

10 ¶ And while they looked stedfastly toward heaven as he went up, behold, two men stood by them in white apparel;

11 Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven.

No. 59.

12 ¶ Then returned they unto Jerusalem, from the mount called Olivet, which is from Jerusalem a sabbath-day's journey.

13 And when they were come in, they went up into an upper room, where abode both Peter, and James, and John, and Andrew, Philip, and Thomas, Bartholomew, and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus, and Simon Zelotes, and Judas the brother of James.

14 These all continued with one accord in prayer and supplication, with the women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren.

15 ¶ And in those days Peter stood up in the midst of the disciples, and said, (the number of the names together were about an hundred and twenty,)

16 Men and brethren, this scripture must needs have been fulfilled, which the Holy Ghost by the mouth of David spake before concerning Judas, which was guide to them that took Jesus.

17 For he was numbered with us, and had obtained part of this ministry.

18 Now this man purchased a field with the reward of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out.

19 And it was known unto all the dwellers at Jerusalem; insomuch as that field is called in their proper tongue, Aceldama, that is to say, The field of blood.

20 For it is written in the book of Psalms, Let his habitation be desolate, and let no man dwell therein: and, His bishoprick let another take.

21 Wherefore of these men which have companied with us, all the time that the Lord Jesus went in and out among us,

22 Beginning from the baptism of John, unto that same day day that he was taken up from us, must one be ordained to be a witness with us of his resurrection.

23 And they appointed two, Joseph called Barsabas, who was surnamed Justus, and Matthias.

24 And they prayed, and said, Thou, Lord, which knowest the hearts of all men, shew whether of these two thou hast chosen;

25 That he may take part of this ministry and apostleship, from which Judas by transgression fell, that he might go to his own place.

26 And they gave forth their lots; and the lot fell upon Matthias, and he was numbered with the eleven apostles.

CHAP. II.

The apostles, filled with the Holy Ghost, speak divers languages.

AND when the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all with one accord in one place.

2 And suddenly there came a sound from heaven, as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting.

3 And there appeared unto them cloven tongues, like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them.

4 And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance.

5 And there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, out of every nation under heaven.

6 Now when this was noised abroad, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because that every man heard them speak in his own language.

7 And they were all amazed, and marvelled, saying one to another, Behold, are not all these which speak Galileans?

8 And how hear we every man in our own tongue, wherein we were born?

9 Parthians, and Medes, and Elamites, and the dwellers in Mesopotamia, and in Judea, and Cappadocia, in Pontus, and Asia,

10 Phrygia, and Pamphylia, in Egypt, and in the parts of Libya about Cyrene, and strangers of Rome, Jews and proselytes, 11 Cretes and Arabians, we do hear them speak in our tongues the wonderful works of God.

12 And they were all amazed, and were in doubt, saying one to another, What meaneth this?

13 Others mocking said, These men are full of new wine.

14 ¶ But Peter standing up, with the eleven, lifted up his voice, and said unto them, Ye men of Judea, and all ye that dwell at Jerusalem, be this known unto you, and hearken to my words:

15 For these are not drunken, as ye suppose, seeing it is but the third hour of the day.

16 But this is that which was spoken by the prophet Joel:

17 And it shall come to pass in the last days, saith God, I will pour out of my Spirit upon all flesh: and your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions, and your old men shall dream dreams:

18 And on my servants, and on my handmaidens, I will pour out in those days of my Spirit, and they shall prophesy.

19 And I will shew wonders in heaven above, and signs in the earth beneath; blood, and fire, and vapour of smoke.

20 The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, before that great and notable day of the Lord come.

21 And it shall come to pass, that whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord shall be saved.

22 Ye men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you, by miracles, and wonders, and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know.

23 Him being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain:

24 Whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it.

25 For David speaketh concerning him, I foresaw the Lord always before my face; for he is on my right hand, that I should not be moved.

26 Therefore did my heart rejoice, and my tongue was glad: moreover also, my flesh shall rest in hope.

27 Because thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, neither wilt thou suffer thine holy One to see corruption.

28 Thou hast made known to me the ways of life; thou shalt make me full of joy with thy countenance.

29 Men and brethren, let me freely speak unto you of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulchre is with us unto this day:

30 Therefore being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne:

31 He, seeing this before, spake of the resurrection of Christ, that his soul was not left in hell, neither his flesh did see corruption.

32 This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses.

33 Therefore, being by the right hand of God exalted, and having received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, he hath shed forth this, which ye now see and hear.

34 For David is not ascended into the heavens: but he saith himself, The LORD said unto my LORD, Sit thou on my right hand, 35 Until I make thy foes thy footstool.

36 Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ.

37 ¶ Now, when they heard this, they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter, and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do?

38 Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost.

39 For the promise is unto you, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call.

40 And with many other words did he testify and exhort, saying, Save yourselves from this untoward generation.

41 ¶ Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls.

42 And they continued stedfastly in the apostle's doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

43 And fear came upon every soul: and many wonders and signs were done by the apostles.

44 And all that believed were together, and had all things common;

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 3. There appeared unto them cloven tongues, &c.] Dr. Clark observes, that the circumstance of cloven tongues, like as of fire, explains the meaning of that prophetic phrase used by John the Baptist concerning Christ, He shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost and with fire; he shall baptize you with the Holy Ghost, descending visibly in the appearance of fire, and continuing with you afterwards, in pursuance of what that emblem represented, by an assistance the most powerful and efficacious.

4. They were all filled with the Holy Ghost, &c.] The word all probably relates to the one hundred and twenty, who are said, chap. 1. 15. to have been present at this time.

5. Out of every nation.] Here the whole, every, is by synecdoche mentioned for a considerable part: it is common in the best writers.

17. In the last days.] i. e. In the days of the Messiah, when the gospel was published, which is the last dispensation of divine grace.

21. Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord.] This expression is equivalent to, Whoever practises the whole of religion.

22. Jesus of Nazareth.] It was a proverb among the Jews, Can any good thing come out of Nazareth? and yet the apostles call our Lord by the name of Jesus of Nazareth. They seem to have mentioned this as one circumstance of his humiliation.

27. Thou wilt not leave my soul in hell, &c.] i. e. Thou wilt not suffer me to continue in the state of the dead, but wilt certainly raise me up again at thy appointed time.

45 And sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need.

46 And they, continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart;

47 Praising God, and having favour with all the people. And the Lord added to the church daily such as should be saved.

C H A P. III.

Peter and John restore a lame man to his feet.

NOW Peter and John went up together into the temple, at the hour of prayer, being the ninth hour.

2 And a certain man, lame from his mother's womb, was carried, whom they laid daily at the gate of the temple which is called Beautiful, to ask alms of them that entered into the temple;

3 Who, seeing Peter and John about to go into the temple, asked an alms.

4 And Peter, fastening his eyes upon him, with John, said, Look on us.

5 And he gave heed unto them, expecting to receive something of them.

6 Then Peter said, Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have, give I thee: In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk.

7 And he took him by the right hand, and lifted him up; and immediately his feet and ankle-bones received strength.

8 And he leaping up, stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple, walking, and leaping, and praising God.

9 And all the people saw him walking and praising God.

10 And they knew that it was he which sat for alms at the Beautiful gate of the temple: and they were filled with wonder and amazement at that which had happened unto him.

11 And as the lame man which was healed held Peter and John, all the people ran together unto them in the porch that is called Solomon's, greatly wondering.

12 ¶ And when Peter saw it, he answered unto the people, Ye men of Israel, why marvel ye at this? or why look ye so earnestly on us, as though by our own power or holiness we had made this man to walk?

13 The God of Abraham, and of Isaac, and of Jacob, the God of our fathers, hath glorified his son Jesus; whom ye delivered up, and denied him in the presence of Pilate, when he was determined to let him go.

14 But ye denied the holy One, and the just, and desired a murderer to be granted unto you;

15 And killed the Prince of life, whom God hath raised from the dead; whereof we are witnesses.

16 And his name, through faith in his name, hath made this man strong, whom ye see and know: yea, the faith which is by him hath given him this perfect soundness in the presence of you all.

17 And now, brethren, I wot that through ignorance ye did it, as did also your rulers.

18 But those things which God before had shewed by the mouth of all his prophets, that Christ should suffer, he hath so fulfilled.

19 ¶ Repent ye, therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, when the times of refreshing shall come from the presence of the Lord;

20 And he shall send Jesus Christ, which before was preached unto you:

21 Whom the heaven must receive, until the times of restitution of all things, which God hath spoken by the mouth of all his holy prophets since the world began.

22 For Moses truly said unto the fathers, A Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you, of your brethren, like unto me: him shall ye hear in all things whatsoever he shall say unto you.

23 And it shall come to pass, that every soul which will not hear that Prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people.

24 Yea, and all the prophets from Samuel, and those that follow after, as many as have spoken, have likewise foretold of these days.

25 Ye are the children of the prophets, and of the covenant which God made with our fathers, saying unto Abraham, And in thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed.

26 Unto you first, God, having raised up his Son Jesus, sent him to bless you, in turning away every one of you from his iniquities.

C H A P. IV.

The rulers imprison Peter and John.

AND as they spake unto the people, the priests, and the captain of the temple, and the Sadducees, came upon them,

2 Being grieved that they taught the people, and preached through Jesus the resurrection from the dead.

3 And they laid hands on them, and put them in hold unto the next day: for it was now even-tide.

4 Howbeit, many of them which heard the word believed; and the number of the men was about five thousand.

5 ¶ And it came to pass on the morrow, that their rulers, and elders, and scribes,

6 And Annas the high priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of the kindred of the high priest, were gathered together at Jerusalem.

7 And when they had set them in the midst, they asked, By what power, or by what name, have ye done this?

8 Then Peter, filled with the Holy Ghost, said unto them, Ye rulers of the people, and elders of Israel,

9 If we this day be examined of the good deed done to the impotent man, by what means he is made whole;

10 Be it known unto you all, and to all the people of Israel, that by the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, whom ye crucified, whom God raised from the dead, even by him doth this man stand here before you whole.

11 This is the stone which was set at naught of you builders, which is become the head of the corner.

12 Neither is there salvation in any other: for there is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we must be saved.

13 ¶ Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them, that they had been with Jesus.

14 And beholding the man which was healed standing with them, they could say nothing against it.

15 But

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 1. Into the temple, at the hour of prayer, &c.] Though, by the death of Christ, all sacrifices, and other things required in the ceremonial law, were utterly abolished, and a new covenant introduced; yet, for fear of offending the weak, our Lord suffered his disciples to frequent the assemblies of the Jews, and, in some points, to comply with the observances of the law, until a more spiritual form of worship could conveniently be established.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 1. The Sadducees came upon them, &c.] The priests were offended, because the apostles, whom they looked upon only as private men, undertook publicly to teach the people. The Sadducees were displeased, because, in testifying that Christ was risen, and become the first-fruits of them that slept, they effectually preached the resurrection of the dead, a doctrine which these men detested. And the captain, who was placed with a band of soldiers near the temple, in order to guard it, seeing such a crowd of people gathered together about the apostles, began to apprehend a tumult.

19. Whether

45. Sold their possessions, &c.] Many of the first Christians, who were Jews dwelling in Judea, sold their lands and possessions. The Gentiles did it not when the gospel came to them; and none of St. Paul's epistles contain any such precept, or intimate any such practice. The Jews acted thus, though not by command, yet doubtless with the approbation of the apostles; and the most probable reason for it was this:—They knew that Christ had foretold the destruction of their country, which should come upon it before that generation should pass away; and therefore they thought it proper, while they had an opportunity, to improve to the best their estates, which they should not long enjoy, by relieving the poorer brethren, and by enabling the first teachers to pursue their travels from place to place.

47. Having favour, &c.] i. e. By their innocency and simplicity of manners obtaining the good opinion of all well-disposed and unprejudiced persons.

Such as should be saved;] Rather, those who were saved, i. e. who by faith were admitted into the Christian covenant of salvation.

15 But when they had commanded them to go aside out of the council, they conferred among themselves,

16 Saying, What shall we do to these men? for that indeed a notable miracle hath been done by them is manifest to all them that dwell in Jerusalem; and we cannot deny it.

17 But that it spread no further among the people, let us straitly threaten them, that they speak henceforth to no man in this name.

18 And they called them, and commanded them not to speak at all, nor teach, in the name of Jesus.

19 But Peter and John answered and said unto them, Whether it be right in the sight of God to hearken unto you more than unto God, judge ye.

20 For we cannot but speak the things which we have seen and heard.

21 So when they had further threatened them, they let them go, finding nothing how they might punish them, because of the people; for all men glorified God for that which was done.

22 For the man was above forty years old, on whom this miracle of healing was shewed.

23 ¶ And being let go, they went to their own company, and reported all that the chief priests and elders had said unto them.

24 And when they heard that, they lifted up their voice to God with one accord, and said, Lord, thou art God, which hast made heaven and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is;

25 Who by the mouth of thy servant David hast said, Why did the heathen rage, and the people imagine vain things?

26 The kings of the earth stood up, and the rulers were gathered together against the Lord, and against his Christ.

27 For of a truth against thy holy child Jesus, whom thou hast anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, with the Gentiles and the people of Israel, were gathered together, 28 For to do whatsoever thy hand and thy counsel determined before to be done.

29 And now, Lord, behold their threatenings: and grant unto thy servants, that with all boldness they may speak thy word,

30 By stretching forth thine hand to heal; and that signs and wonders may be done by the name of thy holy child Jesus.

31 ¶ And when they had prayed, the place was shaken where they were assembled together; and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and they spake the word of God with boldness.

32 And the multitude of them that believed were of one heart, and of one soul: neither said any of them, that ought of the things which he possessed was his own; but they had all things common.

33 And with great power gave the apostles witness of the resurrection of the Lord Jesus: and great grace was upon them all.

34 Neither was there any among them that lacked: for as many as were possessors of lands, or houses, sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold,

35 And laid them down at the apostles' feet: and distribution was made unto every man according as he had need.

36 And Joses, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas, (which is, being interpreted, The son of consolation,) a Levite, and of the country of Cyprus, 37 Having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

19. Whether it be right in the sight of God—judge ye.] This was a fair appeal to the consciences of their very judges, and with which they ought to have been satisfied. Socrates answered his accusers in the same manner, O ye Athenians, I will obey God rather than you.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 4. Was it not in thine own power?] It evidently appears from hence, that no Christian converts were obliged to sell their estates. The sin was in dissembling, and pretending that he gave up the whole.

10. Fell she down, &c.] This severity seemed expedient, as Christianity was in its first rise. Thus, at the opening of the Mosaic insti-

Ananias and Sapphira fall down dead.

BUT a certain man named Ananias, with Sapphira his wife, sold a possession,

2 And kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy to it, and brought a certain part, and laid it at the apostles' feet.

3 But Peter said, Ananias, why hath Satan filled thine heart to lie to the Holy Ghost, and to keep back part of the price of the land?

4 Whiles it remained, was it not thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thine own power? why hast thou conceived this thing in thine heart? thou hast not lied unto men, but unto God.

5 And Ananias, hearing these words, fell down and gave up the ghost: and great fear came on all them that heard these things.

6 And the young men arose, wound him up, and carried him out, and buried him.

7 And it was about the space of three hours after, when his wife, not knowing what was done, came in.

8 And Peter answered unto her, Tell me whether ye sold the land for so much. And she said. Yea, for so much.

9 Then Peter said unto her, How is it that ye have agreed together to tempt the Spirit of the Lord? behold, the feet of them which have buried thy husband are at the door, and shall carry thee out.

10 Then fell she down straightway at his feet, and yielded up the ghost: and the young men came in, and found her dead, and carrying her forth, buried her by her husband.

11 And great fear came upon all the church, and upon as many as heard these things.

12 ¶ And by the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people: (and they were all with one accord in Solomon's porch.

13 And of the rest durst no man join himself to them: but the people magnified them.

14 And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women.)

15 Insomuch that they brought forth the sick into the streets, and laid them on beds and couches, that at the least the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow some of them.

16 There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one.

17 ¶ Then the high-priest rose up, and all they that were with him, (which is the sect of the Sadducees,) and were filled with indignation,

18 And laid their hands on the apostles, and put them in the common prison.

19 But the angel of the Lord by night opened the prison-doors, and brought them forth, and said, 20 Go, stand and speak in the temple to the people all the words of this life.

21 And when they heard that, they entered into the temple early in the morning, and taught. But the high-priest came, and they that were with him, and called the council together, and all the senate of the children of Israel, and sent to the prison to have them brought.

22 But when the officers came, and found them not in the prison, they returned, and told,

23 Saying, The prison truly found we shut with all safety, and the keepers standing without before the doors: but when we had opened, we found no man within.

24 Now when the high-priest, and the captain of the temple, tution, Nadab and Abihu were struck dead with lightning, for a crime, as it seems, of much less aggravated guilt.

15. That at the least the shadow, &c.] The efficacy of St. Peter's shadow in curing distempers is so far from being natural, or likely to come into the mind of man, that nothing but the force of truth could have rendered it credible; and it must have been experience that gave the first notion of it. For the sick, at that time, being exposed in the streets where the apostles passed, that they might receive from them a cure by their prayers and the imposition of hands, they found that the shadow of Peter had the same power; and this unlooked-for trial became afterwards the foundation of their faith and expectation.

temple, and the chief priests, heard these things, they doubted of them whereunto this would grow.

25 Then came one and told them, saying, Behold, the men whom ye put in prison are standing in the temple, and teaching the people.

26 Then went the captain with the officers, and brought them without violence: for they feared the people, lest they should have been stoned.

27 And when they had brought them, they set them before the council: and the high priest asked them,

28 Saying, Did not we straitly command you, that ye should not teach in this name? and, behold, ye have filled Jerusalem with your doctrine, and intend to bring this man's blood upon us.

29 ¶ Then Peter and the other apostles answered and said, We ought to obey God rather than men.

30 The God of our fathers raised up Jesus, whom ye slew, and hanged on a tree.

31 Him hath God exalted with his right hand to be a Prince and a Saviour, for to give repentance to Israel, and forgiveness of sins.

32 And we are his witnesses of these things: and so is also the Holy Ghost, whom God hath given to them that obey him.

33 ¶ When they heard that, they were cut to the heart, and took counsel to slay them.

34 Then stood there up one in the council, a Pharisee, named Gamaliel, a doctor of the law, had in reputation among all the people, and commanded to put the apostles forth a little space;

35 And said unto them, Ye men of Israel, take heed to yourselves, what ye intend to do as touching these men.

36 For before these days rose up Theudas, boasting himself to be somebody, to whom a number of men, about four hundred, joined themselves: who was slain, and all as many as obeyed him were scattered, and brought to nought.

37 After this man rose up Judas of Galilee, in the days of the taxing, and drew away much people after him: he also perished, and all, even as many as obeyed him, were dispersed.

38 And now I say unto you, Refrain from these men, and let them alone: for if this counsel, or this work, be of men, it will come to nought:

39 But if it be of God, ye cannot overthrow it; lest haply ye be found even to fight against God.

40 And to him they agreed: and when they had called the apostles, and beaten them, they commanded that they should not speak in the name of Jesus, and let them go.

41 ¶ And they departed from the presence of the council, rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for his name.

42 And daily in the temple, and in every house, they ceased not to teach and preach Jesus Christ.

C H A P. VI.

The apostles' care for the poor, and preaching the word.

AND in those days, when the number of the disciples was multiplied, there arose a murmuring of the Grecians against the Hebrews, because their widows were neglected in the daily ministration.

2 Then the twelve called the multitude of the disciples unto them, and said, It is not reason that we should leave the word of God, and serve tables.

3 Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business.

4 But we will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word.

5 ¶ And the saying pleased the whole multitude: and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolas, a proselyte of Antioch;

6 Whom they set before the apostles: and when they had prayed, they laid their hands on them.

7 And the word of God increased; and the number of the disciples multiplied in Jerusalem greatly; and a great company of the priests were obedient to the faith.

8 ¶ And Stephen, full of faith and power, did great wonders and miracles among the people.

9 ¶ Then there arose certain of the synagogue, which is called the synagogue of the Libertines, and Cyrenians, and Alexandrians, and of them of Cilicia, and of Asia, disputing with Stephen.

10 And they were not able to resist the wisdom and the spirit by which he spake.

11 Then they suborned men, which said, We have heard him speak blasphemous words against Moses, and against God.

12 And they stirred up the people, and the elders, and the scribes, and came upon him, and caught him, and brought him to the council,

13 And set up false witnesses, which said, This man ceaseth not to speak blasphemous words against this holy place, and the law.

14 For we have heard him say, that this Jesus of Nazareth shall destroy this place, and shall change the customs which Moses delivered us.

15 And all that sat in the council, looking stedfastly on him, saw his face as it had been the face of an angel.

C H A P. VII.

Stephen stoned to death.

THEN said the high priest, Are these things so?

2 And he said, Men, brethren, and fathers, hearken: The God of glory appeared unto our father Abraham,

3 And said unto him, Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and come into the land which I shall shew thee.

4 Then came he out of the land of the Chaldeans, and dwelt in Charran: and from thence, when his father was dead, he removed him into this land, wherein ye now dwell.

5 And he gave him none inheritance in it, no, not so much as to set his foot on: yet he promised that he would give it to him for a possession, and to his seed after him, when as yet he had no child.

6 And God spake on this wise, That his seed should sojourn in a strange land, and that they should bring them into bondage, and entreat them evil four hundred years.

7 And the nation to whom they shall be in bondage will I judge, said God: and after that shall they come forth, and serve me in this place.

8 And he gave him the covenant of circumcision: and so Abraham begat Isaac, and circumcised him the eighth day; and Isaac begat Jacob; and Jacob begat the twelve patriarchs.

9 And the patriarchs, moved with envy, sold Joseph into Egypt: but God was with him,

10 And delivered him out of all his afflictions, and gave him favour and wisdom in the sight of Pharaoh king of Egypt; and he made him governor over Egypt, and all his house.

11 Now there came a dearth over all the land of Egypt and Chanaan, and great affliction; and our fathers found no sustenance.

12 But when Jacob heard that there was corn in Egypt, he sent out our fathers first.

13 And at the second time Joseph was made known to his brethren; and Joseph's kindred was made known unto Pharaoh.

14 Then sent Joseph, and called his father Jacob to him, and all his kindred, threescore and fifteen souls.

15 So Jacob went down into Egypt, and died, he and our fathers,

16 And were carried over into Sychem, and laid in the sepulchre that Abraham bought for a sum of money of the sons of Emmor, the father of Sychem.

17 But when the time of the promise drew nigh, which God their grandsons libertini. The rest of the synagogue were Jews that had been born in the countries respectively named.

15. As it had been the face of an angel.] Probably there was a supernatural splendour, as on the countenance of Moses.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 9. Libertines] Were Jews born at Rome, whose grandfathers had been in slavery there, and then made free. Their sons were Liberti, 60.

God had sworn to Abraham, the people grew and multiplied in Egypt, 18 Till another king arose, which knew not Joseph.

19 The same dealt subtilly with our kindred, and evil-entreated our fathers; so that they cast out their young children, to the end they might not live.

20 In which time Moses was born, and was exceeding fair, and nourished up in his father's house three months.

21 And when he was cast out, Pharaoh's daughter took him up, and nourished him for her own son.

22 And Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in words and in deeds.

23 And when he was full forty years old, it came into his heart to visit his brethren the children of Israel.

24 And seeing one of them suffer wrong, he defended him, and avenged him that was oppressed, and smote the Egyptian:

25 For he supposed his brethren would have understood, how that God by his hand would deliver them; but they understood not.

26 And the next day he shewed himself unto them as they strove, and would have set them at one again, saying, Sirs, ye are brethren; why do ye wrong one to another?

27 But he that did his neighbour wrong thrust him away, saying, Who made thee a ruler and a judge over us?

28 Wilt thou kill me, as thou didst the Egyptian yesterday?

29 Then fled Moses at this saying, and was a stranger in the land of Madian, where he begat two sons.

30 And when forty years were expired, there appeared to him in the wilderness of mount Sina, an angel of the Lord in a flame of fire in a bush.

31 When Moses saw it, he wondered at the sight: and as he drew near to behold it, the voice of the Lord came unto him, 32 Saying, I am the God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob. Then Moses trembled, and durst not behold.

33 Then said the Lord to him, Put off thy shoes from thy feet: for the place where thou standest is holy ground.

34 I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them. And now come, I will send thee into Egypt.

35 This Moses, whom they refused, saying, Who made thee a ruler and a judge? the same did God send to be a ruler and a deliverer by the hand of the angel which appeared to him in the bush.

36 He brought them out, after that he had shewed wonders and signs in the land of Egypt, and in the Red sea, and in the wilderness forty years.

37 ¶ This is that Moses which said unto the children of Israel, A Prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me: him shall ye hear.

38 This is he that was in the church in the wilderness, with the angel which spake to him in the mount Sina, and with our fathers: who received the lively oracles to give unto us;

39 To whom our fathers would not obey, but thrust him from them, and in their hearts turned back again into Egypt,

40 Saying unto Aaron, Make us gods to go before us: for as for this Moses, which brought us out of the land of Egypt, we wot not what is become of him.

41 And they made a calf in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their own hands.

42 Then God turned, and gave them up to worship the host of heaven, as it is written in the book of the prophets, O ye house of Israel, have ye offered to me slain beasts, and sacrifices, by the space of forty years in the wilderness?

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verse 48. The most High dwelleth not, &c.] The design of these words was to shew the Jews, that though the temple was built by the special direction of God, yet they were not to suppose that the effects of his favour were solely confined to it: but that now, under the gospel dispensation, which the Gentiles as well as the Jews were invited to share in the privileges of, public places of worship might be any where indifferently erected to God, and his heavenly benediction piously expected in them.

43 Yea, ye took up the tabernacle of Moloch, and the star of your god Remphan, figures which ye made to worship them; and I will carry you away beyond Babylon.

44 Our fathers had the tabernacle of witness in the wilderness, as he had appointed, speaking unto Moses, that he should make it according to the fashion that he had seen.

45 Which also our fathers that came after brought in with Jesus into the possession of the Gentiles, whom God drave out before the face of our fathers, unto the days of David;

46 Who found favour before God, and desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob.

47 But Solomon built him an house.

48 Howbeit, the most High dwelleth not in temples made with hands; as saith the prophet,

49 Heaven is my throne, and earth is my footstool: what house will ye build me? saith the Lord; or what is the place of my rest?

50 Hath not my hand made all these things?

51 ¶ Ye stiff-necked, and uncircumcised in heart and ears, ye do always resist the Holy Ghost: as your fathers did, so do ye.

52 Which of the prophets have not your fathers persecuted? and they have slain them which shewed before of the coming of the just One, of whom ye have been now the betrayers and murderers:

53 Who have received the law by the disposition of angels, and have not kept it.

54 ¶ When they heard these things, they were cut to the heart, and they gnashed on him with their teeth.

55 But he, being full of the Holy Ghost, looked up stedfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, 56 And said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God.

57 Then they cried out with a loud voice, and stopped their ears, and ran upon him with one accord,

58 And cast him out of the city, and stoned him: and the witnesses laid down their clothes at a young man's feet; whose name was Saul.

59 And they stoned Stephen, calling upon God, and saying, Lord Jesus, receive my spirit.

60 And he kneeled down, and cried with a loud voice, Lord, lay not this sin to their charge. And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

C H A P. VIII.

Simon the sorcerer.

AND Saul was consenting unto his death. And at that time there was a great persecution against the church which was at Jerusalem; and they were all scattered abroad throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria, except the apostles.

2 And devout men carried Stephen to his burial, and made great lamentation over him.

3 As for Saul, he made havock of the church, entering into every house, and hailing men and women, committed them to prison.

4 Therefore they that were scattered abroad went every where preaching the word.

5 Then Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them.

6 And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did.

7 For unclean spirits, crying with loud voice, came out of many that were possessed with them; and many taken with palsies, and that were lame, were healed.

8 And there was great joy in that city.

9 But there was a certain man called Simon, which before

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 9. A certain man called Simon, &c.] This man was a pretended convert to Christianity; but upon being rejected by the apostles, he soon turned apostate; and, being a man of an ambitious and daring temper, out of pure revenge, violently opposed them, and became the first broacher of several abominable heresies.

13. Wondered before-time in the same city used sorcery, and bewitched the people of Samaria, giving out that himself was some great one.

10 To whom they all gave heed, from the least to the greatest, saying, This man is the great power of God.

11 And to him they had regard, because that of long time he had bewitched them with sorceries.

12 But when they believed Philip, preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women.

13 Then Simon himself believed also; and when he was baptized, he continued with Philip, and wondered, beholding the miracles and signs which were done.

14 ¶ Now when the apostles, which were at Jerusalem, heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John;

15 Who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost.

16 (For as yet he was fallen upon none of them, only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.)

17 Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost:

18 And when Simon saw that through laying on of the apostles' hands the Holy Ghost was given, he offered them money,

19 Saying, Give me also this power, that on whomsoever I lay hands, he may receive the Holy Ghost.

20 But Peter said unto him, Thy money perish with thee, because thou hast thought that the gift of God may be purchased with money.

21 Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter: for thy heart is not right in the sight of God.

22 Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray God, if perhaps the thought of thine heart may be forgiven thee.

23 For I perceive that thou art in the gall of bitterness, and in the bond of iniquity.

24 Then answered Simon, and said, Pray ye to the Lord for me, that none of these things which ye have spoken come upon me.

25 And they, when they had testified and preached the word of the Lord, returned to Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans.

26 ¶ And the angel of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying, Arise, and go toward the south, unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza, which is desert.

27 And he arose and went: and, behold, a man of Ethiopia, an eunuch of great authority under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who had the charge of all her treasure, and had come to Jerusalem for to worship, 28 Was returning, and sitting in his chariot, read Esaias the prophet.

29 Then the Spirit said unto Philip, Go near, and join thyself to this chariot.

30 And Philip ran thither to him, and heard him read the prophet Esaias, and said, Understandest thou what thou readeest?

31 And he said, How can I, except some man should guide me? And he desired Philip that he would come up and sit with him.

32 The place of the scripture which he read was this, He was led as a sheep to the slaughter, and like a lamb dumb before his shearer, so opened he not his mouth.

33 In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth.

34 And the eunuch answered Philip, and said, I pray thee, of whom speaketh the prophet this? of himself? or of some other man?

35 Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus.

36 And as they went on their way, they came unto a certain water: and the eunuch said, See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized?

37 And Philip said, If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God.

38 And he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they went down both into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him.

39 And when they were come up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip, that the eunuch saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing.

40 But Philip was found at Azotus; and passing through, he preached in all the cities, till he came to Cesarea.

CHAP. IX.

Saul's miraculous conversion.

AND Saul, yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord, went unto the high-priest,

2 And desired of him letters to Damascus to the synagogues, that if he found any of this way, whether they were men or women, he might bring them bound unto Jerusalem.

3 And as he journeyed, he came near Damascus: and suddenly their shined round about him a light from heaven.

4 And he fell to the earth, and heard a voice saying, unto him, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

5 And he said, Who art thou, Lord? And the Lord said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest. It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

6 And he trembling and astonished, said, Lord, what wilt thou have me to do? And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 And the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man.

8 And Saul arose from the earth; and when his eyes were opened, he saw no man; but they led him by the hand, and brought him into Damascus.

9 And he was three days without sight, and neither did eat nor drink.

10 ¶ And there was a certain disciple at Damascus, named Ananias; and to him said the Lord in a vision, Ananias. And he said, Behold, I am here, Lord.

11 And the Lord said unto him, Arise, and go into the street which is called Straight, and enquire in the house of Judas for one called Saul of Tarsus; for, behold, he prayeth!

12 And hath seen in a vision a man named Ananias, coming in, and putting his hand on him, that he might receive his sight.

13 Then Ananias answered, Lord, I have heard by many of this man, how much evil he hath done to thy saints at Jerusalem;

14 And here he hath authority from the chief priests to bind all that call on thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way; for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles, and kings, and the children of Israel.

16 For I will shew him how great things he must suffer for my name's sake.

17 And

13. Wondered, beholding the miracles.] He might probably think Philip an abler magician than himself, and hope, by pretending to be his disciple, he might have an opportunity of learning his superior arts.

14. They sent unto them Peter.] It is observable, that as Peter was sent on this errand by the other apostles, they had no notion of his being their head or superior.

27. An eunuch.] This word often means a great officer of state.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IX.

Verse 2. Letters to Damascus, &c.] Damascus was the capital city of Syria. From this passage it appears, that however the Jews were cramped in several privileges belonging originally to their nation, yet after they became a Roman province, their great council at Jerusalem had a jurisdiction, which extended to all synagogues, even those that were out of Judea.

5. It is hard for thee, &c.] A proverb, expressive of impotent rage, which hurts one's self, and not that against which it is levelled.

11. Behold, he prayeth!] No doubt he often prayed while he continued a Pharisee; but never so sensibly and feelingly, so spiritually and affectionately, and with such perseverance, as now. Before, he prayed with coldness and indifferency, now with warmth and fervency, as a person in earnest for the happiness and salvation of his soul; and therefore is here characterized with a note of attention, Behold, he prayeth!

29. Coming

17 And Ananias went his way, and entered into the house; and putting his hands on him, said, Brother Saul, the Lord, even Jesus, that appeared unto thee in the way as thou camest, hath sent me, that thou mightest receive thy sight, and be filled with the Holy Ghost.

18 And immediately there fell from his eyes as it had been scales; and he received sight forthwith, and arose, and was baptized.

19 And when he had received meat he was strengthened. Then was Saul certain days with the disciples which were at Damascus.

20 And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.

21 But all that heard him were amazed, and said, Is not this he that destroyed them which called on this name in Jerusalem, and came hither for that intent, that he might bring them bound unto the chief priests?

22 But Saul increased the more in strength, and confounded the Jews which dwelt at Damascus, proving that this is very Christ.

23 ¶ And after that many days were fulfilled, the Jews took counsel to kill him:

24 But their laying await was known of Saul: and they watched the gates day and night to kill him.

25 Then the disciples took him by night, and let him down by the wall in a basket.

26 ¶ And when Saul was come to Jerusalem, he assayed to join himself to the disciples: but they were all afraid of him, and believed not that he was a disciple.

27 But Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles, and declared unto them, how he had seen the Lord in the way, and that he had spoken to him, and how he had preached boldly at Damascus in the name of Jesus.

28 And he was with them, coming in and going out, at Jerusalem.

29 And he spake boldly in the name of the Lord Jesus, and disputed against the Grecians: but they went about to slay him.

30 Which when the brethren knew, they brought him down to Cesarea, and sent him forth to Tarsus.

31 ¶ Then had the churches rest throughout all Judea, and Galilee, and Samaria, and were edified; and walking in the fear of the Lord, and in the comfort of the Holy Ghost, were multiplied.

32 ¶ And it came to pass, as Peter passed throughout all quarters, he came down also to the saints which dwelt at Lydda.

33 And there he found a certain man named Eneas, which had kept his bed eight years, and was sick of the palsy.

34 And Peter said unto him, Eneas, Jesus Christ maketh thee whole: arise, and make thy bed. And he arose immediately.

35 And all that dwelt in Lydda and Saron saw him, and turned to the Lord.

36 ¶ Now there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works and alms-deeds which she did.

37 And it came to pass in those days, that she was sick, and died: whom when they had washed, they laid her in an upper chamber.

38 And forasmuch as Lydda was nigh to Joppa, and the disciples had heard that Peter was there, they sent unto him two men, desiring him that he would not delay to come to them.

39 Then Peter arose, and went with them. When he was come, they brought him into the upper chamber: and all the widows stood by him weeping, and shewing the coats and garments which Dorcas made while she was with them.

40 But Peter put them all forth, and kneeled down, and prayed, and turning him to the body, said, Tabitha, arise. And she opened her eyes: and when she saw Peter, she sat up.

41 And he gave her his hand, and lifted her up; and when he had called the saints and widows, he presented her alive.

42 And it was known throughout all Joppa; and many believed in the Lord.

43 And it came to pass, that he tarried many days in Joppa with one Simon a tanner.

C H A P. X.

Cornelius sendeth for Peter.

THERE was a certain man in Cesarea, called Cornelius, a centurion of the band called the Italian band,

2 A devout man, and one that feared God with all his house, which gave much alms to the people, and prayed to God alway.

3 He saw in a vision evidently, about the ninth hour of the day, an angel of God coming in to him, and saying unto him, Cornelius.

4 And when he looked on him, he was afraid, and said, What is it, Lord? And he said unto him, Thy prayers and thine alms are come up for a memorial before God.

5 And now send men to Joppa, and call for one Simon, whose surname is Peter:

6 He lodgeth with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea-side: he shall tell thee what thou oughtest to do.

7 And when the angel which spake unto Cornelius was departed, he called two of his household servants, and a devout soldier of them that waited on him continually;

8 And when he had declared all these things unto them, he sent them to Joppa.

9 ¶ On the morrow, as they went on their journey, and drew nigh unto the city, Peter went up upon the house-top, to pray, about the sixth hour.

10 And he became very hungry, and would have eaten: but while they made ready, he fell into a trance,

11 And saw heaven opened, and a certain vessel descending unto him, as it had been a great sheet, knit at the four corners, and let down to the earth:

12 Wherein were all manner of four-footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

13 And there came a voice to him, Rise, Peter; kill, and eat.

14 But Peter said, Not so, Lord; for I have never eaten any thing that is common or unclean.

15 And the voice spake unto him again the second time, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

16 This was done thrice: and the vessel was received up again into heaven.

17 ¶ Now while Peter doubted in himself what this vision which he had seen should mean; behold, the men which were sent from Cornelius had made enquiry for Simon's house, and stood before the gate,

18 And called, and asked whether Simon, which was surnamed Peter, were lodged there.

19 ¶ While Peter thought on the vision, the Spirit said unto him, Behold, three men seek thee.

20 Arise therefore, and get thee down, and go with them, doubting nothing: for I have sent them.

21 Then Peter went down to the men which were sent unto him from Cornelius; and said, Behold, I am he whom ye seek: what is the cause wherefore ye are come?

22 And they said, Cornelius the centurion, a just man, and one that feareth God, and of good report among all the nation of the Jews, was warned from God by an holy angel to send for thee into his house, and to hear words of thee.

23 Then

23. Coming in and going out.] He lived intimately with him fifteen days; see Gal. 1. 18.

36. Joppa.] A seaport on the Mediterranean, the nearest maritime town to Jerusalem.

Tabitha—called Dorcas.] As she was a Jewess, who spoke nothing but Greek, she was called by the former name among the Jews, and by the latter among the Greeks; for, in both languages, the two names signify the same thing, namely, a doe, or fawn.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 4. For a memorial before God.] This is a beautiful allusion to the odours and fragrances of sacrifice and incense ascending to the skies; grateful to God as his own appointment, and expressive of the duty and obedience of his pious worshippers.

9. The house-top.] The houses in this country had flat roofs of terrace, and were guarded with balustrades or parapet-walls.

W. H. St. John

23 Then called he them in, and lodged them. And on the morrow Peter went away with them, and certain brethren from Joppa accompanied him.

24 And the morrow after they entered into Cesarea: and Cornelius waited for them, and had called together his kinsmen and near friends.

25 ¶ And as Peter was coming in, Cornelius met him, and fell down at his feet, and worshipped him.

26 But Peter took him up, saying, Stand up; I myself also am a man.

27 And as he talked with him, he went in, and found many that were come together.

28 And he said unto them, Ye know how that it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to keep company, or come unto one of another nation: but God hath shewed me, that I should not call any man common or unclean.

29 Therefore came I unto you without gainsaying, as soon as I was sent for: I ask, therefore, for what intent ye have sent for me?

30 And Cornelius said, Four days ago I was fasting until this hour, and at the ninth hour I prayed in my house, and, behold, a man stood before me in bright clothing,

31 And said, Cornelius, thy prayer is heard, and thine alms are had in remembrance in the sight of God.

32 Send therefore to Joppa, and call hither Simon, whose surname is Peter; he is lodged in the house of one Simon a tanner, by the sea-side; who, when he cometh, shall speak unto thee.

33 Immediately therefore I sent to thee; and thou hast well done that thou art come. Now therefore are we all here present before God, to hear all things that are commanded thee of God.

34 ¶ Then Peter opened his mouth, and said, Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons:

35 But in every nation, he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is accepted with him.

36 The word which God sent unto the children of Israel, preaching peace by Jesus Christ; (he is Lord of all;)

37 That word, Isay, ye know, which was published throughout all Judea, and began from Galilee, after the baptism which John preached:

38 How God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Ghost, and with power; who went about doing good, and healing all that were oppressed of the devil: for God was with him.

39 And we are witnesses of all things which he did, both in the land of the Jews, and in Jerusalem; whom they slew, and hanged on a tree:

40 Him God raised up the third day, and shewed him openly;

41 Not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead.

42 And he commanded us to preach unto the people, and to testify that it is he which was ordained of God to be the Judge of quick and dead.

43 To him give all the prophets witness, that, through his name, whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins.

44 ¶ While Peter yet spake these words, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the word.

45 And they of the circumcision which believed were astonished, as many as came with Peter, because that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghost.

46 For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, 47 Can any man forbid water, that these should not be baptized, which have received the Holy Ghost as well as we?

48 And he commanded them to be baptized in the name of the Lord. Then prayed they him to tarry certain days.

C H A P. XI.

Peter accused for going in to the Gentiles.

AND the apostles and brethren that were in Judea heard that the Gentiles had also received the word of God.

2 And when Peter was come up to Jerusalem, they that were of the circumcision contended with him,

3 Saying, Thou wentest in to men uncircumcised, and didst eat with them.

4 But Peter rehearsed the matter from the beginning, and expounded it by order unto them, saying,

5 I was in the city of Joppa, praying; and in a trance I saw a vision, A certain vessel descend, as it had been a great sheet, let down from heaven by four corners; and it came even to me.

6 Upon the which when I had fastened mine eyes, I considered, and saw four-footed beasts of the earth, and wild beasts, and creeping things, and fowls of the air.

7 And I heard a voice saying unto me, Arise, Peter; slay and eat.

8 But I said, Not so, Lord: for nothing common or unclean hath at any time entered into my mouth.

9 But the voice answered me again from heaven, What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common.

10 And this was done three times: and all were drawn up again into heaven.

11 And, behold, immediately there were three men already come unto the house where I was, sent from Cesarea unto me.

12 And the Spirit bade me go with them, nothing doubting. Moreover, these six brethren accompanied me, and we entered into the man's house:

13 And he shewed us how he had seen an angel in his house, which stood, and said unto him, Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter:

14 Who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved.

15 And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, as on us at the beginning.

16 Then remembered I the word of the Lord, how that he said, John indeed baptized with water; but ye shall be baptized with the Holy Ghost.

17 Forasmuch then as God gave them the like gift as he did unto us, who believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, what was I that I could withstand God?

18 When they heard these things, they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then hath God also to the Gentiles granted repentance unto life.

19 ¶ Now they which were scattered abroad upon the persecution that arose about Stephen, travelled as far as Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, preaching the word to none but unto the Jews only.

20 And some of them were men of Cyprus and Cyrene, which, when they were come to Antioch, spake unto the Grecians, preaching the Lord Jesus.

21 And the hand of the Lord was with them: and a great number believed, and turned unto the Lord.

22 ¶ Then tidings of these things came unto the ears of the church which was in Jerusalem: and they sent forth Barnabas, that he should go as far as Antioch.

23 Who when he came, and had seen the grace of God, was glad, and exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord.

24 For he was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith: and much people was added unto the Lord.

25 Then departed Barnabas to Tarsus, for to seek Saul:

26 And when he had found him, he brought him unto Antioch. And it came to pass, that a whole year they assembled themselves with the church, and taught much people. And the disciples were called Christians first in Antioch.

27 ¶ And

25. Worshipped him.] Prostration still prevails in the east, as an instance of shewing the highest respect; besides, he might look upon Peter as a divine messenger.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 2. Contended with him.] The Jews, apprehending that the Messiah had been sent to none but the seed of Abraham, were greatly offended at the call and conversion of the Gentiles; and accordingly contended with Peter for eating, conversing, and admitting them into the Christian communion without circumcision.

4. Peter rehearsed the matter, &c.] He might have overborne them by urging his apostolical authority, and referring them to the miracles by which it was established; but he chose to treat them in a more gentle manner, thereby exhibiting a most amiable example of humility and condescension.

26. Called Christians first in Antioch.] Before this they were called among 27 ¶ And in these days came prophets from Jerusalem unto Antioch.

28 And there stood up one of them, named Agabus, and signified by the Spirit, that there should be great dearth throughout all the world: which came to pass in the days of Claudius Cesar.

29 Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judea.

30 Which also they did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul.

C H A P. XII.

King Herod persecuteth the Christians.

NOW about that time, Herod the king stretched forth his hands to vex certain of the church.

2 And he killed James, the brother of John, with the sword.

3 And because he saw it pleased the Jews, he proceeded further to take Peter also. (Then were the days of unleavened bread.)

4 And when he had apprehended him, he put him in prison, and delivered him to four quaternions of soldiers to keep him, intending after Easter to bring him forth to the people.

5 Peter therefore was kept in prison; but prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him.

6 And when Herod would have brought him forth, the same night Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains: and the keepers before the door kept the prison.

7 And, behold, the angel of the Lord came upon him, and a light shined in the prison: and he smote Peter on the side, and raised him up, saying, Arise up quickly. And his chains fell off from his hands.

8 And the angel said unto him, Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And so he did. And he saith unto him, Cast thy garment about thee, and follow me.

9 And he went out, and followed him, and wist not that it was true which was done by the angel; but thought he saw a vision.

10 When they were past the first and the second ward, they came unto the iron gate that leadeth unto the city, which opened to them of his own accord; and they went out, and passed on through one street, and forthwith the angel departed from him.

11 And when Peter was come to himself he said, Now I know of a surety that the Lord hath sent his angel, and hath delivered me out of the hand of Herod, and from all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

12 And when he had considered the thing, he came to the house of Mary the mother of John, whose surname was Mark, where many were gathered together, praying.

13 And as Peter knocked at the door of the gate, a damsel came to hearken, named Rhoda.

14 And when she knew Peter's voice, she opened not the gate for gladness, but ran in, and told how Peter stood before the gate.

15 And they said unto her, Thou art mad. But she constantly affirmed that it was even so. Then said they, It is his angel.

16 But Peter continued knocking: and when they had opened the door, and saw him, they were astonished.

17 But he, beckoning unto them with the hand to hold among themselves, brethren, saints, disciples, believers, and those that called on the name of Christ; and, among their enemies, Galileans, Nazarenes, and men of the sect: but now, by the conversion of so many heathens, both in Cesarea and Antioch, the believing Jews and Gentiles being all made one church, this new name was given them, as being more expressive of their common relation to Christ, their great Master and Lord.

28. Throughout all the world:] i. e. The whole Roman empire.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XII.

Verse 6. Peter was sleeping between two soldiers, &c.] This was the Roman method of securing a prisoner. He was fastened by two chains to two soldiers, on each side one, while two others stood guard at the prison door.

15. It is his angel.] As it was a common opinion among the Jews, that angels were sent down from heaven about their affairs, they, by his angel, might understand either a guardian angel attending on him, or an angel sent from heaven to acquaint them with something relating to him, in answer to their prayers.

their peace, declared unto them how the Lord had brought him out of the prison. And he said, Go, shew these things unto James, and to the brethren. And he departed, and went into another place.

18 Now, as soon as it was day, there was no small stir among the soldiers, what was become of Peter.

19 And when Herod had sought for him, and found him not, he examined the keepers, and commanded that they should be put to death. And he went down from Judea to Cesarea, and there abode.

20 ¶ And Herod was highly displeased with them of Tyre and Sidon: but they came with one accord to him, and having made Blastus the king's chamberlain their friend, desired peace; because their country was nourished by the king's country.

21 And upon a set day, Herod, arrayed in royal apparel, sat upon his throne, and made an oration unto them.

22 And the people gave a shout, saying, It is the voice of a god, and not of a man.

23 And immediately the angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the glory: and he was eaten of worms, and gave up the ghost.

24 ¶ But the word of God grew and multiplied.

25 And Barnabas and Saul returned from Jerusalem, when they had fulfilled their ministry, and took with them John, whose surname was Mark.

C H A P. XIII.

Paul and Barnabas go to the Gentiles.

NOW there were in the church that was at Antioch certain prophets and teachers; as Barnabas, and Simeon that was called Niger, and Lucius of Cyrene, and Manaen, which had been brought up with Herod the tetrarch, and Saul.

2 As they ministered to the Lord, and fasted, the Holy Ghost said, Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them.

3 And when they had fasted and prayed, and laid their hands on them, they sent them away.

4 ¶ So they, being sent forth by the Holy Ghost, departed unto Selucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus.

5 And when they were at Salamis, they preached the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews: and they had also John to their minister.

6 And when they had gone through the isle unto Paphos, they found a certain sorcerer, a false prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus;

7 Which was with the deputy of the country, Sergius Paulus, a prudent man; who called for Barnabas and Saul, and desired to hear the word of God.

8 But Elymas the sorcerer (for so is his name by interpretation) withstood them, seeking to turn away the deputy from the faith.

9 Then Saul, (who also is called Paul,) filled with the Holy Ghost, set his eyes on him,

10 And said, O, full of all subtilty and all mischief, thou child of the devil, thou enemy of all righteousness! wilt thou not cease to pervert the right ways of the Lord?

11 And now, behold, the hand of the Lord is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun for a season. And immediately there fell on him a mist and a darkness; and he went about seeking some to lead him by the hand.

12 Then

17. Went into another place.] He went into retirement, to avoid the search of his persecutors.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 1. Simeon that was called Niger:] Or, the Black, from his swarthy complexion.

Manaen, &c.] This person was doubtless of considerable family and distinction, because we find that he was brought up with Herod the tetrarch, who put John the Baptist to death; and yet we are told that he was one of the seventy disciples, and suffered martyrdom at Antioch.

3. Laid their hands on them.] This laying on of hands was not designed to give them any episcopal authority, as is pretended, but merely to recommend them to the grace of God for the work which they were to fulfil. Thus the children of Israel laid their hands on the Levites, when they were separated to the service of Aaron and his sons; and thus our blessed Saviour, when the children were brought to him, laid his hands on them, and blessed them.

12. The

12 Then the deputy, when he saw what was done, believed, being astonished at the doctrine of the Lord.

13 ¶ Now, when Paul and his company loosed from Paphos, they came to Perga in Pamphylia: and John departing from them, returned to Jerusalem.

14 But when they departed from Perga, they came to Antioch in Pisidia, and went into the synagogue on the sabbath-day, and sat down.

15 And after the reading of the law and the prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent unto them, saying, Ye men and brethren, if ye have any word of exhortation for the people, say on.

16 Then Paul stood up, and, beckoning with his hand, said, Men of Israel, and ye that fear God, give audience.

17 The God of this people of Israel chose our fathers, and exalted the people, when they dwelt as strangers in the land of Egypt, and with an high arm brought he them out of it.

18 And about the time of forty years suffered he their manners in the wilderness.

19 And when he had destroyed seven nations in the land of Chanaan, he divided their land to them by lot.

20 And after that he gave unto them judges, about the space of four hundred and fifty years, until Samuel the prophet.

21 And afterward they desired a king: and God gave unto them Saul the son of Cis, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, by the space of forty years.

22 And when he had removed him, he raised up unto them David to be their king: to whom also he gave testimony, and said, I have found David the son of Jesse, a man after mine own heart, which shall fulfil all my will.

23 Of this man's seed hath God, according to his promise, raised unto Israel a Saviour, Jesus:

24 When John had first preached before his coming the baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel.

25 And as John fulfilled his course, he said, Whom think ye that I am? I am not he. But, behold, there cometh one after me, whose shoes of his feet I am not worthy to loose.

26 Men and brethren, children of the stock of Abraham, and whosoever among you feareth God, to you is the word of this salvation sent.

27 For they that dwell at Jerusalem, and their rulers, because they knew him not, nor yet the voices of the prophets which are read every sabbath-day, they have fulfilled them in condemning him.

28 And though they found no cause of death in him, yet desired they Pilate that he should be slain.

29 And when they had fulfilled all that was written of him, they took him down from the tree, and laid him in a sepulchre.

30 But God raised him from the dead:

31 And he was seen many days of them which came up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are his witnesses unto the people.

32 And we declare unto you glad tidings, how that the promise which was made unto the fathers,

33 God hath fulfilled the same unto us their children, in that he hath raised up Jesus again; as it is also written in the second Psalm, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.

34 And as concerning that he raised him up from the dead, now no more to return to corruption, he said on this wise, I will give you the sure mercies of David.

35 Wherefore he saith also in another Psalm, Thou shalt not suffer thine holy One to see corruption:

36 For David, after he had served his own generation by the will of God, fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption;

37 But he, whom God raised again saw no corruption.

12. The deputy, when he saw what was done, believed.] The deputy was astonished to see the sentence of blindness, denounced by Paul on the sorcerer, immediately executed; and justly concluded, that no person could perform such miracles, but by power from on high.

30. God raised him from the dead.] The apostle, to take away the scandal of the cross, shews, that our Saviour's resurrection was as glorious as his death was ignominious.

38 ¶ Be it known unto you therefore, men and brethren, that through this man is preached unto you the forgiveness of sins:

39 And by him all that believe are justified from all things, from which ye could not be justified by the law of Moses.

40 Beware, therefore, lest that come upon you which is spoken of in the prophets;

41 Behold, ye despisers, and wonder, and perish: for I work a work in your days, a work which ye shall in no wise believe, though a man declare it unto you.

42 ¶ And when the Jews were gone out of the synagogue, the Gentiles besought that these words might be preached to them the next sabbath.

43 Now when the congregation was broken up, many of the Jews and religious proselytes followed Paul and Barnabas; who speaking to them, persuaded them to continue in the grace of God.

44 ¶ And the next sabbath-day came almost the whole city together to hear the word of God.

45 But when the Jews saw the multitudes, they were filled with envy, and spake against those things which were spoken by Paul, contradicting and blaspheming.

46 Then Paul and Barnabas waxed bold, and said, It was necessary that the word of God should first have been spoken to you: but seeing ye put it from you, and judge yourselves unworthy of everlasting life, lo, we turn to the Gentiles.

47 For so hath the Lord commanded us, saying, I have set thee to be a light of the Gentiles, that thou shouldest be for salvation unto the ends of the earth.

48 And when the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of the Lord: and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed.

49 And the word of the Lord was published throughout all the region.

50 ¶ But the Jews stirred up the devout and honourable women, and the chief men of the city, and raised persecution against Paul and Barnabas, and expelled them out of their coasts.

51 But they shook off the dust of their feet against them, and came unto Iconium.

52 And the disciples were filled with joy, and with the Holy Ghost.

C H A P. XIV.

Paul and Barnabas are persecuted.

AND it came to pass in Iconium, that they went both together into the synagogue of the Jews, and so spake, that a great multitude, both of the Jews, and also of the Greeks, believed.

2 But the unbelieving Jews stirred up the Gentiles, and made their minds evil-affected against the brethren.

3 Long time therefore abode they, speaking boldly in the Lord, which gave testimony unto the word of his grace, and granted signs and wonders to be done by their hands.

4 But the multitude of the city was divided: and part held with the Jews, and part with the apostles.

5 And when there was an assault made, both of the Gentiles, and also of the Jews, with their rulers, to use them despitefully, and to stone them,

6 They were aware of it, and fled unto Lystra and Derbe, cities of Lycaonia, and unto the region that lieth round about:

7 And there they preached the gospel.

8 ¶ And there sat a certain man at Lystra, impotent in his feet, being a cripple from his mother's womb, who never had walked.

9 The same heard Paul speak; who stedfastly beholding him, and perceiving that he had faith to be healed,

10 Said with a loud voice, Stand upright on thy feet. And he leaped and walked.

11 And

39. Ye could not be justified, &c.] There being several great crimes, as murder, adultery, &c. for which no regular expiation was allowed under the law; from which curse men are now, by true repentance and amendment, delivered under the gospel; which is therefore styled, the righteousness of God to men.

11 And when the people saw what Paul had done, they lifted up their voices, saying, in the speech of Lycaonia, The gods are come down to us in the likeness of men.

12 And they called Barnabas Jupiter, and Paul Mercurius, because he was the chief speaker.

13 Then the priest of Jupiter, which was before their city, brought oxen and garlands unto the gates, and would have done sacrifice with the people.

14 Which when the apostles, Barnabas and Paul, heard of, they rent their clothes, and ran in among the people, crying out,

15 And saying, Sirs, why do ye these things? We also are men of like passions with you, and preach unto you, that ye should turn from these vanities unto the living God, which made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein:

16 Who in times past suffered all nations to walk in their own ways.

17 Nevertheless, he left not himself without witness, in that he did good, and gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness.

18 And with these sayings scarce restrained they the people, that they had not done sacrifice unto them.

19 ¶ And there came thither certain Jews from Antioch and Iconium, who persuaded the people; and, having stoned Paul, drew him out of the city, supposing he had been dead.

20 Howbeit, as the disciples stood round about him, he rose up, and came into the city: and the next day he departed with Barnabas to Derbe.

21 And when they had preached the gospel to that city, and had taught many, they returned again to Lystra, and to Iconium, and to Antioch,

22 Confirming the souls of the disciples, and exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that we must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God.

23 And when they had ordained them elders in every church, and had prayed with fasting, they commended them to the Lord, on whom they believed.

24 And, after they had passed throughout Pisidia, they came to Pamphylia.

25 And when they had preached the word in Perga, they went down into Attalia:

26 And thence sailed to Antioch, from whence they had been recommended to the grace of God, for the work which they fulfilled.

27 And when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all that God had done with them, and how he had opened the door of faith unto the Gentiles.

28 And there they abode long time with the disciples.

C H A P. XV.

Dissension about circumcision.

AND certain men which came down from Judea taught the brethren, and said, Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved.

2 When therefore Paul and Barnabas had no small dissension and disputation with them, they determined that Paul and Barnabas, and certain other of them, should go up to Jerusalem, unto the apostles and elders, about this question.

3 And, being brought on their way by the church, they passed through Phenice, and Samaria, declaring the conversion of the Gentiles: and they caused great joy unto all the brethren.

4 And when they were come to Jerusalem, they were received of the church, and of the apostles and elders; and they declared all things that God had done with them.

5 But there rose up certain of the sect of the Pharisees which believed, saying, That it was needful to circumcise them, and to command them to keep the law of Moses.

6 ¶ And the apostles and elders came together for to consider of this matter.

7 And, when there had been much disputing, Peter rose up, and said unto them, Men and brethren, ye know how that, a good while ago, God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel, and believe.

8 And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us:

9 And put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith.

10 Now, therefore, why tempt ye God, to put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which neither our fathers nor we were able to bear?

11 But we believe that, through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, we shall be saved even as they.

12 ¶ Then all the multitude kept silence, and gave audience to Barnabas and Paul, declaring what miracles and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles by them.

13 ¶ And after they had held their peace, James answered, saying, Men and brethren, hearken unto me:

14 Simeon hath declared how God at the first did visit the Gentiles, to take out of them a people for his name.

15 And to this agree the words of the prophets; as it is written,

16 After this I will return, and will build again the tabernacle of David, which is fallen down: and I will build again the ruins thereof, and I will set it up:

17 That the residue of men might seek after the Lord, and all the Gentiles, upon whom my name is called, saith the Lord, who doeth all these things.

18 Known unto God are all his works, from the beginning of the world.

19 Wherefore my sentence is, that we trouble not them, which from among the Gentiles are turned to God:

20 But that we write unto them, that they abstain from pollutions of idols, and from fornication, and from things strangled, and from blood.

21 For Moses of old time hath in every city them that preach him, being read in the synagogues every sabbath-day.

22 Then pleased it the apostles and elders, with the whole church, to send chosen men of their own company to Antioch, with Paul and Barnabas; namely, Judas surnamed Barsabas, and Silas, chief men among the brethren:

23 And they wrote letters by them after this manner; The apostles, and elders, and brethren, send greeting unto the

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIV.

Verse 11. In the likeness of men.] It was a common notion among the heathen, that the gods often appeared in the form of men: hence we find Cicero endeavouring to prove, that the gods must be of human shape, because they never appeared in any other form.

12. They called Barnabas Jupiter, &c.] Mr. Harrington well observes, that this persuasion might gain the more easily on the minds of the Lycaonians, on account of the well-known fable of Jupiter and Mercury, who were said to have descended from heaven in human shape, and to have been entertained by Lycaon, from whom the Lycaonians derived their name.

15. These vanities.] These idols; a bold expression, when considered as addressed to a crowd of bigoted idolaters, with their priest at their head.

20. He rose up, and came into the city.] To shew himself alive, and confirm the faith of his new converts. His cure must have been miraculous, approaching, as near as one can conceive, to a resurrection from the dead. This is further illustrated, by his going the next day to Derbe; whereas, in course of nature, he would have then felt his bruises much more than at first.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XV.

Verse 2. They determined that Paul and Barnabas—should go up to Jerusalem, &c.] St. Paul, in his epistle to the Galatians, chap. 2. 2. mentions a circumstance not recorded in the history of the Acts, namely, that he went up at this time to Jerusalem by revelation; which is very consistent with this journey.

5. Certain of the sect of the Pharisees.] Some Christians, who had been Pharisees, and refused holding communion with the Gentiles that believed, unless they were circumcised.

20. From things strangled, and from blood.] The Jews had so strong an aversion to blood, that they accounted all who made use of it in food as creatures sadly polluted, and gross transgressors even of the law of nature. The Gentiles, on the contrary, looked upon blood as the most delicious food of their gods, and thought that, by eating of it, they entered into a more intimate communion with them; and therefore the prohibition of it was necessary, for these two reasons: 1st, That no offence might be given to the Jewish converts, who would be loth to converse, much more to join in any religious office, with persons who indulged themselves in such meats which they detested: and, 2dly, That the Gentile converts might be in no danger of relapsing into idolatry, which they might do, if they were still tolerated to eat things offered to idols.

the brethren, which are of the Gentiles in Antioch, and Syria, and Cilicia :

24 Forasmuch as we have heard, that certain which went out from us have trouble you with words, subverting your souls, saying, Ye must be circumcised, and keep the law; to whom we gave no such commandment :

25 It seemed good unto us, being assembled with one accord, to send chosen men unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul ;

26 Men that have hazarded their lives for the name of our Lord Jesus Christ.

27 We have sent therefore Judas and Silas, who shall also tell you the same things by mouth.

28 For it seemed good to the Holy Ghost, and to us, to lay upon you no greater burden than these necessary things :

29 That ye abstain from meats offered to idols, and from blood, and from things strangled, and from fornication : from which, if ye keep yourselves, ye shall do well. Fare ye well.

30 So, when they were dismissed, they came to Antioch : and when they had gathered the multitude together, they delivered the epistle :

31 Which when they had read, they rejoiced for the consolation.

32 And Judas and Silas, being prophets also themselves, exhorted the brethren with many words, and confirmed them.

33 And after they had tarried there a space, they were let go in peace from the brethren unto the apostles.

34 Notwithstanding, it pleased Silas to abide there still.

35 Paul also and Barnabas continued in Antioch, teaching and preaching the word of the Lord, with many others also.

36 ¶ And some days after, Paul said unto Barnabas, Let us go again, and visit our brethren in every city where we have preached the word of the Lord, and see how they do.

37 And Barnabas determined to take with him John, whose surname was Mark.

38 But Paul thought not good to take him with them, who departed from them from Pamphylia, and went not with them to the work.

39 And the contention was so sharp between them, that they departed asunder one from the other : and so Barnabas took Mark, and sailed unto Cyprus ;

40 And Paul chose Silas, and departed, being recommended by the brethren unto the grace of God.

41 And he went through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the churches.

C H A P. XVI.

Paul circumciseth Timothy.

THEN came he to Derbe and Lystra : and, behold, a certain disciple was there, named Timotheus, the son of a certain woman which was a Jewess, and believed ; but his father was a Greek ;

2 Which was well reported of by the brethren that were at Lystra and Iconium.

3 Him would Paul have to go forth with him ; and took and circumcised him, because of the Jews which were in those quarters ; for they knew all that his father was a Greek.

4 And as they went through the cities, they delivered them the decrees for to keep, that were ordained of the apostles and elders which were at Jerusalem.

5 And so were the churches established in the faith, and increased in number daily.

39. The contention was so sharp between them, that they departed, &c.] Hence we may learn, not only that these great lights in the Christian church were men of the like passions with us, but that God, upon this occasion, displayed, in a remarkable manner, the wisdom of his providence, by rendering the frailties of two such eminent servants instrumental to the benefit of his church ; since both of them, from that time, employed their extraordinary industry and zeal singly and apart, which till then had been united, and confined to the same place.

Verse 1. But his father was a Greek.] The law of Moses forbade the Jewish males to marry with women of another religion, but did not

6 Now when they had gone throughout Phrygia, and the region of Galatia, and were forbidden of the Holy Ghost to preach the word in Asia,

7 After they were come to Mysia, they assayed to go into Bithynia ; but the Spirit suffered them not.

8 And they, passing by Mysia, came down to Troas.

9 And a vision appeared to Paul in the night : There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying, Come over into Macedonia, and help us.

10 And, after he had seen the vision, immediately we endeavoured to go into Macedonia, assuredly gathering, that the Lord had called us for to preach the gospel unto them.

11 Therefore, loosing from Troas, we came with a straight course to Samothracia, and the next day to Neapolis ;

12 And from thence to Philippi, which is the chief city of that part of Macedonia, and a colony ; and we were in that city abiding certain days.

13 And on the sabbath we went out of the city by a river side, where prayer was wont to be made ; and we sat down, and spake unto the women which resorted thither.

14 ¶ And a certain woman named Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, which worshipped God, heard us : whose heart the Lord opened, that she attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul.

15 And when she was baptized, and her household, she besought us, saying, If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house, and abide there. And she constrained us.

16 ¶ And it came to pass, as we went to prayer, a certain damsel, possessed with a spirit of divination, met us, which brought her masters much gain by soothsaying :

17 The same followed Paul and us, and cried, saying, These men are the servants of the most high God, which shew unto us the way of salvation.

18 And this did she many days. But Paul being grieved, turned and said to the spirit, I command thee in the name of Jesus Christ to come out of her. And he came out the same hour.

19 ¶ And when her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone, they caught Paul and Silas, and drew them into the market-place unto the rulers,

20 And brought them to the magistrates, saying, These men, being Jews, do exceedingly trouble our city,

21 And teach customs which are not lawful for us to receive, neither to observe, being Romans.

22 And the multitude rose up together against them : and the magistrates rent off their clothes, and commanded to beat them.

23 And when they had laid many stripes upon them, they cast them into prison, charging the jailor to keep them safely.

24 Who having received such a charge, thrust them into the inner prison, and made their feet fast in the stocks.

25 ¶ And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed, and sang praises unto God : and the prisoners heard them.

26 And suddenly there was a great earthquake, so that the foundations of the prison were shaken : and immediately all the doors were opened, and every one's bands were loosed.

27 And the keeper of the prison awaking out of his sleep, and seeing the prison-doors open, he drew out his sword, and would have killed himself, supposing that the prisoners had been fled.

28 But forbid a Jewish woman to marry with a Gentile, provided he was a man of piety and moral honesty.

13. Where prayer was wont to be made ;] Rather, where there was an oratory, or place of public prayer.

15. She constrained us ;] i. e. She persuaded us.

20. These men, being Jews, do exceedingly trouble our city.] At the first appearance of the Christian religion, the Gentiles considered it as no other than a particular sect, or reformation of Judaism ; because, at that time, those who professed it were descended from the same stock, born in the same country, observed in the main the same laws, adored the same God, and received the same scriptures : and this was certainly enough to denominate them Jews, among those who were strangers to both religions.

28 But Paul cried with a loud voice, saying, Do thyself no harm; for we are all here.

29 Then he called for a light, and sprang in, and came trembling, and fell down before Paul and Silas;

30 And brought them out, and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved?

31 And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved, and thy house.

32 And they spake unto him the word of the Lord, and to all that were in his house.

33 And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, straightway.

34 And when he had brought them into his house, he set meat before them, and rejoiced, believing in God with all his house.

35 ¶ And when it was day, the magistrates sent the serjeants, saying, Let those men go.

36 And the keeper of the prison told this saying to Paul, The magistrates have sent to let you go: now therefore depart, and go in peace.

37 But Paul said unto them, They have beaten us openly uncondemned, being Romans, and have cast us into prison; and now do they thrust us out privily? nay, verily, but let them come themselves and fetch us out.

38 And the serjeants told these words unto the magistrates: and they feared, when they heard that they were Romans.

39 And they came and besought them, and brought them out, and desired them to depart out of the city.

40 And they went out of the prison, and entered into the house of Lydia: and when they had seen the brethren, they comforted them, and departed.

C H A P. XVII.

Paul preacheth at Thessalonica.

NOW, when they had passed through Amphipolis, and Apollonia, they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews.

2 And Paul, as his manner was, went in unto them, and three sabbath-days reasoned with them out of the scriptures:

3 Opening and alledging, that Christ must needs have suffered, and risen again from the dead; and that this Jesus, whom I preach unto you, is Christ.

4 And some of them believed, and consorted with Paul and Silas; and of the devout Greeks a great multitude, and of the chief women not a few.

5 ¶ But the Jews which believed not, moved with envy, took unto them certain lewd fellows, of the baser sort, and gathered a company, and set all the city on an uproar, and assaulted the house of Jason, and sought to bring them out to the people.

6 And, when they found them not, they drew Jason, and certain brethren, unto the rulers of the city, crying, These that have turned the world upside down are come hither also;

7 Whom Jason hath received: and these all do contrary to the decrees of Cesar, saying, That there is another king, one Jesus.

8 And they troubled the people, and the rulers of the city, when they heard these things.

9 And when they had taken security of Jason, and of the other, they let them go.

10 ¶ And the brethren immediately sent away Paul and Silas by night unto Berea; who, coming thither, went into the synagogue of the Jews.

11 These were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, and searched the scriptures daily, whether those things were so.

12 Therefore many of them believed; also of honourable women which were Greeks, and of men not a few.

13 But when the Jews of Thessalonica had knowledge that the word of God was preached of Paul at Berea, they came thither also, and stirred up the people.

14 And then immediately the brethren sent away Paul, to go as it were to the sea; but Silas and Timotheus abode there still.

15 And they that conducted Paul brought him unto Athens; and receiving a commandment unto Silas and Timotheus for to come to him with all speed, they departed.

16 ¶ Now, while Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was stirred in him, when he saw the city wholly given to idolatry.

17 Therefore disputed he in the synagogue with the Jews, and with the devout persons, and in the market daily with them that met with him.

18 Then certain philosophers of the Epicureans, and of the Stoicks, encountered him: and some said, What will this babbler say? other some, He seemeth to be a setter forth of strange gods: because he preached unto them Jesus, and the resurrection.

19 And they took him, and brought him unto Areopagus, saying, May we know what this new doctrine whereof thou speakest is?

20 For thou bringest certain strange things to our ears: we would know therefore what these things mean.

21 (For all the Athenians, and strangers which were there, spent their time in nothing else, but either to tell or to hear some new thing.)

22 ¶ Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars-hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious.

23 For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you.

24 God that made the world, and all things therein, seeing that he is Lord of heaven and earth, dwelleth not in temples made with hands;

25 Neither is worshipped with men's hands, as though he needed any thing, seeing he giveth to all life, and breath, and all things:

26 And hath made of one blood all nations of men, for to dwell on all the face of the earth; and hath determined the times before appointed, and the bounds of their habitation:

27 That they should seek the Lord, if haply they might feel after him, and find him, though he be not far from every one of us:

28 For in him we live, and move, and have our being; as certain also of your own poets have said, For we are also his offspring.

29 Forasmuch then as we are the offspring of God, we ought not to think that the Godhead is like unto gold, or silver, or stone, graven by art and man's device.

30 And the times of this ignorance God winked at; but now commandeth all men every where to repent:

31 Because

37. Let them come themselves, &c.] All this passage exhibits a noble spirit of freedom in St. Paul.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVII.

Verse 15. Athens.] This city was the most celebrated for learning of any in the world, and was the parent of that dialect which is esteemed the purest and finest Greek. Cicero calls it the fountain, whence civility, learning, religion, and laws, were derived to other nations.

23. TO THE UNKNOWN GOD.] That the Athenians had altars in their public places, without names on them, and others to unknown gods, is evident from the testimony of Laertius, who informs us, that when a great plague raged at Athens, and several means had been attempted for the removal of it, they were advised by Epimenides the philosopher to build an altar, and dedicate it to the proper and peculiar God, to whom sacrifices were due. And the Athenians, not knowing by what name to call him, erected an altar with this inscription, To the gods of Asia, Europe, and Africa: to the strange and unknown God; by which, as some imagine, they intended the God of the Jews, who had given such wonderful deliverances to his own people.

24. Dwelleth not in temples made with hands:] Is not circumscribed by bounds, nor confined to one place by any corporeal representation, such as the heathens made of their deities; among whom the Spartans chained down the image of their god Mars; and the people to whom the apostle spake kept an image of Victory without wings, both for the same reason, that they might not desert them. This is all the apostle designed to assert; and therefore it cannot be inferred from his words, that God does not manifest the effect of his presence in some places more than others, especially in places dedicated to his public worship.

27. Feel after him, &c.] So as to feel and find him. This is a fine allusion to the state of darkness in which the heathens lived.

31 Because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness, by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead.

32 ¶ And when they heard of the resurrection of the dead, some mocked; and others said, We will hear thee again of this matter.

33 So Paul departed from among them.

34 Howbeit certain men clave unto him, and believed: among the which was Dionysius the Areopagite, and a woman named Damaris, and others with them.

C H A P. XVIII.

Paul accused before Gallio, but dismissed.

AFTER these things Paul departed from Athens, and came to Corinth;

2 And found a certain Jew, named Aquila, born in Pontus, lately come from Italy, with his wife Priscilla, (because that Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome,) and came unto them.

3 And, because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought; (for by their occupation they were tent-makers.)

4 And he reasoned in the synagogue every sabbath, and persuaded the Jews and the Greeks.

5 And when Silas and Timotheus were come from Macedonia, Paul was pressed in spirit, and testified to the Jews, that Jesus was Christ.

6 And when they opposed themselves, and blasphemed, he shook his raiment, and said unto them, Your blood be upon your own heads; I am clean: from henceforth I will go unto the Gentiles.

7 ¶ And he departed thence, and entered into a certain man's house, named Justus, one that worshipped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue.

8 And Crispus, the chief ruler of the synagogue, believed on the Lord with all his house: and many of the Corinthians hearing, believed and were baptized.

9 Then spake the Lord to Paul in the night by a vision, Be not afraid, but speak, and hold not thy peace:

10 For I am with thee, and no man shall set on thee to hurt thee: for I have much people in this city.

11 And he continued there a year and six months, teaching the word of God among them.

12 ¶ And when Gallio was the deputy of Achaia, the Jews made insurrection with one accord against Paul, and brought him to the judgment-seat, 13 Saying, This fellow persuadeth men to worship God contrary to the law.

14 And when Paul was now about to open his mouth, Gallio said unto the Jews, If it were a matter of wrong, or wicked lewdness, O ye Jews, reason would that I should bear with you:

15 But if it be a question of words and names, and of your law, look ye to it: for I will be no judge of such matters.

16 And he drave them from the judgment-seat.

17 Then all the Greeks took Sosthenes, the chief ruler of the synagogue, and beat him before the judgment-seat: and Gallio cared for none of those things.

18 ¶ And Paul after this tarried there yet a good while, and then took his leave of the brethren, and sailed thence into Syria, and with him Priscilla, and Aquila; having shorn his head in Cenchrea: for he had a vow.

19 And he came to Ephesus, and left them there: but he himself entered into the synagogue, and reasoned with the Jews.

20 When they desired him to tarry longer time with them, he consented not;

21 But bade them farewell, saying, I must by all means keep this feast that cometh in Jerusalem: but I will return again unto you, if God will. And he sailed from Ephesus.

22 And when he had landed at Cesarea, and gone up, and saluted the church, he went down to Antioch.

23 And after he had spent some time there, he departed, and went over all the country of Galatia and Phrygia in order, strengthening all the disciples.

24 ¶ And a certain Jew, named Apollos, born at Alexandria, an eloquent man, and mighty in the scriptures, came to Ephesus.

25 This man was instructed in the way of the Lord; and being fervent in the spirit, he spake and taught diligently the things of the Lord, knowing only the baptism of John.

26 And he began to speak boldly in the synagogue: whom when Aquila and Priscilla had heard, they took him unto them, and expounded unto him the way of God more perfectly.

27 And when he was disposed to pass into Achaia, the brethren wrote, exhorting the disciples to receive him: who, when he was come, helped them much which had believed through grace.

28 For he mightily convinced the Jews, and that publicly, shewing by the scriptures that Jesus was Christ.

C H A P. XIX.

The Holy Ghost is given by Paul's hands.

AND it came to pass, that, while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul, having passed through the upper coasts, came to Ephesus: and finding certain disciples,

2 He said unto them, Have ye received the Holy Ghost since ye believed? And they said unto him, We have not so much as heard whether there be any Holy Ghost.

3 And he said unto them, Unto what then were ye baptized? And they said, Unto John's baptism.

4 Then said Paul, John verily baptized with the baptism of repentance, saying unto the people, That they should believe on him which should come after him, that is, on Christ Jesus.

5 When they heard this, they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.

6 And when Paul had laid his hands upon them, the Holy Ghost came on them; and they spake with tongues, and prophesied.

7 And all the men were about twelve.

8 And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God.

9 But when divers were hardened, and believed not, but spake evil of that way before the multitude, he departed from them, and separated the disciples, disputing daily in the school of one Tyrannus.

10 And this continued by the space of two years; so that all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus, both Jews and Greeks.

11 And God wrought special miracles by the hands of Paul:

12 So that from his body were brought unto the sick handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases departed from them, and the evil spirits went out of them.

13 ¶ Then certain of the vagabond Jews, exorcists, took upon them to call over them which had evil spirits the name of the Lord Jesus, saying, We adjure you, by Jesus, whom Paul preacheth.

14 And there were seven sons of one Sceva a Jew, and chief of the priests, which did so.

15 And the evil spirit answered and said, Jesus I know, and Paul I know; but who are ye?

16 And the man, in whom the evil spirit was, leaped on them, and overcame them, and prevailed against them, so that they fled out of that house naked and wounded.

Verse 5. They were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.] They were baptized in that form which Christ had appointed, i. e. in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.

19. Fifty

17 And this was known to all the Jews and Greeks also dwelling at Ephesus; and fear fell on them all, and the name of the Lord Jesus was magnified.

18 And many that believed came, and confessed, and shewed their deeds.

19 Many of them also which used curious arts brought their books together, and burned them before all men: and they counted the price of them, and found it fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20 So mightily grew the word of God, and prevailed.

21 ¶ After these things were ended, Paul purposed in the spirit, when he had passed through Macedonia and Achaia, to go to Jerusalem, saying, After I have been there, I must also see Rome.

22 So he sent into Macedonia two of them that ministered unto him, Timotheus and Erastus: but he himself stayed in Asia for a season.

23 And the same time there arose no small stir about that way.

24 For a certain man, named Demetrius, a silversmith, which made silver shrines for Diana, brought no small gain unto the craftsmen;

25 Whom he called together, with the workmen of like occupation, and said, Sirs, ye know that by this craft we have our wealth:

26 Moreover, ye see and hear, that not alone at Ephesus, but almost throughout all Asia, this Paul hath persuaded, and turned away much people, saying, that they be no gods which are made with hands:

27 So that not only this our craft is in danger to be set at nought; but also that the temple of the great goddess Diana should be despised, and her magnificence should be destroyed, whom all Asia and the world worshippeth.

28 And when they heard these sayings, they were full of wrath, and cried out, saying, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

29 And the whole city was filled with confusion: and having caught Gaius, and Aristarchus, men of Macedonia, Paul's companions in travel, they rushed with one accord into the theatre.

30 And when Paul would have entered in unto the people, the disciples suffered him not.

31 And certain of the chief of Asia, which were his friends, sent unto him, desiring him that he would not adventure himself into the theatre.

32 Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was confused; and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together.

33 And they drew Alexander out of the multitude, the Jews putting him forward. And Alexander beckoned with the hand, and would have made his defence unto the people, 34 But when they knew that he was a Jew, all with one voice, about the space of two hours, cried out, Great is Diana of the Ephesians.

35 And when the town-clerk had appeased the people, he said, Ye men of Ephesus, what man is there that knoweth not how that the city of the Ephesians is a worshipper of the great goddess Diana, and of the image which fell down from Jupiter?

36 Seeing then that these things cannot be spoken against, ye ought to be quiet, and to do nothing rashly.

37 For ye have brought hither these men, which are neither robbers of churches, nor yet blasphemers of your goddess.

38 Wherefore if Demetrius, and the craftsmen which are with him, have a matter against any man, the law is open, and there are deputies; let them implead one another.

39 But if ye enquire any thing concerning other matters, it shall be determined in a lawful assembly.

40 For we are in danger to be called in question for this day's uproar, there being no cause whereby we may give an account of this concourse.

41 And, when he had thus spoken, he dismissed the assembly.

C H A P. XX.

Paul goeth into Macedonia.

AND after the uproar was ceased, Paul called unto him the disciples, and embraced them, and departed for to go into Macedonia.

2 And when he had gone over those parts, and had given them much exhortation, he came into Greece,

3 And there abode three months; and when the Jews laid wait for him, as he was about to sail into Syria, he purposed to return through Macedonia.

4 And there accompanied him into Asia Sopater of Berea; and of the Thessalonians, Aristarchus, and Secundus, and Gaius of Derbe, and Timotheus; and of Asia, Tychicus and Trophimus.

5 These going before, tarried for us at Troas.

6 And we sailed away from Philippi, after the days of unleavened bread, and came unto them to Troas in five days, where we abode seven days.

7 And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them, ready to depart on the morrow, and continued his speech until midnight.

8 And there were many lights in the upper chamber, where they were gathered together.

9 And there sat in a window a certain young man, named Eutychus, being fallen into a deep sleep; and, as Paul was long preaching, he sunk down with sleep, and fell down from the third loft, and was taken up dead.

10 And Paul went down, and fell on him, and embracing him, said, Trouble not yourselves; for his life is in him.

11 When he therefore was come up again, and had broken bread, and eaten, and talked a long while, even till break of day, so he departed.

12 And they brought the young man alive, and were not a little comforted.

13 ¶ And we went before to ship, and sailed unto Assos, there intending to take in Paul; for so had he appointed, minding himself to go a-foot.

14 And when he met with us at Assos, we took him in, and came to Mitylene:

15 And we sailed thence, and came the next day over against Chios; and the next day we arrived at Samos, and tarried at Trogyllium; and the next day we came to Miletus.

16 For Paul had determined to sail by Ephesus, because he would not spend the time in Asia; for he hasted, if it were possible for him, to be at Jerusalem the day of Pentecost.

17 ¶ And from Miletus he sent to Ephesus, and called the elders of the church.

18 And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, from the first day that I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons,

19 Serving the Lord with all humility of mind, and with many tears, and temptations, which befell me by the lying in wait of the Jews:

20 And how I kept back nothing that was profitable unto you, but have shewed you, and have taught you publicly, and from house to house,

21 Testifying both to the Jews, and also to the Greeks, repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ.

22 And

19. Fifty thousand pieces of silver.] If these be taken for Jewish shekels, and valued only at half a crown each, the sum amounts to six thousand two hundred and fifty pounds sterling: but as the Attic drachm seems to have been used generally among the Greeks, it is most natural to compute it by that, which, if with Prideaux we reckon at ninepence each, reduces the sum to one thousand eight hundred and seventy-five pounds.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XX.

Verse 7. Upon the first day of the week.] i. e. On Sunday, or the day that Jesus rose from the dead. And from hence we may observe that, from the very beginning, Christians used to assemble on the first day of the week, to perform their religious worship; for Pliny, in his epistle to the Emperor Trajan, tells him, "That he found nothing to alledge against the Christians, but their obstinacy and their superstition; and that it was their custom to meet together on a set day before it was light."

9. In a window.] The original signifies an open window, which had a sort of little door, which was set open; that the room might not be overheated. The ancients had not yet glass in their windows.

22. Bound

22 And now, behold, I go bound in the Spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there:

23 Save that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying, that bonds and afflictions abide me.

24 But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God.

25 And now, behold, I know that ye all, among whom I have gone preaching the kingdom of God, shall see my face no more.

26 Wherefore I take you to record this day, that I am pure from the blood of all men.

27 For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God.

28 ¶ Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Ghost hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood.

29 For I know this, that after my departing shall grievous wolves enter in among you, not sparing the flock.

30 Also of your own selves shall men arise, speaking perverse things, to draw away disciples after them.

31 Therefore watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears.

32 And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified.

33 I have coveted no man's silver, or gold, or apparel.

34 Yea, ye yourselves know, that these hands have ministered unto my necessities, and to them that were with me.

35 I have shewed you all things, how that so labouring ye ought to support the weak; and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive.

36 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, he kneeled down, and prayed with them all.

37 And they all wept sore, and fell on Paul's neck, and kissed him;

38 Sorrowing most of all for the words which he spake, that they should see his face no more. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

C H A P. XXI.

Paul will not be dissuaded from going to Jerusalem.

AND it came to pass, that after we were gotten from them, and had launched, we came with a straight course unto Coos, and the day following unto Rhodes, and from thence unto Patara.

2 And finding a ship sailing over unto Phenicia, we went aboard, and set forth.

3 Now when we had discovered Cyprus, we left it on the left hand, and sailed into Syria, and landed at Tyre: for there the ship was to unlade her burden.

4 And finding disciples, we tarried there seven days: who said to Paul through the Spirit, that he should not go up to Jerusalem.

5 And when we had accomplished those days, we departed, and went our way; and they all brought us on our way, with wives and children, till we were out of the city: and we kneeled down on the shore, and prayed.

22. Bound in the Spirit;] While he was at full liberty, and had no violence offered him, yet he prophetically foresaw that bonds and afflictions were coming upon him.

35. It is more blessed to give than to receive.] It is certain, that this saying does not occur in any of the four evangelists; nor does the apostle mention it as an inference from our Lord's several discourses in commendation of charity, but as his own express words; and therefore we must necessarily conclude, that he came to the knowledge of it by the information of some disciple who had conversed with our Saviour in the days of his flesh.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXI.

Verse 4. Said to Paul through the Spirit, &c.] They persuaded him, if he tendered his own liberty and safety, not to go up, &c. It is necessary.

6 And when we had taken our leave one of another, we took ship; and they returned home again.

7 And when we had finished our course from Tyre, we came to Ptolemais, and saluted the brethren, and abode with them one day.

8 And the next day we that were of Paul's company departed, and came unto Cesarea; and we entered into the house of Philip the evangelist, (which was one of the seven,) and abode with him.

9 And the same man had four daughters, virgins, which did prophesy,

10 And, as we tarried there many days, there came down from Judea a certain prophet, named Agabus.

11 And when he was come unto us, he took Paul's girdle, and bound his own hands and feet, and said, Thus saith the Holy Ghost, So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle, and shall deliver him into the hands of the Gentiles.

12 And when we heard these things, both we and they of that place besought him not to go up to Jerusalem.

13 Then Paul answered, What mean ye to weep, and to break mine heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus.

14 And when he would not be persuaded, we ceased, saying, The will of the Lord be done.

15 And after those days we took up our carriages, and went up to Jerusalem.

16 There went with us also certain of the disciples of Cesarea, and brought with them one Mnason of Cyprus, an old disciple, with whom we should lodge.

17 And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly.

18 And the day following Paul went in with us unto James: and all the elders were present.

19 And when he had saluted them, he declared particularly what things God had wrought among the Gentiles by his ministry.

20 And when they heard it, they glorified the Lord, and said unto him, Thou seest, brother, how many thousands of Jews there are which believe; and they are all zealous of the law.

21 And they are informed of thee, that thou teachest all the Jews which are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, saying, That they ought not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs.

22 What is it therefore? the multitude must needs come together: for they will hear that thou art come.

23 Do therefore this that we say to thee: We have four men which have a vow on them:

24 Them take, and purify thyself with them, and be at charges with them, that they may shave their heads; and all may know, that those things whereof they were informed concerning thee are nothing, but that thou thyself also walkest orderly, and keepest the law.

25 As touching the Gentiles which believe, we have written and concluded, that they observe no such thing, save only that they keep themselves from things offered to idols, and from blood, and from strangled, and from fornication.

26 Then Paul took the men, and the next day purifying himself with them, entered into the temple, to signify the accomplishment of the days of purification, until that an offering should be offered for every one of them.

27 ¶ And when the seven days were almost ended, the Jews

sary that we take it in this limitation; for had the Spirit forbidden his journey to Jerusalem, we may be sure he would have desisted from it.

15. We took up our carriages;] We made up our baggage.

23, 24. We have four men which have a vow on them, &c.] In order to understand this passage, it may not be improper to observe, that among the Jews it was accounted a kind of meritorious action to contribute to the expence of the sacrifices and offerings, which those who had taken upon them a vow of Nazaritism were to make, when the time of their vow came to be accomplished. Be at charges, therefore, they say, that they may shave their heads, and offer the sacrifices which the law has appointed in that case; and then all that come to the temple will know, by their own observation, that there is nothing of truth in those things which they have heard of thee; but that instead of forbidding these observances to others, thou thyself walkest regularly, keeping the law, and avoiding all occasion of offence.

Jews which were of Asia, when they saw him in the temple, stirred up all the people, and laid hands on him, 28 Crying out, Men of Israel, help: this is the man that teacheth all men every where against the people, and the law, and this place; and further, brought Greeks also into the temple, and hath polluted this holy place.

29 (For they had seen before with him, in the city, Trophimus an Ephesian, whom they supposed that Paul had brought into the temple.)

30 And all the city was moved, and the people ran together; and they took Paul, and drew him out of the temple: and forthwith the doors were shut.

31 And as they went about to kill him, tidings came unto the chief captain of the band, that all Jerusalem was in an uproar;

32 Who immediately took soldiers and centurions, and ran down unto them: and when they saw the chief captain and the soldiers, they left beating of Paul.

33 Then the chief captain came near, and took him, and commanded him to be bound with two chains; and demanded who he was, and what he had done?

34 And some cried one thing, some another, among the multitude: and when he could not know the certainty for the tumult, he commanded him to be carried into the castle.

35 And when he came upon the stairs, so it was that he was borne of the soldiers, for the violence of the people.

36 For the multitude of the people followed after, crying, Away with him.

37 And as Paul was to be led into the castle, he said unto the chief captain, May I speak unto thee? who said, Canst thou speak Greek?

38 Art not thou that Egyptian, which before these days madest an uproar, and leddest out into the wilderness four thousand men that were murderers?

39 But Paul said, I am a man which am a Jew of Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, a citizen of no mean city: and I beseech thee, suffer me to speak unto the people.

40 And when he had given him licence, Paul stood on the stairs, and beckoned with the hand unto the people: and when there was made a great silence, he spake unto them in the Hebrew tongue, saying,

CHAP. XXII.

Paul declareth at large how he was converted.

MEN, brethren, and fathers, hear ye my defence, which I make now unto you.

2 (And when they heard that he spake in the Hebrew tongue to them, they kept the more silence: and he saith,)

3 I am verily a man which am a Jew, born in Tarsus, a city in Cilicia, yet brought up in this city, at the feet of Gamaliel, and taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous toward God, as ye all are this day.

4 And I persecuted this way unto the death, binding and delivering into prisons both men and women.

5 As also the high-priest doth bear me witness, and all the estate of the elders: from whom also I received letters unto the brethren, and went to Damascus, to bring them which were there bound unto Jerusalem, for to be punished.

6 And it came to pass, that, as I made my journey, and was come nigh unto Damascus, about noon, suddenly there shone from heaven a great light round about me.

7 And I fell unto the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?

8 And I answered, Who art thou, Lord? And he said unto me, I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom thou persecutest.

9 And they that were with me saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of him that spake to me.

10 And I said, What shall I do, Lord? And the Lord said unto me, Arise, and go into Damascus, and there it shall be told thee of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 And when I could not see for the glory of that light, being led by the hand of them that were with me, I came into Damascus.

12 And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, having a good report of all the Jews which dwelt there, 13 Came unto me, and stood, and said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And the same hour I looked up upon him.

14 And he said, The God of our fathers hath chosen thee, that thou shouldest know his will, and see that just One, and shouldest hear the voice of his mouth.

15 For thou shalt be his witness unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard.

16 And now, why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord.

17 And it came to pass, that when I was come again to Jerusalem, even while I prayed in the temple, I was in a trance;

18 And saw him saying unto me, Make haste, and get thee quickly out of Jerusalem: for they will not receive thy testimony concerning me.

19 And I said, Lord, they know that I imprisoned, and beat, in every synagogue, them that believed on thee.

20 And when the blood of thy martyr Stephen was shed, I also was standing by, and consenting unto his death, and kept the raiment of them that slew him.

21 And he said unto me, Depart: for I will send thee far hence unto the Gentiles.

22 ¶ And they gave him audience unto this word, and then lifted up their voices, and said, Away with such a fellow from the earth: for it is not fit that he should live.

23 And as they cried out, and cast off their clothes, and threw dust into the air,

24 The chief captain commanded him to be brought into the castle, and bade that he should be examined by scourging; that he might know wherefore they cried so against him.

25 And as they bound him with thongs, Paul said unto the centurion that stood by, Is it lawful for you to scourge a man that is a Roman, and uncondemned?

26 When the centurion heard that, he went and told the chief captain, saying, Take heed what thou doest; for this man is a Roman.

27 Then the chief captain came, and said unto him, Tell me, art thou a Roman? He said, Yea.

28 And the chief captain answered, With a great sum obtained I this freedom. And Paul said, But I was free born.

29 Then straightway they departed from him which should have examined him: and the chief captain also was afraid,

38. Art not thou that Egyptian? &c.] Lysias alludes here to the following transaction, mentioned by Josephus: "While Felix was governor of Judea, there came a certain person out of Egypt to Jerusalem, pretending to be a prophet, and persuading the people to follow him to the top of mount Olivet; and when he came thither, he told them, he would only speak the word, and they should see the walls of Jerusalem fall flat to the ground, and make way for them to enter the city. But Felix, hearing of this adventure, fell upon them with an army of horse and foot, killed four hundred upon the spot, took two hundred prisoners, and put the Egyptian to flight."

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXII.

Verse 2. In the Hebrew tongue, &c.] The Jews were not displeased to hear him discourse of matters relating to religion, and especially of the vocation of the Gentiles, in a language which the Romans did not understand; whereas, had he, in the course of his apology, exposed the contempt and hatred which the Jews entertained of all the heathen, in a language which the chief captain and his men were acquainted with, and in such a light as his known eloquence would have enabled him to do, it is not to be imagined what terror and confusion, at least, he would have brought upon his enemies; so that in this he acted both the charitable and prudent part.

4. Unto the death.] The apostle does not mean any particular sort of death, but death in general; the definitive article, therefore, is improperly used. It ought to be unto death, without any article.

24. The chief captain commanded him to be brought into the castle, &c.] As Lysias did not understand Hebrew, he could not tell what the purport of St. Paul's speech to the people was; but, by their mad and outrageous behaviour, he guessed that he must have said something very provoking, either against the law, or the dignity of their nation, and therefore was willing to know the truth of it from himself. Scourging was a method of examination used by the Romans, and other nations, to force such as were supposed guilty to confess what they had done, what were their motives, and who were accessory to the fact.

28. I was free born.] Probably Paul's father might have been rewarded with the freedom of the city for his fidelity and bravery in some military service, as was often done.

afraid, after he knew that he was a Roman, and because he had bound him.

30 ¶ On the morrow, because he would have known the certainty wherefore he was accused of the Jews, he loosed him from his bands, and commanded the chief priests and all their council to appear, and brought Paul down, and set him before them.

C H A P. XXIII.

Paul pleadeth his cause.

AND Paul earnestly beholding the council, said, Men and brethren, I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day.

2 And the high-priest Ananias commanded them that stood by him to smite him on the mouth.

3 Then said Paul unto him, God shall smite thee, thou whited wall: for sittest thou to judge me after the law, and commandest me to be smitten contrary to the law?

4 And they that stood by said, Revilest thou God's high-priest?

5 Then said Paul, I wist not, brethren, that he was the high-priest: for it is written, Thou shalt not speak evil of the ruler of thy people.

6 ¶ But when Paul perceived that the one part were Sadducees, and the other Pharisees, he cried out in the council, Men and brethren, I am a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee; of the hope and resurrection of the dead I am called in question.

7 And when he had so said, there arose a dissension between the Pharisees and the Sadducees: and the multitude was divided.

8 For the Sadducees say that there is no resurrection, neither angel nor spirit; but the Pharisees confess both.

9 And there arose a great cry: and the scribes that were of the Pharisees' part arose, and strove, saying, We find no evil in this man; but if a spirit or an angel hath spoken to him, let us not fight against God.

10 And when there arose a great dissension, the chief captain, fearing lest Paul should have been pulled in pieces of them, commanded the soldiers to go down, and to take him by force from among them, and to bring him into the castle.

11 And the night following, the Lord stood by him, and said, Be of good cheer, Paul: for as thou hast testified of me in Jerusalem, so must thou bear witness also at Rome.

12 ¶ And when it was day, certain of the Jews banded together, and bound themselves under a curse, saying, That they would neither eat nor drink till they had killed Paul.

13 And they were more than forty which had made this conspiracy.

14 And they came to the chief priests and elders, and said, We have bound ourselves under a great curse, that we will eat nothing until we have slain Paul.

15 Now therefore, ye, with the council, signify to the chief captain, that he bring him down unto you to-morrow, as though ye would enquire something more perfectly concerning him; and we, or ever he come near, are ready to kill him.

16 And when Paul's sister's son heard of their lying in wait, he went and entered into the castle, and told Paul.

17 Then Paul called one of the centurions unto him, and said, Bring this young man unto the chief captain; for he hath a certain thing to tell him.

18 So he took him, and brought him to the chief captain, and said, Paul the prisoner called me unto him, and prayed me to bring this young man unto thee, who hath something to say unto thee.

19 Then the chief captain took him by the hand, and went with him aside privately, and asked him, What is that thou hast to tell me?

20 And he said, The Jews have agreed to desire thee, that thou wouldest bring down Paul to-morrow into the council, as though they would enquire somewhat of him more perfectly.

21 But do not thou yield unto them; for there lie in wait for him of them more than forty men, which have bound themselves with an oath, that they will neither eat nor drink till they have killed him: and now are they ready, looking for a promise from thee.

22 So the chief captain then let the young man depart, and charged him, See thou tell no man that thou hast shewed these things to me.

23 ¶ And he called unto him two centurions, saying, Make ready two hundred soldiers to go to Cesarea, and horsemen threescore and ten, and spearmen two hundred, at the third hour of the night;

24 And provide them beasts, that they may set Paul on, and bring him safe unto Felix the governor.

25 And he wrote a letter after this manner:

26 Claudius Lysias, unto the most excellent governor Felix, sendeth greeting.

27 This man was taken of the Jews, and should have been killed of them: then came I with an army, and rescued him, having understood that he was a Roman.

28 And when I would have known the cause wherefore they accused him, I brought him forth into their council:

29 Whom I perceived to be accused of questions of their law, but to have nothing laid to his charge worthy of death or of bonds.

30 And when it was told me, how that the Jews laid wait for the man, I sent straightway to thee, and gave commandment to his accusers also to say before thee what they had against him. Farewell.

31 Then the soldiers, as it was commanded them, took Paul, and brought him by night to Antipatris.

32 On the morrow they left the horsemen to go with him, and returned to the castle.

33 Who when they came to Cesarea, and delivered the epistle to the governor, presented Paul also before him.

34 And when the governor had read the letter, he asked of what province he was. And when he understood that he was of Cilicia;

35 I will hear thee, said he, when thine accusers are also come. And he commanded him to be kept in Herod's judgment-hall.

C H A P. XXIV.

Paul accused by Tertullus the orator.

AND after five days Ananias the high-priest descended, with the elders, and with a certain orator named Tertullus, who informed the governor against Paul.

2 And when he was called forth, Tertullus began to accuse him, saying, Seeing that by thee we enjoy great quietness, and that very worthy deeds are done unto this nation by thy providence,

3 We accept it always, and in all places, most noble Felix, with all thankfulness.

4 Notwithstanding, that I be not further tedious unto thee, I pray thee, that thou wouldest hear us of thy clemency a few words.

5 For we have found this man a pestilent fellow, and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ring-leader of the sect of the Nazarenes:

6 Who also hath gone about to profane the temple: whom we took, and would have judged according to our law.

7 But the chief captain Lysias came upon us, and with great violence took him away out of our hands,

8 Commanding his accusers to come unto thee; by examining of whom thyself mayest take knowledge of all these things whereof we accuse him.

9 And were not unusual with the Jews, who challenged to themselves a right of punishing those, without any legal process, whom they considered as transgressors of the law; and, in such cases, thought they were justified in killing them.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXIV.

Verse 5. The sect of the Nazarenes.] This is the only place of scripture wherein the Christians are called Nazarenes, though the great Founder of their religion was frequently styled Jesus of Nazareth.

12. Disputing

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXIII.

Verse 6. I am a Pharisee, &c.] The apostle here makes use of an innocent policy, for his own preservation, by throwing a bone of contention between the Sadducees, who denied a resurrection, and the Pharisees, who owned it; and obliged the Pharisees, in that particular at least, to take his part, and so turned their opposition against him upon one another; that, by setting his enemies at variance, he might escape their unjust and malicious intentions.

14. We have bound ourselves, &c.] Such execrable vows as these

9 And the Jews also assented, saying, that these things were so.

10 ¶ Then Paul, after that the governor had beckoned unto him to speak, answered, Forasmuch as I know that thou hast been of many years a judge unto this nation, I do the more cheerfully answer for myself:

11 Because that thou mayest understand, that there are yet but twelve days since I went up to Jerusalem for to worship.

12 And they neither found me in the temple disputing with any man, neither raising up the people, neither in the synagogues, nor in the city:

13 Neither can they prove the things whereof they now accuse me.

14 But this I confess unto thee, that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and in the prophets;

15 And have hope toward God, which they themselves also allow, that there shall be a resurrection of the dead, both of the just and unjust.

16 And herein do I exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offence toward God and toward men.

17 Now, after many years, I came to bring alms to my nation, and offerings.

18 Whereupon certain Jews from Asia found me purified in the temple, neither with multitude, nor with tumult.

19 Who ought to have been here before thee, and object, if they had ought against me.

20 Or else let these same here say, if they have found any evil-doing in me, while I stood before the council;

21 Except it be for this one voice, that I cried standing among them, Touching the resurrection of the dead I am called in question by you this day.

22 ¶ And when Felix heard these things, having more perfect knowledge of that way, he deferred them, and said, When Lysias the chief captain shall come down, I will know the uttermost of your matter.

23 And he commanded a centurion to keep Paul, and to let him have liberty, and that he should forbid none of his acquaintance to minister or come unto him.

24 ¶ And after certain days, when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ.

25 And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix trembled, and answered, Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.

26 ¶ He hoped also that money should have been given him of Paul, that he might loose him: wherefore he sent for him the oftener, and communed with him.

27 But after two years Porcius Festus came into Felix' room; and Felix, willing to shew the Jews a pleasure, left Paul bound.

C H A P. XXV.

Paul accused before Festus, and cleared by him.

NOW when Festus was come into the province, after three days he ascended from Cesarea to Jerusalem.

2 Then the high-priest, and the chief of the Jews, informed him against Paul, and besought him,

3 And desired favour against him, that he would send for him to Jerusalem, laying wait in the way to kill him.

4 But Festus answered, that Paul should be kept at Cesarea, and that he himself would depart shortly thither.

5 Let them therefore, said he, which among you are able, go down with me, and accuse this man, if there be any wickedness in him.

12. Disputing with any man, &c.] Our apostle, being accused of three notorious crimes, viz. sedition, heresy, and profanation of the temple, answers to every one of them. With regard to the first, he proved that he was so far from being guilty of the crime of sedition, that he came up to the temple to worship the God of his fathers, and bring alms to the poor of his nation.

14. So worship I, &c.] Here the apostle answers the second part of the charge brought against him, viz. the charge of heresy, and being the ringleader of the sect of the Nazarenes: and in order to this he appeals to scripture and antiquity; to the former, as the ground and rule of his faith, and to the latter for the object of his worship.

6 And when he had tarried among them more than ten days, he went down unto Cesarea, and the next day sitting in the judgment-seat, commanded Paul to be brought.

7 And when he was come, the Jews which came down from Jerusalem stood round about, and laid many and grievous complaints against Paul, which they could not prove:

8 ¶ While he answered for himself, Neither against the law of the Jews, neither against the temple, nor yet against Cesar, have I offended any thing at all.

9 But Festus, willing to do the Jews a pleasure, answered Paul, and said, Wilt thou go up to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these things before me?

10 Then said Paul, I stand at Cesar's judgment-seat, where I ought to be judged: to the Jews have I done no wrong, as thou very well knowest.

11 For if I be an offender, or have committed any thing worthy of death, I refuse not to die: but if there be none of these things whereof these accuse me, no man may deliver me unto them. I appeal unto Cesar.

12 ¶ Then Festus, when he had conferred with the council, answered, Hast thou appealed unto Cesar? unto Cesar shalt thou go.

13 ¶ And after certain days, king Agrippa and Bernice came unto Cesarea to salute Festus.

14 And when they had been there many days, Festus declared Paul's cause unto the king, saying, There is a certain man left in bonds by Felix;

15 About whom, when I was at Jerusalem, the chief priests and the elders of the Jews informed me, desiring to have judgment against him.

16 To whom I answered, It is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man to die, before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have licence to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him.

17 Therefore, when they were come hither, without any delay, on the morrow I sat on the judgment-seat, and I commanded the man to be brought forth:

18 Against whom, when the accusers stood up, they brought none accusation of such things as I supposed;

19 But had certain questions against him of their own superstition, and of one Jesus, which was dead, whom Paul affirmed to be alive.

20 And because I doubted of such manner of questions, I asked him whether he would go to Jerusalem, and there be judged of these matters.

21 But when Paul had appealed to be reserved unto the hearing of Augustus, I commanded him to be kept till I might send him to Cesar.

22 Then Agrippa said unto Festus, I would also hear the man myself. To-morrow, said he, thou shalt hear him.

23 ¶ And on the morrow, when Agrippa was come, and Bernice, with great pomp, and was entered into the place of hearing, with the chief captains and principal men of the city, at Festus' commandment Paul was brought forth.

24 And Festus said, King Agrippa, and all men which are here present with us, ye see this man, about whom all the multitude of the Jews have dealt with me, both at Jerusalem, and also here, crying that he ought not to live any longer.

25 But when I found that he had committed nothing worthy of death, and that he himself hath appealed to Augustus, I have determined to send him.

26 Of whom I have no certain thing to write unto my lord. Wherefore, I have brought him forth before you, and especially before thee, O king Agrippa, that after examination had, I might have somewhat to write.

27 For

25. Of righteousness, temperance, &c.] This discourse was most excellently calculated to suit the character and circumstances of so unjust and lewd a prince.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXV.

Verse 11. I appeal unto Cesar.] This manner of appealing was very common among the Romans, and introduced to secure the lives and fortunes of the populace from the unjust encroachments and over-rigorous severities of the magistrates; whereby it was lawful, in cases of oppression, to appeal from them for redress.

27 For it seemeth to me unreasonable to send a prisoner, and not withal to signify the crimes laid against him.

C H A P. XXVI.

Paul before Agrippa declareth his life and conversion.

THEN Agrippa said unto Paul, Thou art permitted to speak for thyself. Then Paul stretched forth the hand, and answered for himself.

2 I think myself happy, king Agrippa, because I shall answer for myself this day before thee, touching all the things whereof I am accused of the Jews:

3 Especially, because I know thee to be expert in all customs and questions which are among the Jews: wherefore I beseech thee to hear me patiently.

4 My manner of life from my youth, which was at the first among mine own nation at Jerusalem, know all the Jews,

5 Which knew me from the beginning, (if they would testify,) that after the most straitest sect of our religion, I lived a Pharisee.

6 And now I stand and am judged for the hope of the promise made of God unto our fathers:

7 Unto which promise our twelve tribes, instantly serving God day and night, hope to come: for which hope's sake, king Agrippa, I am accused of the Jews.

8 Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you, that God should raise the dead?

9 I verily thought with myself, that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth.

10 Which thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them.

11 And I punished them oft in every synagogue, and compelled them to blaspheme; and being exceedingly mad against them, I persecuted them even unto strange cities.

12 Whereupon, as I went to Damascus, with authority and commission from the chief priests,

13 At mid-day, O king, I saw in the way a light from heaven, above the brightness of the sun, shining round about me, and them which journeyed with me.

14 And when we were all fallen to the earth, I heard a voice speaking unto me, and saying in the Hebrew tongue, Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me? It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks.

15 And I said, Who art thou, Lord? And he said, I am Jesus whom thou persecutest.

16 But rise, and stand upon thy feet: for I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a minister and a witness both of these things which thou hast seen, and of those things in the which I will appear unto thee;

17 Delivering thee from the people, and from the Gentiles, unto whom now I send thee,

18 To open their eyes, and to turn them from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins, and inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith that is in me.

19 Whereupon, O king Agrippa, I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision:

20 But shewed first unto them of Damascus, and at Jerusalem, and throughout all the coasts of Judea, and then to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, and do works meet for repentance.

21 For these causes the Jews caught me in the temple, and went about to kill me.

22 Having therefore obtained help of God, I continue unto this day, witnessing both to small and great, saying none other things than those which the prophets and Moses did say should come:

23 That Christ should suffer, and that he should be the first that should rise from the dead, and should shew light unto the people, and to the Gentiles.

24 ¶ And as he thus spake for himself, Festus said with a loud voice, Paul, thou art beside thyself: much learning doth make thee mad.

25 But he said, I am not mad, most noble Festus; but speak forth the words of truth and soberness.

26 For the king knoweth of these things, before whom also I speak freely: for I am persuaded that none of these things are hidden from him; for this thing was not done in a corner.

27 King Agrippa, believest thou the prophets? I know that thou believest.

28 Then Agrippa said unto Paul, Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian.

29 And Paul said, I would to God, that not only thou, but also all that hear me this day, were both almost and altogether such as I am, except these bonds.

30 ¶ And when he had thus spoken, the king rose up, and the governor, and Bernice, and they that sat with them.

31 And when they were gone aside, they talked between themselves, saying, This man doeth nothing worthy of death, or of bonds.

32 Then said Agrippa unto Festus, This man might have been set at liberty, if he had not appealed unto Cesar.

C H A P. XXVII.

Paul foretelleth the danger of the voyage.

AND when it was determined that we should sail into Italy, they delivered Paul, and certain other prisoners, unto one named Julius, a centurion of Augustus' band.

2 And entering into a ship of Adramyttium, we launched, meaning to sail by the coasts of Asia, one Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica, being with us.

3 And the next day we touched at Sidon. And Julius courteously entreated Paul, and gave him liberty to go unto his friends to refresh himself.

4 And when we had launched from thence, we sailed under Cyprus, because the winds were contrary.

5 And when we had sailed over the sea of Cilicia and Pamphylia, we came to Myra, a city of Lycia.

6 And there the centurion found a ship of Alexandria sailing into Italy; and he put us therein.

7 And when we had sailed slowly many days, and scarce were come over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us, we sailed under Crete, over against Salmone:

8 And hardly passing it, came unto a place which is called, The Fair Havens, nigh whereunto was the city of Lasea.

9 ¶ Now when much time was spent, and when sailing was now dangerous, because the fast was now already past, Paul admonished them,

10 And said unto them, Sirs, I perceive that this voyage will be with hurt and much damage, not only of the lading and ship, but also of our lives.

11 Nevertheless, the centurion believed the master and the owner of the ship, more than those things which were spoken by Paul.

12 ¶ And because the haven was not commodious to winter in, the more part advised to depart thence also, if by any

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXVI.

Verse 8. Why should it be thought a thing incredible with you? &c.] That the Jews had grounds sufficient, in the writings of the Old Testament, to expect a future resurrection, is evident from our Saviour's application of God's own words; I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, Exod. 3. 6. God is not the God of the dead, but of the living, Matt. 22. 32. and from what we read in the prophets, Thy dead men shall live, together with my dead body shall they arise: awake and sing, ye that dwell in the dust, &c. Isa. 26. 19. and more expressly still, That many of them which sleep in the dust shall awake; some to everlasting life, and some to everlasting contempt, Dan. 12. 2.

11. To blaspheme.] There is a passage in Pliny's epistle, (book 10. epistle 94.) which proves, that heathen persecutors obliged Christians that fell under the trial, not only to renounce Christ, but also to curse him; and hence it appears, that the Jews imposed the like test upon them.

22. Having—obtained help of God:] By the extraordinary providence of God I still survive.

24. Much learning doth make thee mad.] To hear him speak of the resurrection of the dead, of a vision and voice from heaven, of faith in Christ, of conversion from darkness to light, of deliverance from the power of Satan, and of an inheritance among them that are sanctified, and of Christ's shewing light unto the people and to the Gentiles—were so many enigmas to the governor, that it was enough to make him think there possibly might be some disorder in the apostle's brain, that made him talk in so unintelligible a manner.

25. I am not mad, most noble Festus, &c.] This answer is so modest and discreet, that it effectually confuted that charge, and could not oblige him that made it.

32. If he had not appealed unto Cesar.] After a prisoner had appealed unto the Emperor, no inferior judge could either condemn or acquit him.

any means they might attain to Phenice, and there to winter; which is an haven of Crete, and lieth toward the south-west and north-west.

13 And when the south wind blew softly, supposing that they had obtained their purpose, loosing thence, they sailed close by Crete.

14 But not long after there arose against it a tempestuous wind, called Euroclydon.

15 And when the ship was caught, and could not bear up into the wind, we let her drive.

16 And running under a certain island which is called Clauda, we had much work to come by the boat:

17 Which when they had taken up, they used helps, under-girding the ship: and fearing lest they should fall into the quicksands, strake sail, and so were driven.

18 And we being exceedingly tossed with a tempest, the next day they lightened the ship;

19 And the third day we cast out with our own hands the tackling of the ship.

20 And when neither sun nor stars in many days appeared, and no small tempest lay on us, all hope that we should be saved was then taken away.

21 ¶ But, after long abstinence, Paul stood forth in the midst of them, and said, Sirs, ye should have hearkened unto me, and not have loosed from Crete, and to have gained this harm and loss.

22 And now I exhort you to be of good cheer; for there shall be no loss of any man's life among you, but of the ship.

23 For there stood by me this night the angel of God, whose I am, and whom I serve, 24 Saying, Fear not, Paul; thou must be brought before Cesar: and, lo, God hath given thee all them that sail with thee.

25 Wherefore, sirs, be of good cheer: for I believe God, that it shall be even as it was told me.

26 Howbeit, we must be cast upon a certain island.

27 But when the fourteenth night was come, as we were driven up and down in Adria, about midnight the shipmen deemed that they drew near to some country;

28 And sounded, and found it twenty fathoms: and when they had gone a little further, they sounded again, and found it fifteen fathoms.

29 Then fearing lest they should have fallen upon rocks, they cast four anchors out of the stern, and wished for the day.

30 And as the shipmen were about to flee out of the ship, when they had let down the boat into the sea, under colour as though they would have cast anchors out of the foreship,

31 Paul said to the centurion, and to the soldiers, Except these abide in the ship ye cannot be saved.

32 Then the soldiers cut off the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off.

33 And while the day was coming on, Paul besought them all to take meat, saying, This day is the fourteenth day that ye have tarried, and continued fasting; having taken nothing.

34 Wherefore I pray you to take some meat; for this is for your health: for there shall not an hair fall from the head of any of you.

35 And when he had thus spoken, he took bread, and gave thanks to God in presence of them all; and when he had broken it, he began to eat.

36 Then were they all of good cheer, and they also took some meat.

37 And we were in all in the ship two hundred three-score and sixteen souls:

38 And when they had eaten enough, they lightened the ship, and cast out the wheat into the sea.

39 And when it was day, they knew not the land: but they discovered a certain creek with a shore, into the which they were minded, if it were possible, to thrust in the ship.

40 And when they had taken up the anchors, they committed themselves unto the sea, and loosed the rudderbands, and hoised up the main-sail to the wind, and made towards shore.

41 And falling into a place where two seas met, they ran the ship aground; and the forepart stuck fast, and remained unmoveable, but the hinder part was broken with the violence of the waves.

42 And the soldiers' counsel was to kill the prisoners, lest any of them should swim out, and escape.

43 But the centurion, willing to save Paul, kept them from their purpose, and commanded that they which could swim should cast themselves first into the sea, and get to land;

44 And the rest, some on boards, and some on broken pieces of the ship: and so it came to pass, that they escaped all safe to land.

C H A P. XXVIII.

Paul after his shipwreck is kindly entertained.

AN D when they were escaped, then they knew that the island was called Melita.

2 And the barbarous people shewed us no little kindness; for they kindled a fire, and received us every one, because of the present rain, and because of the cold.

3 ¶ And when Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks, and laid them on the fire, there came a viper out of the heat, and fastened on his hand.

4 And when the barbarians saw the venomous beast hang on his hand, they said among themselves, No doubt this man is a murderer, whom, though he hath escaped the sea, yet vengeance suffereth not to live.

5 And he shook off the beast into the fire, and felt no harm.

6 Howbeit, they looked when he should have swollen, or fallen down dead suddenly; but after they had looked a great while, and saw no harm come to him, they changed their minds, and said that he was a god.

7 ¶ In the same quarters were possessions of the chief man of the island, whose name was Publius, who received us, and lodged us three days courteously.

8 And it came to pass, that the father of Publius lay sick of a fever, and of a bloody flux; to whom Paul entered in, and prayed, and laid his hands on him, and healed him.

9 So when this was done, others also which had diseases in the island came, and were healed;

10 Who also honoured us with many honours: and, when we departed, they laded us with such things as were necessary.

11 ¶ And after three months we departed in a ship of Alexandria, which had wintered in the isle, whose sign was Castor and Pollux;

12 And landing at Syracuse, we tarried there three days.

13 And

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXVII.

Verse 33. This day is the fourteenth day that ye have—continued fasting.] It was impossible for them, without a miracle, to continue fasting fourteen days without eating any thing; and therefore the meaning may be, That in all that time they had taken but little nourishment upon the whole.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXVIII.

Verse 1. Melita.] This island is supposed to have had its name at first from the great quantity of honey, (in Greek called Meli;) which it produced. It is computed to be about twelve miles broad, and twenty long. It lies distant from Sicily about sixty miles.

2. The barbarous people.] The Greeks and Romans reckoned all other nations but their own barbarians, as differing from them in customs or language; and all mankind are therefore comprehended by the apostle St. Paul under the distinction of Greeks and barbarians, Rom. 1. 14.

3. A viper.] A serpent so called, as bringing forth its young alive. It is but a small creature, but so very poisonous, that the bite of it will sometimes kill a person in a moment, or cause a sudden inflammation all over the body; as the people of Malta, we see, expected of St. Paul.

6. And said that he was a god.] Hercules was one of the gods whom the people of this island worshipped; and to him they ascribed the power of curing the bite of serpents.

11. Whose sign was Castor and Pollux.] Among the ancients, it was the custom to have images on their ships, both at the head and stern; the first of which was called the sign, from which the ship was named; the other was that of the tutelar deity, to whose care the vessel was committed; which probably gave occasion to the fable, that Europa was carried away by Jupiter in the shape of a bull.

12. Syracuse.] This was a city of Sicily, seated on the east side of the island, with a fine prospect from every entrance both by sea and land. While in its splendour, it was the largest and richest that the Greeks possessed in any part of the world; for, according to Strabo, it was two and twenty miles in circuit; and both Livy and Plutarch inform us, that it equalled Carthage in its riches.

13 And from thence we fetched a compass, and came to Rhegium: and after one day the south wind blew, and we came the next day to Puteoli:

14 Where we found brethren, and were desired to tarry with them seven days; and so we went toward Rome.

15 And from thence, when the brethren heard of us, they came to meet us as far as Appii-forum, and the Three Taverns; whom when Paul saw, he thanked God, and took courage.

16 And when we came to Rome, the centurion delivered the prisoners to the captain of the guard; but Paul was suffered to dwell by himself, with a soldier that kept him.

17 ¶ And it came to pass, that after three days Paul called the chief of the Jews together. And when they were come together, he said unto them, Men and brethren, though I have committed nothing against the people or customs of our fathers, yet was I delivered prisoner from Jerusalem into the hands of the Romans.

18 Who when they had examined me would have let me go, because there was no cause of death in me.

19 But when the Jews spake against it, I was constrained to appeal unto Cesar; not that I had ought to accuse my nation of.

20 For this cause therefore have I called for you, to see you, and to speak with you; because that for the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain.

21 And they said unto him, We neither received letters out of Judea concerning thee, neither any of the brethren that came shewed or spake any harm of thee.

13. Rhegium.] Now called Reggio, a port-town in Italy, opposite to Messina in the island of Sicily. It is thought to have this name given it by the Greeks, who suppose, that about this place Sicily was broken off from the continent of Italy by the sea.

Puteoli.] A noted town for trade, which lay not far from Naples; it was famous for its hot-baths; and from these baths, or pits of water, called in Latin putei, the town is said to have taken its name.

20. For the hope of Israel I am bound with this chain;] i. e. For the Messiah, the object of Israel's hope: as if the apostle had said, "For preaching the gospel of the Messiah, whom all true Israelites long expected, and who is now come in the flesh to be their Redeemer, and by whom they expect salvation, and a joyful resurrection, I am bound with this chain."

22 But we desire to hear of thee what thou thinkest: for as concerning this sect, we know that every where it is spoken against.

23 ¶ And when they had appointed him a day, there came many to him into his lodging; to whom he expounded and testified the kingdom of God, persuading them concerning Jesus, both out of the law of Moses, and out of the prophets, from morning till evening.

24 And some believed the things which were spoken, and some believed not.

25 And when they agreed not among themselves, they departed, after that Paul had spoken one word, Well spake the Holy Ghost by Esaias the prophet unto our fathers, 26 Saying, Go unto this people, and say, Hearing ye shall hear, and shall not understand; and seeing ye shall see, and not perceive.

27 For the heart of this people is waxed gross, and their ears are dull of hearing, and their eyes have they closed, lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their heart, and should be converted, and I should heal them.

28 Be it known therefore unto you, that the salvation of God is sent unto the Gentiles, and that they will hear it.

29 And when he had said these words, the Jews departed, and had great reasoning among themselves.

30 ¶ And Paul dwelt two whole years in his own hired house, and received all that came in unto him, 31 Preaching the kingdom of God, and teaching those things which concern the Lord Jesus Christ, with all confidence, no man forbidding him.

22. Every where it is spoken against.] Justin Martyr says, that the Jews sent men about into all the world, to tell people, that there is a wicked and atheistical sect, raised by one Jesus, a Galilean impostor.

30. Paul dwelt two whole years, &c.] As Luke concludes his history with Paul's abode at Rome before his journey into Spain, we may infer, that he wrote both his Gospel and the Acts while the apostle was still living. Chrysostom tells us, that St. Paul converted one of Nero's concubines, which so incensed that cruel prince, that he put him to death; probably after an imprisonment, in which the second epistle to Timothy was written. It is universally agreed, that he was beheaded at Aquæ Salvæ, three miles from Rome; for being free of that city, he could not be crucified as St. Peter was, and, according to the tradition of the Latin church, on the very same day.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE ROMANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS celebrated Epistle was probably written from Corinth, when Paul was travelling through Greece, after finishing his tour in Macedonia, about the year of our Lord 58 or 60, which last was the 6th of the Emperor Nero. It was addressed to certain Christian converts living at Rome; for as business had brought thither many Christians out of the other provinces, they had laid the foundations of a church in the capital of the world. The principal aim of St. Paul, in this epistle, is to fix on the mind of the Christians, to whom he addresses himself, a deep sense of the excellency of the Gospel, and to engage them to act in a manner agreeable to their profession of it; and he shews the far greater efficacy of it to bring men to righteousness, than either the philosophy of the Gentiles and the dictates of reason, or the law of the Jews, which was unable to restrain the passions of men, and keep them free from sin, which yet the Spirit of Christ in the Gospel was able to accomplish. He moreover labours to persuade both the Jewish and Gentile converts to join unanimously in Christian duties, though they retained their several opinions concerning meats, drinks, days, &c.—that the Jew had no reason to censure the Gentile as unclean, nor the Gentile to despise the Jew as superstitious.

CHAP. I.

Paul's calling commended.

PAUL, a servant of Jesus Christ, called to be an apostle, separated unto the gospel of God,

2 (Which he had promised afore by his prophets in the holy scriptures,)

3 Concerning his Son Jesus Christ our Lord, which was made of the seed of David according to the flesh,

4 And declared to be the Son of God with power, according to the Spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead:

5 By whom we have received grace and apostleship, for obedience to the faith, among all nations, for his name:

6 Among whom are ye also the called of Jesus Christ;

7 To all that be in Rome, beloved of God, called to be saints: Grace to you, and peace from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

8 First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for you all, that your faith is spoken of throughout the whole world.

9 For God is my witness, whom I serve with my spirit in the gospel of his Son, that without ceasing I make mention of you always in my prayers;

10 Making

10 Making request (if by any means now at length I might have a prosperous journey by the will of God,) to come unto you.

11 For I long to see you, that I may impart unto you some spiritual gift, to the end ye may be established;

12 That is, that I may be comforted together with you, by the mutual faith both of you and me.

13 Now I would not have you ignorant, brethren, that oftentimes I purposed to come unto you, (but was let hitherto,) that I might have some fruit among you also, even as among other Gentiles.

14 I am debtor both to the Greeks and to the barbarians, both to the wise and to the unwise.

15 So as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are at Rome also.

16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ; for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek.

17 For therein is the righteousness of God revealed from faith to faith; as it is written, The just shall live by faith.

18 For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who hold the truth in unrighteousness.

19 Because that which may be known of God is manifest in them: for God hath shewed it unto them.

20 For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things that are made, even his eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse:

21 Because that, when they knew God, they glorified him not as God, neither were thankful, but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened.

22 Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools:

23 And changed the glory of the incorruptible God into an image made like to corruptible man, and to birds, and four-footed beasts, and creeping things.

24 Wherefore God also gave them up to uncleanness, through the lusts of their own hearts, to dishonour their own bodies between themselves:

25 Who changed the truth of God into a lie, and worshipped and served the creature more than the Creator, who is blessed for ever. Amen.

26 For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections: for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature:

27 And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another, men with men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompence of their error which was meet.

28 And even, as they did not like to retain God in their knowledge, God gave them over to a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not convenient.

29 Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers,

30 Backbiters, haters of God, despiteful, proud, boasters, inventors of evil things, disobedient to parents,

31 Without understanding, covenant-breakers, without natural affection, implacable, unmerciful:

32 Who knowing the judgment of God, (that they which commit such things are worthy of death,) not only do the same, but have pleasure in them that do them.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 16. I am not ashamed, &c.] I am so far from being ashamed of the gospel of Christ, that I account it my glory; as if he had said, "I verily esteem it the highest honour that God can confer upon me, to preach the gospel at Rome, even though I suffer death for so doing."

17. Is the righteousness of God revealed, &c.] i. e. The mercy of God is revealed from faith to faith; from one degree of faith to another; from one degree of clearness of revelation to another; from a less clear dispensation under the law, to a clearer one under the gospel.

21. Because that, when they knew God, &c.] Though they well knew there was but one supreme Being, yet they worshipped idols.

31. Without natural affection.] The custom of exposing new-born infants, even among polite nations, is a striking proof of the truth of this assertion. We have, in this chapter, a melancholy and astonishing description of the corrupted state of the heathens, enough to make the ears of every one that hears it tingle; but, in the 32d verse, there is a worse circumstance still behind. It was not enough, it seems, to sin

CHAP. II.

They that condemn sin in others, and yet sin, inexcusable, whether Jews or Gentiles.

THEREFORE thou art inexcusable, O man, who-soever thou art, that judgest: for wherein thou judgest another, thou condemnest thyself; for thou that judgest doest the same things.

2 But we are sure that the judgment of God is according to truth, against them which commit such things.

3 And thinkest thou this, O man, that judgest them which do such things, and doest the same, that thou shalt escape the judgment of God?

4 Or despisest thou the riches of his goodness, and forbearance, and long-suffering; not knowing that the goodness of God leadeth thee to repentance?

5 But, after thy hardness and impenitent heart, treasurest up unto thyself wrath against the day of wrath and revelation of the righteous judgment of God;

6 Who will render to every man according to his deeds:

7 To them who, by patient continuance in well-doing, seek for glory, and honour, and immortality, eternal life:

8 But unto them that are contentious, and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, indignation and wrath;

9 Tribulation and anguish, upon every soul of man that doeth evil; of the Jew first, and also of the Gentile.

10 But glory, honour, and peace, to every man that worketh good; to the Jew first, and also to the Gentile.

11 For there is no respect of persons with God.

12 For as many as have sinned without law shall also perish without law: and as many as have sinned in the law, shall be judged by the law,

13 (For not the hearers of the law are just before God; but the doers of the law shall be justified.

14 For when the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves:

15 Which shew the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts the meanwhile accusing or else excusing one another,)

16 In the day when God shall judge the secrets of men by Jesus Christ, according to my gospel.

17 Behold, thou art called a Jew, and retest in the law, and makest thy boast of God,

18 And knowest his will, and approvest the things that are more excellent, being instructed out of the law;

19 And art confident that thou thyself art a guide of the blind, a light of them which are in darkness,

20 An instructor of the foolish, a teacher of babes, which hast the form of knowledge and of the truth in the law.

21 Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? thou that preacheest a man should not steal, dost thou steal?

22 Thou that sayest a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? thou that abhorrest idols, dost thou commit sacrilege?

23 Thou that makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonourest thou God?

24 For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles through you, as it is written.

25 For circumcision verily profiteth, if thou keep the law:

with an high hand themselves, against plain knowledge, and the clear dictates of conscience; but they must propagate their vices, make proselytes to their abominable practices, and place their great pleasure and satisfaction in making others as bad and corrupted as themselves. They lent their hearts, and their hands, and their example, to the furtherance of this accursed work.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 1. Therefore thou art inexcusable, O man, &c.] Lest the Jews should be puffed up with pride, by hearing what the apostle had said in the foregoing chapter, relating to the abominable wickedness of the Gentiles, and the heavy displeasure of God denounced against them; St. Paul, in this chapter, declares, that the Jews are guilty of the same sins of which he had accused the Gentiles; affirming, that the Jews had offended as grossly against the law of Moses, as the Gentiles had against the law of nature; and consequently, their censuring and judging others, when they practised the same things themselves, would render them wholly inexcusable at the tribunal of God.

law: but if thou be a breaker of the law, thy circumcision is made uncircumcision.

26 Therefore, if the uncircumcision keep the righteousness of the law, shall not his uncircumcision be counted for circumcision?

27 And shall not uncircumcision which is by nature, if it fulfil the law, judge thee, who by the letter and circumcision dost transgress the law?

28 For he is not a Jew which is one outwardly; neither is that circumcision which is outward in the flesh:

29 But he is a Jew which is one inwardly; and circumcision is that of the heart, in the spirit, and not in the letter; whose praise is not of men, but of God.

C H A P. III.

The Jews' prerogative.

WHAT advantage then hath the Jew? or what profit is there of circumcision?

2 Much every way: chiefly, because that unto them were committed the oracles of God.

3 For what if some did not believe? shall their unbelief make the faith of God without effect?

4 God forbid: yea, let God be true, but every man a liar; as it is written, That thou mightest be justified in thy sayings, and mightest overcome when thou art judged.

5 But if our unrighteousness commend the righteousness of God, what shall we say? Is God unrighteous who taketh vengeance? (I speak as a man.)

6 God forbid: for then how shall God judge the world?

7 For if the truth of God hath more abounded through my lie unto his glory, why yet am I also judged as a sinner?

8 And not rather, (as we be slanderously reported, and as some affirm that we say,) Let us do evil, that good may come? whose damnation is just.

9 What then? are we better than they? No, in no wise: for we have before proved both Jews and Gentiles, that they are all under sin;

10 As it is written, There is none righteous, no, not one:

11 There is none that understandeth, there is none that seeketh after God.

12 They are all gone out of the way, they are together become unprofitable; there is none that doeth good, no, not one.

13 Their throat is an open sepulchre; with their tongues they have used deceit; the poison of asps is under their lips:

14 Whose mouth is full of cursing and bitterness.

15 Their feet are swift to shed blood.

16 Destruction and misery are in their ways:

17 And the way of peace have they not known.

18 There is no fear of God before their eyes.

19 Now we know, that what things soever the law saith, it saith to them who are under the law; that every mouth may be stopped, and all the world may become guilty before God.

20 Therefore by the deeds of the law there shall no flesh be justified in his sight: for by the law is the knowledge of sin.

21 But now the righteousness of God without the law is manifested, being witnessed by the law and the prophets;

22 Even the righteousness of God, which is by faith of Jesus Christ unto all and upon all them that believe; for there is no difference:

23 For all have sinned, and come short of the glory of God;

24 Being justified freely by his grace, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus.

25 Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation, through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God;

26 To declare, I say, at this time his righteousness; that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus.

27 Where is boasting then? it is excluded. By what law? of works? Nay: but by the law of faith.

28 Therefore we conclude, that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law.

29 Is he the God of the Jews only? is he not also of the Gentiles? Yes, of the Gentiles also:

30 Seeing it is one God which shall justify the circumcision by faith, and uncircumcision through faith.

31 Do we then make void the law through faith? God forbid: yea, we establish the law.

C H A P. IV.

Abraham's faith was imputed to him for righteousness.

WHAT shall we then say that Abraham, our father as pertaining to the flesh, hath found?

2 For if Abraham were justified by works, he hath whereof to glory, but not before God.

3 For what saith the scripture? Abraham believed God, and it was counted unto him for righteousness.

4 Now to him that worketh is the reward not reckoned of grace, but of debt.

5 But to him that worketh not, but believeth on him that justifieth the ungodly, his faith is counted for righteousness.

6 Even as David also describeth the blessedness of the man unto whom God imputeth righteousness without works,

7 Saying, Blessed are they whose iniquities are forgiven, and whose sins are covered.

8 Blessed is the man to whom the Lord will not impute sin.

9 Cometh this blessedness then upon the circumcision only, or upon the uncircumcision also? For we say that faith was reckoned to Abraham for righteousness.

10 How was it then reckoned? when he was in circumcision, or in uncircumcision? not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision.

11 And he received the sign of circumcision, a seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had yet being uncircumcised: that he might be the father of all them that believe, though they be not circumcised; that righteousness might be imputed unto them also:

12 And the father of circumcision to them who are not of the circumcision only, but who also walk in the steps of that faith of our father Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumcised.

13 For the promise that he should be the heir of the world, was not to Abraham, or to his seed, through the law, but through the righteousness of faith.

14 For if they which are of the law be heirs, faith is made void, and the promise made of none effect.

15 Because the law worketh wrath: for where no law is there is no transgression.

16 Therefore it is of faith, that it might be by grace; to the end the promise might be sure to all the seed; not to that only which is of the law, but to that also which is of the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all,

17 (As it is written, I have made thee a father of many nations,) before him whom he believed, even God, who quickeneth the dead, and calleth those things which be not as though they were:

dering the law of no effect by preaching the doctrine of faith, that we establish it.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 11. Seal of the righteousness of the faith.] This seems an incontestible proof, that circumcision was a seal of the covenant of grace, and not merely of temporal promises; and consequently obviates the most considerable objection that ever has been urged against infant-baptism.

13. The promise that he should be the heir of the world, &c.] The great promise which God made to Abraham and his seed, that they should possess the land of Canaan, under which also heaven itself was typically comprehended, was not made upon condition of their performing perfect obedience to the law: but they were to obtain it by faith, that is, by trusting to, and depending upon, the glorious promises of a faithful Creator.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 4. Let God be true, but every man a liar.] Let God be esteemed faithful to his promises, though every man be looked upon as a liar, and unfit to have any confidence reposed in him.

19. That every mouth may be stopped, &c.] The meaning is, When God shall finally judge the secrets of all hearts, he shall be justified in his sentence, even sinners themselves being judges.

24. By his grace.] Grace here means that compassionate disposition of the Divine nature, whereby God freely remits of his right of punishment, and receives penitent sinners on more gracious terms, and to greater favour, than he was bound in justice to do.

31. Do we then make void the law? &c.] We are so far from ren-

18 Who against hope believed in hope, that he might become the father of many nations; according to that which was spoken, So shall thy seed be.

19 And, being not weak in faith, he considered not his own body now dead, when he was about an hundred years old, neither yet the deadness of Sara's womb.

20 He staggered not at the promise of God through unbelief; but was strong in faith, giving glory to God:

21 And being fully persuaded, that what he had promised he was able also to perform.

22 And therefore it was imputed to him for righteousness.

23 Now it was not written for his sake alone, that it was imputed to him;

24 But for us also, to whom it shall be imputed, if we believe on him that raised up Jesus our Lord from the dead;

25 Who was delivered for our offences, and was raised again for our justification.

C H A P. V.

Being justified by faith, we have peace with God.

THEREFORE being justified by faith, we have peace with God, through our Lord Jesus Christ.

2 By whom also we have access by faith into this grace wherein we stand, and rejoice in hope of the glory of God.

3 And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also; knowing that tribulation worketh patience;

4 And patience, experience; and experience, hope;

5 And hope maketh not ashamed, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost, which is given unto us.

6 For when we were yet without strength, in due time Christ died for the ungodly.

7 For scarcely for a righteous man will one die, yet peradventure for a good mansome would even dare to die.

8 But God commendeth his love toward us, in that, while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.

9 Much more then, being now justified by his blood, we shall be saved from wrath through him.

10 For if when we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, we shall be saved by his life.

11 And not only so, but we also joy in God, through our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom we have now received the atonement.

12 Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned.

13 (For until the law, sin was in the world: but sin is not imputed when there is no law.

14 Nevertheless, death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over them that had not sinned after the similitude of Adam's transgression, who is the figure of him that was to come.

15 But not as the offence so also is the free gift. For if through the offence of one many be dead, much more the grace of God, and the gift by grace, which is by one man, Jesus Christ, hath abounded unto many.

16 And not as it was by one that sinned, so is the gift: for the judgment was by one to condemnation; but the free gift is of many offences unto justification.

18. Who against hope believed in hope, &c.] He firmly trusted in the promise and power of God, notwithstanding all the unfavourable appearances against it. He was firmly persuaded, that he would raise him up seed like the stars of heaven for multitude, notwithstanding the barrenness of Sara.

25. Was delivered for our offences.] As Christ, by dying in our stead, bore the curse of the law; so, by his rising again, we receive our acquittal from the hand of the Judge. His death was our payment, his resurrection our discharge.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 6. When we were yet without strength, &c.] In a weak and languishing state, destitute of all these divine principles and hopes, yea, incapable of delivering ourselves from the depths of guilt and misery, Christ died for us.

9. Much more then, being now justified by his blood, &c.] As if he had said, "He that loved us when we were enemies will not condemn us now we are children; he that reconciled us to himself by the death of his Son, will doubtless save us from eternal wrath by his life."

12. As by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin, &c.] The apostle lays it down as a maxim, that the cause of the dominion of death

17 For if by one man's offence death reigned by one, much more they which receive abundance of grace, and of the gift of righteousness, shall reign in life by one, Jesus Christ.)

18 Therefore, as by the offence of one judgment came upon all men to condemnation; even so, by the righteousness of one, the free gift came upon all men unto justification of life.

19 For as by one man's disobedience many were made sinners, so by the obedience of one shall many be made righteous.

20 Moreover, the law entered that the offence might abound; but where sin abounded, grace did much more abound.

21 That as sin hath reigned unto death, even so might grace reign through righteousness unto eternal life, by Jesus Christ our Lord.

C H A P. VI.

Death is the wages of sin.

WHAT shall we say then? Shall we continue in sin that grace may abound?

2 God forbid: how shall we that are dead to sin alive any longer therein?

3 Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?

4 Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death, that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life.

5 For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection.

6 Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, that the body of sin might be destroyed, that henceforth we should not serve sin.

7 For he that is dead is freed from sin.

8 Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him.

9 Knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more: death hath no more dominion over him.

10 For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God.

11 Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord.

12 Let not sin therefore reign in your mortal body, that ye should obey it in the lusts thereof:

13 Neither yield ye your members as instruments of unrighteousness unto sin; but yield yourselves unto God, as those that are alive from the dead, and your members as instruments of righteousness unto God.

14 For sin shall not have dominion over you; for ye are not under the law, but under grace.

15 What then? shall we sin, because we are not under the law, but under grace? God forbid.

16 Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death, or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But God be thanked that ye were the servants of sin: but ye have obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine which was delivered you.

18 Being is sin; and because it might be objected, that since sin is not imputed when there is no law; therefore those who lived between Adam and Moses, without any express revealed law, should seem not to be included under the sentence of death, he adds, that even in that time men had some discovery of the will of God; so that before the discovery of Moses' law, sin was in the world, and therefore death did reign from Adam to Moses.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 6. Knowing this, that our old man is crucified with him, &c.] By the old man we are to understand our corrupt and depraved nature, so called, because it is as old as Adam, and born in us. By the body of sin being destroyed, we must understand, that every wicked habit must be rooted out, that the weight, the burden, the whole power of sin, may be effectually removed.

7. He that is dead is freed from sin; i. e. He that is spiritually dead to sin, in conformity to the death of Christ, is freed from sin—is freed both from the guilt and dominion of it.

15. Shall we sin, &c.] The sense of this passage is plainly this, Shall the mercy, the compassion, and gracious goodness of God, declared in the gospel much more expressly than under the Mosaic law—shall it be an encouragement to us to continue in sin? God forbid.

23. The

18 Being then made free from sin, ye became the servants of righteousness.

19 I speak after the manner of men, because of the infirmity of your flesh; for as ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness, and to iniquity unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness unto holiness.

20 For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness.

21 What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death.

22 But now, being made free from sin, and become servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end everlasting life.

23 For the wages of sin is death: but the gift of God is eternal life, through Jesus Christ our Lord.

C H A P. VII.

No law hath power over a man longer than he liveth.

K NOW ye not, brethren, (for I speak to them that know the law,) how that the law hath dominion over a man as long as he liveth?

2 For the woman which hath an husband is bound by the law to her husband so long as he liveth; but if the husband be dead, she is loosed from the law of her husband.

3 So then, if while her husband liveth she be married to another man, she shall be called an adulteress: but if her husband be dead, she is free from that law; so that she is no adulteress, though she be married to another man.

4 Wherefore, my brethren, ye also are become dead to the law by the body of Christ; that ye should be married to another, even to him who is raised from the dead, that we should bring forth fruit unto God.

5 For when we were in the flesh, the motions of sins, which were by the law, did work in our members to bring forth fruit unto death.

6 But now we are delivered from the law, that being dead wherein we were held; that we should serve in newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter.

7 What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid. Nay, I had not known sin, but by the law: for I had not known lust, except the law had said, Thou shalt not covet.

8 But sin, taking occasion by the commandment, wrought in me all manner of concupiscence. For without the law sin was dead.

9 For I was alive without the law once: but when the commandment came, sin revived, and I died.

10 And the commandment which was ordained to life, I found to be unto death.

11 For sin, taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, and by it slew me.

12 Wherefore the law is holy, and the commandment holy, and just, and good.

13 Was then that which is good made death unto me? God forbid. But sin, that it might appear sin, working death in me by that which is good; that sin by the commandment might become exceeding sinful.

14 For we know that the law is spiritual: but I am carnal, sold under sin.

15 For that which I do, I allow not: for what I would, that do I not; but what I hate, that do I.

23. The wages of sin is death, &c.] As if the apostle had said, "Hence you may easily see which master is best to serve. The wages of sin is death; but the reward that God will freely bestow upon you, if you be his servants, is eternal life."

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verse 6. Newness of spirit.] Spirit here means the spiritual worship of the gospel.

7. What shall we say then? Is the law sin? God forbid, &c.] The apostle here answers an objection, which some were ready to make against the holiness of the law; namely, that the law was the cause of sin. But this conclusion the apostle abhors; that, says he, which forbids, discovers, and condemns sin, cannot be the cause of it. It makes it manifest in the conscience of a sinner; therefore, the law is not sin, it excites to, no cause of it.

11. Sin, taking occasion by the commandment, deceived me, &c.] Sin, taking occasion by the terror and curse of the violated commandment, and representing God as now become my irreconcilable enemy, de-

16 If then I do that which I would not, I consent unto the law that it is good.

17 Now then, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

18 For I know, that in me (that is, in my flesh) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me, but how to perform that which is good I find not.

19 For the good that I would, I do not: but the evil which I would not, that I do.

20 Now if I do that I would not, it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me.

21 I find then a law, that when I would do good, evil is present with me.

22 For I delight in the law of God, after the inward man.

23 But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin, which is in my members.

24 O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me from the body of this death?

25 I thank God, through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then, with the mind I myself serve the law of God, but with the flesh the law of sin.

C H A P. VIII.

Who are free from condemnation.

THERE is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

2 For the law of the Spirit of life, in Christ Jesus, hath made me free from the law of sin and death.

3 For what the law could not do, in that it was weak through the flesh, God sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh, and for sin condemned sin in the flesh:

4 That the righteousness of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit.

5 For they that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh: but they that are after the Spirit, the things of the Spirit.

6 For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace:

7 Because the carnal mind is enmity against God; for it is not subject to the law of God, neither indeed can be.

8 So then, they that are in the flesh cannot please God.

9 But ye are not in the flesh, but in the Spirit, if so be that the Spirit of God dwell in you. Now, if any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his.

10 And if Christ be in you, the body is dead because of sin; but the Spirit is life because of righteousness.

11 But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies, by his Spirit that dwelleth in you.

12 Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live after the flesh.

13 For if ye live after the flesh, ye shall die; but if ye through the Spirit do mortify the deeds of the body, ye shall live.

14 For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God.

15 For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father.

16 The

ceived me into a persuasion that I could be no worse than I was; and therefore it slew me, by driving me to despair.

22. I delight in the law of God, &c.] i. e. I delight to perform the duties of the law with an upright heart; I take a pleasure in meditating on it, and in practising all its commands.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 3. For sin condemned sin, &c.] i. e. Christ himself, by suffering in the flesh as a sacrifice for sin, became the great and standing condemnation of sin for ever.

12. Therefore, brethren, we are debtors, not to the flesh, &c.] i. e. Seeing the Holy Spirit dwelleth in us, quickening our souls for the present, and raising our bodies for time to come, furnishing the former with grace here, and fitting the latter for glory hereafter; we therefore ought to live unto God, and not to the flesh.

15. Whereby we cry, Abba, Father.] Among the Jews, they who had been born of a slave could not assume the name of Abba, which signifies Father. This was the privilege only of those who had a right of inheritance.

17. If

16 The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God.

17 And if children, then heirs; heirs of God, and joint-heirs with Christ; if so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together.

18 For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed in us.

19 For the earnest expectation of the creature waiteth for the manifestation of the sons of God.

20 For the creature was made subject to vanity, not willingly, but by reason of him who hath subjected the same in hope:

21 Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God.

22 For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now:

23 And not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first-fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body.

24 For we are saved by hope. But hope that is seen is not hope: for what a man seeth, why doth he yet hope for?

25 But if we hope for that we see not, then do we with patience wait for it.

26 Likewise the Spirit also helpeth our infirmities: for we know not what we should pray for as we ought; but the Spirit itself maketh intercession for us with groanings which cannot be uttered.

27 And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is the mind of the Spirit, because he maketh intercession for the saints according to the will of God.

28 And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose.

29 For whom he did foreknow he also did predestinate to be conformed to the image of his Son, that he might be the first-born among many brethren.

30 Moreover, whom he did predestinate, them he also called; and whom he called, them he also justified; and whom he justified, them he also glorified.

31 What shall we then say to these things? If God be for us, who can be against us?

32 He that spared not his own Son, but delivered him up for us all, how shall he not with him also freely give us all things?

33 Who shall lay any thing to the charge of God's elect? It is God that justifieth;

34 Who is he that condemneth? It is Christ that died; yea rather, that is risen again, who is even at the right hand of God, who also maketh intercession for us.

35 Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?

36 (As it is written, For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we are accounted as sheep for the slaughter.)

37 Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors, through him that loved us.

38 For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

39 Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

C H A P. IX.

Paul's sorrow for the Jews.

I SAY the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience also bearing me witness in the Holy Ghost,

2 That I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart.

3 For I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh:

4 Who are Israelites; to whom pertaineth the adoption, and the glory, and the covenants, and the giving of the law, and the service of God, and the promises:

5 Whose are the fathers, and of whom, as concerning the flesh, Christ came, who is over all, God blessed for ever. Amen.

6 Not as though the word of God hath taken none effect. For they are not all Israel which are of Israel:

7 Neither because they are the seed of Abraham are they all children: but, In Isaac shall thy seed be called.

8 That is, They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God: but the children of the promise are counted for the seed.

9 For this is the word of promise, At this time will I come, and Sara shall have a son.

10 And not only this, but when Rebecca also had conceived by one, even by our father Isaac,

11 (For the children being not yet born, neither having done any good or evil, that the purpose of God according to election might stand, not of works, but of him that calleth,) 12 It was said unto her, The elder shall serve the younger.

13 As it is written, Jacob have I loved, but Esau have I hated.

14 What shall we say then? Is there unrighteousness with God? God forbid.

15 For he saith to Moses, I will have mercy on whom I will have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.

16 So then it is not of him that willeth, nor of him that runneth, but of God that sheweth mercy.

17 For the scripture saith unto Pharaoh, Even for this same purpose have I raised thee up, that I might shew my power

17. If so be that we suffer, &c.] The word if is not a particle here of ambiguity and doubting, but a word of certainty and assurance, and signifies as much as, provided we suffer, or are willing to suffer with him.

24. We are saved by hope.] Our present expectation of a future redemption and salvation beareth up our spirits under sufferings; and carrieth us joyfully through all difficulties.

26. Maketh intercession for us.] i. e. The Spirit causeth us to make intercession.

27. He maketh intercession for the saints.] i. e. Christ maketh intercession for, or manages the affairs of, the saints or faithful.

28. All things work together for good, &c.] Plato has a sentence nearly parallel to this: "Whether a righteous man be in poverty, sickness, or any other calamity, we must conclude, that it will turn to his advantage, either in life or death."

37. In all these things we are more than conquerors.] We do not only bear our trials, but we glory in tribulations; we conquer by our patience; we are more than conquerors by our cheerfulness.

38. Neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities.] i. e. Neither the fear of death, nor the love of life, nor all the efforts of infernal angels, nor principalities, nor powers of darkness, nor present or future distress, nor the height of prosperity, nor depth of adversity, can separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IX.

Verse 2. I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart.] A sorrow continually affecting his heart, and afflicting his spirit for his countrymen the Jews, on account of their obstinate infidelity and hardness of heart, which had provoked God to reject their nation, and scatter them over all the face of the earth.

3. I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ, &c.] This wish of St. Paul is plainly an hyperbolical expression of his great affection to his countrymen the Jews, and his zeal for their salvation. Dr. Hylen interprets it thus; For the cause of Christ I could wish to be as a devoted victim for my brethren, my natural relations, &c.

4. To whom pertaineth the adoption.] They were honoured with the peculiar privilege of being accounted the sons or people of God.

10, 11, 12, 13. When Rebecca also had conceived, &c.] Our apostle having, in the foregoing verses, proved that it was the pleasure of God to account only those of Abraham's seed who were the children of his faith, and to reject the rest for their unbelief, in these verses he prosecutes the same argument, by insisting upon another special dispensation of God in the family of Isaac, whose wife Rebecca had twins, namely, Esau and Jacob; and neither of them had any thing in them to move God to love the one, and dislike the other. Yet a preference was given to one of them. The apostle's argument runs thus: "As Esau and Jacob were of the same father and mother, and had neither of them done any thing to oblige or disoblige God; yet he was pleased to make a difference between them, and their posterity after them, giving Canaan to Jacob and his seed, which by birthright belonged to Esau: so in like manner it is the pleasure of God, that the believing Gentiles should become heirs of the promise by faith in Christ; and that the unbelieving Jews should be rejected and cast off for their infidelity."

15. I will have mercy, &c.] i. e. Not without regard to men's behaviour: but the meaning is, God, who knoweth the heart, is the only proper judge who are fit objects of his mercy, and who of his wrath.

17. For this same purpose have I raised, &c.] In the original it is, "I have made thee to stand; i. e. I have sustained thee, and kept thee power in thee, and that my name might be declared throughout all the earth.

18 Therefore hath he mercy on whom he will have mercy, and whom he will he hardeneth.

19 Thou wilt say then unto me, Why doth he yet find fault? for who hath resisted his will?

20 Nay but, O man, who art thou that repliest against God? shall the thing formed say to him that formed it, Why hast thou made me thus?

21 Hath not the potter power over the clay, of the same lump to make one vessel unto honour, and another unto dishonour?

22 What if God, willing to shew his wrath, and to make his power known, endured with much long-suffering the vessels of wrath fitted to destruction:

23 And that he might make known the riches of his glory on the vessels of mercy, which he had afore prepared unto glory,

24 Even us whom he hath called, not of the Jews only, but also of the Gentiles?

25 As he saith also in Osee, I will call them My people, which were not my people; and her Beloved, which was not beloved.

26 And it shall come to pass, that in the place where it was said unto them, Ye are not my people; there shall they be called the children of the living God.

27 Esaias also crieth concerning Israel, Though the number of the children of Israel be as the sand of the sea, a remnant shall be saved.

28 For he will finish the work, and cut it short in righteousness; because a short work will the Lord make upon the earth.

29 And as Esaias said before, Except the Lord of Sabaoth had left us a seed, we had been as Sodoma, and been made like unto Gomorrah.

30 What shall we say then? That the Gentiles which followed not after righteousness have attained to righteousness, even the righteousness which is of faith:

31 But Israel, which followed after the law of righteousness, hath not attained to the law of righteousness.

32 Wherefore? Because they sought it, not by faith, but as it were by the works of the law: for they stumbled at that stumbling-stone;

33 As it is written, Behold, I lay in Sion a stumbling-stone and rock of offence: and whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed.

C H A P. X.

The difference of the righteousness of the law and that of faith.

BRETHREN, my heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel is, that they might be saved.

2 For I bear them record, that they have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge.

3 For they being ignorant of God's righteousness, and going about to establish their own righteousness, have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God.

4 For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to every one that believeth.

5 For Moses describeth the righteousness which is of the law, That the man which doeth those things shall live by them.

thee alive, when thou deservedst, and mightest justly have expected, to be cut off by the several plagues inflicted on thee for thy obstinate hardness of heart, that I might shew my power in thee, &c. Or, I have patiently borne thy stubbornness for a long time, that my power and justice might more illustriously appear at last, in that signal judgment which I will execute upon thee, in the sight of all the nations of the earth; see Exod. 9. 16.

22. What if God, willing to shew his wrath, &c.] This expressly explains the 17th verse. Pharaoh was, by his own wickedness, fitted to destruction: God endured him with much long-suffering, and waited long for his repentance; but he appearing incorrigible, God therefore chose him as a proper instrument, and raised him up into an eminent example, upon whom he might shew forth his wrath, and make his power known, for a terror to such as should imitate his obstinacy to all succeeding generations.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 18. Their sound went into all the earth, &c.] St. Paul applies to the preachers of the gospel what David says of the stars, Psa. 19. 4. It was no less a miracle, that the gospel, in the space of a few years, should be preached to all nations, and planted in the remotest parts of the world.

19, 20, 21. Did not Israel know? First, Moses saith, &c.] Hath not

6 But the righteousness which is of faith speaketh on this wise, Say not in thine heart, Who shall ascend into heaven? (that is, to bring Christ down from above:)

7 Or, Who shall descend into the deep? (that is, to bring up Christ again from the dead.)

8 But what saith it? The word is nigh thee, even in thy mouth, and in thy heart; that is, the word of faith which we preach;

9 That if thou shalt confess with thy mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved.

10 For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness, and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation.

11 For the scripture saith, Whosoever believeth on him shall not be ashamed.

12 For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek: for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon him.

13 For whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved.

14 How then shall they call on him in whom they have not believed? and how shall they believe in him of whom they have not heard? and how shall they hear without a preacher?

15 And how shall they preach except they be sent? as it is written, How beautiful are the feet of them that preach the gospel of peace, and bring glad tidings of good things!

16 But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Esaias saith, Lord, who hath believed our report?

17 So then, faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God.

18 But I say, Have they not heard? Yes, verily, their sound went into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world.

19 But I say, Did not Israel know? First, Moses saith, I will provoke you to jealousy by them that are no people, and by a foolish nation I will anger you.

20 But Esaias is very bold, and saith, I was found of them that sought me not; I was made manifest unto them that asked not after me.

21 But to Israel he saith, All day long I have stretched forth my hands unto a disobedient and gainsaying people.

C H A P. XI.

All Israel not cast off.

ISAY then, Hath God cast away his people? God forbid. For I also am an Israelite, of the seed of Abraham, of the tribe of Benjamin.

2 God hath not cast away his people which he foreknew. Wot ye not what the scripture saith of Elias? how he maketh intercession to God against Israel, saying,

3 Lord, they have killed thy prophets, and digged down thine altars; and I am left alone, and they seek my life.

4 But what saith the answer of God unto him? I have reserved to myself seven thousand men, who have not bowed the knee to the image of Baal.

5 Even so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the election of grace.

6 And if by grace, then is it no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. But if it be of works, then is it no more grace: otherwise work is no more work.

7 What

Israel known that the gospel should be preached to the Gentiles too? for Moses saith, I will raise their jealousy by those who were not a nation, and their anger with a foolish people: and Isaiah hath the boldness to say, in a context where so many things evidently refer to the gospel, I was found of them that sought me not; I was made manifest to them that enquired not for me, nor discovered any concern to be informed of my nature, or my will. Whereas, invidious as he knew it would be to a nation so impatient of rebuke, with relation to Israel, he saith, in the very next text, All the day long have I stretched out my hands, in the most importunate and affectionate addresses, to a disobedient and gainsaying people, who were continually objecting and cavilling; whom no persuasion can win to regard their own happiness, so as to be willing to admit the evidence of truth, and the counsels of wisdom.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 5. There is a remnant, &c.] i. e. Though the nation of the Jews, having rejected the gracious offer of the gospel, are thereupon rejected from being the people of God, yet hath God reserved to himself a remnant from among them, even those who have embraced the grace of God, which is the gospel of Christ.

6. If by grace, then is it no more of works:] i. e. If it be upon account of their having embraced the Christian religion that they are reckoned the

7 What then? Israel hath not obtained that which he seeketh for; but the election hath obtained it, and the rest were blinded

8 (According as it is written, God hath given them the spirit of slumber, eyes that they should not see, and ears that they should not hear,) unto this day.

9 And David saith, Let their table be made a snare, and a trap, and a stumbling-block, and a recompence unto them.

10 Let their eyes be darkened, that they may not see, and bow down their back alway.

11 I say then, Have they stumbled that they should fall? God forbid: but rather through their fall salvation is come unto the Gentiles, for to provoke them to jealousy.

12 Now if the fall of them be the riches of the world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles, how much more their fulness?

13 For I speak to you, Gentiles, in as much as I am the apostle of the Gentiles, I magnify mine office:

14 If by any means I may provoke to emulation them which are my flesh, and might save some of them.

15 For if the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world; what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead?

16 For if the first-fruit be holy, the lump is also holy: and if the root be holy, so are the branches.

17 And if some of the branches be broken off, and thou, being a wild olive-tree, wert grafted in among them, and with them partakest of the root and fatness of the olive-tree;

18 Boast not against the branches: but if thou boast, thou bearest not the root, but the root thee.

19 Thou wilt say then, The branches were broken off, that I might be grafted in.

20 Well; because of unbelief they were broken off, and thou standest by faith. Be not high-minded; but fear.

21 For if God spared not the natural branches, take heed lest he also spare not thee.

22 Behold therefore the goodness and severity of God: on them which fell, severity; but toward thee goodness, if thou continue in his goodness: otherwise thou also shalt be cut off.

23 And they also, if they abide not still in unbelief, shall be grafted in: for God is able to graft them in again.

24 For if thou wert cut out of the olive-tree, which is wild by nature, and wert grafted contrary to nature into a good olive-tree; how much more shall these, which be the natural branches, be grafted into their own olive-tree?

25 For I would not, brethren, that ye should be ignorant of this mystery, (lest ye should be wise in your own conceits,) that blindness in part is happened to Israel, until the fulness of the Gentiles be come in.

26 And so all Israel shall be saved: as it is written, There shall come out of Sion the Deliverer, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob.

27 For this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sins.

28 As concerning the gospel, they are enemies for your sakes: but as touching the election, they are beloved for the fathers' sakes.

29 For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance.

peculiar people of God, then is not this privilege any longer annexed to the professors of the Jewish religion, otherwise grace is no more grace, i. e. otherwise the Christian religion is in vain, and not what it pretends to be, the grace of God. It is to be here observed, that the apostle calls the Christian religion grace, and the Jewish he styles works.

7. The election; i. e. The elect people, those who believe in Christ.

12. How much more their fulness? How much more shall the bringing in the whole body of the Jewish nation be a means of propagating the gospel further, and recovering multitudes, by whom it hath been rejected, from their scepticism and infidelity, when so great an event appears in accomplishment of its known predictions?

15. If the casting away of them be the reconciling, &c.] If their rejection were the reconciliation of so great a part of the heathen world to God, as it was the means of sending the gospel of peace among them; what will the reception of them be, but life from the dead? What joy will it necessarily give, and what a general diffusion of the gospel will it naturally produce!

16. First-fruit, &c.] The first-fruits and the root are the patriarchs; the lump and the branches are the Jewish nation. The apostle proves, that God still retained an affection for the Jewish nation, on account of 30 For as ye in times past have not believed God, yet have now obtained mercy through their unbelief;

31 Even so have these also now not believed, that through your mercy they also may obtain mercy.

32 For God hath concluded them all in unbelief, that he might have mercy upon all.

33 O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out!

34 For who hath known the mind of the Lord, or who hath been his counsellor?

35 Or who hath first given to him, and it shall be recompensed unto him again?

36 For of him, and through him, and to him, are all things: to whom be glory for ever. Amen.

C H A P. XII.

God's mercies must move us to please him.

I BESEECH you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service.

2 And be not conformed to this world; but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God.

3 For I say, through the grace given unto me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith.

4 For as we have many members in one body, and all members have not the same office;

5 So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.

6 Having then gifts, differing according to the grace that is given to us, whether prophecy, let us prophesy according to the proportion of faith:

7 Or ministry, let us wait on our ministering; or he that teacheth, on teaching;

8 Or he that exhorteth, on exhortation: he that giveth, let him do it with simplicity; he that ruleth, with diligence; he that sheweth mercy, with cheerfulness.

9 Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil, cleave to that which is good.

10 Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love, in honour preferring one another;

11 Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord;

12 Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer;

13 Distributing to the necessity of saints; given to hospitality.

14 Bless them which persecute you; bless, and curse not.

15 Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep.

16 Be of the same mind one toward another. Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits:

17 Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men.

18 If

the patriarchs; and, after all, it was the holy nation, which he honoured with his alliance and promises.

28, 29. As concerning the gospel, they are enemies for your sakes, &c.] Thus, on the whole, with respect to the gospel, the nation of the Jews are indeed regarded as enemies for your sakes; i. e. for their obstinate rejecting of the gospel, God hath rejected them in favour of you, that he might receive you into his church as in their stead; but as for the election, that remnant of them which God hath graciously chosen to be subdued by the grace of the gospel, they are beloved for their fathers' sakes. God's gracious regard to the memory of their pious ancestors engages him to take care, that some of their seed shall always continue in covenant with him, till, at length, he recovers them as a nation, and astonishes the world with their unequalled glory and felicity: and this shall most assuredly be; for the gifts and calling of God are not to be repented of.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XII.

Verse 2. Be not conformed to this world, &c.] Be not, in the general course of your temper and actions, conformed to the sentiments and customs of this vain and sinful world; but rather endeavour to become new creatures, contracting new habits, and engaging in new pursuits, under the influence of the Divine Spirit on your hearts.

20. Thou

18 If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men.

19 Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: for it is written, Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.

20 Therefore, if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink: for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.

21 Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.

C H A P. XIII.

Against gluttony, drunkenness, and the works of darkness.

LET every soul be subject unto the higher powers; for there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God.

2 Whosoever therefore resisteth the power resisteth the ordinance of God; and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation.

3 For rulers are not a terror to good works, but to the evil. Wilt thou then not be afraid of the power? do that which is good, and thou shalt have praise of the same:

4 For he is the minister of God to thee for good. But if thou do that which is evil, be afraid; for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is the minister of God, a revenger to execute wrath upon him that doeth evil.

5 Wherefore, ye must needs be subject, not only for wrath, but also for conscience sake.

6 For, for this cause pay ye tribute also: for they are God's ministers, attending continually upon this very thing.

7 Render therefore to all their dues: tribute to whom tribute is due, custom to whom custom, fear to whom fear, honour to whom honour.

8 Owe no man any thing, but to love one another: for he that loveth another hath fulfilled the law.

9 For this, Thou shalt not commit adultery, Thou shalt not kill, Thou shalt not steal, Thou shalt not bear false witness, Thou shalt not covet: and if there be any other commandment, it is briefly comprehended in this saying, namely, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

10 Love worketh no ill to his neighbour: therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.

11 And that, knowing the time, that now it is high time to awake out of sleep, for now is our salvation nearer than when we believed.

12 The night is far spent, the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armour of light.

13 Let us walk honestly as in the day; not in rioting and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and envying.

14 But put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfil the lusts thereof.

C H A P. XIV.

Men may not condemn or condemn one another for things indifferent.

20. Thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head.] See Prov. 25. 22. Thou wilt touch him so sensibly, that he will be no more able to stand against such a conduct, than to bear on his head burning coals; but will rather submit, and seek thy friendship, and endeavour by future kindness to overbalance the injury. The metaphor seems to be taken from chemists, who place coals over their vessels, in which they melt and liquify their metals.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 2. Shall receive to themselves damnation.] Rather condemnation, not only from the civil powers they injure, but from the supreme Sovereign whose laws they break.

4. He beareth not the sword in vain.] This strongly intimates the lawfulness of inflicting capital punishment; which, to deny, is subverting the use of magistracy.

6. Attending continually upon this very thing.] As they continually apply themselves to the execution of their high office, they have a right to be honourably maintained out of the public revenues.

11. It is high time to awake, &c.] It is high time to awake out of sleep, and vigorously to improve every opportunity of doing good, and prosecuting the great business of life, which is to secure the Divine favour and your future happiness; for our great expected salvation is now considerably nearer than when we at first believed.

12. The night is far spent, &c.] Since the dark state of the present life, in which we often confound good and bad, is almost over, and the day is drawing near, even that day which will shew every thing in its proper colours and forms, let us therefore put off the works, which will suit only a state of darkness, and let us put on a complete armour of light.

HIM that is weak in the faith receive ye, but not to doubtful disputations.

2 For one believeth that he may eat all things; another, who is weak, eateth herbs.

3 Let not him that eateth despise him that eateth not; and let not him which eateth not judge him that eateth: for God hath received him.

4 Who art thou that judgest another man's servant? to his own master he standeth or falleth: yea, he shall be holden up; for God is able to make him stand.

5 One man esteemeth one day above another; another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind.

6 He that regardeth the day, regardeth it unto the Lord; and he that regardeth not the day, to the Lord he doth not regard it. He that eateth, eateth to the Lord, for he giveth God thanks; and he that eateth not, to the Lord he eateth not, and giveth God thanks.

7 For none of us liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself.

8 For whether we live, we live unto the Lord; and whether we die, we die unto the Lord: whether we live, therefore, or die, we are the Lord's.

9 For to this end Christ both died, and rose, and revived, that he might be Lord both of the dead and living.

10 But why dost thou judge thy brother? or why dost thou set at nought thy brother? for we shall all stand before the judgment-seat of Christ.

11 For it is written, As I live, saith the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess to God.

12 So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.

13 Let us not therefore judge one another any more; but judge this rather, that no man put a stumbling-block, or an occasion to fall, in his brother's way.

14 I know, and am persuaded by the Lord Jesus, that there is nothing unclean of itself: but to him that esteemeth any thing to be unclean, to him it is unclean.

15 But if thy brother be grieved with thy meat, now walkest thou not charitably. Destroy not him with thy meat for whom Christ died.

16 Let not then your good be evil spoken of.

17 For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink, but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost.

18 For he that in these things serveth Christ is acceptable to God, and approved of men.

19 Let us therefore follow after the things which make for peace, and things wherewith one may edify another.

20 For meat destroy not the work of God. All things indeed are pure; but it is evil for that man who eateth with offence.

21 It is good neither to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor any thing whereby thy brother stumbleth, or is offended, or is made weak.

22 Hast

14. Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, &c.] i. e. Live as becomes the disciples of Christ. The phrase is highly significant and expressive: Let your minds be habitually invested with all moral and Christian virtues, defending yourselves continually against the approaches of temptations, and against the enticements of a vicious and debauched world.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIV.

Verse 1. Him that is weak in the faith receive ye, &c.] As for him who is so weak in the Christian faith, as still to retain the prejudices of a Jewish education, let me prevail on you, gentle believers, in this respect better instructed in the nature and extent of Christian liberty, to receive and converse with him in a friendly and respectful manner; and do not indulge yourselves in the inclination, which you may sometimes find, to run into debates and distinctions about matters in doubt between you.

2. Eateth herbs.] Some of the Jews used to eat no flesh at all; and others looked upon it as a very high pitch of virtue to abstain from it in Gentile countries, lest the flesh which they might buy in the shambles might have been offered to idols, or have contracted some pollution.

8. Whether we live, we live unto the Lord, &c.] If we live, it is our concern that we may live to the Lord, and strenuously pursue the great purpose of his glory; or that, if we die, we may die unto the Lord, either by sacrificing our lives to his gospel, if he demands it of us; or, if we expire in a natural way, by behaving to the last as those who have his love ruling in our hearts, and his sacred cause still in our eye.

17. Joy in the Holy Ghost;] i. e. A cheerful temper, supported by a consciousness of strict integrity, established on principles of universal love, and inspired by the blessed Spirit of God.

22. Hast

22 Hast thou faith? have it to thyself before God. Happy is he that condemneth not himself in that thing which he alloweth.

23 And he that doubteth is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for whatsoever is not of faith is sin.

C H A P. XV.

Paul excuseth his writing.

WE then that are strong ought to bear the infirmities of the weak, and not to please ourselves.

2 Let every one of us please his neighbour, for his good to edification.

3 For even Christ pleased not himself; but as it is written, The reproaches of them that reproached thee fell on me.

4 For whatsoever things were written aforetime were written for our learning; that we, through patience and comfort of the scriptures, might have hope.

5 Now the God of patience and consolation grant you to be like-minded one toward another, according to Christ Jesus.

6 That ye may with one mind and one mouth glorify God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

7 Wherefore receive ye one another, as Christ also received us, to the glory of God.

8 Now, I say, that Jesus Christ was a minister of the circumcision for the truth of God, to confirm the promises made unto the fathers.

9 And that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy: as it is written, For this cause I will confess to thee among the Gentiles, and sing unto thy name.

10 And again he saith, Rejoice, ye Gentiles, with his people.

11 And again, Praise the Lord, all ye Gentiles; and laud him, all ye people.

12 And again Esaias saith, There shall be a root of Jesse, and he that shall rise to reign over the Gentiles; in him shall the Gentiles trust.

13 Now the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, that ye may abound in hope, through the power of the Holy Ghost.

14 And I myself also am persuaded of you, my brethren, that ye also are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge, able also to admonish one another.

15 Nevertheless, brethren, I have written the more boldly unto you, in some sort, as putting you in mind, because of the grace that is given to me of God,

16 That I should be the minister of Jesus Christ to the Gentiles, ministering the gospel of God, that the offering up of the Gentiles might be acceptable, being sanctified by the Holy Ghost.

17 I have therefore whereof I may glory, through Jesus Christ, in those things which pertain to God.

18 For I will not dare to speak of any of those things which Christ hath not wrought by me, to make the Gentiles obedient by word and deed,

19 Through mighty signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God: so that from Jerusalem, and round about unto Illyricum, I have fully preached the gospel of Christ.

20 Yea, so have I strived to preach the gospel, not where Christ was named, lest I should build upon another man's foundation:

21 But as it is written, To whom he was not spoken of, they shall see: and they that have not heard shall understand.

22 For which cause also I have been much hindered from coming to you.

23 But now, having no more place in these parts, and having a great desire these many years to come unto you;

24 Whosoever I take my journey into Spain, I will come to you: for I trust to see you in my journey, and to be brought on my way thitherward by you, if first I be somewhat filled with your company.

25 But now I go unto Jerusalem, to minister unto the saints.

26 For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia, to make a certain contribution for the poor saints which are at Jerusalem.

27 It hath pleased them verily, and their debtors they are. For if the Gentiles have been made partakers of their spiritual things, their duty is also to minister unto them in carnal things.

28 When therefore I have performed this, and have sealed to them this fruit, I will come by you into Spain.

29 And I am sure that, when I come unto you, I shall come in the fulness of the blessing of the gospel of Christ.

30 Now I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, and for the love of the Spirit, that ye strive together with me in your prayers to God for me;

31 That I may be delivered from them that do not believe in Judea; and that my service which I have for Jerusalem may be accepted of the saints:

32 That I may come unto you with joy by the will of God, and may with you be refreshed.

33 Now the God of peace be with you all. Amen.

C H A P. XVI.

Paul sendeth greeting to many, and endeth with praise and thanks to God.

I COMMEND unto you Phœbe our sister, which is a servant of the church which is at Cenchrea;

2 That ye receive her in the Lord, as becometh saints, and that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you: for she hath been a succourer of many, and of myself also.

3 Greet Priscilla and Aquila, my helpers in Christ Jesus;

4 Who have for my life laid down their own necks: unto whom not only I give thanks, but also all the churches of the Gentiles.

5 Likewise greet the church that is in their house. Salute my well-beloved Epenetus, who is the first-fruits of Achaia unto Christ.

6 Greet Mary, who bestowed much labour on us.

7 Salute Andronicus and Junia my kinsmen, and my fellow-prisoners, who are of note among the apostles, who also were in Christ before me.

8 Greet Amplias, my beloved in the Lord.

9 Salute Urbane, our helper in Christ, and Stachys my beloved.

10 Salute Apelles, approved in Christ. Salute them which are of Aristobulus' household.

11 Salute

22. Hast thou faith? have it to thyself before God.] His meaning is, in things of an indifferent nature (of which he was here speaking) men of understanding had better keep to themselves their lawful liberty, than run the hazard of encouraging others to venture farther than their consciences will innocently permit them.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XV.

Verse 8. Jesus Christ was a minister of the circumcision, &c.] He was made a minister of the circumcision. As he was a Jew by birth, he received circumcision himself, in token of his obligation to observe the law, and confined his personal ministry, according to what he himself declared concerning the limitation of his embassy, Matt. 15. 24. to the lost sheep of the house of Israel: and this was for the illustration of the truth and fidelity of God, to confirm and verify the promises, so long since made to Abraham, and the other fathers of that nation.

9. That the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy, &c.] That they might glorify God for his mercy, in granting them a participation of the same privileges; and he gave it in charge to his apostles, that they should raise disciples to him among all nations; so that it is a failure of love and duty to Christ not to receive them: accordingly the Gentiles are often spoken of in the Old Testament, as called to join with the Jews in worshipping the God of Israel; as it is written, Psa. 18. 49. For this cause will I confess to thee among the Gentiles, and sing praises unto thy name.

10. Again he saith, Rejoice, ye Gentiles, with his people.] Again he, that is Moses, saith, Deut. 32. 43. Rejoice, ye Gentiles, with his people: which may intimate their being called to participate the blessings once peculiar to Israel.

28. Spain.] It seems probable from hence, that no apostle had yet planted any church in Spain.

30, 31. I beseech you, brethren, for the Lord Jesus Christ's sake, &c.] I know that, in this journey to Jerusalem, I have, humanly speaking, a very dangerous scene before me, having some of my most mortal and implacable enemies to contend with. Therefore, as I cannot but apprehend the interest of the gospel to be concerned in my life and liberty, I beseech you, brethren, by our Lord Jesus Christ, and by the love which is the genuine fruit of the Spirit, that ye join your utmost strength and fervency with mine, in your daily prayer to God for me, that I may be rescued from the unbelievers in Judea, who are so full of rancour against me, as a deserter from their cause, and will, I am sure, spare no force or fraud to destroy me.

ANNO-

11 Salute Herodion my kinsman. Greet them that be of the household of Narcissus, which are in the Lord.

12 Salute Tryphena and Tryphosa, who labour in the Lord. Salute the beloved Persis, which laboured much in the Lord.

13 Salute Rufus, chosen in the Lord, and his mother and mine.

14 Salute Asyncritus, Phlegon, Hermas, Patrobas, Hermes, and the brethren which are with them.

15 Salute Phylologus, and Julia, Nereus, and his sister, and Olympas, and all the saints which are with them.

16 Salute one another with an holy kiss. The churches of Christ salute you.

17 Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them which cause divisions and offences, contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them.

18 For they that are such serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own belly; and by good words and fair speeches deceive the hearts of the simple.

19 For your obedience is come abroad unto all men. I am glad therefore on your behalf: but yet I would have you wise unto that which is good, and simple concerning evil.

20 And the God of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

21 Timotheus my work-fellow, and Lucius, and Jason, and Sosipater, my kinsmen, salute you.

22 I Tertius, who wrote this epistle, salute you in the Lord.

23 Gaius mine host, and of the whole church, saluteth you. Erastus the chamberlain of the city saluteth you; and Quartus a brother.

24 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

25 Now to him that is of power to stablish you according to my gospel, and the preaching of Jesus Christ, (according to the revelation of the mystery which was kept secret since the world began,

26 But now is made manifest, and by the scriptures of the prophets, according to the commandment of the everlasting God, made known to all nations for the obedience of faith,)

27 To God only wise, be glory, through Jesus Christ, for ever. Amen.

¶ Written to the Romans from Corinthus, and sent by Phebe, servant of the church at Cencrea.

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE CORINTHIANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

St. PAUL having planted a church, chiefly of Gentile converts, at Corinth, where his ministry had been so successful that he continued there near two years, had occasion to write this Epistle to the Corinthians about three years after he had left them. The reason for which it was written was, to answer some important queries proposed by the Corinthians, and to correct the various criminal irregularities and disorders of which they were guilty; and likewise to vindicate himself from the aspersions and calumnies of a faction, which had been formed against him in his absence.

CHAP. I.

God destroyeth the wisdom of the wise.

PAUL, called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and Sosthenes our brother,

2 Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, to them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that in every place call upon the name of Jesus Christ our Lord, both theirs and ours.

3 Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I thank my God always on your behalf, for the grace of God which is given you by Jesus Christ;

5 That in every thing ye are enriched by him, in all utterance, and in all knowledge:

6 Even as the testimony of Christ was confirmed in you.

7 So that ye come behind in no gift; waiting for the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ:

8 Who shall also confirm you unto the end, that ye may be blameless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 God is faithful, by whom ye were called unto the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 Now I beseech you, brethren, by the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfectly joined together in the same mind; and in the same judgment.

11 For it hath been declared unto me of you, my brethren, by them which are of the house of Chloe, that there are contentions among you.

12 Now this I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul, and I of Apollos, and I of Cephas, and I of Christ.

13 Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were ye baptized in the name of Paul?

14 I thank God, that I baptized none of you, but Crispus and Gaius:

15 Lest any should say that I had baptized in mine own name.

16 And I baptized also the household of Stephanas; besides, I know not whether I baptized any other.

17 For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel; not with wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect.

18 For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness: but unto us which are saved it is the power of God.

19 For

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 1. Sosthenes.] This was a Corinthian minister, who attended St. Paul in his travels. It was prudent in the apostle to join his name with his own in an epistle, in which it was necessary to deal so plainly with them, and to remonstrate against so many irregularities.

9. God is faithful.] i. e. If we continue obedient, God, for his part, will certainly perform his promise faithfully.

12. This I say, that every one of you saith, I am of Paul, &c.] What I mean by the preceding charge is, that there are various parties among you. One, for instance, says, I am for Paul, admiring the plainness and purity of his doctrine; and a second, I am for Apollos, charmed with the eloquence and beauty of his address; and a third, I am for Cephas, the apostle of the circumcision, who may be well called a foundation-stone in the church, as he maintains so strict a regard to the Mosaic ceremonies, and the peculiar privileges of God's ancient people; while a fourth says, I am for Christ, whose superior name, and strict observance of the Mosaic law in his own person, unanswerably testify its perpetual obligation, however any of his ministers may regard or neglect it.

17. Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach, &c.] The proper office of an apostle was not so much to baptize, to perform the ceremony himself with his own hands, but rather to attend constantly the work of preaching the gospel.

19 For it is written, I will destroy the wisdom of the wise, and will bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent.

20 Where is the wise? where is the scribe? where is the disputer of this world? hath not God made foolish the wisdom of this world?

21 For after that, in the wisdom of God, the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe.

22 For the Jews require a sign, and the Greeks seek after wisdom:

23 But we preach Christ crucified, unto the Jews a stumbling-block, and unto the Greeks foolishness;

24 But unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God.

25 Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men.

26 For ye see your calling, brethren, how that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble, are called.

27 But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise; and God hath chosen the weak things of the world to confound the things which are mighty;

28 And base things of the world, and things which are despised, hath God chosen, yea, and things which are not, to bring to nought things that are:

29 That no flesh should glory in his presence.

30 But of him are ye in Christ Jesus, who of God is made unto us wisdom, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption:

31 That, according as it is written, He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

C H A P. II.

Paul declareth that his wisdom far exceeds human wisdom.

AND I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech, or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.

2 For I determined not to know any thing among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified.

3 And I was with you in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling.

4 And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit, and of power;

5 That your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.

6 Howbeit, we speak wisdom among them that are perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, nor of the princes of this world, that come to nought:

7 But we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom which God ordained before the world unto our glory.

8 Which none of the princes of this world knew; for had they known it, they would not have crucified the Lord of glory.

9 But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him.

10 But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit:

25. The foolishness of God is wiser than men, &c.] i. e. Those things which to us seem the most improbable, and wherein God makes use of the most unlikely means and instruments—even this is wiser than men.

26. Not many wise men after the flesh;] i. e. Not many of those whom the world generally esteemed wise, for their being able, by subtle disputes, to perplex the plainest truths; but the men of integrity and plainness, of sincerity and simplicity of heart, &c. these were the persons that embraced the gospel of Christ.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 1. I came—not with excellency of speech, &c.] I came not with the pomp of language or worldly wisdom, with the laboured charms of eloquence or philosophy; for I remembered, that I was declaring to you no human invention, which needed or admitted such ornaments or recommendations; but was exhibiting the testimony of God to a plain fact, for which I produced authentic evidence by visible divine operations.

2. I determined not to know any thing, &c.] i. e. I determined to make known and to preach nothing among you but Jesus Christ.

6. We speak wisdom among them that are perfect, &c.] To sincere Christians we speak concerning the wonderful dispensation of God, in designing to reconcile all things to himself by Christ, even before the foundation of the world; in revealing himself, by degrees, to the patrifor the Spirit searcheth all things; yea, the deep things of God.

11 For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so, the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God.

12 Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God.

13 Which things also we speak, not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but which the Holy Ghost teacheth: comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

14 But the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God: for they are foolishness unto him; neither can he know them, because they are spiritually discerned.

15 But he that is spiritual judgeth all things, yet he himself is judged of no man.

16 For who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he may instruct him? But we have the mind of Christ.

C H A P. III.

Paul's manner with weak believers.

AND I, brethren, could not speak unto you as unto spiritual, but as unto carnal, even as unto babes in Christ.

2 I have fed you with milk, and not with meat: for hitherto ye were not able to bear it, neither yet now are ye able.

3 For ye are yet carnal; for whereas there is among you envying, and strife, and divisions, are ye not carnal, and walk as men?

4 For while one saith, I am of Paul, and another, I am of Apollos, are ye not carnal?

5 Who then is Paul, and who is Apollos, but ministers by whom ye believed, even as the Lord gave to every man?

6 I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase.

7 So then, neither is he that planteth any thing, neither he that watereth, but God that giveth the increase.

8 Now he that planteth, and he that watereth, are one: and every man shall receive his own reward, according to his own labour.

9 For we are labourers together with God: ye are God's husbandry; ye are God's building.

10 According to the grace of God which is given unto me, as a wise master-builder, I have laid the foundation, and another buildeth thereon. But let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon.

11 For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

12 Now, if any man build upon this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble:

13 Every man's work shall be made manifest. For the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire; and the fire shall try every man's work, of what sort it is.

14 If any man's work abide which he hath built thereupon, he shall receive a reward.

15 If any man's work shall be burnt, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as by fire.

16 Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you.

17 If any man defile the temple of God, him shall God destroy:

arches, and afterwards to the Jews by Moses; in giving the law, wrapt under types and shadows; and, in latter ages, discovering himself more plainly by the appearance of his Son; and, in this last dispensation, rejecting the Jews, and receiving in the Gentiles; yet, with an intention, that, in the fulness of time, those others also should be received in again.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 2. I have fed you with milk, &c.] This is a proverbial expression, signifying the first nourishment that is given to infants.

3. Whereas there is among you envying, &c.] i. e. Do you not behave yourselves more like the profane and corrupt infidels of this present world, than like the disciples of Christ? for even in St. Paul's time Christians began to be at variance, and to depart from the simplicity that is in Christ.

12. Gold, silver, precious stones;] i. e. Doctrines that are true, solid, and edifying.

Wood, hay, stubble;] i. e. Unintelligible speculations, and doctrines: useless in practice.

13. Fire shall try every man's work, &c.] So that, if it be gold, it shall be purified; if stubble, consumed.

15. He himself shall be saved, yet so as by fire.] Or from fire; so as out of or through the flames, in such a manner as a person escapes out of the burning, when his house is on all sides on fire.

destroy: for the temple of God is holy, which temple ye are.

18 Let no man deceive himself: if any man among you seemeth to be wise in this world, let him become a fool, that he may be wise.

19 For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God: for it is written, He taketh the wise in their own craftiness.

20 And again, The Lord knoweth the thoughts of the wise, that they are vain.

21 Therefore let no man glory in men: for all things are yours;

22 Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come; all are yours;

23 And ye are Christ's; and Christ is God's.

C H A P. IV.

How to account of ministers.

LET a man so account of us as of the ministers of Christ, and stewards of the mysteries of God.

2 Moreover, it is required in stewards that a man be found faithful.

3 But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's judgment; yea, I judge not mine own self.

4 For I know nothing by myself, yet am I not hereby justified: but he that judgeth me is the Lord.

5 Therefore judge nothing before the time, until the Lord come, who both will bring to light the hidden things of darkness, and will make manifest the counsels of the hearts; and then shall every man have praise of God.

6 And these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and to Apollos for your sakes; that ye might learn in us not to think of men above that which is written, that no one of you be puffed up for one against another.

7 For who maketh thee to differ from another? and what hast thou that thou didst not receive? now, if thou didst receive it, why dost thou glory as if thou hadst not received it?

8 Now ye are full, now ye are rich, ye have reigned as kings without us; and I would to God ye did reign, that we also might reign with you.

9 For I think that God hath set forth us the apostles last, as it were appointed to death. For we are made a spectacle unto the world, and to angels, and to men.

10 We are fools for Christ's sake, but ye are wise in Christ: we are weak, but ye are strong: ye are honourable, but we are despised.

11 Even unto this present hour we both hunger, and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and have no certain dwelling-place;

12 And labour, working with our own hands: being reviled, we bless; being persecuted, we suffer it;

13 Being defamed, we entreat: we are made as the filth of the world, and are the off-scouring of all things unto this day.

14 I write not these things to shame you, but, as my beloved sons, I warn you.

15 For though ye have ten thousand instructors in Christ, yet have ye not many fathers: for in Christ Jesus I have begotten you through the gospel.

16 Wherefore, I beseech you, be ye followers of me.

17 For this cause have I sent unto you Timotheus, who is my beloved son, and faithful in the Lord, who shall bring you into remembrance of my ways which be in Christ, as I teach every where in every church.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 8. Now ye are full, &c.] i. e. Ye are puffed up, and grown insolent and domineering, in your several parties and divisions one among another.

20. The kingdom of God is not in word, but in power;] i. e. The religion of Christ does not consist in mere outward professions and forms of godliness, but in the efficacy of a true persuasion upon the minds of men, bringing forth real virtue and holiness in their lives.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 6. A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.] Thus will evil examples tend to spread in the church; and if a brand of infamy be not quickly set upon the incorrigible offender, wickedness will grow fami-

18 Now some are puffed up, as though I would not come to you.

19 But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord will, and will know, not the speech of them which are puffed up, but the power.

20 For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power.

21 What will ye? shall I come unto you with a rod, or in love, and in the spirit of meekness?

C H A P. V.

The incestuous person.

IT is reported commonly that there is fornication among you, and such fornication as is not so much as named among the Gentiles, that one should have his father's wife.

2 And ye are puffed up, and have not rather mourned, that he that hath done this deed might be taken away from among you.

3 For I verily, as absent in body but present in spirit, have judged already, as though I were present, concerning him that hath so done this deed;

4 In the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, when ye are gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus Christ,

5 To deliver such an one unto Satan, for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus.

6 Your glorying is not good. Know ye not, that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump?

7 Purge out therefore the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, as ye are unleavened. For even Christ our passover is sacrificed for us.

8 Therefore let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness, but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth.

9 I wrote unto you in an epistle, not to company with fornicators.

10 Yet not altogether with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous, or extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go out of the world.

11 But now I have written unto you, not to keep company, if any man that is called a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a railer, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such an one, no not to eat.

12 For what have I to do to judge them also that are without? do not ye judge them that are within?

13 But them that are without God judgeth. Therefore put away from among yourselves that wicked person.

C H A P. VI.

Of going to law with the brethren.

DARE any of you, having a matter against another, go to law before the unjust, and not before the saints?

2 Do ye not know that the saints shall judge the world? and if the world shall be judged by you, are ye unworthy to judge the smallest matters?

3 Know ye not that we shall judge angels? how much more things that pertain to this life?

4 If then ye have judgments of things pertaining to this life, set them to judge who are least esteemed in the church.

5 I speak to your shame. Is it so, that there is not a wise man among you? no, not one that shall be able to judge between his brethren?

6 But brother goeth to law with brother, and that before the unbelievers.

7 Now therefore there is utterly a fault among you, because ye go to law one with another: why do ye not rather liar, and lose its horror; so that many other members of your society may be polluted, ensnared, and dishonoured.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 1. Before the unjust, &c.] In heathen courts, and not before your Christian brethren.

4. Set them, &c.] If therefore ye have any little controversies with each other relating to the affairs of this life, ye ought to set those to determine them who are of no esteem at all in the church, rather than go to contend with pagans and infidels.

5. Not a wise man among you, &c.] What! is there not one wise intelligent person among you all, who may be able to determine the cause of a Christian brother?

rather take wrong? why do ye not rather suffer yourselves to be defrauded?

8 Nay, ye do wrong and defraud, and that your brethren.

9 Know ye not, that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind,

10 Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God.

11 And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified, in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of our God.

12 All things are lawful unto me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but I will not be brought under the power of any.

13 Meats for the belly, and the belly for meats: but God shall destroy both it and them. Now the body is not for fornication, but for the Lord, and the Lord for the body.

14 And God hath both raised up the Lord, and will also raise up us by his own power.

15 Know ye not, that your bodies are the members of Christ? shall I then take the members of Christ, and make them the members of an harlot? God forbid.

16 What! know ye not, that he which is joined to an harlot is one body? for two (saith he) shall be one flesh.

17 But he that is joined unto the Lord is one spirit.

18 Flee fornication. Every sin that a man doeth is without the body: but he that committeth fornication sinneth against his own body.

19 What! know ye not, that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost which is in you, which ye have of God? and ye are not your own, 20 For ye are bought with a price: therefore glorify God in your body, and in your spirit, which are God's.

C H A P. VII.

Paul treateth of marriage, and sheweth it to be a remedy against fornication.

NOW concerning the things whereof ye wrote unto me: It is good for a man not to touch a woman.

2 Nevertheless, to avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and let every woman have her own husband.

3 Let the husband render unto the wife due benevolence: and likewise also the wife unto the husband.

4 The wife hath not power of her own body, but the husband: and likewise also the husband hath not power of his own body, but the wife.

5 Defraud ye not one the other, except it be with consent for a time, that ye may give yourselves to fasting and prayer; and come together again, that Satan tempt you not for your incontinency.

6 But I speak this by permission, and not of commandment.

7 For I would that all men were even as I myself: but every man hath his proper gift of God, one after this manner, and another after that.

8 I say therefore to the unmarried and widows, It is good for them if they abide even as I.

9 But if they cannot contain, let them marry: for it is better to marry than to burn.

10 And unto the married I command, yet not I, but the Lord, Let not the wife depart from her husband:

11 But and if she depart, let her remain unmarried, or be reconciled to her husband: and let not the husband put away his wife.

12 But to the rest speak I, not the Lord; If any brother hath a wife that believeth not, and she be pleased to dwell with him, let him not put her away.

12. All things are lawful unto me, &c.] The meaning is not that all things were alike lawful, but that all those things which are lawful are not therefore consequently expedient.

18. He that committeth fornication sinneth, &c.] This is well illustrated by an excellent passage of Xenophon, in which Socrates is represented as saying, "Intemperate men hurt themselves far more than others; whereas other sinners secure some profit to themselves, though they are injurious to others."

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verse 6. I speak this by permission, &c.] I say this by permission from Christ, but not by any express command which he gave in person.

13 And the woman which hath an husband that believeth not, and if he be pleased to dwell with her, let her not leave him.

14 For the unbelieving husband is sanctified by the wife, and the unbelieving wife is sanctified by the husband: else were your children unclean; but now are they holy.

15 But if the unbelieving depart, let him depart. A brother or a sister is not under bondage in such cases: but God hath called us to peace.

16 For what knowest thou, O wife, whether thou shalt save thy husband? or, How knowest thou, O man, whether thou shalt save thy wife?

17 But as God hath distributed to every man, as the Lord hath called every one, so let him walk: and so ordain I in all churches.

18 Is any man called being circumcised? let him not become uncircumcised: is any called in uncircumcision? let him not become circumcised.

19 Circumcision is nothing, and uncircumcision is nothing, but the keeping of the commandments of God.

20 Let every man abide in the same calling wherein he was called.

21 Art thou called, being a servant? care not for it; but if thou mayest be made free, use it rather.

22 For he that is called in the Lord, being a servant, is the Lord's free-man: likewise also he that is called, being free, is Christ's servant.

23 Ye are bought with a price; be not ye the servants of men.

24 Brethren, let every man wherein he is called therein abide with God.

25 Now, concerning virgins, I have no commandment of the Lord: yet I give my judgment, as one that hath obtained mercy of the Lord to be faithful.

26 I suppose therefore that this is good for the present distress; I say, that it is good for a man so to be.

27 Art thou bound unto a wife? seek not to be loosed. Art thou loosed from a wife? seek not a wife.

28 But and if thou marry, thou hast not sinned; and if a virgin marry, she hath not sinned: nevertheless, such shall have trouble in the flesh; but I spare you.

29 But this I say, brethren, the time is short. It remaineth, that both they that have wives be as though they had none;

30 And they that weep, as though they wept not; and they that rejoice, as though they rejoiced not; and they that buy, as though they possessed not;

31 And they that use this world, as not abusing it; for the fashion of this world passeth away.

32 But I would have you without carefulness. He that is unmarried careth for the things that belong to the Lord, how he may please the Lord:

33 But he that is married careth for the things that are of the world, how he may please his wife.

34 There is difference also between a wife and a virgin: The unmarried woman careth for the things of the Lord, that she may be holy, both in body and in spirit: but she that is married careth for the things of the world, how she may please her husband.

35 And this I speak for your own profit: not that I may cast a snare upon you, but for that which is comely, and that ye may attend upon the Lord without distraction.

36 But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomely toward his virgin, if she pass the flower of her age, and need so require, let him do what he will, he sinneth not: let them marry.

37 Nevertheless, he that standeth stedfast in his heart, having no necessity, but hath power over his own will, and

21. Art thou called, being a servant? &c.] Servant, i. e. a slave. Use it rather, i. e. if a man could obtain his freedom, he might lawfully desire it; but if he could not, he ought not to look upon that as a mark of the displeasure of God.

36. Toward his virgin, &c.] If he apprehends that he acts an unbecoming part towards his virgin, (daughter, or any other maiden, that may fall under his guardianship,) if she pass the flower of her age in a single state, and if he think it ought so to be, let him do what he will in this respect, he hath not sinned in his intent of letting her change her condition; let him look out a partner in life for her, and let them marry.

and hath so decreed in his heart, that he will keep his virgin, doeth well.

38 So then, he that giveth her in marriage doeth well; but he that giveth her not in marriage doeth better.

39 The wife is bound by the law as long as her husband liveth: but if her husband be dead, she is at liberty to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord.

40 But she is happier, if she so abide, after my judgment: and I think also that I have the Spirit of God.

C H A P. VIII.

To abstain from meats offered to idols.

NOW, as touching things offered unto idols, we know that we all have knowledge. Knowledge puffeth up, but charity edifieth.

2 And if any man think that he knoweth any thing, he knoweth nothing yet as he ought to know.

3 But if any man love God, the same is known of him.

4 As concerning therefore the eating of those things that are offered in sacrifice unto idols, we know that an idol is nothing in the world, and that there is none other God but one.

5 For though there be that are called gods, whether in heaven or in earth, (as there be gods many, and lords many,)

6 But to us there is but one God, the Father, of whom are all things, and we in him; and one Lord Jesus Christ, by whom are all things, and we by him.

7 Howbeit, there is not in every man that knowledge: for some, with conscience of the idol, unto this hour, eat it as a thing offered unto an idol; and their conscience being weak is defiled.

8 But meat commendeth us not to God: for neither if we eat are we the better; neither if we eat not are we the worse.

9 But take heed, lest by any means this liberty of yours become a stumbling-block to them that are weak.

10 For if any man see thee which hast knowledge sit at meat in the idol's temple, shall not the conscience of him which is weak be emboldened to eat those things which are offered to idols:

11 And through thy knowledge shall the weak brother perish, for whom Christ died?

12 But when ye sin so against the brethren, and wound their weak conscience, ye sin against Christ.

13 Wherefore, if meat make my brother to offend, I will eat no flesh while the world standeth, lest I make my brother to offend.

C H A P. IX.

He sheweth his liberty, and that the minister ought to live by the gospel.

AM I not an apostle? am I not free? have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord? are not ye my work in the Lord?

2 If I be not an apostle unto others, yet doubtless I am to you: for the seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord.

3 Mine answer to them that do examine me is this:

4 Have we not power to eat and to drink?

5 Have we not power to lead about a sister, a wife, as well as other apostles, and as the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?

6 Or I only and Barnabas, have not we power to forbear working?

7 Who goeth a warfare any time at his own charges? who planteth a vineyard, and eateth not of the fruit thereof? or who feedeth a flock, and eateth not of the milk of the flock?

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 5. Though there be that are called gods.] Though there are many which are called gods, whether residing in heaven or in earth, or even under the earth; for the heathens have not only their celestial and terrestrial, but likewise their infernal deities. As there are many gods and many lords, who are in their various subordination adored by the Gentiles, and have great though very absurd worship paid to them, nevertheless, to us there is but one God, the Father of angels and men, from whom are all things in created nature; and we deriving our being from him, were made for him, and for his glory.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IX.

Verse 16. Woe is unto me if I preach not the gospel!] To decline a work assigned to me by so condescending an appearance of Christ, when, with malicious rage, I was attempting to destroy his church,

8 Say I these things as a man? or saith not the law the same also?

9 For it is written in the law of Moses, Thou shalt not muzzle the mouth of the ox that treadeth out the corn. Doth God take care for oxen?

10 Or saith he it altogether for our sakes? For our sakes, no doubt, this is written: that he that ploweth should plow in hope, and that he that thresheth in hope should be partaker of his hope.

11 If we have sown unto you spiritual things, is it a great thing if we shall reap your carnal things?

12 If others be partakers of this power over you, are not we rather? Nevertheless, we have not used this power; but suffer all things, lest we should hinder the gospel of Christ.

13 Do ye not know, that they which minister about holy things live of the things of the temple; and they which wait at the altar are partakers with the altar?

14 Even so hath the Lord ordained, that they which preach the gospel should live of the gospel.

15 But I have used none of these things. Neither have I written these things, that it should be so done unto me: for it were better for me to die, than that any man should make my glorying void.

16 For though I preach the gospel, I have nothing to glory of: for necessity is laid upon me; yea, woe is unto me if I preach not the gospel!

17 For if I do this thing willingly, I have a reward: but if against my will, a dispensation of the gospel is committed unto me.

18 What is my reward then? verily, that when I preach the gospel, I may make the gospel of Christ without charge, that I abuse not my power in the gospel.

19 For though I be free from all men, yet have I made myself servant unto all, that I might gain the more.

20 And unto the Jews I became as a Jew, that I might gain the Jews; to them that are under the law, as under the law, that I might gain them that are under the law;

21 To them that are without law, as without law (being not without law to God, but under the law to Christ,) that I might gain them that are without law.

22 To the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak: I am made all things to all men, that I might by all means save some.

23 And this I do for the gospel's sake, that I might be partaker thereof with you.

24 Know ye not, that they which run in a race run all, but one receiveth the prize? So run that ye may obtain.

25 And every man that striveth for the mastery is temperate in all things: now they do it to obtain a corruptible crown, but we an incorruptible.

26 I therefore so run, not as uncertainly: so fight I, not as one that beateth the air:

27 But I keep under my body, and bring it into subjection: lest that by any means, when I have preached to others, I myself should be a castaway.

C H A P. X.

Of the Jews' sacraments.

MOREOVER, brethren, I would not that ye should be ignorant, how that all our fathers were under the cloud, and all passed through the sea;

2 And were all baptized unto Moses in the cloud and in the sea;

3 And did all eat the same spiritual meat;

4 And did all drink the same spiritual drink; (for they drank would be an instance of ingratitude and obstinacy, deserving the most dreadful condemnation.

22. To the weak became I as weak, that I might gain the weak, &c.] I became to the weak as if I had been as weak and scrupulous as they, in the articles of food and dress which might come into question, that I might gain upon the weak.

25. Is temperate in all things, &c.] Every one who contendeth in the games, whether in running, or wrestling, or combating, is temperate in all things; abstaining from whatever might enervate his strength, and submitting to a regular course of diet, exercise, and hardship, that he may be the more capable of exerting himself with success.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 4. Did all drink the same spiritual drink, &c.] Of that spiritual or mysterious rock, the wonderful streams of which followed them through drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them; and that Rock was Christ:)

5 But with many of them God was not well pleased: for they were overthrown in the wilderness.

6 Now these things were our examples, to the intent we should not lust after evil things, as they also lusted.

7 Neither be ye idolaters, as were some of them; as it is written, The people sat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

8 Neither let us commit fornication, as some of them committed, and fell in one day three and twenty thousand.

9 Neither let us tempt Christ, as some of them also tempted, and were destroyed of serpents.

10 Neither murmur ye, as some of them also murmured, and were destroyed of the destroyer.

11 Now all these things happened unto them for examples; and they are written for our admonition, upon whom the ends of the world are come.

12 Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall.

13 There hath no temptation taken you but such as is common to man: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation also make a way to escape, that ye may be able to bear it.

14 Wherefore, my dearly beloved, flee from idolatry.

15 I speak as to wise men: judge ye what I say.

16 The cup of blessing which we bless, is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break, is it not the communion of the body of Christ?

17 For we, being many, are one bread, and one body: for we are all partakers of that one bread.

18 Behold Israel after the flesh: are not they which eat of the sacrifices partakers of the altar?

19 What say I then? that the idol is any thing, or that which is offered in sacrifice to idols is any thing?

20 But I say, that the things which the Gentiles sacrifice they sacrifice to devils, and not to God: and I would not that ye should have fellowship with devils.

21 Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, and the cup of devils: ye cannot be partakers of the Lord's table, and of the table of devils.

22 Do we provoke the Lord to jealousy? are we stronger than he?

23 All things are lawful for me, but all things are not expedient: all things are lawful for me, but all things edify not.

24 Let no man seek his own, but every man another's wealth.

25 Whatsoever is sold in the shambles, that eat, asking no question for conscience' sake:

26 For the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof.

27 If any of them that believe not bid you to a feast, and ye be disposed to go; whatsoever is set before you eat, asking no question for conscience' sake.

28 But if any man say unto you, This is offered in sacrifice unto idols; eat not, for his sake that shewed it, and for conscience' sake. For the earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof.

29 Conscience, I say, not thine own, but of the other: for why is my liberty judged of another man's conscience?

30 For if I by grace be a partaker, why am I evil spoken of for that for which I give thanks?

31 Whether therefore ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

32 Give none offence, neither to the Jews, nor to the Gentiles, nor to the church of God.

33 Even as I please all men in all things, not seeking mine own profit, but the profit of many, that they may be saved.

so many wanderings and encampments; and that rock was a most affecting representation of Christ, the Rock of Ages, the sure foundation of his people's hopes; from whom they derive these streams of blessings, which follow them through all this wilderness of mortal life, and will end in rivers of pleasure at the right hand of God for ever.

20: The things which the Gentiles sacrifice, &c.] You must be aware, that what the heathens sacrifice they sacrifice to evil dæmons, and not to God. Now, I would not by any means that you, who have at your baptism solemnly renounced the devil and all his adherents, should have communion with dæmons.

CHAP. XI.

Offences to be avoided.

BE ye followers of me, even as I also am of Christ.
2 Now I praise you, brethren, that ye remember me in all things, and keep the ordinances as I delivered them to you.

3 But I would have you know, that the head of every man is Christ; and the head of the woman is the man; and the head of Christ is God.

4 Every man praying or prophesying, having his head covered, dishonoureth his head.

5 But every woman that prayeth or prophesieth with her head uncovered, dishonoureth her head: for that is even all one as if she were shaven.

6 For if the woman be not covered, let her also be shorn; but if it be a shame for a woman to be shorn or shaven, let her be covered.

7 For a man indeed ought not to cover his head, forasmuch as he is the image and glory of God; but the woman is the glory of the man.

8 For the man is not of the woman, but the woman of the man.

9 Neither was the man created for the woman, but the woman for the man.

10 For this cause ought the woman to have power on her head, because of the angels.

11 Nevertheless, neither is the man without the woman, neither the woman without the man, in the Lord.

12 For as the woman is of the man, even so is the man also by the woman; but all things of God.

13 Judge in yourselves: is it comely that a woman pray unto God uncovered?

14 Doth not even nature itself teach you, that if a man have long hair it is a shame unto him?

15 But if a woman have long hair, it is a glory to her; for her hair is given her for a covering.

16 But if any man seem to be contentious, we have no such custom, neither the churches of God.

17 Now in this that I declare unto you, I praise you not, that ye come together not for the better, but for the worse.

18 For, first of all, when ye come together in the church, I hear that there be divisions among you; and I partly believe it.

19 For there must be also heresies among you, that they which are approved may be made manifest among you.

20 When ye come together therefore into one place, this is not to eat the Lord's supper.

21 For in eating every one taketh before other his own supper: and one is hungry, and another is drunken.

22 What! have ye not houses to eat and to drink in? or despise ye the church of God, and shame them that have not? What shall I say to you? shall I praise you in this? I praise you not.

23 For I have received of the Lord that which also I delivered unto you, That the Lord Jesus, the same night in which he was betrayed, took bread:

24 And when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat; this is my body, which is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me.

25 After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood: this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me.

26 For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do shew the Lord's death till he come.

27 Wherefore, whosoever shall eat this bread, and drink this cup of the Lord, unworthily, shall be guilty of the body and blood of the Lord.

28 But

21. Ye cannot drink the cup of the Lord, &c.] Ye cannot, consistent with your baptismal covenant, at one time drink of the cup of the Lord, in that holy rite in which you commemorate his death, and at another time of the cup of dæmons, of libations poured out to their honour, or cups drank at their feasts.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 27. Unworthily.] In an irreverent manner, without a due regard to God, and to the great original purpose of its appointment, shall be counted guilty of profaning that which is intended to represent the body and blood of the Lord.

28 But let a man examine himself, and so let him eat of that bread, and drink of that cup.

29 For he that eateth and drinketh unworthily, eateth and drinketh damnation to himself, not discerning the Lord's body.

30 For this cause many are weak and sickly among you, and many sleep.

31 For if we would judge ourselves, we should not be judged.

32 But when we are judged we are chastened of the Lord, that we should not be condemned with the world.

33 Wherefore, my brethren, when ye come together to eat, tarry one for another.

34 And if any man hunger, let him eat at home, that ye come not together unto condemnation. And the rest will I set in order when I come.

C H A P. XII.

Diversity of spiritual gifts.

NOW concerning spiritual gifts, brethren, I would not have you ignorant.

2 Ye know that ye were Gentiles, carried away unto these dumb idols, even as ye were led.

3 Wherefore I give you to understand, that no man, speaking by the Spirit of God, calleth Jesus accursed; and that no man can say that Jesus is the Lord, but by the Holy Ghost.

4 Now there are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit.

5 And there are differences of administrations, but the same Lord.

6 And there are diversities of operations, but it is the same God which worketh all in all.

7 But the manifestation of the Spirit is given to every man to profit withal.

8 For to one is given by the Spirit the word of wisdom; to another the word of knowledge by the same Spirit;

9 To another faith by the same Spirit; to another the gifts of healing by the same Spirit;

10 To another the working of miracles; to another prophecy; to another discerning of spirits; to another diverse kinds of tongues; to another the interpretation of tongues.

11 But all these worketh that one and the self-same Spirit, dividing to every man severally as he will.

12 For as the body is one, and hath many members, and all the members of that one body, being many, are one body; so also is Christ.

13 For by one Spirit are we all baptized into one body, whether we be Jews or Gentiles, whether we be bond or free; and have been all made to drink into one Spirit.

14 For the body is not one member, but many.

15 If the foot shall say, Because I am not the hand, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

16 And if the ear shall say, Because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; is it therefore not of the body?

17 If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? if the whole were hearing, where were the smelling?

18 But now hath God set the members every one of them in the body, as it hath pleased him.

19 And if they were all one member, where were the body?

20 But now are they many members, yet but one body.

21 And the eye cannot say unto the hand, I have no need of thee: nor again, the head to the feet, I have no need of you.

29. He that eateth and drinketh unworthily, &c.] It is a very unhappy mistake in our version of the Bible, that the Greek word is here rendered damnation; whereas it certainly means temporal judgments, as St. Paul himself explains it at the 30th verse.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XII.

Verse 3. No man, speaking by the Spirit of God, calleth Jesus accursed, &c.] No man that has any thing at all of the Spirit of God will speak evil of Jesus; and consequently all pretences made to the divine Spirit by the Jews are notoriously false and detestable: so, on the other hand, no one can seriously say that Jesus is the Lord, none can embrace his religion, and support the profession of it in truth, but by the powerful operation of the Holy Ghost on his heart.

4. There are diversities of gifts, but the same Spirit.] There are diversities of gifts in different persons; but there is one and the same Spirit, from whom they are all derived.

22 Nay, much more, those members of the body, which seem to be more feeble, are necessary.

23 And those members of the body, which we think to be less honourable, upon these we bestow more abundant honour; and our uncomely parts have more abundant comeliness.

24 For our comely parts have no need: but God hath tempered the body together, having giving more abundant honour to that part which lacked:

25 That there should be no schism in the body, but that the members should have the same care one for another.

26 And whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it; or one member be honoured, all the members rejoice with it.

27 Now ye are the body of Christ, and members in particular.

28 And God hath set some in the church; first, apostles; secondarily, prophets; thirdly, teachers; after that miracles; then gifts of healings, helps, governments, diversities of tongues.

29 Are all apostles? are all prophets? are all teachers? are all workers of miracles?

30 Have all the gifts of healing? do all speak with tongues? do all interpret?

31 But covet earnestly the best gifts: and yet shew I unto you a more excellent way.

C H A P. XIII.

The praise of charity.

THOUGH I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am become as sounding brass, or a tinkling cymbal.

2 And though I have the gift of prophecy, and understand all mysteries, and all knowledge; and though I have all faith, so that I could remove mountains, and have not charity, I am nothing.

3 And though I bestow all my goods to feed the poor, and though I give my body to be burned, and have not charity, it profiteth me nothing.

4 Charity suffereth long, and is kind; charity envieth not; charity vaunteth not itself, is not puffed up,

5 Doth not behave itself unseemly, seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil;

6 Rejoiceth not in iniquity, but rejoiceth in the truth;

7 Beareth all things, believeth all things, hopeth all things, endureth all things.

8 Charity never faileth: but whether there be prophecies, they shall fail; whether there be tongues, they shall cease; whether there be knowledge, it shall vanish away.

9 For we know in part, and we prophesy in part.

10 But when that which is perfect is come, then that which is in part shall be done away.

11 When I was a child, I spake as a child, I understood as a child, I thought as a child: but when I became a man, I put away childish things.

12 For now we see through a glass darkly; but then face to face: now I know in part; but then shall I know even as also I am known.

13 And now abideth faith, hope, charity, these three; but the greatest of these is charity.

C H A P. XIV.

Prophecy commended.

FOLLOW after charity, and desire spiritual gifts, but rather that ye may prophesy.

2 For

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 1. And have not charity.] Charity, in this chapter, signifies universal love or benevolence to mankind.

Tinkling cymbal.] Mr. Locke remarks, that a cymbal was made of two pieces of hollow brass, which, being struck together, made a tinkling, with very little variety of sound.

8. Whether there be knowledge, &c.] That knowledge which we now pursue with the greatest eagerness, and which is highly conducive to our present usefulness to mankind, shall then be abolished.

12. Now we see through a glass darkly.] Through a desecrating-glass, which makes some small and imperfect discovery of things at a great distance; but hereafter, when faith shall terminate in knowledge, then we shall see face to face, as in a looking-glass, which represents things distinctly in their full and true dimensions.

ANNQ.

2 For he that speaketh in an unknown tongue speaketh not unto men, but unto God: for no man understandeth him; howbeit, in the spirit he speaketh mysteries.

3 But he that prophesieth speaketh unto men to edification, and exhortation, and comfort.

4 He that speaketh in an unknown tongue edifieth himself; but he that prophesieth edifieth the church:

5 I would that ye all spake with tongues, but rather that ye prophesied; for greater is he that prophesieth than he that speaketh with tongues, except he interpret, that the church may receive edifying.

6 Now, brethren, if I come unto you speaking with tongues, what shall I profit you, except I shall speak to you either by revelation, or by knowledge, or by prophesying, or by doctrine?

7 And even things without life, giving sound, whether pipe or harp, except they give a distinction in the sounds, how shall it be known what is piped or harped?

8 For if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself to the battle?

9 So likewise ye, except ye utter by the tongue words easy to be understood, how shall it be known what is spoken? for ye shall speak into the air.

10 There are, it may be, so many kinds of voices in the world, and none of them is without signification.

11 Therefore if I know not the meaning of the voice, I shall be unto him that speaketh a barbarian, and he that speaketh shall be a barbarian unto me.

12 Even so, ye, forasmuch as ye are zealous of spiritual gifts, seek that ye may excel, to the edifying of the church.

13 Wherefore, let him that speaketh in an unknown tongue pray that he may interpret.

14 For if I pray in an unknown tongue, my spirit prayeth, but my understanding is unfruitful.

15 What is it then? I will pray with the spirit, and I will pray with the understanding also: I will sing with the spirit, and I will sing with the understanding also.

16 Else, when thou shalt bless with the spirit, how shall he that occupieth the room of the unlearned say Amen, at thy giving of thanks, seeing he understandeth not what thou sayest?

17 For thou verily givest thanks well, but the other is not edified.

18 I thank my God, I speak with tongues more than you all:

19 Yet in the church I had rather speak five words with my understanding, than by my voice I might teach others also, than ten thousand words in an unknown tongue.

20 Brethren, be not children in understanding: howbeit, in malice be ye children, but in understanding be men.

21 In the law it is written, With men of other tongues, and other lips, will I speak unto this people; and yet for all that will they not hear me, saith the Lord.

22 Wherefore tongues are for a sign, not to them that believe, but to them that believe not: but prophesying serveth not for them that believe not, but for them which believe.

23 If therefore the whole church be come together into one place, and all speak with tongues, and there come in those that are unlearned, or unbelievers, will they not say that ye are mad?

24 But if all prophesy, and there come in one that believeth not, or one unlearned, he is convinced of all, he is judged of all.

25 And thus are the secrets of his heart made manifest; and so falling down on his face, he will worship God, and report that God is in you of a truth.

26 How is it then, brethren? when ye come together, every one of you hath a psalm, hath a doctrine, hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation. Let all things be done unto edifying.

27 If any man speak in an unknown tongue, let it be by two, or at the most by three, and that by course; and let one interpret.

28 But if there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church; and let him speak to himself and to God.

29 Let the prophets speak two or three, and let the other judge.

30 If any thing be revealed to another that sitteth by, let the first hold his peace.

31 For ye may all prophesy one by one, that all may learn, and all may be comforted.

32 And the spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets.

33 For God is not the author of confusion, but of peace; as in all churches of the saints.

34 Let your women keep silence in the churches; for it is not permitted unto them to speak; but they are commanded to be under obedience, as also saith the law.

35 And if they will learn any thing, let them ask their husbands at home; for it is a shame for women to speak in the church.

36 What! came the word of God out from you? or came it unto you only?

37 If any man think himself to be a prophet, or spiritual, let him acknowledge that the things that I write unto you are the commandments of the Lord.

38 But if any man be ignorant, let him be ignorant.

39 Wherefore, brethren, covet to prophesy, and forbid not to speak with tongues.

40 Let all things be done decently, and in order.

C H A P. XV.

By Christ's resurrection, he proveth the necessity of our resurrection.

MOREOVER, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand;

2 By which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain.

3 For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins, according to the scriptures:

4 And that he was buried, and that he rose again the third day, according to the scriptures:

5 And that he was seen of Cephas, then of the twelve.

6 After that, he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once: of whom the greater part remain unto this present; but some are fallen asleep.

7 After that he was seen of James; then of all the apostles.

8 And last of all he was seen of me also, as of one born out of due time.

9 For I am the least of the apostles, that am not meet to

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIV.

Verse 2. He that speaketh in an unknown tongue, &c.] He that speaketh in a tongue unknown to the auditory to whom he addresses himself, speaks, in effect, not to men, but to God; and as God alone knows the truth and importance of what he says, so it is all lost on the audience, though, in the spirit, he speaks the most sublime mysteries.

6. By revelation, or by knowledge, &c.] By the revelation of some gospel doctrine and mystery, or by knowledge in the explication of some controverted text in the Old Testament, or by prophecy in the prediction of some future event, or by doctrine for the regulation of life or manners.

26. Every one of you hath a psalm.] Every one of you hath a psalm to read, hath a doctrine to inculcate, hath a tongue in which to preach or pray, hath a revelation of some mystery to produce, hath an interpretation; and thus five or six, if not more, may be speaking at the same time; in consequence of which, no one can be distinctly heard, and the assembly degenerates into a kind of tumultuous riot. I beseech you, my friends, rectify this; and proceed upon this general canon, Let all things be done to edifying.

28. If there be no interpreter, let him keep silence in the church, &c.] Because he can do no manner of service there by uttering what none but himself can understand.

29. Let the prophets speak two or three.] He does not mean two or three at once in one assembly, but successively.

32. The spirits of the prophets are subject to the prophets.] They leave a man master of himself, so that he can moderate his passions, and wait the most convenient time and manner for uttering his oracles.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XV.

Verse 6. After that he was seen of above five hundred brethren at once, &c.] Afterwards he appeared, according to his repeated appointments, to above five hundred brethren at once in Galilee, where he gave the most glorious and incontestible proof of the reality of his resurrection. Had it been an imposture, so many false hearts and tongues could never have acted in concert; nor would they have all kept a secret, which remorse, interest, and perhaps often torture, might urge them to divulge.

to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God.

10 But by the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not in vain; but I laboured more abundantly than they all: yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me.

11 Therefore, whether it were I or they, so we preach, and so ye believed.

12 Now if Christ be preached, that he rose from the dead, how say some among you, that there is no resurrection of the dead?

13 But if there be no resurrection of the dead, then is Christ not risen.

14 And if Christ be not risen, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain.

15 Yea, and we are found false witnesses of God; because we have testified of God, that he raised up Christ: whom he raised not up, if so be that the dead rise not.

16 For if the dead rise not, then is not Christ raised:

17 And if Christ be not raised, your faith is vain; ye are yet in your sins.

18 Then they also which are fallen asleep in Christ are perished.

19 If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable.

20 But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the first-fruits of them that slept.

21 For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection of the dead.

22 For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive.

23 But every man in his own order: Christ the first-fruits, afterward they that are Christ's at his coming.

24 Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule, and all authority, and power.

25 For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet.

26 The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death.

27 For he hath put all things under his feet. But when he saith all things are put under him, it is manifest that he is excepted which did put all things under him.

28 And when all things shall be subdued unto him, then shall the Son also himself be subject unto him that put all things under him, that God may be all in all.

29 Else what shall they do which are baptized for the dead, if the dead rise not at all? why are they then baptized for the dead?

30 And why stand we in jeopardy every hour?

31 I protest by your rejoicing which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die daily.

32 If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus, what advantageth it me, if the dead rise not: let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die.

33 Be not deceived: evil communications corrupt good manners.

34 Awake to righteousness, and sin not; for some have not the knowledge of God: I speak this to your shame.

35 But some man will say, How are the dead raised up? and with what body do they come?

36 Thou fool, that which thou sowest is not quickened, except it die.

13. If there be no resurrection, &c.] It is certain, that if there is no resurrection of the dead, if that doctrine be in the general altogether incredible, then neither is Christ raised.

22. As in Adam all die, &c.] As by the transgression of the first Adam all men became subject to temporal death, and all the afflictions and miseries of this life, and to sin, the just punishment of which is eternal death: so by the merits of Christ's death, the second Adam, and through his resurrection, all that believe in him are not only made spiritually alive, being passed from death to life, 1 John 3. 14. but shall be raised from the dead to eternal life. But though this text doth not prove the general resurrection, but only that of believers, yet it doth not oppose it. However, that the all here mentioned is no more than all believers, appears not only from the words in Christ in this verse, but from the whole following discourse; which is only concerning the resurrection of believers to life, not that of the wicked to eternal condemnation:

32. If after the manner of men I have fought with beasts at Ephesus.] It is most reasonable to understand this expression as metaphorical, and that St. Paul here alludes to the tumult raised by Demetrius.

36. Except it die.] It is certain that the seed in general does consume

37 And that which thou sowest, thou sowest not that body that shall be, but bare grain; it may chance of wheat, or of some other grain.

38 But God giveth it a body as it hath pleased him, and to every seed his own body.

39 All flesh is not the same flesh: but there is one kind of flesh of men, another flesh of beasts, another of fishes, and another of birds.

40 There are also celestial bodies, and bodies terrestrial: but the glory of the celestial is one, and the glory of the terrestrial is another.

41 There is one glory of the sun, and another glory of the moon, and another glory of the stars; for one star differeth from another star in glory.

42 So also is the resurrection of the dead. It is sown in corruption, it is raised in incorruption:

43 It is sown in dishonour, it is raised in glory: it is sown in weakness, it is raised in power:

44 It is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body. There is a natural body, and there is a spiritual body.

45 And so it is written, The first man Adam was made a living soul, the last Adam was made a quickening Spirit.

46 Howbeit, that was not first which is spiritual, but that which is natural; and afterward that which is spiritual.

47 The first man is of the earth, earthy; the second man is the Lord from heaven.

48 As is the earthy, such are they also that are earthy: and as is the heavenly, such are they also that are heavenly.

49 And as we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly.

50 Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.

51 Behold, I shew you a mystery; We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, 52 In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump; (for the trumpet shall sound;) and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed.

53 For this corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality.

54 So when this corruptible shall have put on incorruption, and this mortal shall have put on immortality, then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written, Death is swallowed up in victory.

55 O death, where is thy sting? O grave, where is thy victory?

56 The sting of death is sin; and the strength of sin is the law.

57 But thanks be to God which giveth us the victory, through our Lord Jesus Christ.

58 Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labour is not in vain in the Lord.

C H A P. XVI.

Of relieving the brethren.

NOW concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye.

2 Upon away in the ground, though a little germen, or bud, which makes a part of it, springs up into new life, and is fed by the death and corruption of the rest.

43. It is sown in dishonour, it is raised in glory, &c.] i. e. That body, which at death seems so base and abject, so vile and contemptible, shall, at the resurrection, be transformed into a bright, and beautiful, and glorious body.

44. It is sown a natural body, it is raised a spiritual body, &c.] i. e. Spiritual is here opposed not to corporeal, but to natural or animal. In this state, our spirits are forced to serve our bodies, and to attend their leisure, and do mightily depend upon them in most of their operations; but on the contrary, in the other world, our bodies shall wholly serve our spirits, and minister unto them, and depend upon them: so that, by a natural body, I understand a body fitted to this lower and sensible world, for this earthly state: by a spiritual body, such a one as is suited and accommodated to a spiritual state, to an invisible world, and to such a life as the saints and angels lead in heaven.—Calamy.

51. We shall not all sleep.] We shall not all die. We shall all be changed.] i. e. Those that are alive at Christ's coming.

2 Upon the first day of the week, let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come.

3 And when I come, whomsoever ye shall approve by your letters, them will I send to bring your liberality unto Jerusalem.

4 And if it be meet that I go also, they shall go with me.

5 Now I will come unto you, when I shall pass through Macedonia, (for I do pass through Macedonia.)

6 And it may be that I will abide, yea, and winter with you, that ye may bring me on my journey, whithersoever I go.

7 For I will not see you now by the way; but I trust to tarry a while with you, if the Lord permit.

8 But I will tarry at Ephesus until Pentecost.

9 For a great door and effectual is opened unto me, and there are many adversaries.

10 Now if Timotheus come, see that he may be with you without fear; for he worketh the work of the Lord, as I also do.

11 Let no man therefore despise him, but conduct him forth in peace, that he may come unto me; for I look for him with the brethren.

12 As touching our brother Apollos, I greatly desired him to come unto you with the brethren: but his will was not at all to come at this time; but he will come when he shall have convenient time.

13 Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong.

14 Let all your things be done with charity.

15 I beseech you, brethren, (ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is the first-fruits of Achaia, and that they have addicted themselves to the ministry of the saints,)

16 That ye submit yourselves unto such, and to every one that helpeth with us, and laboureth.

17 I am glad of the coming of Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus; for that which was lacking on your part they have supplied.

18 For they have refreshed my spirit and yours, therefore acknowledge ye them that are such.

19 The churches of Asia salute you. Aquila and Priscilla salute you much in the Lord, with the church that is in their house.

20 All the brethren greet you. Greet ye one another with an holy kiss.

21 The salutation of me Paul with mine own hand.

22 If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be anathema maran-atha.

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you.

24 My love be with you all in Christ Jesus. Amen.

¶ The first epistle to the Corinthians was written from Philippi by Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus, and Timotheus.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVI.

Verse 2. Upon the first day of the week, &c.] Beza observes here, that Basil joined these words, upon the first day of the week, to the preceding clause, which he reads thus: Now concerning the collections of the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye, upon the first day of the week. According to this reading, the following words will express, not what he advises to be done on that day, but previously the week before, in order to prepare for the collections, which were to be made at their usual meetings for public worship, on the first day of every week.

22. If any man love not the Lord Jesus Christ, let him be anathema maran-atha.] Commentators have given various interpretations of the words anathema maran-atha; but the following seems the most satisfactory: When the Jews lost the power of life and death, they used still to pronounce an anathema on persons, who, according to the Mosaic law, should have been executed; and such a person became an anathema or accursed. They were fully persuaded that the curse would not be in vain: and indeed it appears they expected some judgment, correspondent to that which the law pronounced, would befall the offender: for instance, that if a man were, by the law, condemned to be stoned, he would be killed by the falling of a stone, or other heavy body, upon him; a man to be strangled, would be choked; or he whom the law sentenced to the flames, would be burnt in his house, and the like. Now to express their faith that God would, one way or other, and probably in some remarkable manner, interpose to add that efficacy to his sentence which they could not give it, it is very probable they might use the word maran-atha, that is, in Syriac, the Lord cometh, or he will surely come to put this sentence in execution, and to shew, that the person on whom it falls is indeed anathema, or accursed. In allusion to this particular, when the apostle was speaking of a secret alienation from Christ, maintained under the forms of Christianity, as this was not a crime capable of being convicted and censured by the Christian church, he reminds them, that the Lord Jesus Christ will come at length, and find it out, and punish it in a proper manner. This weighty sentence the apostle chose to write in his own hand, and insert between his general salutation and benediction, that it might be the more attentively regarded.

The Second Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE CORINTHIANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Epistle was wrote in Macedonia, within a year after the former, and delivered to the care of Titus, who was repairing to Corinth, to forward the collection intended for the poor Christians in Judea, and who had given St. Paul an account of the success of his former Epistle, and of the repentance and submission of the Corinthian Christians. The intention of the apostle is nearly the same in this Epistle as in the former; namely, to put an end to the contentions and disorders which had arisen in the church of Corinth. He then, with admirable address, further urges their liberal contribution, and, in a full assurance of its success, recommends them to the divine benediction.

CHAP. I.

Encouragement against troubles.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timothy our brother, unto the church of God which is at Corinth, with all the saints which are in all Achaia:

2 Grace be to you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed be God, even the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort;

4 Who comforteth us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort them which are in any trouble, by the comfort wherewith we ourselves are comforted of God.

5 For as the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so our consolation also aboundeth by Christ.

6 And whether we be afflicted, it is for your consolation and salvation, which is effectual in the enduring of the same sufferings which we also suffer: or whether we be comforted, it is for your consolation and salvation.

7 And our hope of you is stedfast, knowing, that as ye are partakers of the sufferings, so shall ye be also of the consolation.

8 For we would not, brethren, have you ignorant of our trouble, which came to us in Asia, that we were pressed out of measure, above strength, insomuch that we despaired even of life.

9 But we had the sentence of death in ourselves, that we should not trust in ourselves, but in God which raiseth the dead ;

10 Who delivered us from so great a death, and doth deliver ; in whom we trust that he will yet deliver us :

11 Ye also helping together by prayer for us, that, for the gift bestowed upon us by the means of many persons, thanks may be given by many on our behalf.

12 For our rejoicing is this, the testimony of our conscience, that in simplicity and godly sincerity, not with fleshly wisdom, but by the grace of God, we have had our conversation in the world, and more abundantly to you-ward.

13 For we write none other things unto you than what ye read or acknowledge ; and I trust ye shall acknowledge even to the end :

14 As also ye have acknowledged us in part, that we are your rejoicing, even as ye also are ours, in the day of the Lord Jesus.

15 And in this confidence I was minded to come unto you before, that ye might have a second benefit ;

16 And to pass by you into Macedonia, and to come again out of Macedonia unto you, and of you to be brought on my way toward Judea.

17 When I therefore was thus minded, did I use lightness ? or the things that I purpose, do I purpose according to the flesh, that with me there should be yea, yea, and nay, nay ?

18 But as God is true, our word toward you was not yea and nay.

19 For the Son of God, Jesus Christ, who was preached among you by us, even by me, and Silvanus, and Timothy, was not yea and nay, but in him was yea.

20 For all the promises of God in him are yea, and in him amen, unto the glory of God by us.

21 Now he which stablisheth us with you in Christ, and hath anointed us, is God :

22 Who hath also sealed us, and given the earnest of the Spirit in our hearts.

23 Moreover, I call God for a record upon my soul, that to spare you I came not as yet unto Corinth.

24 Not for that we have dominion over your faith, but are helpers of your joy : for by faith ye stand.

C H A P. II.

Paul's success in preaching.

BUT I determined this with myself, that I would not come again to you in heaviness.

2 For if I make you sorry, who is he then that maketh me glad, but the same which is made sorry by me ?

3 And I wrote this same unto you, lest, when I came, I should have sorrow from them of whom I ought to rejoice : having confidence in you all, that my joy is the joy of you all.

4 For out of much affliction and anguish of heart, I wrote unto you with many tears : not that ye should be grieved, but that ye might know the love which I have more abundantly unto you.

5 But if any have caused grief, he hath not grieved me, but in part ; that I may not overcharge you all :

6 Sufficient to such a man is this punishment which was inflicted of many.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Ver. 8. Our trouble, which came to us in Asia : The imminent danger we were in by the tumult raised against us at Ephesus by Demetrius.

9. We had the sentence of death in ourselves, &c.] We ourselves did indeed think, that the appointed end of our ministry and life was come ; and had, as it were, received the sentence of death in ourselves, the execution of which we were continually expecting.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 6. Sufficient to such a man is this punishment.] Mr. Locke, well, observes the great tenderness which the apostle uses to this offender ; he never once mentions his name, nor does he here so much as mention his crime.

15, 16. We are unto God a sweet savour of Christ, &c.] We the apostles, and other ministers of his gospel, are to God a sweet and acceptable

7 So that, contrariwise, ye ought rather to forgive him, and comfort him, lest perhaps such a one should be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow.

8 Wherefore I beseech you, that ye would confirm your love toward him.

9 For to this end also did I write, that I might know the proof of you, whether ye be obedient in all things.

10 To whom ye forgive any thing, I forgive also ; for if I forgave any thing, to whom I forgave it, for your sakes forgave I it, in the person of Christ ;

11 Lest Satan should get an advantage of us, for we are not ignorant of his devices.

12 Furthermore, when I came to Troas to preach Christ's gospel, and a door was opened unto me of the Lord,

13 I had no rest in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother ; but taking my leave of them, I went from thence into Macedonia.

14 Now thanks be unto God, which always causeth us to triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest the savour of his knowledge by us in every place.

15 For we are unto God a sweet savour of Christ, in them that are saved, and in them that perish.

16 To the one we are the savour of death unto death ; and to the other, the savour of life unto life : and who is sufficient for these things ?

17 For we are not as many, which corrupt the word of God ; but as of sincerity, but as of God, in the sight of God speak we in Christ.

C H A P. III.

Of ministers of the law and gospel.

DO we begin again to commend ourselves ? or need we, as some others, epistles of commendation to you, or letters of commendation from you.

2 Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, known and read of all men.

3 Forasmuch as ye are manifestly declared to be the epistle of Christ, ministered by us, written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God ; not in tables of stone, but in fleshly tables of the heart.

4 And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward.

5 Not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves ; but our sufficiency is of God.

6 Who also hath made us able ministers of the new testament ; not of the letter, but of the spirit : for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life.

7 But if the ministration of death, written and engraven in stones, was glorious, so that the children of Israel could not stedfastly behold the face of Moses, for the glory of his countenance, which glory was to be done away ;

8 How shall not the ministration of the Spirit be rather glorious ?

9 For if the ministration of condemnation be glory, much more doth the ministration of righteousness exceed in glory.

10 For even that which was made glorious had no glory in this respect, by reason of the glory that excelleth.

11 For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious.

12 Seeing then that we have such hope, we use great plainness of speech ;

13 And not as Moses, which put a vail over his face, that the children of Israel could not stedfastly look to the end of that which is abolished.

14 But their minds were blinded : for until this day remaineth odour of Christ : he is, as it were, pleased and delighted with the incense of his name and gospel, as diffused by us, both with respect to them who believe and are saved, and to them who, in consequence of their unbelief, perish in their sins.

17. Which corrupt the word of God ;] Or, adulterate the word of God. The phrase is very expressive, and alludes to the practice of those who deal in liquors, which they debase for their own greater gain.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 2. Ye are our epistle written in our hearts, &c.] Truly I may well say, ye are yourselves our epistle, the best recommendation from God himself, his testimonial ; as it were, written upon our hearts ; in the glorious change by our means produced there ; and the effects of it are so apparent in your lives, that I may say, ye are known and read by all men, who know what ye once were, and now are.

maineth the same vail untaken away, in the reading of the Old Testament; which vail is done away in Christ.

15 But even unto this day, when Moses is read, the vail is upon their heart.

16 Nevertheless, when it shall turn to the Lord, the vail shall be taken away.

17 Now the Lord is that Spirit: and where the Spirit of the Lord is, there is liberty.

18 But we all with open face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed into the same image, from glory to glory, even as by the Spirit of the Lord.

C H A P. IV.

Paul's sincerity and diligence in preaching the gospel.

THEREFORE, seeing we have this ministry, as we have received mercy, we faint not;

2 But have renounced the hidden things of dishonesty; not walking in craftiness, nor handling the word of God deceitfully, but by manifestation of the truth, commending ourselves to every man's conscience in the sight of God.

3 But if our gospel be hid, it is hid to them that are lost.

4 In whom the god of this world hath blinded the minds of them which believe not, lest the light of the glorious gospel of Christ, who is the image of God, should shine unto them.

5 For we preach not ourselves, but Christ Jesus the Lord; and ourselves your servants for Jesus' sake.

6 For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

7 But we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the excellency of the power may be of God, and not of us.

8 We are troubled on every side, yet not distressed; we are perplexed, but not in despair;

9 Persecuted, but not forsaken; cast down, but not destroyed.

10 Always bearing about in the body the dying of the Lord Jesus, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our body.

11 For we which live are alway delivered unto death for Jesus' sake, that the life also of Jesus might be made manifest in our mortal flesh.

12 So then death worketh in us, but life in you.

13 We having the same spirit of faith, according as it is written, I believed, and therefore have I spoken; we also believe, and therefore speak;

14 Knowing that he which raised up the Lord Jesus, shall raise up us also by Jesus, and shall present us with you.

15 For all things are for your sakes, that the abundant grace might, through the thanksgiving of many, redound to the glory of God.

16 For which cause we faint not; but though our outward man perish, yet the inward man is renewed day by day.

17 For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory;

18 While we look not at the things which are seen, but at the things which are not seen: for the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal.

C H A P. V.

In hope of immortal glory.

FOR we know, that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

16. When it shall turn to the Lord:] i. e. When they shall believe in Christ.

17. The Lord is that Spirit:] i. e. The gospel or doctrine of Christ is that Spirit.

18. We all with open face, &c.] This passage might be rendered, We all contemplating the glory of the Lord (shining forth) with an unveiled face.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 6. Out of darkness:] i. e. Who manifested his glory originally in the first creation of all things.

Hath shined in our hearts:] Hath manifested his glory no less conspicuously in our redemption.

2 For in this we groan, earnestly desiring to be clothed upon with our house which is from heaven.

3 If so be that being clothed, we shall not be found naked.

4 For we that are in this tabernacle do groan, being burdened: not for that we would be unclothed, but clothed upon, that mortality might be swallowed up of life.

5 Now he that hath wrought us for the selfsame thing is God, who also hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit.

6 Therefore we are always confident, knowing that whilst we are at home in the body we are absent from the Lord:

7 (For we walk by faith, not by sight:)

8 We are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord.

9 Wherefore we labour, that, whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him.

10 For we must all appear before the judgment-seat of Christ, that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.

11 Knowing therefore the terror of the Lord, we persuade men; but we are made manifest unto God, and I trust also are made manifest in your consciences.

12 For we commend not ourselves again unto you, but give you occasion to glory on our behalf, that ye may have somewhat to answer them which glory in appearance, and not in heart.

13 For whether we be beside ourselves, it is to God; or whether we be sober, it is for your cause.

14 For the love of Christ constraineth us; because we thus judge, that if one died for all, then were all dead:

15 And that he died for all, that they which live should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto him which died for them, and rose again.

16 Wherefore henceforth know we no man after the flesh: yea, though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now henceforth know we him no more.

17 Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new.

18 And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself by Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation;

19 To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them, and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation.

20 Now then we are ambassadors for Christ, as though God did beseech you by us; we pray you, in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.

21 For he hath made him to be sin for us, who knew no sin; that we might be made the righteousness of God in him.

C H A P. VI.

Of Paul's faithfulness in the ministry.

WE then, as workers together with him, beseech you also, that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.

2 (For he saith, I have heard thee in a time accepted, and in the day of salvation have I succoured thee: behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.)

3 Giving no offence in any thing, that the ministry be not blamed:

4 But in all things approving ourselves as the ministers of God, in much patience, in afflictions, in necessities, in distresses,

5 In

In the face:] i. e. In the person of Christ.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 16. Now henceforth know we him no more.] His meaning is, all personal knowledge and friendship, such as was betwixt Christ and his natural relations here on earth, now disappears; and no man knows Christ any otherwise than in proportion as he obeys his laws.

20. We are ambassadors for Christ, &c.] We are to be considered by you as sustaining the office and dignity of ambassadors for Christ, on his account, and in his stead.

21. He hath made him to be sin for us, &c.] i. e. To be a sacrifice for our sins.

5 In stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in labours, in watchings, in fastings;

6 By pureness, by knowledge, by long-suffering, by kindness, by the Holy Ghost, by love unfeigned,

7 By the word of truth, by the power of God, by the armour of righteousness on the right hand and on the left,

8 By honour and dishonour, by evil report and good report: as deceivers, and yet true;

9 As unknown, and yet well known; as dying, and, behold, we live; as chastened, and not killed;

10 As sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, and yet possessing all things.

11 O ye Corinthians! our mouth is open unto you, our heart is enlarged.

12 Ye are not straitened in us, but ye are straitened in your own bowels.

13 Now, for a recompence in the same, (I speak as unto my children,) be ye also enlarged.

14 Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?

15 And what concord hath Christ with Belial; or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel?

16 And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

17 Wherefore, come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you,

18 And will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty.

C H A P. VII.

He exhorteth to purity, and sheweth what comfort he took in his afflictions.

HAVING therefore these promises, dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

2 Receive us: we have wronged no man, we have corrupted no man, we have defrauded no man.

3 I speak not this to condemn you: for I have said before that ye are in our hearts to die and live with you.

4 Great is my boldness of speech toward you, great is my glorying of you: I am filled with comfort, I am exceeding joyful in all our tribulation.

5 For when we were come into Macedonia, our flesh had no rest, but we were troubled on every side; without were fightings, within were fears.

6 Nevertheless, God, that comforteth those that are cast down, comforted us by the coming of Titus:

7 And not by his coming only, but by the consolation wherewith he was comforted in you, when he told us your earnest desire, your mourning, your fervent mind toward me; so that I rejoiced the more.

8 For though I made you sorry with a letter, I do not repent, though I did repent: for I perceive that the same epistle hath made you sorry, though it were but for a season.

9 Now I rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye sorrowed to repentance: for ye were made sorry after a godly manner, that ye might receive damage by us in nothing.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 10. As poor, yet making many rich, &c.] We appear as poor in this world; and indeed we are so, having neither silver, nor gold, nor estate, and yet we are continually enriching many with treasures, which they would not part with for all the revenues of princes and kings.

12. Ye are straitened in your own bowels.] And have not that affection for us, nor readiness to receive our communications, which the relation between us might challenge.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verse 4. Great is my boldness of speech toward you, &c.] Great, you see, is my freedom of speech to you upon this subject; and great also is my boasting concerning you, as to the assurance which I have of your regard for me; and, on this account, I am filled with consolation in the remembrance of you. I do exceedingly abound in joy, in the 10 For godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of; but the sorrow of the world worketh death.

11 For, behold, this selfsame thing, that ye sorrowed after a godly sort, what carefulness it wrought in you, yea, what clearing of yourselves, yea, what indignation, yea, what fear, yea, what vehement desire, yea, what zeal, yea, what revenge! In all things ye have approved yourselves to be clear in this matter.

12 Wherefore, though I wrote unto you, I did it not for his cause that had done the wrong, nor for his cause that suffered wrong, but that our care for you in the sight of God might appear unto you.

13 Therefore we were comforted in your comfort; yea, and exceedingly the more joyed we for the joy of Titus, because his spirit was refreshed by you all.

14 For if I have boasted any thing to him of you, I am not ashamed; but as we spake all things to you in truth, even so our boasting which I made before Titus is found a truth.

15 And his inward affection is more abundant toward you, whilst he remembereth the obedience of you all, how with fear and trembling ye received him.

16 I rejoice therefore that I have confidence in you in all things.

C H A P. VIII.

He stirreth them up to contribute liberally.

MOREOVER, brethren, we do you to wit of the grace of God bestowed on the churches of Macedonia:

2 How that in a great trial of affliction, the abundance of their joy, and their deep poverty, abounded unto the riches of their liberality.

3 For to their power, (I bear record,) yea, and beyond their power, they were willing of themselves:

4 Praying us with much entreaty that we would receive the gift, and take upon us the fellowship of the ministering to the saints.

5 And this they did, not as we hoped, but first gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God;

6 Insomuch that we desired Titus, that as he had begun, so he would also finish in you the same grace also.

7 Therefore, as ye abound in every thing, in faith, and utterance, and knowledge, and in all diligence, and in your love to us; see that ye abound in this grace also.

8 I speak not by commandment, but by occasion of the forwardness of others, and to prove the sincerity of your love.

9 For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich.

10 And herein I give my advice: for this is expedient for you, who have begun before, not only to do, but also to be forward a year ago.

11 Now therefore perform the doing of it; that as there was a readiness to will, so there may be a performance also out of that which ye have.

12 For if there be first a willing mind, it is accepted according to that a man hath, and not according to that he hath not.

13 For I mean not that other men be eased, and you burdened;

14 But by an equality, that now at this time your abundance midst of all our affliction, when I think how well you behave, and how happy an alteration is prevailing among you.

10. Not to be repented of.] That grief which regards the honour of God, and takes its rise from such tender and grateful views of him, worketh repentance which leads to salvation, and therefore is never after to be repented of.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 1. We do you to wit, &c.] We think proper to inform you. Of the grace of God;] i. e. Of the extraordinary liberality of the Macedonian churches to the poor.

3. Beyond their power.] This is a noble hyperbole.

7. Abound in this grace;] i. e. In the grace of liberality and charity.

14. By an equality.] The apostle does not here mean, that Christians are obliged to bring themselves all to a level; but that there ought to be among them such mutual assistance and relief, as that the wants and necessities of all may be proportionably supplied.

dance may be a supply for their want, that their abundance also may be a supply for your want, that there may be equality;

15 As it is written, He that had gathered much had nothing over; and he that had gathered little had no lack.

16 But thanks be to God, which put the same earnest care into the heart of Titus for you.

17 For indeed he accepted the exhortation; but being more forward, of his own accord he went unto you.

18 And we have sent with him the brother, whose praise is in the gospel throughout all the churches.

19 And not that only, but who was also chosen of the churches to travel with us with this grace, which is administered by us to the glory of the same Lord, and declaration of your ready mind;

20 Avoiding this, that no man should blame us in this abundance which is administered by us:

21 Providing for honest things, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men.

22 And we have sent with them our brother, whom we have oftentimes proved diligent in many things, but now much more diligent, upon the great confidence which I have in you.

23 Whether any do enquire of Titus, he is my partner and fellow-helper concerning you; or our brethren be enquired of, they are the messengers of the churches, and the glory of Christ.

24 Wherefore shew ye to them, and before the churches, the proof of your love, and of our boasting on your behalf.

CHAP. IX.

He sheweth why he sent Titus.

FOR as touching the ministering to the saints, it is superfluous for me to write to you.

2 For I know the forwardness of your mind, for which I boast of you to them of Macedonia, that Achaia was ready a year ago; and your zeal hath provoked very many.

3 Yet have I sent the brethren, lest our boasting of you should be in vain in this behalf; that, as I said, ye may be ready:

4 Lest haply if they of Macedonia come with me, and find you unprepared, we (that we say not you) should be ashamed in this same confident boasting.

5 Therefore I thought it necessary to exhort the brethren, that they would go before unto you, and make up beforehand your bounty, whereof ye had notice before, that the same might be ready, as a matter of bounty, and not as of covetousness.

6 But this I say, He which soweth sparingly shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap also bountifully.

7 Every man according as he purposeth in his heart, so let him give; not grudgingly, or of necessity; for God loveth a cheerful giver.

8 And God is able to make all grace abound toward you; that ye always having all-sufficiency in all things, may abound to every good work:

9 (As it is written, He hath dispersed abroad; he hath given to the poor: his righteousness remaineth for ever.

10 Now he that ministereth seed to the sower, both minister bread for your food, and multiply your seed sown, and increase the fruits of your righteousness:)

11 Being enriched in every thing to all bountifulness, which causeth through us thanksgiving to God.

12 For the administration of this service not only supplieth the want of the saints, but is abundant also by many thanksgivings unto God;

13 (Whiles, by the experiment of this ministration, they glorify God for your professed subjection unto the gospel of Christ, and for your liberal distribution unto them, and unto all men;))

18. The brother, whose praise is in the gospel, &c.] We have also sent together with him that excellent brother and friend, Luke, whose praise in the gospel is in all the churches, on account of the various and eminent services he has done for the interest of Christianity, wheresoever his influence has extended, both by his writing and exhortation.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 5. Casting down imaginations, and every high thing, &c.] We are continually casting down the fallacious and sophistical reasonings, by which vain men are endeavouring to expose our doctrine to contempt, and every high thing which exalteth itself against the knowledge of God.

14 And by their prayer for you, which long after you, for the exceeding grace of God in you.

15 Thanks be unto God for his unspeakable gift.

CHAP. X.

Paul setteth forth his spiritual might and authority.

NOW I Paul myself beseech you, by the meekness and gentleness of Christ, who in presence am base among you, but being absent am bold toward you.

2 But I beseech you, that I may not be bold when I am present with that confidence wherewith I think to be bold against some, which think of us as if we walked according to the flesh.

3 For though we walk in the flesh, we do not war after the flesh:

4 (For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds.)

5 Casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ:

6 And having in a readiness to revenge all disobedience, when your obedience is fulfilled.

7 Do ye look on things after the outward appearance? If any man trust to himself that he is Christ's, let him of himself think this again, that as he is Christ's, even so are we Christ's.

8 For though I should boast somewhat more of our authority, (which the Lord hath given us for edification, and not for your destruction,) I should not be ashamed:

9 That I may not seem as if I would terrify you by letters.

10 For his letters (say they) are weighty and powerful; but his bodily presence is weak, and his speech contemptible.

11 Let such an one think this, that such as we are in word by letters, when we are absent, such will we be also in deed, when we are present.

12 For we dare not make ourselves of the number, or compare ourselves with some that commend themselves: but they, measuring themselves by themselves, and comparing themselves among themselves, are not wise:

13 But we will not boast of things without our measure, but according to the measure of the rule which God hath distributed to us, a measure to reach even unto you.

14 For we stretch not ourselves beyond our measure, as though we reached not unto you; for we are come as far as to you also, in preaching the gospel of Christ:

15 Not boasting of things without our measure, that is, of other men's labours; but having hope, when your faith is increased, that we shall be enlarged by you according to our rule abundantly.

16 To preach the gospel in the regions beyond you, and not to boast in another man's line of things made ready to our hand.

17 But he that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord.

18 For not he that commendeth himself is approved, but whom the Lord commendeth.

CHAP. XI.

Paul, being enforced, entereth into a commendation of himself.

WOULD to God ye could bear with me a little in my folly; and indeed bear with me.

2 For I am jealous over you with godly jealousy: for I have espoused you to one husband, that I may present you as a chaste virgin to Christ.

3 But

10. His bodily presence is weak, &c.] Some authors relate of St. Paul, that his stature was low, his body crooked, and his head bald, which seem to be the infirmities here referred to.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 1. Would to God ye could bear with me, &c.] I would advise every man, as I have hinted, to be sparing in his own commendation, and to study, above all, to approve himself to Christ, and yet, in present circumstances, I wish you would bear with a little of my folly; and that you would permit a little of that boasting which I know generally to be foolish.

3. I fear

3 But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve through his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity that is in Christ.

4 For if he that cometh preacheth another Jesus whom we have not preached, or if ye receive another spirit which ye have not received, or another gospel which ye have not accepted, ye might well bear with him.

5 For I suppose I was not a whit behind the very chiefest apostles.

6 But though I be rude in speech, yet not in knowledge; but we have been thoroughly made manifest among you in all things.

7 Have I committed an offence in abasing myself, that ye might be exalted, because I have preached to you the gospel of God freely?

8 I robbed other churches, taking wages of them, to do you service.

9 And when I was present with you, and wanted, I was chargeable to no man: for that which was lacking to me, the brethren which came from Macedonia supplied: and in all things I have kept myself from being burdensome unto you, and so will I keep myself.

10 As the truth of Christ is in me, no man shall stop me of this boasting in the regions of Achaia.

11 Wherefore? because I love you not? God knoweth.

12 But what I do, that I will do, that I may cut off occasion from them which desire occasion; that wherein they glory, they may be found even as we.

13 For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ.

14 And no marvel: for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light.

15 Therefore it is no great thing, if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works.

16 I say again, Let no man think me a fool; if otherwise, yet as a fool receive me, that I may boast myself a little.

17 That which I speak, I speak it not after the Lord, but as it were foolishly, in this confidence of boasting.

18 Seeing that many glory after the flesh, I will glory also.

19 For ye suffer fools gladly, seeing ye yourselves are wise.

20 For ye suffer if a man bring you into bondage, if a man devour you, if a man take of you, if a man exalt himself, if a man smite you on the face.

21 I speak as concerning reproach, as though we had been weak: howbeit, whereinsoever any is bold, (I speak foolishly,) I am bold also.

3. I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve, &c.] I am the more solicitous about this, as I know what insinuating enemies are endeavouring to corrupt you; for I fear, lest by any means, as in the first reduction and ruin of mankind the serpent deceived Eve by his subtilty, so your minds should be corrupted from that simplicity, which should always be in us towards Christ.

4. Another Jesus, &c.] If he that cometh among you with such extraordinary pretences preach another Jesus as a Saviour, whom we have not preached; if he can point out another Christ, who shall equally deserve your attention and regard; or if ye receive, by his preaching, another Spirit which ye have not yet received, which can bestow upon you gifts superior to those which we have imparted, or another gospel which ye have not yet accepted, ye might well bear with him, and there would be some excuse for your conduct.

5, 6. I was not a whit behind, &c.] If I am unskilful in speech, using plain and unpolished language, like that of a man of the most ordinary education, nevertheless, I am not so in knowledge of the gospel of Christ, and the divine dispensations which were introductory to it.

8. I robbed other churches, &c.] I may almost, in this sense, be said to have robbed churches, so freely have I received from them, at least taken wages, as it were, of them, for waiting upon you; for indeed I received a kind of stipend from them while I abode at Corinth.

23. Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as a fool) I am more, &c.] If they would boast in a manner more peculiarly referring to the gospel; are they ministers of Christ? I may seem to speak foolishly in this boasting manner, which is so unnatural to me, I cannot forbear repeated apologies for it; but I will venture to say here, that I am more so than they. So far more than an ordinary minister, that I am a chosen apostle, dignified and distinguished from many of my brethren by more eminent services; more abundant in labours, now for a long series of years; exceeding them in the frequent stripes I have received on account of my singular zeal; more abundant in imprisonment, cheerfully resigning my liberty for the sake of Christ and his gospel; and often in deaths, which are continually surrounding me in the most horrible forms, but

22 Are they Hebrews? so am I: are they Israelites? so am I: are they the seed of Abraham? so am I:

23 Are they ministers of Christ? (I speak as a fool,) I am more: in labours more abundant, in stripes above measure, in prisons more frequent, in deaths oft.

24 Of the Jews five times received I forty stripes save one.

25 Thrice was I beaten with rods, once was I stoned, thrice I suffered shipwreck, a night and a day I have been in the deep:

26 In journeying often, in perils of waters, in perils of robbers, in perils by mine own countrymen, in perils by the heathen, in perils in the city, in perils in the wilderness, in perils in the sea, in perils among false brethren;

27 In weariness and painfulness, in watchings often, in hunger and thirst, in fastings often, in cold and nakedness.

28 Besides those things that are without, that which cometh upon me daily, the care of all the churches.

29 Who is weak, and I am not weak? who is offended, and I burn not?

30 If I must needs glory, I will glory of the things which concern mine infirmities.

31 The God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which is blessed for evermore, knoweth that I lie not.

32 In Damascus, the governor under Aretas the king kept the city of the Damascenes with a garrison, desirous to apprehend me:

33 And through a window, in a basket, was I let down by the wall, and escaped his hands.

C H A P. XII.

Paul commendeth his apostleship.

IT is not expedient for me doubtless to glory: I will come to visions and revelations of the Lord.

2 I knew a man in Christ, about fourteen years ago, (whether in the body, I cannot tell; or whether out of the body, I cannot tell: God knoweth;) such an one caught up to the third heaven.

3 And I knew such a man, (whether in the body, or out of the body, I cannot tell; God knoweth:)

4 How that he was caught up into paradise, and heard unspeakable words, which it is not lawful for a man to utter.

5 Of such an one will I glory: yet of myself I will not glory, but in mine infirmities.

6 For though I would desire to glory, I shall not be a fool; for I will say the truth: but now I forbear, lest any man should think of me above that which he seeth me to be, or that he heareth of me.

7 And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn which, by divine grace, I have learned to meet and to vanquish in all their terrors, animated by love to our divine Leader.

24. Forty stripes save one.] The law assigned forty stripes to them that were condemned to be beaten, but forbade them to exceed that number; and it being customary to beat them with a whip that had three cords, and so every stroke with it going for three, they could only give them thirty-nine or forty-two.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XII.

Verse 2, 3, 4. I knew a man in Christ, about fourteen years ago, &c.] I hardly indeed know how to mention a name so undeserving as my own; but I will venture, in the general, to say, that I well knew a certain man in Christ, one who esteems it his highest honour to belong to such a Master, who, though he hath hitherto thought proper to conceal it, was remarkably indulged in this respect, about fourteen years ago: whether he was then in the body, during that ecstasy, I know not; or for a time taken out of the body, so that only the principle of animal life remained in it, I know not: such an one, I say, I did most intimately know, who was snatched up even into the third heaven, the seat of the Divine Glory, and the place where Christ dwelleth at the Father's right hand, having all the celestial principalities and powers in humble subjection to him. Yea, I say, I even knew such a man, whether in the body, or out of the body, I now say not, because I know not; God knoweth, and I know, that having been thus entertained with these visions of the third heaven, he was also caught up into paradise, that garden of God, which is the seat of happy spirits in the intermediate state, and during their separation from the body, where he had the pleasure of an interview with many of the pious dead, and heard among them unutterable words, expressive of their sublime ideas, which he was there taught to understand; but the language was such as it is not lawful or possible for men to utter. We have no terms of speech fit to express such conceptions; nor would it be consistent with the schemes of Providence, which require, that we should be conducted by faith rather than by sight, to suffer such circumstances as these to be revealed to the inhabitants of mortal flesh.

7. A thorn

CHAP. XIII.

He threateneh severity, and the power of his apostleship, against obstinate sinners.

thorn in the flesh, the messenger of Satan, to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure.

8 For this thing I besought the Lord thrice, that it might depart from me.

9 And he said unto me, My grace is sufficient for thee; for my strength is made perfect in weakness. Most gladly therefore will I rather glory in my infirmities, that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

10 Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses, for Christ's sake; for when I am weak, then am I strong.

11 I am become a fool in glorying; ye have compelled me; for I ought to have been commended of you: for in nothing am I behind the very chiefest apostles, though I be nothing.

12 Truly the signs of an apostle were wrought among you in all patience, in signs, and wonders, and mighty deeds.

13 For what is it wherein ye were inferior to other churches, except it be that I myself was not burdensome to you? forgive me this wrong.

14 Behold, the third time I am ready to come to you; and I will not be burdensome to you; for I seek not yours, but you: for the children ought not to lay up for the parents, but the parents for the children.

15 And I will very gladly spend and be spent for you; though the more abundantly I love you, the less I be loved.

16 But be it so, I did not burden you: nevertheless, being crafty, I caught you with guile.

17 Did I make a gain of you by any of them whom I sent unto you?

18 I desired Titus, and with him I sent a brother: did Titus make a gain of you? walked we not in the same spirit? walked we not in the same steps?

19 Again, think ye that we excuse ourselves unto you? we speak before God in Christ: but we do all things, dearly beloved, for your edifying.

20 For I fear, lest, when I come, I shall not find you such as I would, and that I shall be found unto you such as ye would not: lest there be debates, envyings, wraths, strifes, backbitings, whisperings, swellings, tumults:

21 And lest, when I come again, my God will humble me among you, and that I shall bewail many which have sinned already, and have not repented of the uncleanness, and fornication, and lasciviousness, which they have committed.

7. A thorn in the flesh.] How much this thorn in St. Paul's flesh has perplexed the commentators, they who have conversed much with them know but too well. Many have understood it of bodily pains; and Mr. Baxter, being himself subject to a nephritic disorder, supposes it might be the stone or gravel. I rather acquiesce in that interpretation of Dr. Whitby, which the author of Miscel. Sacra has adopted, and taken pains to illustrate, that the view he had of celestial glories affected the system of his nerves in such a manner as to occasion some paralytic symptoms, and particularly a stammering in his speech, and perhaps some ridiculous distortion in his countenance, referred to elsewhere in the phrase of the infirmity in his flesh.—Doddridge.

8. I besought the Lord thrice, &c.] The word thrice is, in scripture, used to signify not simply three times, but several times, or any time more than once. Though St. Paul has not revealed the nature of this infirmity, yet he tells us candidly, that he thinks it was inflicted upon him to prevent his being too much elated with the revelations made to him.

11. For I ought, &c.] i. e. My conduct ought to have so far secured your good opinion, that I should have had no need for this apology or justification.

16. Nevertheless, being crafty, &c.] St. Paul here does not speak his own words, but the accusation of his adversaries, who said, "that he artfully refused to receive their contributions only to gain their confidence, and impose upon them the more;" and this he now answers by an appeal to themselves, "whether any person he had sent to them had taken any thing from them." *

THIS is the third time I am coming to you. In the mouth of two or three witnesses shall every word be established.

2 I told you before, and foretell you, as if I were present the second time; and being absent, now I write to them which heretofore have sinned, and to all other, that if I come again I will not spare:

3 Since ye seek a proof of Christ speaking in me, which to you-ward is not weak, but is mighty in you.

4 For though he was crucified through weakness, yet he liveth by the power of God: for we also are weak in him, but we shall live with him by the power of God toward you.

5 Examine yourselves whether ye be in the faith; prove your own selves: know ye not your own selves, how that Jesus Christ is in you, except ye be reprobates?

6 But I trust that ye shall know that we are not reprobates.

7 Now I pray to God that ye do no evil: not that we should appear approved, but that ye should do that which is honest, though we be as reprobates.

8 For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth.

9 For we are glad when we are weak, and ye are strong: and this also we wish, even your perfection.

10 Therefore I write these things, being absent, lest, being present, I should use sharpness, according to the power which the Lord hath given me to edification, and not to destruction.

11 Finally, brethren, farewell. Be perfect, be of good comfort, be of one mind, live in peace; and the God of love and peace shall be with you.

12 Greet one another with an holy kiss.

13 All the saints salute you.

14 The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ, and the love of God, and the communion of the Holy Ghost, be with you all. Amen.

¶ The second epistle to the Corinthians was written from Philippi, a city of Macedonia, by Titus and Lucas.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 1. In the mouth of two or three witnesses, &c.] These words seem to be quoted from the law of our Saviour, Matt. 18. 16. and not from the law of Moses, in Deuteronomy; not only because the words are the same with those in St. Matthew, but from the similarity of the case.

3. Since ye seek a proof, &c.] Since, after all the evidence you have already had, some of you are so strangely unreasonable, as to seek a further proof of Christ speaking by his Spirit in me, even of the authority of that glorious and almighty Saviour, who is not weak towards you, but powerful among you by what he has already wrought.

4. Yet he liveth, &c.] Though he was once crucified, as through a state of weakness submitting to those infirmities of mortal flesh, which put him into the hands of his enemies; and waving the exertion of that miraculous energy, by which he could soon have rescued himself, and destroyed them; nevertheless, he now liveth by the power of God the Father, whereby he obtained a glorious resurrection, and is now ascended to a seat of universal authority.

7. That ye should do that which is honest, &c.] That ye may do what is good, beautiful, and amiable, that which will adorn your profession in the most effectual manner, though we should be as if we were disapproved.

11. Be of one mind;] i. e. Be unanimous, which is St. Paul's constant meaning of the phrase, not requiring them to be all of one opinion in all things, but to hold together in communion and love.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE GALATIANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE Galatians, or Gallo-Grecians, took their name from a colony of the Gauls that had made a descent upon, and settled in Asia Minor. They were first converted to the Christian faith by St. Paul, about the latter end of the year 50; but soon after he had left them, some Judaizing zealots had endeavoured to degrade his character among them, as one not immediately commissioned by Christ, as the other apostles were; and to subvert his doctrine in the article of justification, by insisting on the observation of the Jewish ceremonies, and so attempting to incorporate the Law with Christianity. The principal design of the Apostle, therefore, in this Epistle, is to vindicate his apostolical authority and doctrine, and to confirm the churches of Galatia in the faith of Christ; to expose the errors that were introduced among them, and to revive those principles of Christianity that he had taught them, when he first preached the gospel to them.

CHAP. I.

Paul wondereth that they have so soon left him and the gospel, which he learned not of men, but of God.

PAUL, an apostle, (not of men, neither by man, but by Jesus Christ, and God the Father, who raised him from the dead,)

2 And all the brethren which are with me, unto the churches of Galatia:

3 Grace be to you, and peace from God the Father, and from our Lord Jesus Christ,

4 Who gave himself for our sins, that he might deliver us from this present evil world, according to the will of God and our Father:

5 To whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

6 I marvel that ye are so soon removed from him that called you into the grace of Christ unto another gospel:

7 Which is not another; but there be some that trouble you, and would pervert the gospel of Christ.

8 But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you, than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.

9 As we said before, so say I now again, If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed.

10 For do I now persuade men, or God? Or do I seek to please men? for if I yet pleased men, I should not be the servant of Christ.

11 But I certify you, brethren, that the gospel which was preached of me is not after man.

12 For I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Jesus Christ.

13 For ye have heard of my conversation in time past in the Jews' religion, how that beyond measure I persecuted the church of God, and wasted it;

14 And profited in the Jews' religion above many my equals in mine own nation, being more exceedingly zealous of the traditions of my fathers.

15 But when it pleased God, who separated me from my mother's womb, and called me by his grace,

16 To reveal his Son in me, that I might preach him among the heathen; immediately I conferred not with flesh and blood:

17 Neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me: but I went into Arabia, and returned again unto Damascus.

18 Then after three years I went up to Jerusalem, to see Peter, and abode with him fifteen days.

19 But other of the apostles saw I none, save James the Lord's brother.

20 Now the things which I write unto you, behold, before God, I lie not.

21 Afterwards I came into the regions of Syria and Cilicia;

22 And was unknown by face unto the churches of Judea, which were in Christ:

23 But they had heard only, That he which persecuted us in times past, now preacheth the faith which once he destroyed.

24 And they glorified God in me.

CHAP. II.

Of justification by faith.

THEN, fourteen years after, I went up again to Jerusalem with Barnabas, and took Titus with me also.

2 And I went up by revelation, and communicated unto them that gospel which I preach among the Gentiles, but privately to them which were of reputation, lest by any means I should run, or had run, in vain.

3 But neither Titus, who was with me, being a Greek, was compelled to be circumcised:

4 And that because of false brethren unawares brought in,

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 15, 16. When it pleased God, &c.] When it pleased God, who determined to set me apart for the work of an apostle, even from my very infancy, and afterwards, of his mere grace and good-will, called me to preach the gospel to the Gentile world, having first revealed his Son in me; immediately I set about the work, and complied with my duty, not consulting any person living, neither my own carnal reason, nor any man's advice; neither went I up directly to Jerusalem, to confer with, or to receive authority or instruction from, them which were apostles before me; but I went up immediately from Damascus, the place of my conversion, into Arabia, and preached three years among those wild and barbarous heathens, and then returned again to Damascus. From whence it evidently appears, that I neither had instruction nor commission from any of the apostles that were before me, having never seen any of them as yet.

19. But other of the apostles saw I none, save, &c.] The apostles were at this time scattered, either in order to fulfil the work of their apostleship, or to avoid the persecution; so that probably there were, at this time, no more of the apostles at Jerusalem, except Peter, and James the Less, the son of Alphaeus, who is here called the Lord's brother, agreeable to the Hebrew idiom, in which language near kinsmen are usually called brethren.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 3. Neither Titus—was compelled.] Men are sometimes said to be compelled, for the conviction of gainsayers, to do things which they would otherwise dislike.

6. Who seemed to be somewhat, &c.] As to those who seemed to be somewhat, i. e. Peter, James, and John, who were of principal reputation among the apostles, and more than ordinary ministers of Jesus Christ, being the foundations of the Christian church laid by Christ himself, though they had some external advantages above me, as being apostles before me, and having conversed with Christ, and seen him whilst he was here upon earth, which I did not, though he appeared to me also in a miraculous manner after his resurrection; yet this maketh no matter to me; for God values no man for these outward favours and benefits. Neither in that conference about circumcision did they add any thing to me, either by their authority of instruction; they added nothing; they corrected nothing; but approved all things, both what I said and did. From whence it evidently appears, that my authority was equal with theirs, and my doctrine the same with theirs also.

in, who came in privily to spy out our liberty, which we have in Christ Jesus, that they might bring us into bondage :

5 To whom we gave place by subjection, no, not for an hour; that the truth of the gospel might continue with you.

6 But of those who seemed to be somewhat, (whatsoever they were, it maketh no matter to me; God accepteth no man's person;) for they who seemed to be somewhat, in conference added nothing to me.

7 But contrariwise, when they saw that the gospel of the uncircumcision was committed unto me, as the gospel of the circumcision was unto Peter;

8 (For he that wrought effectually in Peter to the apostleship of the circumcision, the same was mighty in me toward the Gentiles.)

9 And when James, Cephas, and John, who seemed to be pillars, perceived the grace that was given unto me, they gave to me and Barnabas the right hands of fellowship; that we should go unto the heathen, and they unto the circumcision.

10 Only they would that we should remember the poor; the same which I also was forward to do.

11 But when Peter was come to Antioch, I withstood him to the face, because he was to be blamed.

12 For, before that certain came from James, he did eat with the Gentiles: but when they were come, he withdrew, and separated himself, fearing them which were of the circumcision.

13 And the other Jews dissembled likewise with him; insomuch that Barnabas also was carried away with their dissimulation.

14 But when I saw that they walked not uprightly, according to the truth of the gospel, I said unto Peter before them all, If thou, being a Jew, livest after the manner of Gentiles, and not as do the Jews, why compellest thou the Gentiles to live as do the Jews?

15 We who are Jews by nature, and not sinners of the Gentiles,

16 Knowing that a man is not justified by the works of the law, but by the faith of Jesus Christ, even we have believed in Jesus Christ; that we might be justified by the faith of Christ, and not by the works of the law: for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

17 But if, while we seek to be justified by Christ, we ourselves also are found sinners, is therefore Christ the minister of sin? God forbid.

18 For if I build again the things which I destroyed, I make myself a transgressor.

19 For I through the law am dead to the law, that I might live unto God.

20 I am crucified with Christ; nevertheless I live: yet not I, but Christ liveth in me: and the life which I now live in the flesh, I live by the faith of the Son of God, who loved me, and gave himself for me.

21 I do not frustrate the grace of God: for if righteousness come by the law, then Christ is dead in vain.

C H A P. III.

They that believe are justified.

O FOOLISH Galatians, who hath bewitched you, that ye should not obey the truth, before whose eyes Jesus Christ hath been evidently set forth, crucified among you?

2 This only would I learn of you, Received ye the Spirit by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?

3 Are ye so foolish? having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by the flesh?

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 1. Have ye suffered so many things in vain? As if the apostle had said, To what purpose have ye suffered so many persecutions from the Jews for the cause of Christianity? all which sufferings will be in vain, if, after all, you bring yourselves under the bondage of the Jewish yoke.

19. It was ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator. The scope of this passage seems to be, that the law was a covenant between God and the people; for the law speaks of Moses as a mediator, and that must be supposed between two parties: God is one party, and the people the other.

4 Have ye suffered so many things in vain, if it be yet in vain?

5 He therefore that ministereth to you the Spirit, and worketh miracles among you, doeth he it by the works of the law, or by the hearing of faith?

6 Even as Abraham believed God, and it was accounted to him for righteousness.

7 Know ye therefore, that they which are of faith, the same are the children of Abraham.

8 And the scripture, foreseeing that God would justify the heathen through faith, preached before the gospel unto Abraham, saying, In thee shall all nations be blessed.

9 So then, they which be of faith are blessed with faithful Abraham.

10 For as many as are of the works of the law are under the curse: for it is written, Cursed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the book of the law to do them.

11 But that no man is justified by the law in the sight of God, it is evident; for, The just shall live by faith.

12 And the law is not of faith: but, The man that doeth them shall live in them.

13 Christ hath redeemed us from the curse of the law, being made a curse for us: for it is written, Cursed is every one that hangeth on a tree.

14 That the blessing of Abraham might come on the Gentiles through Jesus Christ; that we might receive the promise of the Spirit through faith.

15 Brethren, I speak after the manner of men; Though it be but a man's covenant, yet if it be confirmed, no man disannulleth or addeth thereto.

16 Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ.

17 And this I say, that the covenant that was confirmed before of God in Christ, the law, which was four hundred and thirty years after, cannot disannul, that it should make the promise of none effect.

18 For if the inheritance be of the law, it is no more of promise; but God gave it to Abraham by promise.

19 Wherefore then serveth the law? It was added because of transgressions, till the seed should come to whom the promise was made; and it was ordained by angels in the hand of a mediator.

20 Now a mediator is not a mediator of one: but God is one.

21 Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could have given life, verily righteousness should have been by the law.

22 But the scripture hath concluded all under sin, that the promise by faith of Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe.

23 But before faith came we were kept under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed.

24 Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith.

25 But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster.

26 For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus.

27 For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ.

28 There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither bond nor free, there is neither male nor female; for ye are all one in Christ Jesus.

29 And if ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, and heirs according to the promise.

C H A P.

22. All under sin.] i. e. Both Jews and Gentiles, and that consequently both of them were equally obliged to believe in Christ, and to have recourse to the mercy of the gospel for salvation.

24. The law was our schoolmaster, &c.] i. e. The Jewish dispensation was appointed by God, in condescension to the weakness of that people, to fit them by degrees for the reception of the gospel.

That we might be justified by faith.] i. e. Not by a bare belief, in opposition to obedience, but by the obedience of that Christian religion, which was, by way of eminence, called by the name of faith, as the Jewish religion had been styled the law.

C H A P. IV.

Paul sheweth that we are the sons of Abraham by the free-woman.

NOW I say, That the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be lord of all;

2 But is under tutors and governors, until the time appointed of the father.

3 Even so we, when we were children, were in bondage under the elements of the world:

4 But when the fulness of the time was come, God sent forth his Son, made of a woman, made under the law,

5 To redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons.

6 And because ye are sons, God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father.

7 Wherefore thou art no more a servant, but a son; and if a son, then an heir of God through Christ.

8 Howbeit then, when ye knew not God, ye did service unto them which by nature are no gods.

9 But now, after that ye have known God, or rather are known of God, how turn ye again to the weak and beggarly elements, whereunto ye desire again to be in bondage?

10 Ye observe days, and months, and times, and years.

11 I am afraid of you, lest I have bestowed upon you labour in vain.

12 Brethren, I beseech you, be as I am; for I am as ye are: ye have not injured me at all.

13 Ye know how, through infirmity of the flesh, I preached the gospel unto you at the first.

14 And my temptation, which was in my flesh, ye despised not, nor rejected; but received me as an angel of God, even as Christ Jesus.

15 Where is then the blessedness ye spake of? for I bear you record, that, if it had been possible, ye would have plucked out your own eyes, and have given them to me.

16 Am I therefore become your enemy, because I tell you the truth?

17 They zealously affect you, but not well; yea, they would exclude you, that ye might affect them.

18 But it is good to be zealously affected always in a good thing, and not only when I am present with you.

19 My little children, of whom I travail in birth again until Christ be formed in you,

20 I desire to be present with you now, and to change my voice; for I stand in doubt of you.

21 Tell me, ye that desire to be under the law, do ye not hear the law?

22 For it is written, that Abraham had two sons; the one by a bond-maid, the other by a free-woman.

23 But he who was of the bond-woman was born after the flesh; but he of the free-woman was by promise.

24 Which things are an allegory; for these are the two covenants; the one from the mount Sina, which gendereth to bondage, which is Agar.

25 For this Agar is mount Sina in Arabia, and an-swereth to Jerusalem which now is, and is in bondage with her children.

26 But Jerusalem which is above is free, which is the mother of us all.

27 For it is written, Rejoice, thou barren that bearest not; break forth and cry, thou that travailest not: for the desolate hath many more children than she which hath an husband.

28 Now we, brethren, as Isaac was, are the children of promise.

29 But, as then, he that was born after the flesh persecuted him that was born after the Spirit, even so it is now.

30 Nevertheless, what saith the scripture? Cast out the bond-woman and her son: for the son of the bond-woman shall not be heir with the son of the free-woman.

31 So then, brethren, we are not children of the bond-woman, but of the free.

C H A P. V.

Paul moveth them to stand in their liberty.

STAND fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage.

2 Behold, I Paul say unto you, that if ye be circumcised Christ shall profit you nothing.

3 For I testify again to every man that is circumcised, that he is a debtor to do the whole law.

4 Christ is become of no effect unto you, whosoever of you are justified by the law; ye are fallen from grace.

5 For we through the Spirit wait for the hope of righteousness by faith.

6 For in Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but faith which worketh by love.

7 Ye did run well; who did hinder you, that ye should not obey the truth?

8 This persuasion cometh not of him that calleth you.

9 A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump.

10 I have confidence in you through the Lord, that ye will be none otherwise minded: but he that troubleth you shall bear his judgment, whosoever he be.

11 And I, brethren, if I yet preach circumcision, why do I yet suffer persecution? then is the offence of the cross ceased.

12 I would they were even cut off which trouble you.

13 For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty; only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another.

14 For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even in this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself.

15 But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another.

16 This I say then, Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.

17 For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh: and these are contrary the one to the other; so that ye cannot do the things that ye would.

18 But if ye be led by the Spirit, ye are not under the law.

19 Now,

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 3, 4. He, when we were children, &c.] The meaning is, Before the world was prepared for the reception of the gospel, God thought fit to oblige men to observe those first and more imperfect rudiments which were instituted in the Jewish law; but by the coming of Christ, God abolished that institution of religion, and freed men from the servile obedience thereof.

22. Abraham had two sons, &c.] Even originally the promise was not made to all the children of Abraham, but to Isaac only; which was, from the beginning, a plain declaration, that God did not principally intend his promise to take place in Abraham's descendants according to the flesh; but in those who, by a faith like his, were in a truer and higher sense the children and followers of that great father of the faithful.

24, 25, 26. Which things are an allegory, &c.] Here the apostle makes an allegorical and spiritual application of the foregoing history of Sarah and Agar, of Isaac and Ishmael; and the mystery he tells us is this: The two mothers, Sarah and Agar, are types of the two covenants; the one of works, the other of grace. The two sons, Isaac and Ishmael, are a type of two sorts of men living in the church; the one proceeding from the first, the other from the second covenant; the one regenerate, the other unregenerate men. All regenerate men are under the covenant of grace and freedom; for every man's freedom depends upon the covenant under which he stands. Ishmael is the son of the bond-woman, and points at the Jerusalem which then was, and the people of the Jews as they then stood affected, seeking justification, and expecting eternal salvation, by the works of the law. But now behold in Isaac, a son of the free-woman, an emblem of the gospel church, which dares not depend upon the righteousness of the law for justification, but relies upon the meritorious righteousness of the Mediator; and this points out Jerusalem above, which is free, and the mother of us all.

31. So then, brethren, we are not children, &c.] Here the apostle draws a conclusion from the foregoing discourse thus: As Sarah cast out Agar and Ishmael, so must the children of the new Jerusalem cast out the law, and all the legal rites, henceforth to be observed no more. And as the church of the Gentiles was not typified in Agar, but in Sarah, so we Christian Gentiles are not obliged to Judaical observances, but freed entirely by Christ from them, and justified by gospel grace without them.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 14. All the law is fulfilled in one word, &c.] Here our apostle enforces the foregoing exhortation, to love and to serve one another, with a forcible motive, namely, because love is the fulfilling of the law; i. e. 1st, It is the fulfilling of that part of the law which relates to our neighbour; the whole moral law in that respect being fulfilled in this, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself. Or, 2dly, Love may be said to be the fulfilling of the law in general; for true and regular love to our neighbour supposes our love to God, springs from, and is an evidence of it; yea, the love of our neighbour is the perfecting of our love to God, 1 John 4. 12. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

ANNO-

19 Now, the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these; Adultery, fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness,

20 Idolatry, witchcraft, hatred, variance, emulations, wrath, strife, seditions, heresies,

21 Envyings, murders, drunkenness, revellings, and such like: of the which I tell you before, as I have also told you in time past, that they which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God.

22 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, long-suffering, gentleness, goodness, faith, 23 Meekness, temperance: against such there is no law.

24 And they that are Christ's have crucified the flesh, with the affections and lusts.

25 If we live in the Spirit, let us also walk in the Spirit.

26 Let us not be desirous of vain-glory, provoking one another, envying one another.

C H A P. VI.

Paul moveth them to deal mildly with a brother that hath slipped.

BRETHREN, if a man be overtaken in a fault, ye which are spiritual restore such an one in the spirit of meekness; considering thyself, lest thou also be tempted.

2 Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ.

3 For if a man think himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself.

4 But let every man prove his own work, and then shall he have rejoicing in himself alone, and not in another.

5 For every man shall bear his own burden.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 2. Bear ye one another's burdens, &c.] This is a general precept, and requires us to sympathize with our brethren in all their sorrows and sufferings, and to bear a part with them under the burden of oppressive wants and necessities. Bearing with the weaknesses and infirmities of our brethren seems to be here particularly recommended.

8. He that soweth to his flesh;] That employs his substance, time, and thoughts, in the gratifications of sense.

6 Let him that is taught in the word communicate unto him that teacheth in all good things.

7 Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap.

8 For he that soweth to his flesh, shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit, shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting.

9 And let us not be weary in well doing; for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.

10 As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith.

11 Ye see how large a letter I have written unto you with mine own hand.

12 As many as desire to make a fair shew in the flesh, they constrain you to be circumcised; only lest they should suffer persecution for the cross of Christ.

13 For neither they themselves who are circumcised keep the law, but desire to have you circumcised, that they may glory in your flesh.

14 But God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world.

15 For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision availeth any thing, nor uncircumcision, but a new creature.

16 And as many as walk according to this rule, peace be on them, and mercy, and upon the Israel of God.

17 From henceforth let no man trouble me; for I bear in my body the marks of the Lord Jesus.

18 Brethren, the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

¶ Unto the Galatians, written from Rome.

11. With mine own hand.] It is very probable that St. Paul ordinarily dictated only, and that some other person wrote his epistles; as that to the Romans was written by Tertius, Rom. 16. Sometimes he only wrote the salutation, and subscribed the epistle with his own hand, as 1 Cor. 16. but here he tells the Galatians, that he wrote this epistle to them all with his own hand, to testify the fervency of his affections towards them.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE E P H E S I A N S.

THE ARGUMENT.

St. PAUL having planted a church at Ephesus, the metropolis of Asia, where he had preached the gospel three years with success, and being informed that the Ephesians stood firm in the faith, wrote this Epistle to them, to congratulate them on their steadiness and perseverance; and still more to confirm their faith, he gives them more exalted views of the eternal love of God, and of the glorious excellence and dignity of Christ; he shews them they were saved by grace, and however wretched they once were, the Gentiles now had equal privileges with the Jews; and finally, in consequence of their profession, he engages them to the practice of those duties that became their character as Christians.

C H A P. I.

Of election and adoption.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, to the saints which are at Ephesus, and to the faithful in Christ Jesus:

2 Grace be to you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who hath blessed us with all spiritual blessings in heavenly places in Christ;

4 According as he hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy, and without blame before him in love:

5 Having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to himself, according to the good pleasure of his will,

6 To the praise of the glory of his grace, wherein he hath made us accepted in the Beloved;

7 In whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins, according to the riches of his grace;

8 Wherein he hath abounded toward us, in all wisdom and prudence;

9 Having made known unto us the mystery of his will, according to his good pleasure, which he hath purposed in himself:

10 That in the dispensation of the fulness of times, he might gather together in one all things in Christ, both which are in heaven, and which are on earth, even in him:

11 In whom also we have obtained an inheritance, being predestinated according to the purpose of him who worketh all things after the counsel of his own will:

12 That we should be to the praise of his glory, who first trusted in Christ.

13 In whom ye also trusted, after that ye heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation: in whom also, after after that ye believed, ye were sealed with that Holy Spirit of promise, 14 Which is the earnest of our inheritance, until the redemption of the purchased possession, unto the praise of his glory.

15 Wherefore I also, after I heard of your faith in the Lord Jesus, and love unto all the saints,

16 Cease not to give thanks for you, making mention of you in my prayers;

17 That the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give unto you the Spirit of wisdom and revelation in the knowledge of him:

18 The eyes of your understanding being enlightened; that ye may know what is the hope of his calling, and what the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints,

19 And what is the exceeding greatness of his power to us-ward who believe, according to the working of his mighty power,

20 Which he wrought in Christ, when he raised him from the dead, and set him at his own right hand in the heavenly places,

21 Far above all principality, and power, and might, and dominion, and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come;

22 And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church,

23 Which is his body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all.

CHAP. II.

We are created for good works.

AND you hath he quickened who were dead in trespasses and sins;

2 Wherein in time past ye walked according to the course of this world, according to the prince of the power of the air, the spirit that now worketh in the children of disobedience.

3 Among whom also we all had our conversation in times past in the lusts of our flesh, fulfilling the desires of the flesh and of the mind; and were by nature the children of wrath, even as others.

4 But God, who is rich in mercy, for his great love wherewith he loved us,

5 Even when we were dead in sins, hath quickened us together with Christ; (by grace ye are saved;)

6 And hath raised us up together, and made us sit together in heavenly places in Christ Jesus;

7 That in the ages to come he might shew the exceeding riches of his grace, in his kindness toward us, through Christ Jesus.

8 For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God:

9 Not of works, lest any man should boast:

10 For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works, which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them.

11 Wherefore remember, that ye being in time past Gentiles in the flesh, who are called Uncircumcision by that which is called the Circumcision in the flesh made by hands;

12 That at that time ye were without Christ, being aliens from the commonwealth of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, having no hope, and without God in the world:

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 6. Hath raised us up together, &c.] The apostle, speaking in an elegant and figurative manner, as of a thing already accomplished, what our Lord expresses by way of promise, with regard to a future state, says, God hath raised us up, and made us sit together; (not, he shall raise us, and will make us sit;) to denote the dependence which our resurrection and glorification have upon Christ's, as the effects depend upon the cause; and also the certainty that they shall come to pass, Christ's resurrection and glorification being a pledge of ours.

11. Wall of partition.] There was in the courts of the temple, between the court of the Gentiles and that into which Jews only were allowed to enter, a wall of partition; to which he here alludes, and says, Christ has broken it down.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 1. For this cause, &c.] Namely, for preaching the gospel to the Gentiles in general; and in particular, for asserting that the privileges of justification and salvation by Christ belonged equally to the 13 But now, in Christ Jesus, ye who sometimes were far off, are made nigh by the blood of Christ.

14 For he is our peace, who hath made both one, and hath broken down the middle wall of partition between us;

15 Having abolished in his flesh the enmity, even the law of commandments, contained in ordinances, for to make in himself of twain one new man, so making peace;

16 And that he might reconcile both unto God in one body by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby;

17 And came and preached peace to you which were afar off, and to them that were nigh.

18 For through him we both have access by one Spirit unto the Father.

19 Now therefore ye are no more strangers and foreigners, but fellow-citizens with the saints, and of the household of God;

20 And are built upon the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner-stone;

21 In whom all the building, fitly framed together, groweth unto an holy temple in the Lord;

22 In whom ye also are builded together for an habitation of God through the Spirit.

CHAP. III.

The hidden mystery.

FOR this cause, I Paul, the prisoner of Jesus Christ for you Gentiles,

2 (If ye have heard of the dispensation of the grace of God, which is given me to you-ward:

3 How that by revelation he made known unto me the mystery, as I wrote afore in few words;

4 Whereby when ye read ye may understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ,

5 Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit;

6 That the Gentiles should be fellow-heirs, and of the same body, and partakers of his promise in Christ, by the gospel;

7 Whereof I was made a minister, according to the gift of the grace of God given unto me by the effectual working of his power.

8 Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this grace given, that I should preach among the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ:

9 And to make all men see what is the fellowship of the mystery, which from the beginning of the world hath been hid in God, who created all things by Jesus Christ:

10 To the intent, that now unto the principalities and powers in heavenly places might be known by the church the manifold wisdom of God,

11 According to the eternal purpose which he purposed in Christ Jesus our Lord:

12 In whom we have boldness and access with confidence by the faith of him.

13 Wherefore I desire that ye faint not at my tribulations for you, which is your glory.

14 For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,

15 Of whom the whole family in heaven and earth is named,

16 That he would grant you, according to the riches of his Gentiles as well as the Jews, though the former were not circumcised; for this cause I was persecuted and imprisoned by the Jews.

8. Who am less than the least, &c.] The expression is hyperbolic: but the meaning is, That he had not any the least claim of right or descent to that singular favour, of being made the apostle of the Gentiles.

11, 12. According to the eternal purpose.] Here is shewn, that whatever the wisdom of God has done in the work of redemption, was, from all eternity, purposed to be done; and that our Lord Jesus Christ was the person by whom God would, in time, execute his eternal purpose. Next, the great and gracious privileges which all believers are admitted to the participation of, by and through our Lord Jesus Christ; namely, boldness, access, and confidence. Access is a liberty of approach to God as a father; boldness is a freedom of speech in delivering our whole mind and heart to him in the duty of prayer and thanksgiving; confidence is a well-grounded persuasion, that both our persons and performances shall find acceptance with God. All which privileges are enjoyed by the exercise of faith in Christ.

his glory, to be strengthened with might by his Spirit in the inner man;

17. That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that ye, being rooted and grounded in love,

18 May be able to comprehend, with all saints, what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height;

19 And to know the love of Christ, which passeth knowledge, that ye might be filled with all the fulness of God.

20 Now, unto him that is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, according to the power that worketh in us,

21 Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus, throughout all ages, world without end. Amen.

C H A P. IV.

He exhorteth to unity.

I THEREFORE, the prisoner of the Lord,) beseech you, that ye walk worthy of the vocation wherewith ye are called.

2 With all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love;

3 Endeavouring to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace.

4 There is one body, and one Spirit, even as ye are called in one hope of your calling;

5 One Lord, one faith, one baptism,

6 One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all.

7 But unto every one of us is given grace, according to the measure of the gift of Christ.

8 Wherefore he saith, When he ascended up on high, he led captivity captive, and gave gifts unto men.

9 (Now that he ascended, what is it but that he also descended first into the lower parts of the earth?

10 He that descended is the same also that ascended up far above all heavens, that he might fill all things.)

11 And he gave some, apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers;

12 For the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ:

13 Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ:

14 That we henceforth be no more children, tossed to and fro, and carried about with every wind of doctrine, by the sleight of men, and cunning craftiness, whereby they lie in wait to deceive:

15 But speaking the truth in love, may grow up into him in all things, which is the head, even Christ:

16 From whom the whole body fitly joined together, and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body, unto the edifying of itself in love.

17 This I say, therefore, and testify in the Lord, that ye henceforth walk not as other Gentiles walk, in the vanity of their mind;

18 Having the understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God; through the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart:

19 Who, being past feeling, have given themselves over unto lasciviousness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.

20 But ye have not so learned Christ;

21 If so be that ye have heard him, and have been taught by him, as the truth is in Jesus:

22 That ye put off, concerning the former conversation, the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts;

23 And be renewed in the spirit of your mind:

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 14. That we henceforth be no more children.] St. Paul here, in these words, declares one special end for which the ministry of the word was instituted and appointed, namely, to preserve from error and seduction, to prevent instability of mind and unsettledness of judgment, and to confirm persons in fundamental truths.

19. All uncleanness with greediness.] Transgressing the bounds, not

24 And that ye put on the new man, which after God is created in righteousness and true holiness.

25 Wherefore, putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbour: for we are members one of another.

26 Be ye angry and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath;

27 Neither give place to the devil.

28 Let him that stole steal no more: but rather let him labour, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth.

29 Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth, but that which is good to the use of edifying, that it may minister grace unto the hearers.

30 And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are sealed unto the day of redemption.

31 Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamour, and evil-speaking, be put away from you, with all malice:

32 And be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.

C H A P. V.

The duties of wives and husbands.

BE ye therefore followers of God, as dear children: 2 And walk in love, as Christ also hath loved us, and hath given himself for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for a sweet-smelling savour.

3 But fornication and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not be once named among you, as becometh saints:

4 Neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, which are not convenient; but rather giving of thanks.

5 For this ye know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God.

6 Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience.

7 Be not ye therefore partakers with them.

8 For ye were sometimes darkness; but now are ye light in the Lord: walk as children of light;

9 (For the fruit of the Spirit is in all goodness, and righteousness, and truth.)

10 Proving what is acceptable unto the Lord.

11 And have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather reprove them.

12 For it is a shame even to speak of those things which are done of them in secret.

13 But all things that are reprov'd are made manifest by the light; for whatsoever doth make manifest is light.

14 Wherefore he saith, Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall give thee light.

15 See then that ye walk circumspectly, not as fools, but as wise,

16 Redeeming the time, because the days are evil.

17 Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is.

18 And be not drunk with wine, wherein is excess; but be filled with the Spirit;

19 Speaking to yourselves in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing and making melody in your heart to the Lord:

20 Giving thanks always for all things unto God and the Father, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ;

21 Submitting yourselves one to another in the fear of God.

22 Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as unto the Lord.

23 For the husband is the head of the wife, even as Christ is the head of the church: and he is the Saviour of the body.

24 Therefore only of virtue and decency, but even of natural appetite; into such profligate and brutal sensualities was the heathen world sunk!

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 6. Upon the children of disobedience.] Or, Upon the children of unbelief; i. e. upon the heathen world; for it is for their unrighteousness and debauched practices, contrary to the light of nature, and the eternal laws of truth, that the divine wrath is poured upon them.

ANNO-

24 Therefore, as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands, in every thing.

25 Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it :

26 That he might sanctify and cleanse it with the washing of water, by the word ;

27 That he might present it to himself a glorious church, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing ; but that it should be holy, and without blemish.

28 So ought men to love their wives, as their own bodies : he that loveth his wife loveth himself.

29 For no man ever yet hated his own flesh, but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church :

30 For we are members of his body, of his flesh, and of his bones.

31 For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall be joined unto his wife, and they two shall be one flesh.

32 This is a great mystery : but I speak concerning Christ and the church.

33 Nevertheless, let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself ; and the wife see that she reverence her husband.

CHAP. VI.

The duty of children and of servants.

CHILDREN, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right.

2 Honour thy father and mother, (which is the first commandment with promise,)

3 That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth.

4 And ye, fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

5 Servants, be obedient to them that are your masters according to the flesh with fear and trembling, in singleness of your heart, as unto Christ :

6 Not with eye-service, as men-pleasers, but as the servants of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart :

7 With good-will doing service, as to the Lord, and not to men :

8 Knowing, that whatsoever good thing any man doeth, the same shall he receive of the Lord, whether he be bond or free.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 4. In the nurture and admonition of the Lord:] i. e. Under such discipline and instruction as may lead them to the knowledge of the religion of Christ, and effectually dispose them to profess and practise it.

5. With fear and trembling:] As cautious and fearful of giving offence, or of bringing a reproach on your profession.

9 And ye, masters, do the same things unto them, forbearing threatening: knowing that your Master also is in heaven; neither is their respect of persons with him.

10 Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might.

11 Put on the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil.

12 For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places.

13 Wherefore take unto you the whole armour of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all to stand.

14 Stand, therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breast-plate of righteousness,

15 And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace ;

16 Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked.

17 And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God :

18 Praying always, with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints ;

19 And for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel,

20 For which I am an ambassador in bonds: that therein I may speak boldly as I ought to speak.

21 But that ye also may know my affairs, and how I do, Tychicus, a beloved brother and faithful minister in the Lord, shall make known to you all things.

22 Whom I have sent unto you for the same purpose, that ye might know our affairs, and that he might comfort your hearts.

23 Peace be to the brethren, and love with faith, from God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Grace be with all them that love our Lord Jesus Christ in sincerity. Amen.

¶ Written from Rome unto the Ephesians by Tychicus.

9. Forbearing threatening,] And every thing else that may argue an over-hasty and tyrannical conduct.

12. We wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, &c.] A Christian's life is a perpetual warfare, a continual wrestling. But not with flesh and blood; that is, not only or principally with flesh and blood, with human enemies, but we must contend with angelical powers, with devils, who are principalities and powers.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE PHILIPPIANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Epistle is a return of the Apostle's thanks and congratulation to the Philippian Christians, who had sent Epaphroditus to visit and salute him in their name, to carry him supplies for his support during his confinement, and to assure him of their steady adherence to the Christian faith, which he had planted among them about the year of our Lord 51. The Apostle's design in this Epistle (which is quite practical) seems to be, to comfort the Philippians under the concern they had expressed at the news of his imprisonment; to check a party-spirit, which appears to have broke out among them, and to promote an entire union and harmony of affection; to guard them against being seduced from the purity of the Christian faith by Judaizing teachers; to support them under the trials with which they struggled; and, above all, to inspire them with a concern to adorn their profession by the most eminent attainments in the divine life.

CHAP. I.

Paul's thanksgiving and prayer to God for them.

PAUL and Timotheus, the servants of Jesus Christ, to all the saints in Christ Jesus, which are at Philippi, with the bishops and deacons.

2 Grace be unto you, and peace from God our Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 I thank my God upon every remembrance of you,

4 Always, in every prayer of mine for you all, making request with joy.

5 For

5 For your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now ;

6 Being confident of this very thing, that he which hath begun a good work in you will perform it until the day of Jesus Christ.

7 Even as it is meet for me to think this of you all, because I have you in my heart ; in as much as, both in my bonds and in the defence and confirmation of the gospel, ye all are partakers of my grace.

8 For God is my record, how greatly I long after you all in the bowels of Jesus Christ.

9 And this I pray, that your love may abound yet more and more in knowledge, and in all judgment ;

10 That ye may approve things that are excellent, that ye may be sincere, and without offence, till the day of Christ ;

11 Being filled with the fruits of righteousness, which are by Jesus Christ unto the glory and praise of God.

12 But I would ye should understand, brethren, that the things which happened unto me have fallen out rather unto the furtherance of the gospel ;

13 So that my bonds in Christ are manifest in all the palace, and in all other places ;

14 And many of the brethren in the Lord, waxing confident by my bonds, are much more bold to speak the word without fear.

15 Some indeed preach Christ even of envy and strife, and some also of good-will.

16 The one preach Christ of contention, not sincerely, supposing to add affliction to my bonds ;

17 But the other of love, knowing that I am set for the defence of the gospel.

18 What then ? notwithstanding every way, whether in pretence or in truth, Christ is preached ; and I therein do rejoice, yea, and will rejoice.

19 For I know that this shall turn to my salvation thro' your prayer, and the supply of the Spirit of Jesus Christ,

20 According to my earnest expectation, and my hope, that in nothing I shall be ashamed, but that with all boldness, as always, so now also, Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether it be by life or by death.

21 For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.

22 But if I live in the flesh, this is the fruit of my labour ; yet what I shall choose I wot not.

23 For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ, which is far better.

24 Nevertheless, to abide in the flesh is more needful for you.

25 And, having this confidence, I know that I shall abide and continue with you all, for your furtherance and joy of faith ;

26 That your rejoicing may be more abundant in Jesus Christ for me, by my coming to you again.

27 Only let your conversation be as it becometh the gospel of Christ ; that whether I come and see you, or else be absent, I may hear of your affairs, that ye stand fast in one spirit, with one mind, striving together for the faith of the gospel ;

28 And in nothing terrified by your adversaries, which is to them an evident token of perdition, but to you of salvation, and that of God.

29 For unto you it is given, in the behalf of Christ, not only to believe on him, but also to suffer for his sake.

30 Having the same conflict which ye saw in me, and now hear to be in me.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 8. God is my record, &c. I call him to witness, and can appeal to him, as the searcher of hearts, how greatly I long after you, i. e. how passionately and sincerely I love you with the most intense and hearty affection, in Jesus Christ.

13. Are manifest in all the palace ; i. e. His imprisonment for the gospel of Christ was manifest in the palace, i. e. were manifestly taken notice of in Nero's court, and elsewhere in the city ; so that people, enquiring into the cause of his sufferings, found that it was not any misdemeanor ; but that his preaching and practising the doctrine of Christianity was the only reason of his sufferings.

19. This shall turn to my salvation, &c. Our apostle pursues his former design, namely, to prevent the Philippians from being offended at his sufferings ; and accordingly he shews, that as the gospel of Christ had gained much already, it should gain yet more by his imprisonment and afflictions, which he was very confident would tend to the further-

CHAP. II.

Paul exhorteth to unity and humility.

IF there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies ;

2 Fulfil ye my joy, that ye be like minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind.

3 Let nothing be done through strife or vain-glory ; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves.

4 Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others.

5 Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus ;

6 Who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God ;

7 But made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men :

8 And being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross.

9 Wherefore God also hath highly exalted him, and given him a name which is above every name ;

10 That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth ;

11 And that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.

12 Wherefore, my beloved, as ye have always obeyed, not as in my presence only, but now much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling :

13 For it is God which worketh in you, both to will and to do of his good pleasure.

14 Do all things without murmurings and disputings ;

15 That ye may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world ;

16 Holding forth the word of life ; that I may rejoice in the day of Christ that I have not run in vain, neither laboured in vain.

17 Yea, and if I be offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith, I joy and rejoice with you all.

18 For the same cause also do ye joy and rejoice with me.

19 But I trust in the Lord Jesus to send Timotheus shortly unto you, that I also may be of good comfort, when I know your state.

20 For I have no man like-minded, who will naturally care for your state.

21 For all seek their own, not the things which are Jesus Christ's.

22 But ye know the proof of him, that as a son with the father, he hath served with me in the gospel.

23 Him therefore I hope to send presently, so soon as I shall see how it will go with me.

24 But I trust in the Lord that I also myself shall come shortly.

25 Yet I supposed it necessary to send to you Epaphroditus, my brother and companion in labour, and fellow soldier, but your messenger, and he that ministered to my wants.

26 For he longed after you all, and was full of heaviness, because that ye had heard that he had been sick.

27 For

ance of his salvation through the help of their prayers, and the supplies of grace from the Spirit of Christ.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 6. Who being in the form of God, &c. i. e. Invested with divine authority and dominion, yet was not greedy of appearing as God ; so the words are in the original.

13. It is God which worketh in you, &c. The meaning is, God has given you power to chuse and act, therefore work out your own salvation.

17. Yea, and if I be offered, &c. He says he, it shall please God that I be, by martyrdom, offered upon the sacrifice and service of your faith ; i. e. to establish you in the faith which I have taught you, and to confirm and seal the truth of it with my blood, I will rejoice therein for your sakes ; and I desire you to rejoice with me, and to bless God for me in so doing.

27 For indeed he was sick nigh unto death: but God had mercy on him; and not on him only, but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow.

28 I sent him therefore the more carefully, that when ye see him again, ye may rejoice, and that I may be the less sorrowful.

29 Receive him therefore in the Lord with all gladness, and hold such in reputation.

30 Because for the work of Christ he was nigh unto death, not regarding his life to supply your lack of service toward me.

CHAP. III.

He warneth them of false teachers.

FINALLY, my brethren, rejoice in the Lord. To write the same things to you to me indeed is not grievous, but for you it is safe.

2 Beware of dogs, beware of evil workers, beware of the concision.

3 For we are the circumcision, which worship God in the Spirit, and rejoice in Christ Jesus, and have no confidence in the flesh:

4 Though I might also have confidence in the flesh. If any other man thinketh that he hath whereof he might trust in the flesh, I more:

5 Circumcised the eighth day, of the stock of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, an Hebrew of the Hebrews; as touching the law, a Pharisee;

6 Concerning zeal, persecuting the church; touching the righteousness which is in the law, blameless.

7 But what things were gain to me, those I counted loss for Christ.

8 Yea, doubtless, and I count all things but loss, for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I have suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may win Christ,

9 And be found in him, not having mine own righteousness, which is of the law, but that which is through the faith of Christ, the righteousness which is of God by faith:

10 That I may know him, and the power of his resurrection, and the fellowship of his sufferings, being made conformable unto his death;

11 If by any means I might attain unto the resurrection of the dead:

12 Not as though I had already attained, either were already perfect; but I follow after, if that I may apprehend that for which also I am apprehended of Christ Jesus.

13 Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before,

14 I press toward the mark, for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus.

15 Let us therefore, as many as be perfect, be thus minded: and if in any thing ye be otherwise minded, God shall reveal even this unto you.

16 Nevertheless, whereto we have already attained, let us walk by the same rule, let us mind the same thing.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 2. Beware of dogs:] Of those invidious, malignant, and contentious persons, whom I cannot but think worthy of this appellation.

3. We are the circumcision:] i. e. Christians are, by real holiness, purified unto God a peculiar people, more truly than the Jews were by the typical ceremony of circumcision.

5, 6. Circumcised the eighth day, &c.] The very day prescribed by the law. Of the stock of Israel; one of that nation which God set apart for himself, when he rejected all the nations of the earth beside. Of the tribe of Benjamin; of a noble tribe, as well as descended of an honourable people; a tribe which kept close to God, when other tribes revolted to the worship of Jeroboam's calves; a tribe honoured with the first of Israel's kings, namely Saul. An Hebrew of the Hebrews; i. e. born a Jew, both by father's and mother's side. As touching the law, a Pharisee; i. e. one of the strictest sects among the Jews for the profession of religion. Concerning zeal, persecuting the church; i. e. as touching zeal for the Jewish religion, I have shewed that above others in my furious persecution of the church of Christ. As touching the righteousness which is of the law, i. e. as to my personal obedience to the law, I was blameless, without spot, as the original word signifies, i. e. in my own account, and in man's esteem.

17 Brethren, be followers together of me, and mark them which walk so, as ye have us for an ensample.

18 (For many walk, of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ:

19 Whose end is destruction, whose god is their belly, and whose glory is in their shame, who mind earthly things.)

20 For our conversation is in heaven; from whence also we look for the Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ:

21 Who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself.

CHAP. IV.

General exhortations.

THEREFORE, my brethren, dearly beloved and longed for, my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, my dearly beloved.

2 I beseech Euodias, and beseech Syntyche, that they be of the same mind in the Lord.

3 And I entreat thee also, true yoke-fellow, help those women which laboured with me in the gospel, with Clement also, and with other my fellow-labourers, whose names are in the book of life.

4 Rejoice in the Lord alway; and again I say, Rejoice.

5 Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand.

6 Be careful for nothing: but in every thing, by prayer and supplication, with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God.

7 And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.

8 Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.

9 Those things which ye have both learned, and received, and heard, and seen in me, do: and the God of peace shall be with you.

10 But I rejoiced in the Lord greatly, that now at the last your care of me hath flourished again; wherein ye were also careful; but ye lacked opportunity.

11 Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have learned, in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content.

12 I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound: every where, and in all things, I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need.

13 I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me.

14 Notwithstanding, ye have well done that ye did communicate with my affliction.

15 Now, ye Philippians, know also, that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church communicated with me, as concerning giving and receiving, but ye only.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 3. Whose names are in the book of life.] The names of good men are often represented as registered in heaven.

10, &c. I rejoiced in the Lord greatly, &c.] Our apostle acquaints the Philippians with what great joy he had received their charity sent to him; and that, as it came no sooner, he believed did not proceed from any disrespect towards him, but only from want either of ability or opportunity of sending to him; yet withal gives them to understand that he knew how to be abased.

14, 15, 16. Ye have well done, &c.] Though our apostle had declared, in the foregoing verses, that he had fully learned the lesson of contentment in all conditions, and could bear poverty and want without complaining; yet withal, he assures them here, that they did well in sending supplies to him in prison; thereby testifying, in their Christian commiseration, that they shared with him in his afflictions and sufferings for Christ. Not, says he, that I desire a gift; but I desire, that in such ways as may be meet for the honour of God, and the credit of your profession, fruits may abound to your comfortable account in the day of the Lord.

16 For even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my necessity.

17 Not because I desire a gift; but I desire fruit that may abound to your account.

18 But I have all, and abound: I am full, having received of Epaphroditus the things which were sent from you, an odour of a sweet smell, a sacrifice acceptable, well-pleasing to God.

19 But my God shall supply all your need, according to his riches in glory, by Christ Jesus.

20 Now, unto God and our Father be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

21 Salute every saint in Christ Jesus. The brethren which are with me greet you.

22 All the saints salute you, chiefly they that are of Cesar's household.

23 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

¶ It was written to the Philippians from Rome by Epaphroditus.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE COLOSSIANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

COLOSSE was a large populous city of Phrygia, in Asia Minor. Though St. Paul had not planted the Christian faith there in person, he was nevertheless concerned in the conversion of the Colossians, by sending other persons to them for that purpose. The grand design of this Epistle is, to excite the Colossians, by the most persuasive arguments, to a temper and behaviour worthy their sacred character, and to secure them from the influence and subtleties of the heathen philosophers, who endeavoured to seduce them from the purity of the Christian faith, and from the insinuations of some Jewish zealots, who insisted upon the necessity of conforming to the ceremonies of the Mosaic law.

CHAP. I.

Paul thanketh God for their faith.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, and Timotheus our brother,

2 To the saints and faithful brethren in Christ, which are at Colosse: Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We give thanks to God, and the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you;

4 Since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus, and of the love which ye have to all the saints;

5 For the hope which is laid up for you in heaven, whereof ye heard before in the word of the truth of the gospel:

6 Which is come unto you, as it is in all the world, and bringeth forth fruit, as it doth also in you, since the day ye heard of it, and knew the grace of God in truth.

7 As ye also learned of Epaphras our dear fellow servant, who is for you a faithful minister of Christ;

8 Who also declared unto us your love in the Spirit.

9 For this cause we also, since the day we heard it, do not cease to pray for you, and to desire that ye might be filled with the knowledge of his will, in all wisdom and spiritual understanding;

10 That ye might walk worthy of the Lord unto all pleasing, being fruitful in every good work, and increasing in the knowledge of God;

11 Strengthened with all might, according to his glorious power, unto all patience and long-suffering with joyfulness;

12 Giving thanks unto the Father, which hath made us meet to be partakers of the inheritance of the saints in light:

13 Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son:

14 In whom we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins.

15 Who is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of every creature:

16 For by him were all things created that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers: all things were created by him, and for him.

17 And he is before all things, and by him all things consist.

18 And he is the head of the body, the church; who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; that in all things he might have the pre-eminence.

19 For it pleased the Father, that in him should all fulness dwell;

20 And (having made peace through the blood of his cross) by him to reconcile all things unto himself; by him, I say, whether they be things in earth, or things in heaven.

21 And you that were some time alienated, and enemies in your mind by wicked works, yet now hath he reconciled,

22 In the body of his flesh through death, to present you holy, and unblameable, and unreprieveable in his sight;

23 If ye continue in the faith, grounded and settled, and be not moved away from the hope of the gospel, which ye have heard, and which was preached to every creature which is under heaven; whereof I Paul am made a minister:

24 Who now rejoice in my sufferings for you, and fill up that which is behind of the afflictions of Christ in my flesh, for his body's sake, which is the church;

25 Whereof I am made a minister, according to the dispensation of God, which is given to me for you, to fulfil the word of God;

26 Even

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 6. In all the world;] i. e. In all the provinces of the Roman empire.

13. Who hath delivered us, &c.] Namely, by bringing them out of that dark state of heathenism, sin, and misery, in which they lay, and translating them into a state of grace, called here the kingdom of God's dear Son.

15. Who is the image of the invisible God; &c.] The apostle describes the person of our Redeemer, in this and the following verses, in such lofty characters, as evidently bespeak him to be a divine person, truly and really God; and consequently the fittest person to undertake so great and glorious a work as the redemption of a perishing world.

16, 17. By him were all things created, &c.] He affirms Christ to be the first-born of every creature, namely, because by him were all things created, and by him all things consist. Now, if all things were created by him, surely he himself cannot be a creature. And thus the sense of the apostle's words run easy: Christ is the image of the invisible God, the heir and Lord of the whole creation; for by him all things were created.

18. The first-born, &c.] The first who ever rose to an endless life.
20. By him to reconcile all things—whether they be things in earth, &c.] The meaning is, the whole world of rational creatures being considered as the family of God, the government of this house of God is represented by the apostle as administered by his only-begotten Son.

ANNO-

26 Even the mystery which hath been hid from ages, and from generations, but now is made manifest to his saints;

27 To whom God would make known what is the riches of the glory of this mystery among the Gentiles; which is Christ in you, the hope of glory:

28 Whom we preach, warning every man, and teaching every man in all wisdom; that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus:

29 Whereunto I also labour, striving according to his working, which worketh in me mightily.

C H A P. II.

He exhorteth them to constancy in Christ.

FOR I would that ye knew what great conflict I have for you, and for them at Laodicea, and for as many as have not seen my face in the flesh;

2 That their hearts might be comforted, being knit together in love, and unto all riches of the full assurance of understanding, to the acknowledgment of the mystery of God, and of the Father, and of Christ;

3 In whom are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

4 And this I say, lest any man should beguile you with enticing words.

5 For though I be absent in the flesh, yet am I with you in the spirit, joying and beholding your order, and the stedfastness of your faith in Christ.

6 As ye have therefore received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk ye in him;

7 Rooted and built up in him, and stablished in the faith, as ye have been taught, abounding therein with thanksgiving.

8 Beware lest any man spoil you through philosophy, and vain deceit, after the tradition of men, after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ:

9 For in him dwelleth all the fulness of the Godhead bodily.

10 And ye are complete in him, which is the head of all principality and power:

11 In whom also ye are circumcised with the circumcision made without hands, in putting off the body of the sins of the flesh by the circumcision of Christ:

12 Buried with him in baptism, wherein also ye are risen with him through the faith of the operation of God, who hath raised him from the dead.

13 And you, being dead in your sins, and the uncircumcision of your flesh, hath he quickened together with him, having forgiven you all trespasses;

14 Blotting out the hand-writing of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross:

15 And, having spoiled principalities and powers, he made a shew of them openly, triumphing over them in it.

16 Let no man therefore judge you in meat or in drink, or in respect of a holy-day, or of the new-moon, or of the sabbath-days:

17 Which are a shadow of things to come; but the body is of Christ.

18 Let no man beguile you of your reward, in a voluntary humility, and worshipping of angels, intruding into those things which he hath not seen, vainly puffed up by his fleshly mind;

19 And not holding the head, from which all the body by joints and bands having nourishment ministered, and knit together, increaseth with the increase of God.

20 Wherefore, if ye be dead with Christ from the rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances,

21 (Touch not, taste not, handle not;

22 Which all are to perish with the using,) after the commandments and doctrines of men?

23 Which things have indeed a shew of wisdom in will-worship, and humility, and neglecting of the body; not in any honour to the satisfying of the flesh.

C H A P. III.

He exhorteth to mortification.

IF ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God.

2 Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth.

3 For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God.

4 When Christ who is our life shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory.

5 Mortify therefore your members which are upon the earth; fornication, uncleanness, inordinate affection, evil concupiscence, and covetousness, which is idolatry:

6 For which things' sake the wrath of God cometh on the children of disobedience.

7 In the which ye also walked some time, when ye lived in them.

8 But now ye also put off all these; anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth.

9 Lie not one to another, seeing that ye have put off the old man with his deeds;

10 And have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge, after the image of him that created him.

11 Where there is neither Greek nor Jew, circumcision nor uncircumcision, Barbarian, Scythian, bond nor free: but Christ is all, and in all.

12 Put on therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, bowels of mercies, kindness, humbleness of mind, meekness, long-suffering;

13 Forbearing one another, and forgiving one another, if any man have a quarrel against any: even as Christ forgave you, so also do ye.

14 And, above all these things, put on charity, which is the bond of perfectness.

15 And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body; and be ye thankful.

16 Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom; teaching and admonishing one another in psalms, and hymns, and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord.

17 And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him.

18 Wives, submit yourselves unto your own husbands, as it is fit in the Lord.

19 Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them.

20 Children, obey your parents in all things: for this is well-pleasing unto the Lord.

21 Fathers,

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 8. Beware lest any man spoil you, &c.] The heathen philosophers and wise men amused the Christians with their vain speculations; the Jewish teachers were for imposing upon them the Levitical rites, which he calls rudiments or elements, fitted for the infancy of the church; but these things were not now after Christ, i. e. not according to the doctrine of Christ.

9. All the fulness of the Godhead bodily, &c.] i. e. The fulness of divine power, the glory of the Father: bodily, i. e. visibly, as in the person of a man.

12. Buried with him in baptism, &c.] The ancients made use of divers ceremonies in baptizing adult and grown-up persons, thereby to represent the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ: immersion, or putting the person three times under water, either as our Saviour was under the earth three days, or in allusion to the three persons in the Trinity, in whose name we are baptized; and likewise emersion, their coming up out of the water, resembling our Lord's resurrection from the grave.

18. In a voluntary humility, and worshipping of angels, &c.] Our apostle next warns the Colossians against the practice of the paganizing

Christians, who were directed by their guides to worship angels, covering their error with a plausible shew of humility, pretending that it was presumptuous to go to God immediately, without the mediation of those excellent creatures.

19. Not holding the head;] i. e. Not keeping steadfast to Christ, the one Mediator, upon whom alone the whole church depends, as the members of a body on their union with the head.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 3. For ye are dead;] i. e. Dead to sin, dead to the world; therefore be not over eager in the pursuit of the things which are below.

4. When Christ who is our life shall appear, &c.] When Christ, who is the author, purchaser, and preserver of our life, shall appear to judge the world at the great day, then shall all believers, who have received spiritual life from him, be sharers in glory with him.

14. Above all these things, put on charity, &c.] His meaning is, Clothe yourselves with all moral and Christian virtues; make them the habit of your minds, the constant character by which ye may be known and distinguished from men of different principles.

21. Fathers.

21 Fathers, provoke not your children to anger, lest they be discouraged :

22 Servants, obey in all things your masters according to the flesh ; not with eye-service, as men-pleasers, but in singleness of heart, fearing God :

23 And whatsoever ye do, do it heartily, as to the Lord, and not unto men ;

24 Knowing that of the Lord ye shall receive the reward of the inheritance : for ye serve the Lord Christ .

25 But he that doeth wrong shall receive for the wrong which he hath done : and there is no respect of persons.

C H A P. IV.

He exhorteth to be fervent in prayer.

MASTERS, give unto your servants that which is just and equal, knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven.

2 Continue in prayer, and watch in the same with thanksgiving ;

3 Withal, praying also for us, that God would open unto us a door of utterance, to speak the mystery of Christ, for which I am also in bonds ;

4 That I may make it manifest, as I ought to speak.

5 Walk in wisdom toward them that are without, redeeming the time.

6 Let your speech be alway with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man.

7 All my state shall Tychicus declare unto you, who is a beloved brother, and a faithful minister, and fellow-servant in the Lord.

8 Whom I have sent unto you for the same purpose, that he might know your estate, and comfort your hearts.

9 With Onesimus, a faithful and beloved brother, who is one of you. They shall make known unto you all things which are done here.

10 Aristarchus my fellow-prisoner saluteth you, and Marcus, sister's son to Barnabas, (touching whom ye received commandments ; if he come unto you, receive him ;)

11 And Jesus, which is called Justus, who are of the circumcision. These only are my fellow-workers unto the kingdom of God, which have been a comfort unto me.

12 Epaphras, who is one of you, a servant of Christ, saluteth you, always labouring fervently for you in prayers, that ye may stand perfect and complete in all the will of God.

13 For I bear him record, that he hath a great zeal for you, and them that are in Laodicea, and them in Hierapolis.

14 Luke the beloved physician, and Demas, greet you.

15 Salute the brethren which are in Laodicea, and Nymphas, and the church which is in his house.

16 And when this epistle is read among you, cause that it be read also in the church of the Laodiceans ; and that ye likewise read the epistle from Laodicea.

17 And say to Archippus, Take heed to the ministry which thou hast received in the Lord, that thou fulfil it.

18 The salutation by the hand of me Paul. Remember my bonds. Grace be with you. Amen.

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE THESSALONIANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Epistle is addressed to the inhabitants of Thessalonica, a large populous city, the metropolis of Macedonia. It appears from the history of the Acts, chap. 17. 1. that the Christian religion was planted here by St. Paul and Silas, soon after they had left Philippi. The apostle's design in this Epistle is, in general, to confirm the Thessalonians in their adherence to the Christian faith, and to engage them, from the sufferings they had already endured in that cause, and the extraordinary character they had hitherto maintained, to make still greater advances in religion, and become yet more eminent in every branch of the Christian temper.

C H A P. I.

Paul's thanksgiving and prayers for the Thessalonians.

PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Thessalonians, which is in God the Father, and in the Lord Jesus Christ : Grace be unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 We give thanks to God always for you all, making mention of you in our prayers,

3 Remembering without ceasing your work of faith, and labour of love, and patience of hope, in our Lord Jesus Christ, in the sight of God and our Father :

4 Knowing, brethren beloved, your election of God.

5 For our gospel came not unto you in word only, but also in power, and in the Holy Ghost, and in much assurance ; as ye know what manner of men we were among you for your sake.

6 And ye became followers of us and of the Lord, having received the word in much affliction, with joy of the Holy Ghost :

7 So that ye were ensamples to all that believe in Macedonia and Achaia.

8 For from you sounded out the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also in every place your faith to God-ward is spread abroad ; so that we need not to speak any thing.

9 For they themselves shew of us what manner of entering in we had unto you, and how ye turned to God from idols to serve the living and true God ;

10 And to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, even Jesus, which delivered us from the wrath to come.

C H A P.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 2. We give thanks to God always, &c.] The great wisdom of our apostle is here remarkable ; for being about to magnify and extol the graces of the Spirit wrought in the Thessalonians, particularly their faith, their love, their patience, their hope ; instead of commending them for these graces, he breaks forth into thanksgiving to God for them. His business was not to commend them, but to ascribe the especial grace of God conferred upon them, and which shone in them with such distinguished lustre.

10. To wait for his Son from heaven, &c.] i. e. By faith they expected that Christ, whom the apostles had preached to them, and who was gone to heaven, would certainly come again from thence, to deliver his redeemed ones from the wrath to come.

ANNO.

C H A P. II.

How the gospel was preached unto them, and how they received it.

FOR yourselves, brethren, know our entrance in unto you, that it was not in vain.

2 But even after that we had suffered before, and were shamefully entreated, as ye know, at Philippi, we were bold in our God to speak unto you the gospel of God with much contention.

3 For our exhortation was not of deceit, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile:

4 But as we were allowed of God to be put in trust with the gospel, even so we speak, not as pleasing men, but God, which trieth our hearts.

5 For neither at any time used we flattering words, as ye know, nor a cloke of covetousness; God is witness.

6 Nor of men sought we glory, neither of you, nor yet of others, when we might have been burdensome, as the apostles of Christ.

7 But we were gentle among you, even as a nurse cherisheth her children.

8 So, being affectionately desirous of you, we were willing to have imparted unto you, not the gospel of God only, but also our own souls, because ye were dear unto us.

9 For ye remember, brethren, our labour and travail; for labouring night and day, because we would not be chargeable unto any of you, we preached unto you the gospel of God.

10 Ye are witnesses, and God also, how holily, and justly, and unblameably, we behaved ourselves among you that believe:

11 As ye know how we exhorted, and comforted, and charged, every one of you, (as a father doth his children,)

12 That ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory.

13 For this cause also thank we God without ceasing, because, when ye received the word of God which ye heard of us, ye received it not as the word of men, but (as it is in truth) the word of God, which effectually worketh also in you that believe.

14 For ye, brethren, became followers of the churches of God, which in Judea are in Christ Jesus: for ye also have suffered like things of your own countrymen, even as they have of the Jews;

15 Who both killed the Lord Jesus, and their own prophets, and have persecuted us; and they please not God, and are contrary to all men:

16 Forbidding us to speak to the Gentiles, that they might be saved, to fill up their sins alway; for the wrath is come upon them to the uttermost.

17 But we, brethren, being taken from you for a short time in presence, not in heart, endeavoured the more abundantly to see your face with great desire.

18 Wherefore we would have come unto you (even I Paul) once and again; but Satan hindered us.

19 For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?

20 For ye are our glory and joy.

C H A P. III.

Paul sendeth to Timothy.

WHEREFORE, when we could no longer forbear, we thought it good to be left at Athens alone,

2 And sent Timotheus our brother, and minister of God, and our fellow-labourer in the gospel of Christ, to establish you, and to comfort you concerning your faith;

3 That no man should be moved by these afflictions: for yourselves know that we are appointed thereunto.

4 For, verily, when we were with you, we told you before, that we should suffer tribulation; even as it came to pass, and ye know.

5 For this cause, when I could no longer forbear, I sent to know your faith, lest by some means the tempter have tempted you, and our labour be in vain.

6 But now, when Timotheus came from you unto us, and brought us good tidings of your faith and charity, and that ye have good remembrance of us always, desiring greatly to see us, as we also to see you:

7 Therefore, brethren, we were comforted over you in all our affliction and distress by your faith:

8 For now we live, if ye stand fast in the Lord.

9 For what thanks can we render to God again for you, for all the joy wherewith we joy for your sakes before our God;

10 Night and day praying exceedingly that we might see your face, and might perfect that which is lacking in your faith?

11 Now, God himself and our Father, and our Lord Jesus Christ, direct our way unto you.

12 And the Lord make you to increase and abound in love one toward another, and toward all men, even as we do toward you:

13 To the end he may stablish your hearts unblameable in holiness before God, even our Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ with all his saints.

C H A P. IV.

An exhortation to godliness.

FURTHERMORE then, we beseech you, brethren, and exhort you by the Lord Jesus, that as ye have received of us how ye ought to walk and to please God, so ye would abound more and more.

2 For ye know what commandments we gave you by the Lord Jesus.

3 For this is the will of God, even your sanctification, that ye should abstain from fornication:

4 That every one of you should know how to possess his vessel in sanctification and honour.

5 Not in the lust of concupiscence, even as the Gentiles which know not God:

6 That no man go beyond and defraud his brother in any matter: because that the Lord is the avenger of all such, as we also have forewarned you, and testified.

7 For God hath not called us unto uncleanness, but unto holiness.

8 He therefore that despiseth, despiseth not man, but God, who hath also given unto us his Holy Spirit.

9 But as touching brotherly love, ye need not that I write unto you; for ye yourselves are taught of God to love one another.

10 And indeed ye do it toward all the brethren which are in all Macedonia: but we beseech you, brethren, that ye increase more and more;

11 And that ye study to be quiet, and to do your own business, and to work with your own hands, as we commanded you;

12 That ye may walk honestly toward them that are without, and that ye may have lack of nothing.

13 But I would not have you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them which are asleep, that ye sorrow not, even as others which have no hope.

14 For if we believe that Jesus died, and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him.

15 For

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 5. Neither at any time used we flattering words, &c.] i. e. Speeches fitted to gratify the lusts and humours of men, or for gaining their favour, or courting their good opinion.

9. Our labour and travail, &c.] Here he tells the Thessalonians he laboured night and day in the business of his calling; making tents to maintain himself, that so he might not be chargeable or burdensome to any of them, or by any means retard and hinder the success of the gospel amongst them.

19. What is our hope, or joy, or crown? &c.] We may observe a very remarkable gradation in these words; he calls them his hope, his joy, and his crown of rejoicing.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 3. That no man should be moved, &c.] That no man should be discouraged from his adherence to the Christian profession and hope by the severity of these afflictions with which we are surrounded.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 3, 4, 5. That ye should abstain from fornication, &c.] Christians should be holy, chaste, and clean; not indulging themselves in those impure and filthy lusts of the flesh, fornication and all manner of uncleanness, which the Gentiles, who knew not the true God, were addicted to, and guilty of, in a most beastly manner; but that every one should know how to possess and make use of his body, and all its members, as the instruments of the soul, in holiness and honour.

15 For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, That we which are alive, and remain unto the coming of the Lord, shall not prevent them which are asleep.

16 For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall rise first:

17 Then we which are alive, and remain, shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord.

18 Wherefore comfort one another with these words.

C H A P. V.

Paul sheweth Christ's second coming to judgment.

BUT of the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that I write unto you.

2 For yourselves know perfectly, that the day of the Lord so cometh as a thief in the night.

3 For when they shall say, Peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh upon them, as travail upon a woman with child; and they shall not escape.

4 But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief:

5 Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of the night, nor of darkness.

6 Therefore let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober.

7 For they that sleep, sleep in the night; and they that be drunken, are drunken in the night.

8 But let us who are of the day be sober, putting on the breast-plate of faith and love, and for an helmet the hope of salvation.

9 For God hath not appointed us to wrath; but to obtain salvation by our Lord Jesus Christ,

10 Who died for us, that, whether we wake or sleep, we should live together with him.

15. This we say unto you by the word of the Lord, &c.] In this verse the apostle obviates an objection. Some might say, that the saints found alive at the day of judgment might be sooner happy than the dead saints: No, says the apostle; they that are alive shall not prevent them that are asleep: they shall not prevent their rising, nor shall they get to heaven before them, or have any advantage above them; the living saints shall not be made happy without them, nor one moment before them.

16. The Lord himself shall descend, from heaven with a shout, &c.] With a triumphant shout, raised by millions of happy attendant spirits. His appearance shall be proclaimed with the voice of the archangel, even with the trump of God; and the dead in Christ shall all, in a moment, be awakened by it, and shall rise out of their graves in the first place, springing forth in forms of glory, to the infinite astonishment of the surviving world.

17. We which are alive and remain;] i. e. Those of us Christians. St. Paul did not expect to be found alive at the day of judgment, as 11 Wherefore, comfort yourselves together, and edify one another, even as also ye do.

12 And we beseech you, brethren, to know them which labour among you, and are over you in the Lord, and admonish you;

13 And to esteem them very highly in love for their work's sake. And be at peace among yourselves.

14 Now we exhort you, brethren, warn them that are unruly, comfort the feeble-minded, support the weak, be patient toward all men.

15 See that none render evil for evil unto any man; but ever follow that which is good, both among yourselves, and to all mén.

16 Rejoice evermore.

17 Pray without ceasing.

18 In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you.

19 Quench not the Spirit.

20 Despise not prophesyings.

21 Prove all things: hold fast that which is good.

22 Abstain from all appearance of evil.

23 And the very God of peace sanctify you wholly; and I pray God your whole spirit, and soul, and body, be preserved blameless unto the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.

24 Faithful is he that calleth you, who also will do it.

25 Brethren, pray for us.

26 Greet all the brethren with an holy kiss.

27 I charge you by the Lord, that this epistle be read unto all the holy brethren.

28 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. Amen.

some have interpreted this passage; for in several other places he expresses his expectation of death.

18. Comfort one another with these words, &c.] i. e. Draw matter of consolation to yourselves, from the foregoing considerations, against the loss of your deceased friends.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 2. As a thief in the night.] Mr. Blackwall justly observes the remarkable emphasis of this passage. A thief comes upon people when they are bound in sleep, and they awake in amazement and confusion, being unarmed and in an helpless posture.

16. Rejoice evermore;] i. e. We must carry ourselves so holily towards God, and so circumspectly and unblameably before men, that we may always have cause for rejoicing.

17. Pray without ceasing;] i. e. Prayer must be our morning and evening sacrifice; so that beginning and ending the day with it, we may be said to do it always. So the burnt-offering presented every morning and evening was called perpetual.

The Second Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO THE THESSALONIANS.

THE ARGUMENT.

IT is generally thought that St. Paul wrote this Epistle while he continued at Corinth, and not long after the former, Timothy and Silas being mentioned as attending him in both. The general design of it is, to confirm the Thessalonians in their Christian profession, and to comfort them under the sufferings to which they were exposed.

C H A P. I.

Paul sheweth his good opinion of their faith, love, and patience.

PAUL, and Silvanus, and Timotheus, unto the church of the Thessalonians, in God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2 Grace unto you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

3 We are bound to thank God always for you, brethren, as it is meet, because that your faith groweth exceedingly, and the charity of every one of you all toward each other aboundeth;

4 So that we ourselves glory in you in the churches of God, for your patience and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations that ye endure;

5 Which is a manifest token of the righteous judgment of God, that ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God, for which ye also suffer.

6 Seeing it is a righteous thing with God to recompense tribulation to them that trouble you;

7 And

7 And to you who are troubled, rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels,

8 In flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ:

9 Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power:

10 When he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe, (because our testimony among you was believed,) in that day.

11 Wherefore also we pray always for you, that our God would count you worthy of this calling, and fulfil all the good pleasure of his goodness, and the work of faith with power:

12 That the name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in him, according to the grace of our God, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

C H A P. II.

He willeth them to continue stedfast in the truth received.

NOW, we beseech you, brethren, by the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, and by our gathering together unto him,

2 That ye be not soon shaken in mind, or be troubled, neither by spirit, nor by word, nor by letter, as from us, as that the day of Christ is at hand.

3 Let no man deceive you by any means: for that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first, and that man of sin be revealed, the son of perdition:

4 Who opposeth and exalteth himself above all that is called God, or that is worshipped; so that he, as God, sitteth in the temple of God, shewing himself that he is God.

5 Remember ye not, that when I was yet with you, I told you these things?

6 And now ye know what withholdeth, that he might be revealed in his time.

7 For the mystery of iniquity doth already work: only he who now letteth will let, until he be taken out of the way.

8 And then shall that Wicked be revealed, whom the Lord shall consume with the spirit of his mouth, and shall destroy with the brightness of his coming:

9 Even him, whose coming is after the working of Satan, with all power, and signs, and lying wonders;

10 And with all deceivableness of unrighteousness in them that perish; because they received not the love of the truth, that they might be saved.

11 And for this cause God shall send them strong delusion, that they should believe a lie;

12 That they all might be damned who believed not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

13 But we are bound to give thanks alway to God for you, brethren, beloved of the Lord, because God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation, through sanctification of the Spirit, and belief of the truth;

14 Whereunto he called you by our gospel, to the obtaining of the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

15 Therefore, brethren, stand fast, and hold the traditions which ye have been taught, whether by word, or our epistle.

16 Now our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God, even our Father, which hath loved us, and hath given us everlasting consolation, and good hope through grace, 17 Comfort your hearts, and stablish you in every good word and work.

C H A P. III.

Paul giveth them divers precepts.

FINALLY, brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course, and be glorified, even as it is with you;

2 And that we may be delivered from unreasonable and wicked men: for all men have not faith.

3 But the Lord is faithful, who shall stablish you, and keep you from evil.

4 And we have confidence in the Lord touching you, that ye both do, and will do, the things which we command you.

5 And the Lord direct your hearts into the love of God, and into the patient waiting for Christ.

6 Now we command you, brethren, in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw yourselves from every brother that walketh disorderly, and not after the tradition which he received of us.

7 For yourselves know how ye ought to follow us: for we behaved not ourselves disorderly among you.

8 Neither did we eat any man's bread for nought; but wrought with labour and travail night and day, that we might not be chargeable to any of you:

9 Not because we have not power, but to make ourselves an ensample unto you to follow us.

10 For even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat.

11 For we hear that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not at all, but are busy-bodies.

12 Now them that are such we command, and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread.

13 But ye, brethren, be not weary in well doing.

14 And if any man obey not our word by this epistle, note that man, and have no company with him, that he may be ashamed.

15 Yet count him not as an enemy, but admonish him as a brother.

16 Now, the Lord of peace himself give you peace always, by all means. The Lord be with you all.

17 The salutation of Paul with mine own hand, which is the token in every epistle: so I write.

18 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

¶ The second epistle to the Thessalonians was written from Athens.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 9. Who shall be punished with everlasting destruction, &c.] Here we are to observe the tremendous dreadfulness of that wrath and vengeance, which, at the great day, will be inflicted on the ignorant and disobedient part of mankind. To denote the greatness of it, it is called destruction: not as if it were an abolishing of their nature, and utter extinction of their being, as the destruction of beasts is, but a loss of their happiness and well-being, as the destruction of the fallen angels was; and to set forth the duration of it, it is called everlasting destruction, a dying life, and a living death.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 4. Exalteth himself above all that is called God, &c.] i. e. Above all magistracy, authority, or dominion, that God ever instituted; disposing arbitrarily of kingdoms; absolving subjects from their allegiance, from all obligation to obey the laws of their country; and causing kings and people, even whole nations, to be massacred by secret plots or open violence. This, according to Dr. Samuel Clarke, is a very strong and very striking description of the Pope.

7. He who now letteth will let.] Dr. Geddes very properly explains this of the Roman emperor, who would not suffer ecclesiastical power to grow to such an exorbitant height: and many authors of great note agree in saying, that Antichrist was not to appear till after the fall of the Roman empire.

9. After the working of Satan, &c.] An account is here given how Antichrist acquires and keeps up his power in the world. The great and first instrument is Satan: After the working of Satan, is as much as by the work of Satan; denoting not only his pattern, but his influence: the devil has a great sway over wicked men in the world; his way of dealing with them is most efficacious and powerful; he is certainly the first founder and main supporter of the antichristian state.

Power, and signs, and lying wonders, &c.] It is most natural to refer all this to the fictitious miracles of the church of Rome; which have grown up to such a degree of extravagance and effrontery, as to make even their popes ashamed.

10. With all deceivableness of unrighteousness, &c.] i. e. There shall arise persons that shall have all possible marks and notes of the true church of Christ, excepting that alone without which all other marks are nothing, namely, the uncorrupt worship of the one true God of the universe, and the real practice of universal equity and goodness towards men.

11. Strong delusion, &c.] i. e. That should entertain incredible absurdities; namely, those most ridiculous popish legends, which have gained such credit as to be admitted into their public offices, and furnish out a most affecting comment on these words.

The

The First Epistle of PAUL the Apostle TO TIMOTHY.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Epistle seems principally intended to direct Timothy in managing the affairs of the church, while he abode at Ephesus; and particularly to instruct him in choosing proper persons to be employed in the ministry. Another part of the apostle's design was to caution this young evangelist against the influence of those Judaizing teachers, who, by their subtle distinctions, and endless controversies, had corrupted the purity and simplicity of the gospel. His father was a Greek; but his mother, whose name was Eunice, was a Jewess. He was ordained when he was very young, probably about twenty; and afterwards we find he often attended the apostle in his travels, and assisted him in preaching the gospel.

C H A P. I.

Paul's calling to be an apostle.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the commandment of God our Saviour, and Lord Jesus Christ, which is our hope;

2 Unto Timothy, my own son in the faith: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God our Father, and Jesus Christ our Lord.

3 As I besought thee to abide still at Ephesus, when I went into Macedonia, that thou mightest charge some that they teach no other doctrine,

4 Neither give heed to fables, and endless genealogies, which minister questions rather than godly edifying, which is in faith; so do.

5 Now the end of the commandment is charity, out of a pure heart, and of a good conscience, and of faith unfeigned:

6 From which some having swerved, have turned aside unto vain jangling;

7 Desiring to be teachers of the law; understanding neither what they say, nor whereof they affirm.

8 But we know that the law is good, if a man use it lawfully.

9 Knowing this, that the law is not made for a righteous man, but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and for sinners, for unholy and profane, for murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for man-slayers,

10 For whoremongers, for them that defile themselves with mankind, for men-stealers, for liars, for perjured persons, and if there be any other thing that is contrary to sound doctrine;

11 According to the glorious gospel of the blessed God, which was committed to my trust:

12 And I thank Christ Jesus our Lord, who hath enabled me, for that he counted me faithful, putting me into the ministry;

13 Who was before a blasphemer, and a persecutor, and injurious. But I obtained mercy, because I did it ignorantly, in unbelief:

14 And the grace of our Lord was exceeding abundant, with faith and love, which is in Christ Jesus.

15 This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners; of whom I am chief,

16 Howbeit, for this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Jesus Christ might shew forth all long-suffering, for a pattern to them which should hereafter believe on him to life everlasting.

17 Now, unto the King eternal, immortal, invisible, the only wise God, be honour and glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

18 This charge I commit unto thee, son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war a good warfare;

19 Holding faith and a good conscience; which some having put away, concerning faith have made shipwreck.

20 Of whom is Hymeneus and Alexander; whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme.

C H A P. II.

That it is meet to pray and give thanks for all men, and the reason why.

I EXHORT therefore, that, first of all, supplications, prayers, intercessions, and giving of thanks, be made for all men;

2 For kings, and for all that are in authority, that we may lead a quiet and peaceable life, in all godliness and honesty.

3 For this is good and acceptable in the sight of God our Saviour;

4 Who will have all men to be saved, and to come unto the knowledge of the truth.

5 For there is one God, and one mediator between God and men, the man Christ Jesus;

6 Who gave himself a ransom for all, to be testified in due time.

7 Whereunto I am ordained a preacher, and an apostle, (I speak the truth in Christ, and lie not,) a teacher of the Gentiles in faith and verity.

8 I will therefore that men pray every where, lifting up holy hands, without wrath and doubting.

9 In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel, with shamefacedness and sobriety; not with broidered hair, or gold, or pearls, or costly array;

10 But (which becometh women professing godliness) with good works.

11 Let the woman learn in silence, with all subjection.

12 But I suffer not a woman to teach, nor to usurp authority over the man, but to be in silence.

13 For Adam was first formed, then Eve.

14 And Adam was not deceived, but the woman, being deceived, was in the transgression.

15 Notwithstanding, she shall be saved in child-bearing, if they continue in faith, and charity, and holiness, with sobriety.

C H A P.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 2. My own son.] He calls him his own son, chiefly to express the paternal affection he had for him, and the complacency he found in that assistance he had received from him in the work of the ministry, and in the filial reverence and affection which this excellent young minister expressed to him.

5. Charity] The Greek word should be rendered love, i. e. universal love towards mankind.

16. For this cause I obtained mercy, &c.] God is pleased sometimes to magnify his mercy in the conversion and salvation of the most notorious sinners, that so the greatest may take encouragement from thence to hope and trust in our Lord Jesus Christ for pardon and mercy. Thus here, the great blasphemer and persecutor was received to mercy, for an example to all such sinners as should hereafter forsake their evil ways, and give themselves up sincerely to the obedience of the gospel.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 5. There is one God, and one mediator, &c.] His argument runs: We ought to pray for all; as one Mediator between God and mankind, who took upon him the common nature of all men, gave himself a satisfactory and sufficient ransom for all.

15. She shall be saved in child-bearing.] Though the woman was so unhappy as to be first deceived by the serpent, and the instrument of enticing

C H A P. III.

How bishops, deacons, and their wives, should be qualified.

THIS is a true saying, If a man desire the office of a bishop, he desireth a good work.

2 A bishop then must be blameless, the husband of one wife, vigilant, sober, of good behaviour, given to hospitality, apt to teach;

3 Not given to wine, no striker, not greedy of filthy lucre, but patient, not a brawler, not covetous;

4 One that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity;

5 (For if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?)

6 Not a novice, lest, being lifted up with pride, he fall into the condemnation of the devil.

7 Moreover, he must have a good report of them which are without; lest he fall into reproach, and the snare of the devil.

8 Likewise must the deacons be grave, not double-tongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre;

9 Holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience.

10 And let these also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon, being found blameless.

11 Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things.

12 Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, ruling their children and their own houses well.

13 For they that have used the office of a deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus.

14 These things write I unto thee, hoping to come unto thee shortly:

15 But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how thou oughtest to behave thyself in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth.

16 And, without controversy, great is the mystery of godliness: God was manifest in the flesh, justified in the Spirit, seen of angels, preached unto the Gentiles, believed on in the world, received up into glory.

C H A P. IV.

He foretelleth that in the latter times there shall be a departure from the faith.

NOW the Spirit speaketh expressly, that in the latter times some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils;

2 Speaking lies in hypocrisy, having their conscience seared with a hot iron;

3 Forbidding to marry, and commanding to abstain from meats, which God hath created to be received with thanksgiving of them which believe and know the truth.

4 For every creature of God is good, and nothing to be refused, if it be received with thanksgiving:

5 For it is sanctified by the word of God and prayer.

6 If thou put the brethren in remembrance of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Jesus Christ, nourished up in the words of faith and of good doctrine, whereunto thou hast attained.

7 But refuse profane and old wives' fables, and exercise thyself rather unto godliness.

8 For bodily exercise profiteth little; but godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come.

9 This is a faithful saying, and worthy of all acceptation.

10 For therefore we both labour, and suffer reproach, because we trust in the living God, who is the Saviour of all men, specially of those that believe.

ticing her husband to do the like, yet through the gracious interposition of the Mediator, afterwards born of a woman, she hath no reason to despair, either of a temporal salvation from the peril and danger of childbirth, much less of an eternal salvation; for she shall be saved: i. e. she stands upon an equal footing with the man as to eternal salvation, who cannot be saved without faith and holiness, and a proper discharge of the duties incumbent on him.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 2. Given to hospitality.] As there were very few houses of public entertainment in the eastern countries, hospitality was a virtue more peculiarly seasonable and necessary than among us; that is, so far as related to the accommodation of entire strangers on their travels.

11 These things command and teach.

12 Let no men despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity.

13 Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine.

14 Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery.

15 Meditate upon these things, give thyself wholly to them; that thy profiting may appear to all.

16 Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself and them that hear thee.

C H A P. V.

Rules to be observed in reproof.

REBUKE not an elder, but entreat him as a father, and the younger men as brethren;

2 The elder women as mothers, the younger as sisters, with all purity.

3 Honour widows, that are widows indeed.

4 But if any widow have children or nephews, let them learn first to shew piety at home, and to requite their parents: for that is good and acceptable before God.

5 Now she that is a widow indeed, and desolate, trusteth in God, and continueth in supplications and prayers night and day.

6 But she that liveth in pleasure is dead while she liveth.

7 And these things give in charge, that they may be blameless.

8 But if any provide not for his own, and specially for those of his own house, he hath denied the faith, and is worse than an infidel.

9 Let not a widow be taken into the number under threescore years old, having been the wife of one man;

10 Well reported of for good works; if she have brought up children, if she have lodged strangers, if she have washed the saints' feet, if she have relieved the afflicted, if she have diligently followed every good work.

11 But the younger widows refuse: for when they have begun to wax wanton against Christ, they will marry;

12 Having damnation, because they have cast off their first faith.

13 And withal they learn to be idle, wandering about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also, and busy-bodies, speaking things which they ought not.

14 I will therefore that the younger women marry, bear children, guide the house, give none occasion to the adversary to speak reproachfully.

15 For some are already turned aside after Satan.

16 If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged; that it may relieve them that are widows indeed.

17 Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honour, especially they who labour in the word and doctrine.

18 For the scripture saith, Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn; and, The labourer is worthy of his reward.

19 Against an elder receive not an accusation, but before two or three witnesses.

20 Them that sin rebuke before all, that others also may fear.

21 I charge thee before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, and the elect angels, that thou observe these things, without preferring one before another, doing nothing by partiality.

22 Lay

16. Great is the mystery of godliness.] Dr. Samuel Clarke reads, Great is the mystery of God, manifest in the flesh, seen of angels: seen, not in the literal sense, for that was no mystery; but understood, apprehended, made plain to the angels; who were before, in that sense, desirous to look into it.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 22. Lay hands suddenly on no man.] i. e. Ordain no person precipitately: neither be partaker of other men's sins, by ordaining unworthy men.

24. Some men's sins are open beforehand, &c.] i. e. They are so notorious to the eye of the world, that they may without scruple be condemned.

22 Lay hands suddenly on no man, neither be partaker of other men's sins: keep thyself pure.

23 Drink no longer water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake, and thine often infirmities.

24 Some men's sins are open beforehand, going before to judgment; and some men they follow after.

25 Likewise also the good works of some are manifest beforehand; and they that are otherwise cannot be hid.

CHAP. VI.

The gain of godliness.

LET as many servants as are under the yoke count their own masters worthy of all honour, that the name of God and his doctrine be not blasphemed.

2 And they that have believing masters, let them not despise them, because they are brethren: but rather do them service, because they are faithful and beloved, partakers of the benefit. These things teach and exhort.

3 If any man teach otherwise, and consent not to wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the doctrine which is according to godliness,

4 He is proud, knowing nothing, but doting about questions and strifes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings,

5 Perverse disputings of men of corrupt minds, and destitute of the truth, supposing that gain is godliness: from such withdraw thyself.

6 But godliness with contentment is great gain.

7 For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out.

8 And having food and raiment, let us be therewith content.

9 But they that will be rich fall into temptation, and a snare, and into many foolish and hurtful lusts, which draw men in destruction and perdition.

10 For the love of money is the root of all evil; which

Some men they follow after.] The sins of others are secret, but will appear against them in judgment.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 6. Godliness with contentment is great gain, &c.] As if the apostle had said, Though these seducers are for making a gain of godliness, yet we know that godliness is great gain, especially with contentment.

17. Rich in this world.] Riches can only avail us in this world, while some coveted after, they have erred from the faith, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.

11 But thou, O man of God, flee these things; and follow after righteousness, godliness, faith, love, patience, meekness.

12 Fight the good fight of faith, lay hold on eternal life, whereunto thou art also called, and hast professed a good profession before many witnesses.

13 I give thee charge in the sight of God, who quickeneth all things, and before Christ Jesus, who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession,

14 That thou keep this commandment without spot, unrebukeable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ:

15 Which in his times he shall shew, who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of kings, and Lord of lords:

16 Who only hath immortality, dwelling in the light which no man can approach unto; whom no man hath seen, nor can see: to whom be honour and power everlasting. Amen.

17 Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not high-minded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy:

18 That they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate;

19 Laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life.

20 O Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy trust, avoiding profane and vain babblings, and oppositions of science falsely so called:

21 Which some professing, have erred concerning the faith. Grace be with thee. Amen.

¶ The first to Timothy was written from Laodicea, which is the chiefest city of Phrygia Pacatiana.

which greatly extenuates the value of them; for they can neither attend us into the other, nor at all influence our happiness there.

20. O Timothy, keep that which is committed to thy trust, &c.] Our apostle concludes this epistle to Timothy with a very pathetic exhortation to him, that he would maintain purity of doctrine, and preach that to his hearers, avoiding all idle speculations, which the heathen philosophers admired; despising, in the mean time, the plainness and simplicity of the gospel.

The Second Epistle of PAUL the Apostle

TO

THE ARGUMENT.

IT is generally agreed, that this epistle was dated from Rome, during the apostle's second confinement under Nero, and not long before his martyrdom. The design of St. Paul seems to be, to prepare Timothy for those sufferings to which he foresaw he would be exposed; to forewarn him of the fatal apostacy that was beginning to appear in the church; and, at the same time, to animate him, from his own example, and the great motives of Christianity, to the most vigorous and resolute discharge of every part of the ministerial office.

CHAP. I.

Paul's love to Timothy, and Timothy's faith.

PAUL, an apostle of Jesus Christ by the will of God, according to the promise of life which is in Christ Jesus,

2 To Timothy, my dearly beloved son: Grace, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord.

3 I thank God, whom I serve from my forefathers with pure conscience, that without ceasing I have remembrance of thee in my prayers night and day;

4 Greatly desiring to see thee, being mindful of thy tears, that I may be filled with joy:

5 When I call to remembrance the unfeigned faith that is in thee, which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice, and I am persuaded that in thee also.

6 Wherefore I put thee in remembrance, that thou stir up the gift of God which is in thee, by the putting on of my hands.

7 For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind.

8 Be not thou therefore ashamed of the testimony of our Lord, no of me his prisoner: but be thou partaker of the afflictions of the gospel, according to the power of God;

9 Who hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, ing, not according to our works, but according to his own purpose and grace, which was given us in Christ Jesus before the world began;

10 But is now made manifest by the appearing of our Saviour Jesus Christ, who hath abolished death, and hath brought life and immortality to light through the gospel:

11 Whereunto I am appointed a preacher, and an apostle, and a teacher of the Gentiles.

12 For the which cause I also suffer these things; nevertheless, I am not ashamed: for I know whom I have believed, and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day.

13 Hold fast the form of sound words, which thou hast heard of me, in faith and love which is in Christ Jesus.

14 That good thing which was committed unto thee, keep by the Holy Ghost which dwelleth in us.

15 This thou knowest, that all they which are in Asia be turned away from me; of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes.

16 The Lord give mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus; for he oft refreshed me, and was not ashamed of my chain.

17 But when he was in Rome, he sought me out very diligently, and found me.

18 The Lord grant unto him that he may find mercy of the Lord in that day. And in how many things he ministered unto me at Ephesus, thou knowest very well.

C H A P. II.

Timothy exhorted to constancy and perseverance.

THOU therefore, my son, be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus.

2 And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also.

3 Thou therefore endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ.

4 No man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life, that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier.

5 And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully.

6 The husbandman that laboureth must be first partaker of the fruits.

7 Consider what I say; and the Lord give thee understanding in all things.

8 Remember that Jesus Christ, of the seed of David, was raised from the dead, according to my gospel:

9 Wherein I suffer trouble as an evil-doer, even unto bonds; but the word of God is not bound.

10 Therefore I endure all things for the elect's sakes, that they may also obtain the salvation which is in Christ Jesus, with eternal glory.

11 It is a faithful saying, For if we be dead with him, we shall also live with him:

12 If we suffer, we shall also reign with him: if we deny him, he also will deny us:

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 3. Whom I serve from my forefathers, &c.] St. Paul had been calumniated by the Jews as an apostate from the religion of his forefathers; for which reason here, and frequently elsewhere, he declares the contrary.

7. God hath not given us the spirit of fear, &c.] Be not discouraged by persecution; for God hath not given us, his ministers, the spirit of fear, but of courage and fortitude. Perhaps the apostle added this under an apprehension, that the tender spirit of Timothy might have been somewhat terrified by the prospect of persecution.

9. Who hath saved us, &c.] As if the apostle had said, To fortify thee against the fear of those persecutions which may probably attend thee in the work of the gospel, consider, that the God whom thou servest in this employment, is he that hath saved us, and called us with an holy calling, first to Christianity, and then to the ministry.

13, 14. Hold fast the form of sound words, &c.] By a form of sound words, we are to understand the truths and doctrines of the gospel methodically disposed and digested, called, verse 14. that good thing which was committed unto thee, meaning the summary of the Christian doctrine, committed to his care and keeping.

15. All they which are in Asia, &c.] By all in Asia, we are to understand, very many, almost all, not every individual.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 1. Be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus;] i. e. Be faithful and diligent in preaching the gospel.

2. The things that thou hast heard of me, &c.] Timothy is here charged to take special care, that the doctrine of the gospel, and the precepts of holy living, which he had heard St. Paul deliver, in the presence of 13 If we believe not, yet he abideth faithful; he cannot deny himself.

14 Of these things put them in remembrance, charging them before the Lord, that they strive not about words to no profit, but to the subverting of the hearers.

15 Study to shew thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.

16 But shun profane and vain babblings; for they will increase unto more ungodliness.

17 And their word will eat as doth a canker: of whom is Hymeneus and Philetus;

18 Who concerning the truth have erred, saying, that the resurrection is past already; and overthrow the faith of some.

19 Nevertheless, the foundation of God standeth sure, having this seal, The Lord knoweth them that are his. And, Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity.

20 But in a great house there are not only vessels of gold, and of silver, but also of wood, and of earth; and some to honour, and some to dishonour.

21 If a man therefore purge himself from these, he shall be a vessel unto honour, sanctified and meet for the master's use, and prepared unto every good work.

22 Flee also youthful lusts: but follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart.

23 But foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes.

24 And the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient;

25 In meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth;

26 And that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, who are taken captive by him at his will.

C H A P. III.

The apostle commendeth the holy scriptures.

THIS know also, that in the last days perilous times shall come.

2 For men shall be lovers of their own selves, covetous, boasters, proud, blasphemers, disobedient to parents; unthankful, unholy,

3 Without natural affection, truce-breakers, false accusers, incontinent, fierce, despisers of those that are good,

4 Traitors, heady, high-minded, lovers of pleasures more than lovers of God;

5 Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away.

6 For of this sort are they which creep into houses, and lead captive silly women laden with sins, led away with divers lusts;

7 Ever learning, and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth.

8 Now

many witnesses, should be transmitted to men of great fidelity and ability, whom he was to ordain and empower to teach it to others.

15. Rightly dividing the word of truth:] i. e. Proper application must be made of the different parts of scripture, according to the different circumstances of the different persons. By one method, the ignorant are to be instructed; by another, the wicked and profane are to be reprov'd; by one part of scripture, the weak are to be confirmed; by another, the melancholy to be comforted; by a third, the erroneous to be undeceived.

19. The foundation of God standeth sure, &c.] i. e. His holy covenant standeth firm and sure, having a seal annexed to it, as usually contracts have, by which two parties oblige themselves to each other; which seal, on God's part, has this impression, 'The Lord knoweth them that are his:' and, on our part, is written, 'Let every one that nameth the name of Christ depart from iniquity.'

20, 21. In a great house there are not only vessels of gold, &c.] i. e. Has not the master a right to employ his servants in what station he pleases, more or less honourable, provided, in his final distribution, he deals equitably with each of them, in their several and respective degrees?

25. In meekness instructing those, &c.] The meaning is, we are to instruct them with meekness; lest peradventure, by our passion, we raise in them a just prejudice against us; when, by meek instruction, they might possibly have been brought to repentance, and to the acknowledgment of the truth.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 1. In the last days perilous times shall come.] As if our apostle had said, O my son Timothy, be not thou discouraged at the sects and schisms,

8 Now as Jannes and Jambres withstood Moses, so do these also resist the truth: men of corrupt minds, reprobate concerning the faith.

9 But they shall proceed no further; for their folly shall be manifest unto all men, as theirs also was.

10 But thou hast fully known my doctrine, manner of life, purpose, faith, long-suffering, charity, patience,

11 Persecutions, afflictions, which came unto me at Antioch, at Iconium, at Lystra; what persecutions I endured: but out of them all the Lord delivered me.

12 Yea, and all that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution.

13 But evil men and seducers shall wax worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived.

14 But continue thou in the things which thou hast learned and hast been assured of, knowing of whom thou hast learned them:

15 And that from a child thou hast known the holy scriptures, which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, through faith which is in Christ Jesus.

16 All scripture is given by inspiration of God, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness;

17 That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

C H A P. IV.

Paul exhorteth Timothy.

I CHARGE thee therefore before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom,

2 Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all long-suffering and doctrine.

3 For the time will come, when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears.

4 And they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables.

5 But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry.

6 For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand.

schisms, at the heresies and blasphemies, at the vice and impiety, which will be found in and amongst persons in the last days; for know, that perilous times shall come.

7. Ever learning, &c.] Always pretending to hear with great eagerness; but being turned about with every gale of doctrine, they never attain any fixed and steady principles.

12. All that will live godly—shall suffer persecution.] In some ages and countries, from the malice of unbelieving Jews and heathens; at other times, and in other places, from the bigotry of idolatrous and tyrannical Christians; and at all times, and in all places, even where Christianity shall be most universally professed, and when it might seem most to prosper, still men of truth and virtue should continually be ex-

7 I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith.

8 Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing.

9 Do thy diligence to come shortly unto me;

10 For Demas hath forsaken me, having loved this present world, and is departed unto Thessalonica; Crescens to Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia.

11 Only Luke is with me. Take Mark, and bring him with thee: for he is profitable to me for the ministry.

12 And Tychicus have I sent to Ephesus.

13 The cloak that I left at Troas with Carpus, when thou comest, bring with thee, and the books, but especially the parchments.

14 Alexander the coppersmith did me much evil; the Lord reward him according to his works.

15 Of whom be thou ware also; for he hath greatly withstood our words.

16 At my first answer no man stood with me, but all men forsook me: I pray God that it may not be laid to their charge.

17 Notwithstanding, the Lord stood with me, and strengthened me; that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the Gentiles might hear; and I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion.

18 And the Lord shall deliver me from every evil work, and will preserve me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

19 Salute Prisca and Aquila, and the household of Onesiphorus.

20 Erastus abode at Corinth: but Trophimus have I left at Miletum sick.

21 Do thy diligence to come before winter. Eubulus greeteth thee, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and all the brethren.

22 The Lord Jesus Christ be with thy spirit. Grace be with you. Amen.

posed to inconvenience and disadvantage of divers kinds, from the strong prejudices and manifold iniquities of a vicious and debauched world.

16, 17. Profitable for doctrine, for reproof, &c.] For doctrine, as containing all necessary truth; for reproof, as guarding men against all pernicious errors; for correction, as affording the strongest arguments to persuade sinners to amend; and for instruction in righteousness, as directing men in all virtuous practices. That the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished; that every Christian, particularly every preacher of the gospel, may therein find abundant instruction, both how to direct his own practice in the way of righteousness, and how to persuade others also to do the same.

The Epistle of PAUL

T O

T I T U S.

THE ARGUMENT.

ST. PAUL, having appointed Titus to take care of the church he had planted in Crete, in this epistle directs him on what principles he was to act, in the ordination of those Christian ministers who were to take the oversight of particular churches; representing them as persons, not only of a blameless but exemplary character, who should be eminent for their piety, and for every social and personal virtue, as well as thoroughly established in the Christian faith.

C H A P. I.

Of evil teachers.

PAUL, a servant of God, and an apostle of Jesus Christ, according to the faith of God's elect, and the acknowledging of the truth which is after godliness:

2 In hope of eternal life, which God, that cannot lie, promised before the world began:

3 But hath in due times manifested his word through preaching, which is committed unto me, according to the commandment of God our Saviour.

4 To

4 To Titus, mine own son after the common faith: Grace, mercy, and peace from God the Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ our Saviour.

5 For this cause left I thee in Crete, that thou shouldest set in order the things that are wanting, and ordain elders in every city, as I had appointed thee.

6 If any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children, not accused of riot, or unruly.

7 For a bishop must be blameless, as the steward of God; not self-willed, not soon angry, not given to wine, no striker, not given to filthy lucre;

8 But a lover of hospitality, a lover of good men, sober, just, holy, temperate;

9 Holding fast the faithful word, as he hath been taught, that he may be able by sound doctrine both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers.

10 For there are many unruly and vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision:

11 Whose mouths must be stopped; who subvert whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake.

12 One of themselves, even a prophet of their own, said, The Cretians are alway liars, evil beasts, slow bellies.

13 This witness is true: wherefore rebuke them sharply, that they may be sound in the faith;

14 Not giving heed to Jewish fables, and commandments of men, that turn from the truth.

15 Unto the pure all things are pure: but unto them that are defiled, and unbelieving, is nothing pure; but even their mind and conscience is defiled.

16 They profess that they know God, but in works they deny him; being abominable, and disobedient, and unto every good work reprobate.

CHAP. II.

Directions for life and doctrine.

BUT speak thou the things which become sound doctrine:

2 That the aged men be sober, grave, temperate, sound in faith, in charity, in patience:

3 The aged women likewise, that they be in behaviour as becometh holiness, not false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things:

4 That they may teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children,

5 To be discreet, chaste, keepers at home, good, obedient to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed.

6 Young men likewise exhort to be sober-minded.

7 In all things shewing thyself a pattern of good works; in doctrine shewing uncorruptness, gravity, sincerity,

8 Sound speech that cannot be condemned; that he that is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of you.

9 Exhort servants to be obedient unto their own masters, and to please them well in all things; not answering again;

10 Not purloining, but shewing all good fidelity; that they may adorn the doctrine of God our Saviour in all things.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 10. Unruly and vain talkers, &c.] A reason is here subjoined why Titus should take such special care to fill the church with able guides; namely, because a multitude of false teachers were dispersed abroad, and scattered up and down every where; particularly the Judaizing doctors, those of the circumcision, mentioned in Acts 15. who would make Christianity nothing more than a supplement to the law of Moses.

13. Rebuke them sharply.] With a cutting severity. The metaphor is taken from the art of a surgeon, who, as the wound is more dangerous or corrupt, makes the deeper incision.

16. They profess that they know God, but in works they deny him, &c.] Behold here the dismal character of many hypocritical persons in the Jewish church: they professed the knowledge of the true God, but in their lives and actions they denied him; and so became abominable both to God and man, disobedient to the law, and averse from every good work.

11 For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men;

12 Teaching us, that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world;

13 Looking for that blessed hope, and the glorious appearing of the great God, and our Saviour Jesus Christ:

14 Who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a peculiar people, zealous of good works.

15 These things speak and exhort, and rebuke with all authority. Let no man despise thee.

CHAP. III.

Titus directed what to teach, and what not.

PUT them in mind to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work,

2 To speak evil of no man, to be no brawlers, but gentle, shewing all meekness unto all men.

3 For we ourselves also were sometimes foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving divers lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful, and hating one another.

4 But after that the kindness and love of God our Saviour toward man appeared,

5 Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost;

6 Which he shed on us abundantly, through Jesus Christ our Saviour:

7 That being justified by his grace, we should be made heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

8 This is a faithful saying, and these things I will that thou affirm constantly, that they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works: these things are good and profitable unto men,

9 But avoid foolish questions, and genealogies, and contentions, and strivings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain.

10 A man that is an heretic, after the first and second admonition, reject:

11 Knowing that he that is such is subverted, and sinneth, being condemned of himself.

12 When I shall send Artemas unto thee, or Tychicus, be diligent to come unto me to Nicopolis: for I have determined there to winter.

13 Bring Zenas the lawyer, and Apollos, on their journey diligently, that nothing be wanting unto them.

14 And let ours also learn to maintain good works for necessary uses, that they be not unfruitful.

15 All that are with me salute thee. Greet them that love us in the faith. Grace be with you all. Amen.

¶ It was written to Titus, ordained the first bishop of the church of the Cretians, from Nicopolis of Macedonia.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 10. That they may adorn, &c.] To adorn the doctrine of God, is by our practice to cause it to appear lovely and beneficial to mankind, to shew how glorious it is in its effects, and how worthy to be embraced and practised by all men.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 8. That they which have believed in God might be careful to maintain good works.] The apostle seems here to intimate, that they who are justified by the faith of the gospel, should be so far from thinking themselves hereby excused from good works, that they ought, upon that account, to be the more careful to maintain and practise them; because, by the very profession of the Christian faith and religion, they have solemnly engaged themselves to do so.

The Epistle of PAUL TO PHILEMON.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS epistle was written on a private occasion. Onesimus, a servant of Philemon the Colossian, one of Paul's converts, had robbed his master, and fled to Rome, where Paul then was a prisoner at large; who providentially meeting with him, converted him to the Christian faith; after which, for some time, he ministered to the apostle, till he accidentally heard that he was Philemon's servant; upon which he sent him back to his master, with this recommendatory letter, earnestly desiring Philemon to pardon and receive him again into favour.

1 Of Philemon's faith and love:—8 he is entreated favourably to receive Onesimus.—23 Salutations, &c.

PAUL, a prisoner of Jesus Christ, and Timothy our brother, unto Philemon, our dearly-beloved, and fellow-labourer,

2 And to our beloved Apphia, and Archippus our fellow-soldier, and to the church in thy house:

3 Grace to you, and peace, from God our Father, and the Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I thank my God, making mention of thee always in my prayers,

5 Hearing of thy love and faith, which thou hast toward the Lord Jesus, and toward all saints;

6 That the communication of thy faith may become effectual, by the acknowledging of every good thing which is in you in Christ Jesus.

7 For we have great joy and consolation in thy love, because the bowels of the saints are refreshed by thee, brother.

8 Wherefore, though I might be much bold in Christ to enjoin thee that which is convenient,

9 Yet for love's sake I rather beseech thee, being such an one as Paul the aged, and now also a prisoner of Jesus Christ.

10 I beseech thee for my son Onesimus, whom I have begotten in my bonds:

11 Which in time past was to thee unprofitable, but now profitable to thee and to me:

12 Whom I have sent again: thou therefore receive him that is mine own bowels.

13 Whom I would have retained with me, that in thy stead he might have ministered unto me in the bonds of the gospel.

14 But without thy mind would I do nothing; that thy benefit should not be as it were of necessity, but willingly.

15 For perhaps he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever;

16 Not now as a servant, but above a servant, a brother beloved, specially to me, but how much more unto thee, both in the flesh, and in the Lord?

17 If thou count me therefore a partner, receive him as myself.

18 If he hath wronged thee, or oweth thee ought, put that on mine account.

19 I Paul have written it with mine own hand, I will repay it: albeit I do not say to thee how thou owest unto me even thine own self besides.

20 Yea, brother, let me have joy of thee in the Lord: refresh my bowels in the Lord.

21 Having confidence in thy obedience, I wrote unto thee, knowing that thou wilt also do more than I say.

22 But withal prepare me also a lodging: for I trust that through your prayers I shall be given unto you.

23 There salute thee Epaphras, my fellow-prisoner in Christ Jesus;

24 Marcus, Aristarchus, Demas, Lucas, my fellow-labourers.

25 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit. Amen.

¶ Written from Rome to Philemon, by Onesimus a servant.

ANNOTATIONS on the Epistle to PHILEMON.

Verse 9. Paul the aged.] The Greek word which is here used sometimes signifies an old man, and at another time an ambassador: now St. Paul could not properly call himself the aged, being, according to the most probable calculation, not more than fifty-two or fifty-three years of age; therefore, with the learned Dr. Bentley, we must certainly here read an ambassador. See Eph. 6. 20. and 2 Cor. 5. 20.

10. Whom I have begotten in my bonds.] St. Paul had converted Onesimus to the Christian faith when he was a prisoner; and therefore may be said to have begotten him to Christianity.

12. That is mine own bowels.] Whom I love with the greatest tenderness and affection.

15, 16. Perhaps he therefore departed for a season, that thou shouldest receive him for ever, &c.] The apostle seems to argue thus: If his departing from thee was so managed by the wise providence of God, that it might be an occasion for thy receiving him again for ever, then, notwithstanding his departure, thou oughtest to receive him: but verily thus it is, the wisdom of God has so over-ruled the matter: he went a fugitive from thee, thieving and purloining; but he returns a convert, a Christian, a brother in the faith; and as such is to be entertained by thee, being doubly related to thee, both as a servant, and as a fellow-member of Christ.

The Epistle of PAUL the Apostle

TO THE HEBREWS.

THE ARGUMENT.

IT is the general opinion, that St. Paul was the author of this epistle. The salutation or usual token was omitted, because it was probably written in his own hand, to persons well acquainted with his character. The Hebrew Christians, to whom it was directed, had fled from Judea into Asia, and were treated by the Romans as enemies, because Jews by birth, and their leaders were secured; which was a sufficient reason to induce the apostle to conceal his name. St. Paul's design in this epistle is, to confirm the Jewish Christians in the faith and practice of the gospel of Christ, which they might be in danger of deserting, either through the insinuation or ill treatment of their persecutors.

CHAP. I.

Christ, in these last times coming to us from the Father, is preferred above the angels, both in person and office.

GOD, who at sundry times, and in divers manners, spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets,

2 Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds.

3 Who being the brightness of his glory, and the express image of his person, and upholding all things by the word of his power, when he had by himself purged our sins, sat down on the right hand of the Majesty on high;

4 Being made so much better than the angels, as he hath by inheritance obtained a more excellent name than they.

5 For unto which of the angels said he at any time, Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee? and again, I will be to him a Father, and he shall be to me a Son?

6 And again, when he bringeth in the first-begotten into the world, he saith, And let all the angels of God worship him.

7 And of the angels he saith, Who maketh his angels spirits, and his ministers a flame of fire.

8 But unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever: a sceptre of righteousness is the sceptre of thy kingdom.

9 Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated iniquity: therefore God, even thy God, hath anointed thee with the oil of gladness above thy fellows.

10 And, Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid the foundation of the earth; and the heavens are the works of thine hands:

11 They shall perish, but thou remainest; and they all shall wax old as doth a garment;

12 And as a vesture shalt thou fold them up, and they shall be changed: but thou art the same, and thy years shall not fail.

13 But to which of the angels said he at any time, Sit on my right hand, until I make thine enemies thy footstool?

14 Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister for them who shall be heirs of salvation?

CHAP. II.

Obedience due to Christ.

THEREFORE we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things which we have heard, lest at any time we should let them slip.

2 For if the word spoken by angels was stedfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompence of reward,

3 How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation; which at the first began to be spoken by the Lord, and was confirmed unto us by them that heard him;

4 God also bearing them witness, both with signs, and wonders, and with divers miracles, and gifts of the Holy Ghost, according to his own will?

5 For unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the world to come, whereof we speak.

6 But one in a certain place testified, saying, What is man that thou art mindful of him? or the son of man that thou visitest him?

7 Thou madest him a little lower than the angels, thou crownedst him with glory and honour, and didst set him over the works of thy hands.

8 Thou hast put all things in subjection under his feet. For in that he put all in subjection under him, he left nothing that is not put under him. But now we see not yet all things put under him.

9 But we see Jesus, who was made a little lower than the angels for the suffering of death, crowned with glory and honour; that he by the grace of God should taste death for every man.

10 For it became him, for whom are all things, and by whom are all things, in bringing many sons unto glory, to make the Captain of their salvation perfect through sufferings.

11 For

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 1. God, who at sundry times, &c.] The meaning is, God having of old established several forms of religion among men, by divers ways of revelation; by discovering himself to the patriarchs; by delivering the law to Moses; and by the preaching of the prophets; and all these proving ineffectual to make men truly virtuous, to recover God's creation from the corruption and bondage of sin, and much more insufficient to afford any effectual means of redeeming them from the guilt thereof; he did at last, in compassion to mankind, vouchsafe to afford them one more clear and perfect revelation of his will, even by sending to them his own Son.

5. Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee.] This is so distinguishing an expression, that it necessarily implies our Saviour to be the Son of God, in a different and more exalted sense than the angels themselves are; for, in the next verse, the apostle brings them in as his ministers, subjected and paying honour to him.

9. Above thy fellows.] i. e. None of the angels, whom thou mayest in any degree have condescended to join with thyself and lead in thy train, can pretend to compare with thee in glory or joy.

14. Are they not all ministering spirits, sent forth to minister, &c.] The spirits of heaven esteem themselves happy in an opportunity of worshipping this triumphant Lord, and ministering even to the least of his servants.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 2. 3. If the word spoken by angels, &c.] i. e. If the law given by the ministry of angels was firm and inviolable, and all the transgressors of it were justly and severely punished, how can we escape perishing, if we neglect the gospel, which makes a discovery of that great salvation which was purchased by Christ for lost sinners?

5. Unto the angels hath he not put in subjection the world to come, &c.] i. e. The world of believers, gathered out of all nations by the preaching of the gospel, is put under Christ's immediate power; and is subject not to angels, but to Christ himself.

ANNO-

11 For both he that sanctifieth, and they who are sanctified, are all of one; for which cause he is not ashamed to call them brethren,

12 Saying, I will declare thy name unto my brethren; in the midst of the church will I sing praise unto thee.

13 And again, I will put my trust in him. And again, Behold I, and the children which God hath given me.

14 Forasmuch then as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, he also himself likewise took part of the same; that through death he might destroy him that had the power of death, that is, the devil;

15 And deliver them, who through fear of death were all their life-time subject to bondage.

16 For verily he took not on him the nature of angels; but he took on him the seed of Abraham.

17 Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren; that he might be a merciful and faithful high-priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people.

18 For in that he himself hath suffered, being tempted, he is able to succour them that are tempted.

C H A P. III.

Christ is more worthy than Moses.

WHEREFORE, holy brethren, partakers of the heavenly calling, consider the Apostle and High Priest of our profession, Christ Jesus;

2 Who was faithful to him that appointed him, as also Moses was faithful in all his house.

3 For this man was counted worthy of more glory than Moses, inasmuch as he who hath builded the house hath more honour than the house.

4 For every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God.

5 And Moses verily was faithful in all his house as a servant, for a testimony of those things which were to be spoken after:

6 But Christ as a Son over his own house; whose house are we, if we hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end.

7 Wherefore, (as the Holy Ghost saith, To-day, if ye will hear his voice,

8 Harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, in the day of temptation in the wilderness:

9 When your fathers tempted me, proved me, and saw my works forty years.

10 Wherefore I was grieved with that generation, and said, They do alway err in their heart; and they have not known my ways.

11 So I sware in my wrath, They shall not enter into thy rest.)

12 Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God.

13 But exhort one another daily, while it is called To-day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin.

14 For we are made partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence stedfast unto the end;

15 While it is said, To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts, as in the provocation.

16 For some, when they had heard, did provoke: howbeit not all that came out of Egypt by Moses.

17 But with whom was he grieved forty years? was it not with them that had sinned, whose carcasses fell in the wilderness?

18 And to whom sware he that they should not enter into his rest, but to them that believed not?

19 So we see that they could not enter in because of unbelief.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 6. Whose house are we, if we hold fast the confidence, &c. i. e. Believers, who worship him according to the gospel, are so; but upon this condition, that we hold fast our confidence, i. e. the confident profession of our Christian faith, and our joy and glorying in the hopes of the promised blessedness to the end.

11. They shall not enter into my rest. Canaan is so called; as they there reposed themselves after the labours of a long war, as well as the fatigues of a tedious march.

C H A P. IV.

The Christian's rest is by faith.

LET us therefore fear, lest, a promise being left us of entering into his rest, any of you should seem to come short of it.

2 For unto us was the gospel preached, as well as unto them: but the word preached did not profit them, not being mixed with faith in them that heard it.

3 For, we which have believed do enter into rest; as he said, As I have sworn in my wrath, If they shall enter into my rest: although the works were finished from the foundation of the world.

4 For he spake in a certain place of the seventh day on this wise, And God did rest the seventh day from all his works.

5 And in this place again, If they shall enter into my rest.

6 Seeing therefore it remaineth that some must enter therein, and they to whom it was first preached entered not in because of unbelief:

7 (Again, he limiteth a certain day, saying in David, To-day, after so long a time: as it is said, To-day, if ye will hear his voice, harden not your hearts.

8 For if Jesus had given them rest, then would he not afterward have spoken of another day.

9 There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God.

10 For he that is entered into his rest, he also hath ceased from his own works, as God did from his.)

11 Let us labour therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of unbelief.

12 For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discernor of the thoughts and intents of the heart.

13 Neither is there any creature that is not manifest in his sight: but all things are naked and opened unto the eyes of him with whom we have to do.

14 Seeing then that we have a great High Priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession.

15 For we have not an high-priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin.

16 Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need.

C H A P. V.

The authority and honour of our Saviour's priesthood.

FOR every high-priest, taken from among men, is ordained for men in things pertaining to God, that he may offer both gifts and sacrifices for sins:

2 Who can have compassion on the ignorant, and on them that are out of the way; for that he himself also is compassed with infirmity:

3 And by reason hereof he ought, as for the people, so also for himself, to offer for sins.

4 And no man taketh this honour unto himself, but he that is called of God, as was Aaron:

5 So also, Christ glorified not himself, to be made an high-priest: but he that said unto him, Thou art my Son, to-day have I begotten thee.

6 As he saith also in another place, Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec:

7 Who, in the days of his flesh, when he had offered up prayers and supplications, with strong crying and tears, unto him that was able to save him from death, and was heard in that he feared:

8 Though

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 3. The works were finished; i. e. The work of creation.

12. The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper, &c. This may either be a description of Christ, or of the gospel; and commentators are divided in regard to the sense in which it should be understood.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 7. Who in the days of his flesh. This is spoken of our Saviour, and alludes to the affecting sense he had of his sufferings, when he endured that bitter agony in the garden.

8 Though he were a Son, yet learned he obedience by the things which he suffered :

9 And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him ;

10 Called of God an high-priest, after the order of Melchisedec.

11 Of whom we have many things to say, and hard to be uttered, seeing ye are dull of hearing.

12 For when for the time ye ought to be teachers, ye have need that one teach you again which be the first principles of the oracles of God ; and are become such as have need of milk, and not of strong meat.

13 For every one that useth milk is unskilful in the word of righteousness : for he is a babe.

14 But strong meat belongeth to them that are of full age, even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern both good and evil.

C H A P. VI.

He exhorteth not to fall back from the faith.

THEREFORE, leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection ; not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God,

2 Of the doctrine of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of resurrection of the dead, and of eternal judgment.

3 And this will we do, if God permit.

4 For it is impossible for those who were once enlightened, and have tasted of the heavenly gift, and were made partakers of the Holy Ghost,

5 And have tasted the good word of God, and the powers of the world to come,

6 If they shall fall away, to renew them again unto repentance ; seeing they crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, and put him to an open shame.

7 For the earth, which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, and bringeth forth herbs meet for them by whom it is dressed, receiveth blessing from God :

8 But that which beareth thorns and briers is rejected, and is nigh unto cursing ; whose end is to be burned.

9 But, beloved, we are persuaded better things of you, and things that accompany salvation, though we thus speak.

10 For God is not unrighteous, to forget your work and labour of love, which ye have shewed toward his name, in that ye have ministered to the saints, and do minister.

11 And we desire that every one of you do shew the same diligence, to the full assurance of hope unto the end :

12 That ye be not slothful, but followers of them, who through faith and patience inherit the promises.

13 For when God make promise to Abraham, because he could swear by no greater, he sware by himself,

14 Saying, Surely blessing I will bless thee, and multiplying I will multiply thee.

15 And so, after he had patiently endured, he obtained the promise.

13. In the word of righteousness ; i. e. In the gospel, which directs us in the true way of justification by the blood and righteousness of the great Redeemer.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 4. It is impossible for those who were once enlightened, &c. i. e. With such glorious truths as are essential to Christianity: though the ancient fathers called baptism illumination, and baptized persons the enlightened; because of that divine illumination which was conveyed to the minds of men by the knowledge of Christianity.

5. The powers of the world to come. Some understand this of the miraculous powers of the gospel age; others, of the impressions made relating to the importance of a future state.

6. They crucify to themselves the Son of God afresh, &c. i. e. They do the greatest dishonour to the religion which our Saviour has instituted, and to the laws thereof, that can possibly be done.

7, 8. The earth, which drinketh in the rain that cometh oft upon it, &c. The design of our apostle in these words is, 1st, To set forth the excellency and necessity of the gospel, dispensed to us in the ministry of the word: he compares it to rain, which softens, refreshes, and fructifies the earth. 2dly, He discovers the different effect which the word of God has upon different persons that enjoy the preaching of it. The sincere Christian becomes fruitful, under the dews and showers of 16 For men verily swear by the greater: and an oath for confirmation is to them an end of all strife.

17 Wherein God, willing more abundantly to shew unto the heirs of promise the immutability of his counsel, confirmed it by an oath ;

18 That by two immutable things, in which it was impossible for God to lie, we might have a strong consolation, who have fled for refuge to lay hold upon the hope set before us :

19 Which hope we have as an anchor of the soul, both sure and stedfast, and which entereth into that within the vail ;

20 Whither the forerunner is for us entered, even Jesus, made an high-priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec.

C H A P. VII.

Christ Jesus is a priest after the order of Melchisedec.

FOR this Melchisedec, king of Salem, priest of the most high God, who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him ;

2 To whom also Abraham gave a tenth part of all: first being by interpretation King of righteousness, and after that also King of Salem, which is, King of peace;

3 Without father, without mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days nor end of life ; but, made like unto the Son of God, abideth a priest continually.

4 Now consider how great this man was, unto whom even the patriarch Abraham gave the tenth of the spoils.

5 And verily they that are of the sons of Levi, who receive the office of the priesthood, have a commandment to take tithes of the people according to the law, that is, of their brethren, though they come out of the loins of Abraham :

6 But he whose descent is not counted from them received tithes of Abraham, and blessed him that had the promises.

7 And, without all contradiction, the less is blessed of the better.

8 And here men that die receive tithes; but there he receiveth them, of whom it is witnessed that he liveth.

9 And as I may so say, Levi also, who receiveth tithes, paid tithes in Abraham.

10 For he was yet in the loins of his father, when Melchisedec met him.

11 If therefore perfection were by the Levitical priesthood, (for under it the people received the law,) what further need was there that another priest should rise after the order of Melchisedec, and not be called after the order of Aaron ?

12 For the priesthood being changed, there is made of necessity a change also of the law.

13 For he of whom these things are spoken pertaineth to another tribe, of which no man gave attendance at the altar.

14 For it is evident that our Lord sprang out of Juda; of which tribe Moses spake nothing concerning priesthood.

15 And

divine grace, and receives a blessing ; but the barren professor is like a howling wilderness, or dry desert, which after innumerable refreshing showers brings forth nothing but briers and thorns. 3dly, He declares the different condition of such persons. A people who answer God's care are like a field that drinks in the rain, brings forth herbs, and receives a blessing. But such a people as, after all the refreshing showers from heaven, and after all the culture and labour of God's husbandmen on earth, shall remain bushes and briers, barren and unfruitful under all, or worse than such, are nigh unto cursing, and their end is to be burned.

18. Who have fled for refuge, &c. In these words is an allusion to the cities of refuge spoken of under the law. God appointed six for such to fly to as were guilty of casual homicide, or of killing a person by chance, that so they might avoid the fury of the avenger of blood. Now these cities of refuge were an illustrious type of Christ.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verse 9, 10. Levi also, who receiveth tithes, paid tithes in Abraham, &c. The apostle's argument runs thus: They who receive tithes of others, are certainly superior to them of whom they receive them; but Melchisedec received tithes of Abraham, and of Levi in Abraham's loins; therefore he is superior to them, and of a more excellent order than they; which is the great truth he hath been so industriously proving.

15 And it is yet far more evident: for that after the similitude of Melchisedec there ariseth another priest, 16 Who is made, not after the law of a carnal commandment, but after the power of an endless life.

17 For he testifieth, Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec.

18 For there is verily a disannulling of the commandment going before, for the weakness and unprofitableness thereof.

19 For the law made nothing perfect, but the bringing in of a better hope did; by the which we draw nigh unto God.

20 And in as much as not without an oath he was made priest:

21 (For those priests were made without an oath; but this with an oath, by him that said unto him, The Lord sware, and will not repent, Thou art a priest for ever, after the order of Melchisedec:)

22 By so much was Jesus made a surety of a better testament.

23 And they truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue by reason of death:

24 But this man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood.

25 Wherefore he is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them.

26 For such an high-priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens;

27 Who needeth not daily, as those high-priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people's: for this he did once, when he offered up himself.

28 For the law maketh men high-priests which have infirmity: but the word of the oath, which was since the law, maketh the Son, who is consecrated for evermore.

CHAP. VIII.

By Christ's eternal priesthood the Levitical priesthood is abolished.

NOW, of the things which we have spoken this is the sum: We have such an high-priest, who is set on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens;

2 A minister of the sanctuary, and of the true tabernacle, which the Lord pitched, and not man.

3 For every high-priest is ordained to offer gifts and sacrifices: wherefore it is of necessity that this man have somewhat also to offer.

4 For if he were on earth, he should not be a priest, seeing that there are priests that offer gifts according to the law:

5 Who serve unto the example and shadow of heavenly things, as Moses was admonished of God, when he was about to make the tabernacle: For see (saith he) that thou make all things according to the pattern shewed to thee in the mount.

20, 21, 22. And in as much as not without an oath he was made priest, &c.] Our apostle's argument is this: He that is made an unchangeable priest by the oath of God, is a better, a greater, and more excellent priest, than any made so without it; but whereas the Levitical priests were made without an oath, by a law changeable at the will of their lawgiver, Jesus Christ was made a priest by the unchangeable oath of God.

23, 24. They truly were many priests, because they were not suffered to continue, &c.] St. Paul now comes to his last argument, by which he proves the excellency of Christ's priesthood above that of Aaron. The Levitical priests, he says, were many and mortal; their mortality was the cause of their multitude. They were cut off by death, and succeeded one another; but Christ is one and the same to his church, yesterday, to-day, and for ever: he had no partner, and has no successor; but he executes an everlasting unchangeable priesthood in his own person.

25. That come unto God, &c.] Coming unto God by Christ, is sinners returning, by repentance and real amendment, to the obedience of God's commands, in hopes of obtaining pardon for what is past, through the intercession of Christ.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 11. They shall not teach every man his neighbour, &c.] These words are a promise, that, under the new covenant dispensation, the 6 But now hath he obtained a more excellent ministry, by how much also he is the mediator of a better covenant, which was established upon better promises.

7 For if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second.

8 For finding fault with them, he saith, Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel, and with the house of Judah;

9 Not according to the covenant that I made with their fathers, in the day when I took them by the hand to lead them out of the land of Egypt; because they continued not in my covenant, and I regarded them not, saith the Lord.

10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel, After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their mind, and write them in their hearts; and I will be to them a God, and they shall be to me a people.

11 And they shall not teach every man his neighbour, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord: for all shall know me, from the least to the greatest.

12 For I will be merciful to their unrighteousness, and their sins and their iniquities will I remember no more.

13 In that he saith, A new covenant, he hath made the first old. Now that which decayeth and waxeth old is ready to vanish away.

CHAP. IX.

The blood of Jesus Christ above all sacrifice.

THEN verily the first covenant had also ordinances of divine service, and a worldly sanctuary.

2 For there was a tabernacle made; the first, wherein was the candlestick, and the table, and the shew-bread, which is called The Sanctuary.

3 And after the second veil the tabernacle, which is called The Holiest of all;

4 Which had the golden censer, and the ark of the covenant overlaid round about with gold, wherein was the golden pot that had manna, and Aaron's rod that budded, and the tables of the covenant;

5 And over it the cherubims of glory shadowing the mercy-seat: of which we cannot now speak particularly.

6 Now, when these things were thus ordained, the priests went always into the first tabernacle, accomplishing the service of God.

7 But into the second went the high-priest alone once every year, not without blood, which he offered for himself, and for the errors of the people.

8 The Holy Ghost this signifying, that the way into the holiest of all was not yet made manifest, while as the first tabernacle was yet standing:

9 Which was a figure for the time then present, in which were offered both gifts and sacrifices, that could not make him that did the service perfect, as pertaining to the conscience;

10 Which stood only in meats, and drinks, and divers washings, and carnal ordinances, imposed on them until the time of reformation.

11 But

Holy Spirit should be so plentifully poured forth, and the light of the gospel so clearly shine, that there shall not be the same necessity as under the law to teach men the knowledge of God, and their duty to him; the types and shadows of the law being removed, and all persons in general shall know him to be the Lord.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IX.

Verse 1. The first covenant, &c.] In this and the following verses, the apostle gives us a particular and distinct view of the typical ordinances of the old covenant under the Mosaic dispensation, and also of their accomplishment in Christ; and here, in general, he acquaints us, that the first covenant had an outward legal service, with sundry rites and ordinances of divine worship, and a worldly sanctuary, raised by men, of earthly materials, a temporary tabernacle.

8. The way into the holiest of all, &c.] The apostle, in this verse, declares the spiritual use and signification of the Levitical service, and what the Holy Ghost intended thereby; namely, that the true and proper means for entering into heaven, the holy of holies, was not so fully and clearly manifested; and that heaven, represented by the holy of holies, was as yet inaccessible; for Christ first entered into heaven as our forerunner, with his blood to appear before God, and thereby to prepare the way for our entrance after him.

13, 14. If

11 But Christ being come an high priest of good things to come, by a greater and more perfect tabernacle, not made with hands; that is to say, not of this building :

12 Neither by the blood of goats and calves, but by his own blood, he entered in once into the holy place, having obtained eternal redemption for us.

13 For if the blood of bulls, and of goats, and the ashes of an heifer, sprinkling the unclean, sanctifieth to the purifying of the flesh ;

14 How much more shall the blood of Christ, who, through the eternal Spirit, offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God ?

15 And for this cause he is the mediator of the new testament, that by means of death, for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first testament, they which are called might receive the promise of eternal inheritance.

16 For where a testament is, there must also of necessity be the death of the testator.

17 For a testament is of force after men are dead, otherwise it is of no strength at all while the testator liveth.

18 Whereupon neither the first testament was dedicated without blood.

19 For when Moses had spoken every precept to all the people, according to the law, he took the blood of calves and of goats, with water, and scarlet wool, and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book and all the people,

20 Saying, This is the blood of the testament which God hath enjoined unto you.

21 Moreover, he sprinkled likewise with blood both the tabernacle, and all the vessels of the ministry.

22 And almost all things are by the law purged with blood ; and without shedding of blood is no remission.

23 It was therefore necessary that the patterns of things in the heavens should be purified with these ; but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these.

24 For Christ is not entered into the holy places made with hands, which are the figures of the true ; but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God for us :

25 Nor yet that he should offer himself often, as the high priest entereth into the holy place every year with blood of others ;

26 (For then must he often have suffered since the foundation of the world ;) but now once in the end of the world hath he appeared, to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself.

27 And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment ;

28 So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many : and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation.

CHAP. X.

An exhortation to faith and patience.

FOR the law, having a shadow of good things to come, and not the very image of the things, can 13, 14. If the blood of bulls, &c.] If the blood of bulls and goats, and the water which was mixed with the ashes of the burnt heifer or red cow, mentioned Numb. 19. purified from ceremonial uncleanness, and procured the external sanctification of the flesh, or outward man ; how much more shall the blood of Christ, who, by the eternal Spirit, i. e. his Godhead or divine nature, offered up himself a sacrifice without spot to God, be able to purge our consciences from all spiritual impurity, and render you fit to serve the living God, in a holy course of Christian obedience.

15. For this cause he is the mediator, &c.] By this means he took upon him the glorious office of mediator of the new covenant, that, by the intervention of his death, he might make satisfaction for the sins of believers under the old testament, as well as for those who live under the new ; and that as well as those that lived before Christ's coming in the flesh, as since, might, by virtue of his death, obtain the promised eternal inheritance.

18, 19, 20. Neither the first testament was dedicated without blood, &c.] The first covenant, which God made with Israel in Horeb, had not its sanction without typical blood. The using of blood for the sanction of leagues and covenants was a very ancient rite ; and probably signified, that the parties confederating did thereby engage blood and life for the observation of them. Now that the covenant between God in Israel never with those sacrifices, which they offered year by year continually, make the comers thereunto perfect.

2 For then, would they not have ceased to be offered ? because that the worshippers once purged should have had no more conscience of sins.

3 But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance again made of sins every year.

4 For it is not possible that the blood of bulls and of goats should take away sins.

5 Wherefore, when he cometh into the world, he saith, Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body hast thou prepared me :

6 In burnt-offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hast had no pleasure :

7 Then said I, Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God.

8 Above, when he said, Sacrifice, and offering, and burnt-offerings, and offering for sin, thou wouldest not, neither hadst pleasure therein ; (which are offered by the law ;)

9 Then said he, Lo, I come to do thy will, O God. He taketh away the first, that he may establish the second.

10 By the which will we are sanctified, through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

11 And every priest standeth daily ministering, and offering oftentimes the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins :

12 But this man, after he had offered one sacrifice for sins, for ever sat down on the right hand of God ;

13 From henceforth expecting till his enemies be made his footstool.

14 For by one offering he hath perfected for ever them that are sanctified.

15 Whereof the Holy Ghost also is a witness to us : for after that he had said before,

16 This is the covenant that I will make with them, After those days, saith the Lord, I will put my laws into their hearts, and in their minds will I write them :

17 And their sins and iniquities will I remember no more.

18 Now, where remission of these is, there is no more offering for sin.

19 Having therefore, brethren, boldness to enter into the holiest by the blood of Jesus,

20 By a new and living way, which he hath consecrated for us, through the vail, that is to say, his flesh :

21 And having an high priest over the house of God,

22 Let us draw near with a true heart, in full assurance of faith, having our hearts sprinkled from an evil conscience, and our bodies washed with pure water.

23 Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering, (for he is faithful that promised,)

24 And let us consider one another to provoke unto love, and to good works :

25 Not

was thus solemnized, and received its confirmation by blood, the apostle makes evident from the history of Moses, Exod. 24. 8. In like manner the new covenant was confirmed by blood, even by the blood of Christ, as is evident from his own words, Matt. 26. 28.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 1. The law, having a shadow of good things, &c.] This seems an allusion to the art of painting, in which a shadow, or the outlines, are first drawn, and afterwards the very image itself.

5. He saith, &c.] The apostle having shewn the weakness and insufficiency of the Levitical sacrifices in the former verses, comes now to declare the efficacy of Christ's sacrifice, and his blessed undertaking to fulfil and suffer all things required by the will of God, the complete salvation of the church ; and this he does by a quotation out of the Old Testament, Psa. 40. 7. Sacrifices and offering thou wouldest not, but a body hast thou prepared me : Thou hast prepared me a body, a holy and innocent human nature, fit to be united to my glorious Godhead ; in which nature I shall suffer, and, by my sufferings, satisfy thy justice for sin ; and, by the sufficiency of my sacrifice, put a period to all the Levitical sacrifices that preceded and also prefigured me.

19. Having therefore—boldness, &c.] i. e. Having access to God through him.

26. If

25 Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching.

26 For if we sin wilfully, after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins,

27 But a certain fearful looking for of judgment, and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries.

28 He that despised Moses' law died without mercy, under two or three witnesses:

29 Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?

30 For we know him that hath said, Vengeance belongeth unto me, I will recompense, saith the Lord. And again, The Lord shall judge his people.

31 It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

32 But call to remembrance the former days, in which, after ye were illuminated, ye endured a great fight of afflictions:

33 Partly, whilst ye were made a gazing-stock, both by reproaches and afflictions; and partly, whilst ye became companions of them that were so used.

34 For ye had compassion of me in my bonds, and took joyfully the spoiling of your goods, knowing in yourselves that ye have in heaven a better and an enduring substance.

35 Cast not away therefore your confidence, which hath great recompence of reward.

36 For ye have need of patience; that after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise.

37 For yet a little while, and he that shall come will come, and will not tarry.

38 Now, the just shall live by faith: but if any man draw back, my soul shall have no pleasure in him.

39 But we are not of them who draw back unto perdition; but of them that believe to the saving of the soul.

C H A P. XI.

Without faith we cannot please God.

NOW faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.

2 For by it the elders obtained a good report.

3 Through faith we understand that the worlds were framed by the word of God, so that things which are seen were not made of things which do appear.

4 By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, by which he obtained witness that he was righteous, God testifying of his gifts: and by it he, being dead, yet speaketh.

5 By faith Enoch was translated, that he should not see death; and was not found, because God had translated him: for before his translation he had this testimony, that he pleased God.

6 But without faith it is impossible to please him: for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him.

7 By faith Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house; by the which he condemned the world, and became heir of the righteousness which is by faith.

8 By faith Abraham, when he was called to go out into a place which he should after receive for an inheritance, obeyed; and he went out, not knowing whither he went.

9 By faith he sojourned in the land of promise, as in a strange country, dwelling in tabernacles with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise.

10 For he looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God.

11 Through faith also Sara herself received strength to conceive seed, and was delivered of a child when she was past age, because she judged him faithful who had promised.

12 Therefore sprang there even of one, and him as good as dead, so many as the stars of the sky in multitude, and as the sand which is by the sea-shore innumerable.

13 These all died in faith, not having received the promises, but having seen them afar off, and were persuaded of them, and embraced them, and confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth.

14 For they that say such things declare plainly that they seek a country.

15 And truly, if they had been mindful of that country from whence they came out, they might have had opportunity to have returned:

16 But now they desire a better country, that is, an heavenly: wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God; for he hath prepared for them a city.

17 By faith Abraham, when he was tried, offered up Isaac: and he that had received the promises offered up his only begotten son;

18 Of whom it was said, That in Isaac shall thy seed be called:

19 Accounting that God was able to raise him up, even from the dead; from whence also he received him in a figure.

20 By faith Isaac blessed Jacob and Esau concerning things to come.

21 By faith Jacob, when he was a dying, blessed both the sons of Joseph; and worshipped, leaning upon the top of his staff.

22 By faith Joseph, when he died, made mention of the departing of the children of Israel; and gave commandment concerning his bones.

23 By faith Moses, when he was born, was hid three months of his parents, because they saw he was a proper child; and they were not afraid of the king's commandment.

24 By faith Moses, when he was come to years, refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter;

25 Choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season;

26 Esteeming the reproach of Christ greater riches than the treasures in Egypt: for he had respect unto the recompence of the reward.

27 By faith he forsook Egypt, not fearing the wrath of the king; for he endured, as seeing him who is invisible.

28 Through faith he kept the passover, and the sprinkling of blood, lest he that destroyed the first-born should touch them.

29 By faith they passed through the Red sea, as by dry land; which the Egyptians assaying to do, were drowned.

30 By

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 10. A city which hath foundations, &c.] i. e. The foundations of precious stones, alluding to the prophetic expressions.

12. And him as good as dead, &c.] The words acquaint us with that gratuitous remuneration and gracious reward, which God gave Abraham and Sarah as the fruit of their faith; namely, the blessing of a numerous posterity. There sprang of them, and both of them as good as dead with regard to the procreation of children, a numerous issue, like the stars of heaven, and the sand of the sea.

26. Esteeming the reproach of Christ, &c.] From the account which Josephus gives of Moses, he must have been in the highest esteem at the Egyptian court.

26. If we sin wilfully, after, &c.] i. e. God will not afford men any new revelation, which may be of greater efficacy than the present; and all the arguments which the present affords they have already rejected, by sinning wilfully and habitually against the truth.

29. Trodden under foot the Son of God, &c.] The sin of apostasy from Christianity is doing the greatest dishonour to the religion which our Saviour has instituted, and to the laws thereof, that can possibly be done.

35. Cast not away therefore your confidence, &c.] i. e. Never shrink from a bold and courageous profession of Christ and his holy religion, which will be crowned with a great recompence of reward.

38. The just shall live by faith, &c.] By the just man, we are to understand a justified man; by the life which he lives, is meant a life of sanctification and glorification, grace and holiness, glory and happiness.

30 By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, after they were compassed about seven days.

31 By faith the harlot Rahab perished not with them that believed not, when she had received the spies with peace.

32 And what shall I more say? for the time would fail me to tell of Gedeon, and of Barak, and of Samson, and of Jephthae, of David also, and Samuel, and of the prophets:

33 Who through faith subdued kingdoms, wrought righteousness, obtained promises, stopped the mouths of lions,

34 Quenched the violence of fire, escaped the edge of the sword, out of weakness were made strong, waxed valiant in fight, turned to flight the armies of the aliens.

35 Women received their dead raised to life again: and others were tortured, not accepting deliverance; that they might obtain a better resurrection.

36 And others had trial of cruel mockings, and scourgings, yea, moreover, of bonds and imprisonment.

37 They were stoned, they were sawn asunder, were tempted, were slain with the sword: they wandered about in sheep-skins and goat-skins, being destitute, afflicted, tormented:

38 (Of whom the world was not worthy;) they wandered in deserts, and in mountains, and in dens and caves of the earth.

39 And these all, having obtained a good report through faith, received not the promise:

40 God having provided some better thing for us, that they without us should not be made perfect.

C H A P. XII.

A commendation of the new testament above the old.

WHEREFORE, seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us,

2 Looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of our faith; who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is set down at the right hand of the throne of God.

3 For consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself, lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds.

4 Ye have not yet resisted unto blood, striving against sin.

5 And ye have forgotten the exhortation, which speaketh unto you as unto children, My son, despise not thou the chastening of the Lord, nor faint when thou art rebuked of him.

6 For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth.

7 If ye endure chastening, God dealeth with you as

32. What shall I more say, &c.] In these and the following verses our apostle sums up the remaining testimonies, which he might have produced to shew the great things which faith had enabled persons to do, and also to suffer the hardest and most terrible things that could be encountered. It was faith that rendered Gideon successful against the Midianites, Barak over the Canaanites, Samson over the Philistines, Jephthah over the Amorites, and David over the Jebusites and Moabites.

35. Others were tortured.] In this passage, and several others here following, the apostle is thought to refer to the story of the Maccabees; which, though written after the closing of the canon of scripture, when there was no extraordinary prophet in the church; yet the matters of fact were then fresh in the memory, and are here alluded to, particularly Eleazar, 2 Mac. 6. who was beaten to death, when he had been persuaded and allured to accept deliverance by transgressing the law; and also the mother and her seven sons.

37. Were tempted.] It is generally supposed, that this is not the right reading; for after stoning, and being sawn asunder, the apostle would hardly mention being tempted, which is no certain punishment at all: some therefore here read, they were burnt alive; which indeed gives a stronger sense.

39. A good report through faith, &c.] i. e. All the above-mentioned scripture saints, with others that lived from the beginning of the world, and the first giving out of the promise of the Messiah; all and every one of these obtained a good report through faith; i. e. a good testimony that they pleased God; nevertheless, they received not the promise; i. e. the actual exhibition of the promised Messiah.

with sons: for what son is he whom the father chasteneth not?

8 But if ye be without chastisement, whereof all are partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons.

9 Furthermore, we have had fathers of our flesh, which corrected us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?

10 For they verily for a few days chastened us after their own pleasure; but he for our profit, that we might be partakers of his holiness.

11 Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous: nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby.

12 Wherefore lift up the hands which hang down, and the feeble knees;

13 And make straight paths for your feet, lest that which is lame be turned out of the way; but let it rather be healed.

14 Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord:

15 Looking diligently, lest any man fail of the grace of God; lest any root of bitterness springing up trouble you, and thereby many be defiled:

16 Lest there be any fornicator, or profane person, as Esau, who for one morsel of meat sold his birthright.

17 For ye know how that afterward, when he would have inherited the blessing, he was rejected: for he found no place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears.

18 For ye are not come unto the mount that might be touched, and that burned with fire, nor unto blackness, and darkness, and tempest,

19 And the sound of a trumpet, and the voice of words, which voice they that heard entreated that the word should not be spoken to them any more:

20 (For they could not endure that which was commanded, And if so much as a beast touch the mountain, it shall be stoned, or thrust through with a dart.

21 And so terrible was the sight, that Moses said, I exceedingly fear and quake:)

22 But ye are come unto mount Sion, and unto the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to an innumerable company of angels,

23 To the general assembly and church of the first-born, which are written in heaven, and to God the judge of all, and to the spirits of just men made perfect,

24 And to Jesus, the mediator of the new covenant, and to the blood of sprinkling, that speaketh better things than that of Abel.

25 See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven.

26 Whose voice then shook the earth: but now he hath

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XII.

Verse 12. Wherefore, lift up the hands, &c.] That they may exert themselves in this glorious combat: and strengthen the feeble tottering knees, that they may hold out to the end of this important race.

17. He found no place of repentance, &c.] The meaning is, not that true repentance, which produces real amendment and effectual reformation of manners, will ever be rejected; but that, at the day of judgment, when the blessing comes to be inherited, they who have sold their hopes of it for the pleasures of sin shall not find acceptance.

18. The mount that might be touched, &c.] Some commentators have thought that a negative is here dropped, and that the true reading is, that might not be touched; and Dr. Wall says, that bishop Montague thus cites it in his Apparatus; and any one that remembers the description of this mount burning with fire, and the tempest, and the sound of the trumpet, and the charge given that it should not be touched, Exod. 19. will be apt to think this the right reading.

24. To the blood of sprinkling, &c.] The blood which Abel sprinkled in sacrifice could not speak that peace to the conscience, which the blood of Christ does; that being but a figure and shadow of this real atonement.

26. Whose voice then shook the earth, &c.] The voice of God, at the promulgation of the law on Mount Sinai, shook the earth; but he promised after this to shake all nations; and that Christ, the expected Messiah, and the desire of all nations, should come, which is now fulfilled.

hath promised, saying, Yet once more, I shake not the earth only, but also heaven.

27 And this word, Yet once more, signifieth the removing of those things that are shaken, as of things that are made, that those things which cannot be shaken may remain.

28 Wherefore, we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably, with reverence and godly fear:

29 For our God is a consuming fire.

C H A P. XIII.

Divers exhortations.

LET brotherly love continue.

2 Be not forgetful to entertain strangers: for thereby some have entertained angels unawares.

3 Remember them that are in bonds, as bound with them; and them which suffer adversity, as being yourselves also in the body.

4 Marriage is honourable in all, and the bed undefiled: but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge.

5 Let your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

6 So that we may boldly say, The Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me.

7 Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation;

8 Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and to-day, and for ever.

9 Be not carried about with diverse and strange doctrines: for it is a good thing that the heart be established with grace; not with meats, which have not profited them that have been occupied therein.

10 We have an altar, whereof they have no right to eat which serve the tabernacle.

11 For the bodies of those beasts, whose blood is brought into the sanctuary by the high-priest for sin, are burnt without the camp.

12 Wherefore Jesus also, that he might sanctify the people with his own blood, suffered without the gate.

13 Let us go forth therefore unto him without the camp, bearing his reproach.

14 For here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come.

15 By him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips, giving thanks to his name.

16 But to do good, and to communicate, forget not: for with such sacrifices God is well pleased.

17 Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account; that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you.

18 Pray for us: for we trust we have a good conscience, in all things willing to live honestly.

19 But I beseech you the rather to do this, that I may be restored to you the sooner.

20 Now the God of peace, that brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, that great Shepherd of the sheep, through the blood of the everlasting covenant,

21 Make you perfect in every good work, to do his will, working in you that which is well-pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ; to whom be glory for ever and ever. Amen.

22 And I beseech you, brethren, suffer the word of exhortation; for I have written a letter unto you in few words.

23 Know ye, that our brother Timothy is set at liberty; with whom, if he come shortly, I will see you.

24 Salute all them that have the rule over you, and all the saints. They of Italy salute you.

25 Grace be with you all. Amen.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 2. Be not forgetful to entertain strangers, &c.] It was necessary to enforce this duty of hospitality, because in those eastern countries there were no inns, nor other accommodations, as among us. Strangers, even among the heathens, were accounted sacred, and under the peculiar protection of God; and a punishment was appointed for such as were inhospitable towards them.

Some have entertained angels.] It is possible, that from the story of Abraham and Lot, who had the honour of entertaining angels, under the form of ordinary travellers, some tradition might reach the Indian Bramins, who tell their people, that their gods sometimes descend in the form of poor indigent persons; and that when any of the children of men relieve them, they repay the charity with vast advantage.

14. Here have we no continuing city, &c.] How cheerfully ought believers, according to the advice in the foregoing verse, to go forth to Christ without the camp, bearing his reproach, when they consider their present condition, that they have no city here below that is now the seat of divine worship to which it is confined, as the Jews had at Jerusalem for their ceremonial worship: but they seek one to come, even the heavenly Jerusalem, where they shall worship God in his temple day and night.

The general Epistle of J A M E S.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Epistle was written by St. James the Less, called also the brother of our Lord; who was chosen by the apostles bishop of Jerusalem. The date of it is supposed to be about the year 60, two years after which St. James suffered martyrdom. This epistle, with the six following, have gone under the name of Catholic for many ages, because, say some, they were not written to a particular city or country, as most of St. Paul's epistles were, but to all the Christian Jews abroad, dispersed throughout the world, whose suffering condition rendered the consolation which this epistle affords very necessary.

What true religion is.

JAMES, a servant of God, and of the Lord Jesus Christ, to the twelve tribes which are scattered abroad, greeting.

2 My brethren, count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations;

3 Knowing this, that the trying of your faith worketh patience.

4 But

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 2. My brethren, count it all joy, &c.] The apostle excites the believing Jews to rejoice, when surrounded by temptations: not that afflictions are in themselves desirable; trial is not a subject of rejoicing, but of sorrow and heaviness, considered in itself: but because they produce the most pleasing effects in proving our faith, and increasing our patience, they produce the fruits of eternal life.

4. Let

C H A P. II.

Faith without works is a dead faith.

4 But let patience have her perfect work, that ye may be perfect and entire, wanting nothing.

5 If any of you lack wisdom, let him ask of God, that giveth to all men liberally, and upbraideth not; and it shall be given him.

6 But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering: for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea, driven with the wind, and tossed.

7 For let not that man think that he shall receive any thing of the Lord.

8 A double-minded man is unstable in all his ways.

9 Let the brother of low degree rejoice in that he is exalted:

10 But the rich, in that he is made low: because as the flower of the grass he shall pass away.

11 For the sun is no sooner risen with a burning heat, but it withereth the grass, and the flower thereof falleth, and the grace of the fashion of it perisheth: so also shall the rich man fade away in his ways.

12 Blessed is the man that endureth temptation: for when he is tried, he shall receive the crown of life, which the Lord hath promised to them that love him.

13 Let no man say, when he is tempted, I am tempted of God; for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man.

14 But every man is tempted, when he is drawn away of his own lust, and enticed.

15 Then when lust hath conceived, it bringeth forth sin; and sin, when it is finished, bringeth forth death.

16 Do not err, my beloved brethren.

17 Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father of lights, with whom is no variableness, neither shadow of turning.

18 Of his own will begat he us with the word of truth, that we should be a kind of first-fruits of his creatures.

19 Wherefore, my beloved brethren, let every man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to wrath.

20 For the wrath of man worketh not the righteousness of God.

21 Wherefore lay apart all filthiness, and superfluity of naughtiness, and receive with meekness the engrafted word, which is able to save your souls.

22 But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves.

23 For if any be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass:

24 For he beholdeth himself, and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

25 But whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed.

26 If any man among you seem to be religious, and bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his own heart, this man's religion is vain.

27 Pure religion and undefiled, before God and the Father, is this, To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.

4. Let patience have her perfect work, &c.] Let your patience and perseverance under sufferings resolutely continue and hold out to the end. This the apostle urges, because some persons held out the first onset of persecution; but being exercised with adversity and length of trials, they fainted: as if he had said, "Now, if we will be complete Christians, our patience must run parallel with our sufferings; and thus shall we become perfect by perseverance."

8. A double-minded man, &c.] By a double-minded man, we are to understand one that is divided in his own thoughts between two different opinions.

17. With whom is no variableness, &c.] The comparison is extremely elegant, drawn from the consideration of that which, in corporeal things, is the least subject to change, viz. the sun's shining in the heavens.

20. The wrath of man, &c.] i. e. Man's sinful anger will never put him upon those things which are just and righteous in God's account; or the meaning may be, That the wrath of man is so far from working the righteousness of God, that it worketh all manner of evil.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 10. And yet offend in one point.] In case a man were careful to observe all the laws of God, except one, his living in the presumptuous

MY brethren, have not the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Lord of glory, with respect of persons.

2 For if there come unto your assembly a man with a gold ring, in goodly apparel, and there come in also a poor man in vile raiment,

3 And ye have respect to him that weareth the gay clothing, and say unto him, Sit thou here in a good place; and say to the poor, Stand thou there; or sit here under my footstool:

4 Are ye not then partial in yourselves, and are become judges of evil thoughts?

5 Harken, my beloved brethren, Hath not God chosen the poor of this world, rich in faith, and heirs of the kingdom, which he hath promised to them that love him?

6 But ye have despised the poor. Do not rich men oppress you, and draw you before the judgment seats?

7 Do not they blaspheme that worthy name, by the which ye are called?

8 If ye fulfil the royal law, according to the scripture, Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, ye do well.

9 But if ye have respect to persons, ye commit sin, and are convinced of the law as transgressors.

10 For whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all.

11 For he that said, Do not commit adultery, said also, Do not kill. Now if thou commit no adultery, yet if thou kill, thou art become a transgressor of the law.

12 So speak ye, and so do, as they that shall be judged by the law of liberty.

13 For he shall have judgment without mercy that hath shewed no mercy; and mercy rejoiceth against judgment.

14 What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works? can faith save him?

15 If a brother or sister be naked, and destitute of daily food,

16 And one of you say unto them, Depart in peace, be ye warmed and filled; notwithstanding ye give them not those things which are needful to the body: what doth it profit?

17 Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone.

18 Yea, a man may say, Thou hast faith, and I have works: shew me thy faith without thy works, and I will shew thee my faith by my works.

19 Thou believest that there is one God; thou doest well: the devils also believe, and tremble.

20 But wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?

21 Was not Abraham our father justified by works, when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar?

22 Seest thou how faith wrought with his works? and by works was faith made perfect.

23 And the scripture was fulfilled, which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed unto him for righteousness: and he was called, The Friend of God.

24 Ye

breach of that one, shall be so far from being connived at, on account of his obedience to all the rest, that he shall be liable to the punishment which is due to the transgression of the whole law.

14. Though a man say he hath faith, &c.] The apostle here enters upon the second part of his discourse, namely, to shew the vanity of a fruitless faith; that such a faith, as is not the parent of obedience, and productive of good works, is altogether unprofitable: and faith of no kind, when alone, is justifying. As there can be no good works without faith; so, where true faith is, it will be fruitful in good works.

18. Thou hast faith, &c.] St. James brings in these words by way of dialogue, between a sincere believer that has true faith, and a false-hearted hypocrite that only pretends to it: Thus, thou sayest thou hast true faith, though thou hast not works to evince its truth. I say, I have true faith, because I have good works, which are the genuine effects of it.

19. Thou believest, &c.] Thou believest that there is a God, and assentest to the articles of religion; herein thou dost well: but this is no more than what the devils do; for they also believe and tremble: and if thou hast no better faith, and no better fruits of thy faith, than they, thou hast the same reason to tremble as they.

ANNO-

24 Ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only.

25 Likewise also, was not Rahab the harlot justified by works, when she had received the messengers, and had sent them out another way?

26 For as the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also.

C H A P. III.

We are not rashly or arrogantly to reprove others.

MY brethren, be not many masters, knowing that we shall receive the greater condemnation.

2 For in many things we offend all. If any man offend not in word, the same is a perfect man, and able also to bridle the whole body.

3 Behold, we put bits in the horses' mouths, that they may obey us; and we turn about their whole body.

4 Behold also the ships, which though they be so great, and are driven of fierce winds, yet are they turned about with a very small helm whithersoever the governor listeth.

5 Even so the tongue is a little member, and boasteth great things. Behold how great a matter a little fire kindleth!

6 And the tongue is a fire, a world of iniquity: so is the tongue among our members, that it defileth the whole body, and setteth on fire the course of nature; and it is set on fire of hell.

7 For every kind of beasts, and of birds, and of serpents, and of things in the sea, is tamed, and hath been tamed of mankind:

8 But the tongue can no man tame; it is an unruly evil, full of deadly poison.

9 Therewith bless we God, even the Father; and therewith curse we men, which are made after the similitude of God.

10 Out of the same mouth proceedeth blessing and cursing. My brethren, these things ought not so to be.

11 Doth a fountain send forth at the same place sweet water and bitter?

12 Can the fig-tree, my brethren, bear olive-berries? either a vine, figs? so can no fountain both yield salt water and fresh.

13 Who is a wise man, and endued with knowledge among you? let him shew, out of a good conversation, his works, with meekness of wisdom.

14 But if ye have bitter envying and strife in your hearts, glory not, and lie not against the truth.

15 This wisdom descendeth not from above, but is earthly, sensual, devilish.

16 For where envying and strife is, there is confusion, and every evil work.

17 But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without partiality, and without hypocrisy.

18 And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace of them that make peace.

C H A P. IV.

Against covetousness, intemperance, pride, detraction, and rash judgment.

FROM whence come wars and fightings among you? come they not hence, even of your lusts, that war in your members?

2 Ye lust, and have not: ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 6. Is set on fire of hell.] The infernal spirit influences the heart, and its wickedness overflows by the tongue.

15. Earthly, sensual, devilish.] Dr. Bates thinks this refers to the three grand temptations of the world, avarice, the love of pleasure, and ambition: the first of which is earthly; the second sensual; and the third diabolical, being the sin by which devils fell.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 4. A friend of the world is the enemy of God.] The meaning is 3 Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts.

4 Ye adulterers, and adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? whosoever therefore will be a friend of the world is the enemy of God.

5 Do ye think that the scripture saith in vain, The spirit that dwelleth in us lusteth to envy?

6 But he giveth more grace: wherefore he saith, God resisteth the proud, but giveth grace unto the humble.

7 Submit yourselves therefore to God; resist the devil, and he will flee from you:

8 Draw nigh to God, and he will draw nigh to you: cleanse your hands, ye sinners; and purify your hearts, ye double-minded:

9 Be afflicted, and mourn, and weep: let your laughter be turned to mourning, and your joy to heaviness.

10 Humble yourselves in the sight of the Lord, and he shall lift you up.

11 Speak not evil one of another, brethren. He that speaketh evil of his brother, and judgeth his brother, speaketh evil of the law, and judgeth the law: but if thou judge the law, thou art not a doer of the law, but a judge.

12 There is one lawgiver, who is able to save, and to destroy: who art thou that judgest another?

13 Go to now, ye that say, To-day or to-morrow we will go into such a city, and continue there a year, and buy, and sell, and get gain:

14 Whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow. For what is your life? It is even a vapour that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away.

15 For that ye ought to say, If the Lord will, we shall live, and do this or that.

16 But now ye rejoice in your boastings: all such rejoicing is evil.

17 Therefore to him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin.

C H A P. V.

Of wicked rich men, &c.

GO to now, ye rich men, weep and howl for your miseries that shall come upon you.

2 Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten.

3 Your gold and silver is cankered; and the rust of them shall be a witness against you, and shall eat your flesh as it were fire: ye have heaped treasure together for the last days.

4 Behold, the hire of the labourers, which have reaped down your fields, which is of you kept back by fraud, crieth: and the cries of them which have reaped are entered into the ears of the Lord of sabaoth.

5 Ye have lived in pleasure on the earth, and been wanton; ye have nourished your hearts as in a day of slaughter.

6 Ye have condemned and killed the just; and he doth not resist you.

7 Be patient, therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. Behold, the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and latter rain.

8 Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

9 Grudge not one against another, brethren, lest ye be condemned: behold, the judge standeth before the door.

10 Take, not, that he who loves God must consequently have no regard at all for any thing else; but that nothing else must so possess our affections, as to interfere with our duty, when they come in competition.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 1. Ye rich men, weep and howl, &c.] From this passage of the apostle we should learn, how very difficult it is to possess riches without sin; and therefore we do well to remember, that every opportunity of doing good to our fellow-creatures should be embraced, by all who are desirous of giving a good account of their stewardship, at the tremendous day of accounts.

16. Confess

10 Take, my brethren, the prophets, who have spoken in the name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affliction, and of patience.

11 Behold, we count them happy which endure. Ye have heard of the patience of Job, and have seen the end of the Lord; that the Lord is very pitiful, and of tender mercy.

12 But above all things, my brethren, swear not; neither by heaven, neither by the earth, neither by any other oath: but let your yea, be yea; and your nay, nay; lest ye fall into condemnation.

13 Is any among you afflicted? let him pray. Is any merry, let him sing psalms.

14 Is any sick among you? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord:

15 And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, they shall be forgiven him.

16 Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much.

17 Elias was a man subject to like passions as we are, and he prayed earnestly that it might not rain: and it rained not on the earth by the space of three years and six months.

18 And he prayed again, and the heaven gave rain, and the earth brought forth her fruit.

19 Brethren, if any of you do err from the truth, and one convert him;

20 Let him know, that he which converteth the sinner from the error of his way shall save a soul from death, and shall hide a multitude of sins.

16. Confess your faults one to another.] The confession here is mutual, and utterly supersedes all pretences to claim from these words any priestly power, or to require confession in the manner in which the church of Rome does.

The First Epistle general OF P E T E R.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE epistles of Peter are addressed to the Jewish converts, who were scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, &c. not only upon the persecution raised at Jerusalem, but upon former dispersions of the Jews into those places, on several other occasions. The design of this epistle is, to induce the Christian converts; in various parts of the world, to maintain a conversation, not merely inoffensive to all men, but in all respects worthy of the gospel; and to support them under the severe persecutions and fiery trials they had already endured, or were likely to endure, by the noblest considerations which their religion could suggest.

C H A P. I.

Salvation in Christ.

P E T E R, an apostle of Jesus Christ, to the strangers scattered throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,

2 Elect according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, through sanctification of the Spirit, unto obedience and sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ: Grace unto you, and peace, be multiplied.

3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which, according to his abundant mercy, hath begotten us again unto a lively hope, by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead,

4 To an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you,

5 Who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation, ready to be revealed in the last time.

6 Wherein ye greatly rejoice, though now for a season (if need be) ye are in heaviness through manifold temptations;

7 That the trial of your faith, being much more precious than of gold that perisheth, though it be tried with fire, might be found unto praise, and honour, and glory, at the appearing of Jesus Christ:

8 Whom having not seen, ye love; in whom, though now ye see him not, yet believing, ye rejoice with joy unspeakable, and full of glory.

9 Receiving the end of your faith, even the salvation of your souls.

10 Of which salvation the prophets have enquired, and searched diligently, who prophesied of the grace that should come unto you:

11 Searching what, or what manner of time, the Spirit of Christ which was in them did signify, when it testified beforehand the sufferings of Christ, and the glory that should follow.

12 Unto whom it was revealed, that not unto themselves, but unto us, they did minister the things which are now reported unto you, by them that have preached the gospel unto you, with the Holy Ghost sent down from heaven; which things the angels desire to look into.

13 Wherefore gird up the loins of your mind, be sober, and hope to the end, for the grace that is to be brought unto you at the revelation of Jesus Christ;

14 As obedient children, not fashioning yourselves according to the former lusts, in your ignorance:

15 But as he which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation;

16 Because it is written, Be ye holy; for I am holy.

17 And if ye call on the Father, who without respect of persons judgeth according to every man's work, pass the time of your sojourning here in fear:

18 For as much as ye know that ye were not redeemed with corruptible things, as silver and gold, from your vain conversation received by tradition from your fathers;

19 But with the precious blood of Christ, as of a lamb without blemish and without spot:

20 Who verily was fore-ordained before the foundation of the world, but was manifest in these last times for you;

21 Who

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 5. Who are kept by the power of God, &c.] The apostle here prevents an objection which he saw might be made by unbelievers:

namely, That though the saints' inheritance was safe in heaven, yet they are in danger while they are sojourners here below. The apostle therefore declares, that they are and shall be kept by the power of God, and their own faith, to eternal salvation.

21 Who by him do believe in God, that raised him up from the dead, and gave him glory, that your faith and hope might be in God.

22 Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit, unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently:

23 Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth for ever.

24 For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away:

25 But the word of the Lord endureth for ever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you.

C H A P. II.

He dehortheth them from the breach of charity.

WHEREFORE, laying aside all malice, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil-speaking,

2 As new-born babes, desire the sincere milk of the word, that ye may grow thereby;

3 If so be ye have tasted that the Lord is gracious;

4 To whom coming, as unto a living stone, disallowed indeed of men, but chosen of God, and precious;

5 Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ.

6 Wherefore also it is contained in the scripture, Behold, I lay in Sion a chief corner-stone, elect, precious; and he that believeth on him shall not be confounded.

7 Unto you therefore which believe he is precious; but unto them which be disobedient, the stone which the builders disallowed, the same is made the head of the corner,

8 And a stone of stumbling, and a rock of offence, even to them which stumble at the word, being disobedient; whereunto also they were appointed.

9 But ye are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, an holy nation, a peculiar people, that ye should shew forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvellous light.

10 Which in time past were not a people, but are now the people of God; which had not obtained mercy, but now have obtained mercy.

11 Dearly beloved, I beseech you, as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul.

12 Having your conversation honest among the Gentiles; that, whereas they speak against you as evil-doers, they may, by your good works which they shall behold, glorify God in the day of visitation.

13 Submit yourselves to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake: whether it be to the king, as supreme;

14 Or unto governors, as unto them that are sent by him for the punishment of evil-doers, and for the praise of them that do well.

15 For so is the will of God, that with well-doing ye may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men:

16 As free, and not using your liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, but as the servants of God.

17 Honour all men. Love the brotherhood. Fear God. Honour the king.

18 Servants, be subject to your masters with all fear; not only to the good and gentle, but also to the froward.

19 For this is thank-worthy, if a man for conscience toward God endure grief, suffering wrongfully.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 9. Ye are a chosen generation, &c.] In this passage, the apostle acquaints these believing Jews, who were built upon Christ, the foundation-stone, that the same titles belonged to them in a more excellent manner as Christians, which were formerly given to their ancestors by God himself.

16. As free, and not using your liberty, &c.] The apostle here answers an objection, which he foresaw the Christian Jews would make against this duty of subjection; namely, That they were a free people, and 20 For what glory is it, if when ye be buffeted for your faults, ye shall take it patiently? but if when ye do well, and suffer for it, ye take it patiently; this is acceptable with God.

21 For even hereunto were ye called: because Christ also suffered for us, leaving us an example, that ye should follow his steps:

22 Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth:

23 Who, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, he threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously:

24 Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed.

25 For ye were as sheep going astray; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls.

C H A P. III.

Wives' and husbands' duties.

LIKEWISE, ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that if any obey not the word, they also may without the word be won by the conversation of the wives;

2 While they behold your chaste conversation coupled with fear.

3 Whose adorning, let it not be that outward adorning of plaiting the hair, and of wearing of gold, or of putting on of apparel:

4 But let it be the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price.

5 For after this manner in the old time the holy women also, who trusted in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection unto their own husbands;

6 Even as Sara obeyed Abraham, called him lord: whose daughters ye are, as long as ye do well, and are not afraid with any amazement.

7 Likewise, ye husbands, dwell with them according to knowledge, giving honour unto the wife as unto the weaker vessel, and as being heirs together of the grace of life; that your prayers be not hindered.

8 Finally, be ye all of one mind, having compassion one of another; love as brethren, be pitiful, be courteous:

9 Not rendering evil for evil, or railing for railing: but contrariwise, blessing; knowing that ye are thereunto called, that ye should inherit a blessing.

10 For he that will love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile.

11 Let him eschew evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and ensue it.

12 For the eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers: but the face of the Lord is against them that do evil.

13 And who is he that will harm you, if ye be followers of that which is good?

14 But and if ye suffer for righteousness' sake, happy are ye: and be not afraid of their terror, neither be troubled;

15 But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you, with meekness and fear:

16 Having a good conscience; that whereas they speak evil of you, as of evil-doers, they may be ashamed that falsely accuse your good conversation in Christ.

17 For

ought to preserve their liberty, without being subject to any governors, except those of their own nation. But then (says he) they ought not to use their liberty for a cloak of maliciousness, as an excuse for immoralities.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 6. Are not afraid with any amazement:] Are not affrighted out of your duty and fidelity to your husbands by any terror; such as was that which (Gen. 20. 2.) affrighted Abraham and Sarah, and endangered her being drawn into the great sin of adultery.

19. Preached

17 For it is better, if the will of God be so, that ye suffer for well-doing than for evil-doing.

18 For Christ also hath once suffered for sins, the just for the unjust, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh, but quickened by the Spirit.

19 By which also he went and preached unto the spirits in prison :

20 Which sometime were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls, were saved by water.

21 The like figure whereunto, even baptism, doth also now save us, (not the putting away of the filth of the flesh, but the answer of a good conscience toward God,) by the resurrection of Jesus Christ :

22 Who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God ; angels, and authorities, and powers, being made subject unto him.

C H A P. IV.

He exhorteth them to cease from sin, and comforteth them against persecution.

FORASMUCH then as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves likewise with the same mind : for he that hath suffered in the flesh hath ceased from sin ;

2 That he no longer should live the rest of his time in the flesh, to the lusts of men, but to the will of God.

3 For the time past of our life may suffice us to have wrought the will of the Gentiles, when we walked in lasciviousness, lusts, excess of wine, revellings, banquetings, and abominable idolatries :

4 Wherein they think it strange that ye run not with them to the same excess of riot, speaking evil of you ;

5 Who shall give account to him that is ready to judge the quick and the dead.

6 For, for this cause was the gospel preached also to them that are dead, that they might be judged according to men in the flesh, but live according to God in the spirit.

7 But the end of all things is at hand ; be ye therefore sober, and watch unto prayer.

8 And above all things have fervent charity among yourselves : for charity shall cover the multitude of sins.

9 Use hospitality one to another without grudging.

10 As every man hath received the gift, even so minister the same one to another, as good stewards of the manifold grace of God.

11 If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God ; if any man minister, let him do it as of the ability which God giveth : that God in all things may be glorified through Jesus Christ ; to whom be praise and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 Beloved, think it not strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you :

13 But rejoice, in as much as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings ; that, when his glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy.

19. Preached unto the spirits in prison, &c.] This is a very difficult text, and has been very differently interpreted: the following interpretation appears to be the most rational. The Greek word here rendered prison, signifies also a place of safe custody, a place of preservation, such as was the ark to Noah and his family: let it then be so translated here, and the text will run thus: Being quickened by the Spirit, by which, and by the spirits in the place of preservation, (i. e. in the ark) he went and preached to them who sometime were disobedient, when once the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah. The plain meaning will be, that Christ, by his own Spirit, inspiring the spirits of Noah and his family who were preserved in the ark, preached to the disobedient world before the flood. This interpretation seems to be countenanced from the 5th verse of the second chapter of the second epistle of Peter, where the Greek is, God saved Noah, the eighth preacher of righteousness.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 6. Them that are dead, &c.] By the dead, we may understand the Gentile world, dead in trespasses and sin; to whom the gospel was preached when they were thus spiritually dead, and buried in sensuality, 14 If ye be reproached for the name of Christ, happy are ye ; for the Spirit of glory and of God resteth upon you : on their part he is evil spoken of, but on your part he is glorified.

15 But let none of you suffer as a murderer, or as a thief, or as an evil-doer, or as a busy-body in other men's matters.

16 Yet if any man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed ; but let him glorify God on this behalf.

17 For the time is come that judgment must begin at the house of God : and if it first begin at us, what shall the end be of them that obey not the gospel of God ?

18 And if the righteous scarcely be saved, where shall the ungodly and the sinner appear ?

19 Wherefore, let them that suffer according to the will of God commit the keeping of their souls to him in well-doing, as unto a faithful Creator.

C H A P. V.

Divers exhortations.

THE elders which are among you I exhort, who am also an elder, and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, and also a partaker of the glory that shall be revealed :

2 Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof, not by constraint, but willingly ; not for filthy lucre, but of a ready mind ;

3 Neither as being lords over God's heritage, but being ensamples to the flock.

4 And when the chief Shepherd shall appear, ye shall receive a crown of glory that fadeth not away.

5 Likewise, ye younger, submit yourselves unto the elder : yea, all of you be subject one to another, and be clothed with humility : for God resisteth the proud, and giveth grace to the humble.

6 Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time :

7 Casting all your care upon him, for he careth for you.

8 Be sober, be vigilant ; because your adversary the devil, as a roaring lion, walketh about, seeking whom he may devour.

9 Whom resist steadfast in the faith, knowing that the same afflictions are accomplished in your brethren that are in the world.

10 But the God of all grace, who hath called us unto his eternal glory by Christ Jesus, after that ye have suffered a while, make you perfect, stablish, strengthen, settle you.

11 To him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

12 By Silvanus, a faithful brother unto you, (as I suppose,) I have written briefly, exhorting, and testifying, that this is the true grace of God wherein ye stand.

13 The church that is at Babylon, elected together with you, saluteth you ; and so doth Marcus my son.

14 Greet ye one another with a kiss of charity. Peace be with you all that are in Christ Jesus. Amen.

that they might mortify and subdue those sensual desires and carnal appetites which they indulged, while they lived as natural men, without the knowledge of God, and the assistance of his Holy Spirit.

7. The end of all things is at hand, &c.] This must undoubtedly signify either death, which may be considered as the end of the world to every individual ; or the consummation of all things.

18. If the righteous scarcely, &c.] The apostle speaks of the difficulty with which good men get to heaven through this dangerous and ensnaring world.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 6. Under the mighty hand of God, &c.] By the hand of God we are to understand his judgments, his almighty power, which it is our duty to submit to in the day of our affliction.

13. The church that is at Babylon.] From this passage several commentators imagine, that St. Peter wrote this epistle from the neighbourhood of Babylon, where many Jews remained ever since the Babylonish captivity, among whom he had preached the gospel with considerable success.

The

The Second Epistle general OF P E T E R.

THE ARGUMENT.

THE design of this Epistle is, to confirm the doctrines and instructions delivered in the former; to excite the Christian converts to adorn and stedfastly adhere to their holy religion, as a religion proceeding from God, notwithstanding the artifices of false teachers; (whose character is at large described,) or the persecution of their bitter and inveterate enemies. "St. Peter's style, (says Mr. Blackwall on the Sacred Classics,) expresses the noble vehemence and fervour of his spirit, the full knowledge he had of Christianity, and the strong assurance he had of the truth and certainty of his doctrine. The conflagration of this lower world, and future judgment of angels and men, in the third chapter of the second Epistle, is described in such strong and terrible terms, and with such awful circumstances, that, in the description, we see the planetary heavens, and this our earth, wrapped up with devouring flames; hear the groans of an expiring world, and the crashes of nature tumbling into universal ruin."

C H A P. I.

He exhorteth them to constancy in the faith of Christ.

SIMON Peter, a servant and an apostle of Jesus Christ, to them that have obtained like precious faith with us, through the righteousness of God, and our Saviour Jesus Christ:

2 Grace and peace be multiplied unto you, through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our Lord,

3 According as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that hath called us to glory and virtue:

4 Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises; that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust.

5 And besides this, giving all diligence, add to your faith, virtue; and to virtue, knowledge;

6 And to knowledge, temperance; and to temperance, patience; and to patience, godliness;

7 And to godliness, brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness, charity.

8 For if these things be in you, and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.

9 But he that lacketh these things is blind, and cannot see afar off, and hath forgotten that he was purged from his old sins.

10 Wherefore the rather, brethren, give diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never fall:

11 For so an entrance shall be ministered unto you abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.

12 Wherefore I will not be negligent to put you always in remembrance of these things, though ye know them, and be established in the present truth.

13 Yea, I think it meet, as long as I am in this tabernacle, to stir you up, by putting you in remembrance:

14 Knowing that shortly I must put off this my tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath shewed me.

15 Moreover, I will endeavour, that ye may be able after my decease to have these things always in remembrance.

16 For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eye-witnesses of his majesty.

17 For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

18 And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount.

19 We have also a more sure word of prophecy whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day-star arise in your hearts:

20 Knowing this first, that no prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation.

21 For the prophecy came not in old time by the will of man; but holy men of God spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

C H A P. II.

He foretelleth them of false teachers.

BUT there were false prophets also among the people, even as there shall be false teachers among you, who privily shall bring in damnable heresies, even denying the Lord that bought them, and bring upon themselves swift destruction.

2 And many shall follow their pernicious ways, by reason of whom the way of truth shall be evil spoken of.

3 And through covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you: whose judgment now of a long time lingereth not, and their damnation slumbereth not.

4 For if God spared not the angels that sinned, but cast them down to hell, and delivered them into chains of darkness, to be reserved unto judgment:

5 And

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 4. Partakers of the divine nature.] This manner of speaking is figurative, and very elegantly expressive of that moral likeness to God, which is elsewhere styled, being partakers of his holiness, Ileb. 12. 10.

10. Give diligence, &c.] See that in the diligent exercise of the above-named graces, and in the daily practice of the afore-mentioned duties, you make your calling and election, which are sure in themselves, sure to you; for, by so doing, you shall never fall nor miscarry eternally.

20, 21. No prophecy of the scripture is of any private interpretation, &c.] i. e. Of the person's own private utterance; or, to be confined to any particular event, person, time, or place; but is intended for the general use, direction, and assistance of the children of men to the end of time.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 3. Slumbereth not.] Mr. Blackwall observes, that this is a most beautiful figure, representing the vengeance that shall destroy them, as an angel of judgment pursuing them upon the wing, continually approaching nearer and nearer, and keeping a watchful eye upon them, that he may at length discharge an unerring blow.

4. If God spared not the angels, &c.] Our apostle having asserted, that the judgment of the wicked in general lingereth not, he comes here, in these words, to make his assertion good, by a threefold instance; namely, the angels, the old world, and the people of Sodom and Gomorrah; from whence he would have them conclude, that if God spared not these, he would not long spare false prophets and their followers.

5 And spared not the old world, but saved Noah, the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, bringing in the flood upon the world of the ungodly;

6 And turning the cities of Sodom and Gomorrha into ashes, condemned them with an overthrow, making them an ensample unto those that after should live ungodly;

7 And delivered just Lot, vexed with the filthy conversation of the wicked:

8 (For that righteous man dwelling among them, in seeing and hearing, vexed his righteous soul from day to day with their unlawful deeds.)

9 The Lord knoweth how to deliver the godly out of temptations, and to reserve the unjust unto the day of judgment to be punished;

10 But chiefly them that walk after the flesh, in the lust of uncleanness, and despise government: presumptuous are they, self-willed, they are not afraid to speak evil of dignities:

11 Whereas angels, which are greater in power and might, bring not railing accusation against them before the Lord.

12 But these, as natural brute beasts, made to be taken and destroyed, speak evil of the things that they understand not, and shall utterly perish in their own corruption;

13 And shall receive the reward of unrighteousness, as they that count it pleasure to riot in the day-time: spots they are and blemishes, sporting themselves with their own deceivings, while they feast with you;

14 Having eyes full of adultery, and that cannot cease from sin; beguiling unstable souls: an heart they have exercised with covetous practices; cursed children;

15 Which have forsaken the right way, and are gone astray, following the way of Balaam the son of Bosor, who loved the wages of unrighteousness;

16 But was rebuked for his iniquity; the dumb ass, speaking with man's voice, forbade the madness of the prophet.

17 These are wells without water, clouds that are carried with a tempest, to whom the mist of darkness is reserved for ever.

18 For when they speak great swelling words of vanity, they allure through the lusts of the flesh, through much wantonness, those that were clean escaped from them who live in error:

19 While they promise them liberty, they themselves are the servants of corruption: for of whom a man is overcome, of the same is he brought in bondage.

20 For if after they have escaped the pollutions of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein, and overcome, the latter end is worse with them than the beginning.

21 For it had been better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than after they have known it, to turn from the holy commandment delivered unto them.

22 But it is happened unto them according to the true proverb, The dog is turned to his own vomit again; and the sow that was washed, to her wallowing in the mire.

C H A P. III.

The certainty of Christ's coming to judgment.

THIS second epistle, beloved, I now write unto you; in both which I stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance:

2 That ye may be mindful of the words which were spoken before by the holy prophets, and of the commandment of us the apostles of the Lord and Saviour;

3 Knowing this first, that there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts,

4 And saying, Where is the promise of his coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.

5 For this they willingly are ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water, and in the water.

6 Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished.

7 But the heavens and the earth which are now, by the same word are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment, and perdition of ungodly men.

8 But, beloved, be not ignorant of this one thing, that one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day.

9 The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, (as some men count slackness,) but is long-suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.

10 But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night: in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat; the earth also, and the works that are therein, shall be burnt up.

11 Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness.

12 Looking for and hasting unto the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat?

13 Nevertheless, we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness.

14 Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of him in peace, without spot, and blameless:

15 And account that the long-suffering of our Lord is salvation; even as our beloved brother Paul also, according to the wisdom given unto him, hath written unto you.

16 As also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things: in which are some things hard to be understood, which they that are unlearned and unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures, unto their own destruction.

17 Ye, therefore, beloved, seeing ye know these things before, beware, lest ye also, being led away with the error of the wicked, fall from your own steadfastness:

18 But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory, both now and for ever. Amen.

5. The eighth person, a preacher, &c.] Rather, as Bishop Pearson renders it, The eighth preacher of righteousness.

11. Whereas angels,—bring not railing accusation, &c.] i. e. Whereas the blessed angels, who have more power than men, when they plead against devils themselves, do it not by railing accusation.

14. Cannot cease from sin,] Owing to their confirmed evil habits, and long custom of sinning.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 4. Where is the promise of his coming? Where is the boasted declaration or threatening of his coming?

5. This they willingly are ignorant of, &c.] These scoffers are willingly ignorant what a change God made in the world since the first creation of it: and that he can as easily destroy it, as he did at first create it. To evince this, the apostle shews how God, by water, drowned the old world, and therefore all things had not continued as they were from the beginning of the creation; and that this present world shall, when God's time comes, be destroyed by fire, as the old world was by water.

10. As a thief in the night, &c.] Our apostle here shews, that this great day of the Lord will come unexpectedly, like a thief in the night, surprising the secure and unprepared part of the world. The thief cometh without warning, and without noise; so shall the coming of the Son of man be.

11. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, &c.] These words are St. Peter's practical improvement of the foregoing doctrine, concerning the certain, sudden, and terrible coming of Christ to judgment. If the whole frame of heaven and earth shall be so wonderfully changed, and a new world made, how great a degree of purity should they labour to attain to, who expect to live in this new world.

The First Epistle general OF J O H N.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS first Epistle of John the apostle and evangelist, which was anciently entitled To the Parthians, has always been received by the church as genuine. In the style of this apostle there is a remarkable peculiarity: his sentences, considered separately, are exceeding clear and intelligible; but, when we search for their connection, we frequently meet with greater difficulties than even in St. Paul's epistles. The principal characteristic of his manner is an artless and amiable simplicity, and a singular modesty and candour, in conjunction with a wonderful sublimity of sentiment. His conceptions are delivered to us in the order in which they arose to his mind, and are not the product of laboured investigation. His leading design in this Epistle is, to demonstrate the vanity of faith separate from morality; to soothe and refine the warm and over zealous tempers of the Christians to whom he writes, into that amiable charity and love, for which he himself was so eminent; and to arm them against the snares and efforts of anti-christ, the grand apostate and seducer of the Christian church, and of all who were endued with his spirit.

CHAP. I.

He describeth the person of Christ.

THAT which was from the beginning, which we have heard, which we have seen with our eyes, which we have looked upon, and our hands have handled, of the Word of life;

2 (For the life was manifested, and we have seen it, and bear witness, and shew unto you that eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us;)

3 That which we have seen and heard declare we unto you, that ye also may have fellowship with us: and truly our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.

4 And these things write we unto you, that your joy may be full.

5 This then is the message which we have heard of him, and declare unto you, that God is light, and in him is no darkness at all.

6 If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth:

7 But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin.

8 If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.

9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

10 If we say that we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.

CHAP. II.

Christ our advocate and propitiation.

MY little children, these things write I unto you, that ye sin not. And if any man sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous:

2 And he is the propitiation for our sins: and not for ours only, but also for the sins of the whole world.

3 And hereby we do know that we know him, if we keep his commandments.

4 He that saith, I know him, and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him.

5 But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him.

6 He that saith he abideth in him, ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked.

7 Brethren, I write no new commandment unto you, but an old commandment which ye had from the beginning. The old commandment is the word which ye have heard from the beginning.

8 Again, a new commandment I write unto you, which thing is true in him and in you; because the darkness is past, and the true light now shineth.

9 He that saith he is in the light, and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now.

10 He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is none occasion of stumbling in him.

11 But he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blinded his eyes.

12 I write unto you, little children, because your sins are forgiven you for his name's sake.

13 I write unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I write unto you, young men, because ye have overcome the wicked one. I write unto you, little children, because ye have known the Father.

14 I have written unto you, fathers, because ye have known him that is from the beginning. I have written unto you, young men, because ye are strong, and the word of God abideth in you, and ye have overcome the wicked one.

15 Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him.

16 For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, and the lust of the eye, and the pride of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world.

17 And

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 1. That which was from the beginning, &c.] It is first observable, that whereas St. John began his Gospel with a description of Christ's divinity, he begins this Epistle with a demonstration of the truth of his human nature: for the certainty of which he appeals to the judgment of sense. Accordingly, St. John here, in order to shew the certainty of Christ's incarnation and manifestation in the flesh, brings three of the five senses, namely, hearing, seeing, and feeling, to bear testimony to it.

9. If we confess our sins,] i. e. To God.—It would seem astonishing, that this text should ever have been urged in behalf of auricular confession, were it not for many examples we have of such shameful and absurd reasoning in the arguments which are pleaded in favour of Popery.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 2. For the sins of the whole world.] There were some heretics at this time, the Ebionites, who asserted, that the Messiah was come for the salvation of the Jews only.

7. I write no new commandment, &c.] Here our apostle exhorts Christians to the great duty of brotherly love, assuring them, that it was no new commandment which he enjoined them, but that which they were taught, not only by the Old Testament, but at the first preaching of the gospel amongst them; and, in these respects, the command of love might be called an old commandment, it being a branch of the law of nature, and a known precept of the Jewish religion; though, in other respects, it might be called a new commandment, because urged from a new motive, and by a new example.

18, 19. Little

17 And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever.

18 Little children, it is the last time: and as ye have heard that antichrist shall come, even now are there many antichrists; whereby we know that it is the last time.

19 They went out from us, but they were not of us: for if they had been of us, they would no doubt have continued with us: but they went out, that they might be made manifest, that they were not all of us.

20 But ye have an unction from the Holy One, and ye know all things.

21 I have not written unto you, because ye know not the truth: but because ye know it, and that no lie is of the truth.

22 Who is a liar, but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ? He is antichrist, that denieth the Father and the Son.

23 Whosoever denieth the Son, the same hath not the Father [but he that acknowledgeth the Son, hath the Father also.]

24 Let that therefore abide in you, which ye have heard from the beginning. If that which ye have heard from the beginning shall remain in you, ye also shall continue in the Son, and in the Father.

25 And this is the promise that he hath promised us, even eternal life.

26 These things have I written unto you concerning them that seduce you.

27 But the anointing, which ye have received of him, abideth in you; and ye need not that any man teach you: but as the same anointing teacheth you of all things, and is truth, and is no lie, and even as it hath taught you, ye shall abide in him.

28 And now, little children, abide in him; that, when he shall appear, we may have confidence, and not be ashamed before him at his coming.

29 If ye know that he is righteous, ye know that every one that doeth righteousness is born of him.

C H A P. III.

He declareth the singular love of God.

BEHOLD what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the sons of God! therefore the world knoweth us not, because it knew him not.

2 Beloved, now are we the sons of God; and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is.

3 And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure.

4 Whosoever committeth sin transgresseth also the law: for sin is the transgression of the law.

5 And ye know that he was manifested to take away our sins; and in him is no sin.

6 Whosoever abideth in him sinneth not: whosoever sinneth hath not seen him, neither known him.

7 Little children, let no man deceive you: he that doeth righteousness is righteous, even as he is righteous.

8 He that committeth sin is of the devil: for the devil sinneth from the beginning. For this purpose the Son of God was manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil.

9 Whosoever is born of God doth not commit sin; for his seed remaineth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

18, 19. Little children, it is the last time, &c.] Our apostle tells them, that this is the last time of the Jewish dispensation; and that the destruction of their city, temple, and polity, was now at hand: and as they had heard that antichrist should come, i. e. opposers of Christ, and deniers of him; and by the swarming of these seducers and false teachers now, according to our Saviour's prediction in Matt. 24. they might well conclude that it was the last time.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 19. We know that we are of the truth, &c.] We know that we are real Christians, and, in the consciousness of this, shall assure our hearts, before him, when we draw nigh in the exercises of devotion.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 1. Beloved, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits, &c.] The apostle comes now to caution all Christians to take heed of being seduced by such as should pretend to be inspired by the Holy Spirit of 10 In this the children of God are manifest, and the children of the devil: whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God, neither he that loveth not his brother.

11 For this is the message that ye heard from the beginning, that we should love one another.

12 Not as Cain, who was of that wicked one, and slew his brother: And wherefore slew he him? Because his own works were evil, and his brother's righteous.

13 Marvel not, my brethren, if the world hate you.

14 We know that we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren: he that loveth not his brother abideth in death.

15 Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him.

16 Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.

17 But whoso hath this world's good, and seeth his brother have need, and shutteth up his bowels of compassion from him, how dwelleth the love of God in him?

18 My little children, let us not love in word, neither in tongue, but in deed, and in truth.

19 And hereby we know that we are of the truth, and shall assure our hearts before him.

20 For if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart, and knoweth all things.

21 Beloved, if our heart condemn us not, then have we confidence toward God.

22 And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things that are pleasing in his sight.

23 And this is his commandment, that we should believe on the name of his Son Jesus Christ, and love one another, as he gave us commandment.

24 And he that keepeth his commandments dwelleth in him, and he in him: and hereby we know that he abideth in us, by the Spirit which he hath given us.

C H A P. IV.

John warneth them not to believe all teachers.

BELOVED, believe not every spirit, but try the spirits whether they are of God: because many false prophets are gone out into the world.

2 Hereby know ye the Spirit of God: Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is of God.

3 And every spirit that confesseth not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh, is not of God: and this is that spirit of antichrist whereof ye have heard that it should come, and even now already is it in the world.

4 Ye are of God, little children, and have overcome them: because greater is he that is in you, than he that is in the world.

5 They are of the world: therefore speak they of the world, and the world heareth them.

6 We are of God: he that knoweth God heareth us; he that is not of God heareth not us. Hereby know we the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error.

7 Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God.

8 He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love.

9 In

God, saying, Believe not every spirit; i. e. every teacher who pretends to be inspired, and every doctrine that lays claim to the authority of divine revelation, but try the spirits; examine their doctrines by the rule of God's word, and try from whom they come, whether from the Spirit of God or Satan; for many false prophets and deceivers are gone abroad into the world.

2, 3. Every spirit that confesseth, &c.] In these words our apostle lays down a plain mark and rule of trial, how they might know a teacher that was acted and inspirited by the Spirit of God, from one that was not so: such an one as durst truly and openly, in the face of danger, profess and preach Jesus Christ in his person, nature, and offices, as the incarnate Word, or Son of God, sent from heaven, ascribing virtue and efficacy to the sacrifice of his death, and attributing to him alone the whole glory of a perfect Saviour; this doctrine is of the Spirit, and this Spirit is of God.

ANNO-

9 In this was manifested the love of God toward us, because that God sent his only begotten Son into the world, that we might live through him.

10 Herein is love, not that we loved God, but that he loved us, and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.

11 Beloved, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another.

12 No man hath seen God at any time. If we love one another, God dwelleth in us, and his love is perfected in us.

13 Hereby know we that we dwell in him, and he in us, because he hath given us of his Spirit.

14 And we have seen, and do testify, that the Father sent the Son to be the Saviour of the world.

15 Whosoever shall confess that Jesus is the Son of God, God dwelleth in him, and he in God.

16 And we have known and believed the love that God hath to us. God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God, and God in him.

17 Herein is our love made perfect, that we may have boldness in the day of judgment; because as he is, so are we in this world.

18 There is no fear in love; but perfect love casteth out fear: because fear hath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.

19 We love him, because he first loved us.

20 If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen;

21 And this commandment have we from him, that he who loveth God love his brother also.

C H A P. V.

He that loveth God loveth his children, and keepeth his commandments.

WHOSOEVER believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and every one that loveth him that begat, loveth him also that is begotten of him.

2 By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments.

3 For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments: and his commandments are not grievous.

4 For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. V.

Verse 3. His commandments are not grievous.] The moral law of God is surely as simple, plain, and easy, as the heart of man can desire. To love and worship God, and be kind to each other, is all Christianity requires.

6. Not by water only, but by water and blood, &c.] In this verse we have a lesson delivered to the first Christians, by a beautiful and strong figure, taken from that remarkable circumstance recorded by St. John, (who saw it,) that, when a soldier pierced our Lord's side, both blood and water issued out. Now water is figurative of innocence and purity; and blood, of sacrifice and persecution: so that the evangelist, speaking of the necessity of our imitating Christ, makes use of this figure, to teach, that they must, like him, "live holy and innocent lives; and also, like him, be ready to offer themselves up without spot to God, nor think that they could escape persecution any more than their Master."

7. There are three that bear record, &c.] The Father testified of Jesus, by an immediate voice from heaven, both at his baptism and transfigu-

5 Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?

6 This is he that came by water and blood, even Jesus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood: and it is the Spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.

7 For there are three that bear record in heaven; the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one.

8 And there are three that bear witness in earth; the Spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one.

9 If we receive the witness of men, the witness of God is greater: for this is the witness of God, which he hath testified of his Son.

10 He that believeth on the Son of God hath the witness in himself: he that believeth not God hath made him a liar, because he believeth not the record that God gave of his Son.

11 And this is the record, that God hath given to us eternal life: and this life is in his Son.

12 He that hath the Son hath life; and he that hath not the Son of God hath not life.

13 These things have I written unto you that believe on the name of the Son of God; that ye may know that ye have eternal life, and that ye may believe on the name of the Son of God.

14 And this is the confidence that we have in him, that if we ask any thing according to his will, he heareth us.

15 And if we know that he hear us, whatsoever we ask we know that we have the petitions that we desired of him.

16 If any man see his brother sin a sin which is not unto death, he shall ask, and he shall give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: I do not say that he shall pray for it.

17 All unrighteousness is sin: and there is a sin not unto death.

18 We know that whosoever is born of God sinneth not; but he that is begotten of God keepeth himself, and that wicked one toucheth him not.

19 And we know that we are of God, and the whole world lieth in wickedness.

20 And we know that the Son of God is come, and hath given us an understanding, that we may know him that is true: and we are in him that is true, even in his Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God, and eternal life.

21 Little children, keep yourselves from idols. Amen.

ration: This is my Son, &c. The eternal Word testified its union with him, in that glory with which his humanity was so eminently clothed, and which visibly shone through at his transfiguration on the mount, whereof this apostle was a spectator. And the Holy Ghost also testified the same, descending as a dove, in a visible glorious appearance, upon him, at his baptism.

8. The Spirit, and the water, and the blood, &c.] Namely, the Spirit in the preaching of the gospel, and in the souls of believers; the water or sacrament of baptism, wherein we are baptized in the name of the Son, as well as of the Father; and the blood, i. e. the death of Christ, and the sufferings of those who have sealed the truth with their blood.

16. If any man see his brother sin a sin, &c.] The apostle here assures them, that if any of them prayed for an offending brother, they should be heard in what they desired, unless the person they prayed for had sinned the unpardonable sin, the sin unto death; by which we are to understand apostacy from the Christian religion to idolatry, as appears from the following words, Keep yourselves from idols; which caution has no manner of dependence upon what went before.

The Second Epistle of J O H N.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS Epistle is directed to the Elect Lady; by which some understand a lady named Electa; others, the Christian lady; and others again, an elect or chosen church, and that some Jewish church, metaphorically styled lady. Whoever she be, the apostle congratulates her, because her children led a Christian life. He cautions her likewise to beware of impostors, who denied that Christ was come in the flesh. The brevity of this Epistle renders a long argument needless.

An exhortation to persevere in Christian love and faith.

THE elder unto the elect lady and her children, whom I love in the truth; and not I only, but also all they that have known the truth;

2 For the truth's sake, which dwelleth in us, and shall be with us for ever:

3 Grace be with you, mercy, and peace, from God the Father, and from the Lord Jesus Christ, the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

4 I rejoiced greatly, that I found of thy children walking in truth, as we have received a commandment from the Father.

5 And now, I beseech thee, lady, not as though I wrote a new commandment unto thee, but that which we had from the beginning, that we love one another.

6 And this is love, that we walk after his commandments. This is the commandment, that, as ye have heard from the beginning, ye should walk in it.

7 For many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh. This is a deceiver and an antichrist.

8 Look to yourselves, that we lose not those things which we have wrought, but that we receive a full reward.

9 Whosoever transgresseth, and abideth not in the doctrine of Christ, hath not God: he that abideth in the doctrine of Christ, he hath both the Father and the Son.

10 If there come any unto you, and bring not this doctrine, receive him not into your house, neither bid him God speed.

11 For he that biddeth him God speed is partaker of his evil deeds.

12 Having many things to write unto you, I would not write with paper and ink; but I trust to come unto you, and speak face to face, that our joy may be full.

13 The children of thy elect sister greet thee. Amen.

ANNOTATIONS on the Second Epistle of JOHN.

Verse 7. Many deceivers are entered into the world, who confess not, &c. Many impostors are gone abroad, who deny, some the divinity, others the humanity of Christ, and so overturn and raze the very foundations of Christianity; thus discovering themselves to be antichrist, or persons that set themselves to oppose Jesus Christ.

The Third Epistle of J O H N.

THE ARGUMENT.

IN this Epistle to Gaius, the apostle expresses his concern for his prosperity, his joy in the honourable character he maintained for Christian candour, hospitality, and zeal. He cautions him against the turbulent practices of Diotrephes; and, recommending Demetrius to his friendship, refers what he had further to say to a personal interview.

He commendeth Gaius for his piety.

THE elder unto the well-beloved Gaius, whom I love in the truth.

2 Beloved, I wish above all things that thou mayest prosper and be in health, even as thy soul prospereth.

3 For I rejoiced greatly when the brethren came and testified of the truth that is in thee, even as thou walkest in the truth.

4 I have no greater joy than to hear that my children walk in truth.

5 Beloved, thou doest faithfully whatsoever thou doest to the brethren, and to strangers:

6 Which have borne witness of thy charity before the church; whom if thou bring forward on their journey after a godly sort, thou shalt do well.

7 Because that for his name's sake they went forth, taking nothing of the Gentiles.

8 We therefore ought to receive such, that we might be fellow-helpers to the truth.

67.

9 I wrote unto the church; but Diotrephes, who loveth to have the pre-eminence among them, receiveth us not.

10 Wherefore, if I come, I will remember his deeds which he doeth, prating against us with malicious words: and not content therewith, neither doth he himself receive the brethren, and forbiddeth them that would, and casteth them out of the church.

11 Beloved, follow not that which is evil, but that which is good. He that doeth good is of God, but he that doeth evil hath not seen God.

12 Demetrius hath good report of all men, and of the truth itself: yea, and we also bear record; and ye know that our record is true.

13 I had many things to write, but I will not with ink and pen write unto thee.

14 But I trust I shall shortly see thee, and we shall speak face to face. Peace be to thee. Our friends salute thee. Greet the friends by name.

OF

J U D E.

THE ARGUMENT.

IT has been doubted, whether this Epistle of Jude be genuine, and indeed Eusebius observes, that it was one of the books of the New Testament, which were not universally received. Nevertheless, Clement of Alexandria, Tertullian, and Origen, quote it as written by St. Jude, and reckon it among the books of sacred scripture. It was likewise to be found in all the ancient catalogues of the canonical writings. The design of the apostle is plainly, by describing the character of the false teachers, and pointing out the divine judgments which persons of such a character had reason to suspect, to caution Christians against listening to their suggestions, and being thereby perverted from the faith and purity of the gospel.

He exhorteth to be constant in faith.

JUDE, the servant of Jesus Christ, and brother of James, to them that are sanctified by God the Father, and preserved in Jesus Christ, and called:

2 Mercy unto you, and peace, and love, be multiplied.

3 Beloved, when I gave all diligence to write unto you of the common salvation, it was needful for me to write unto you, and exhort you, that ye should earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints.

4 For there are certain men crept in unawares, who were before of old ordained to this condemnation, ungodly men, turning the grace of our God into lasciviousness, and denying the only Lord God, and our Lord Jesus Christ.

5 I will therefore put you in remembrance, though ye once knew this, how that the Lord, having saved the people out of the land of Egypt, afterward destroyed them that believed not.

6 And the angels which kept not their first estate, but left their own habitation, he hath reserved in everlasting chains under darkness, unto the judgment of the great day.

7 Even as Sodom and Gomorrha, and the cities about them, in like manner giving themselves over to fornication, and going after strange flesh, are set forth for an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire.

8 Likewise also these filthy dreamers defile the flesh, despise dominion, and speak evil of dignities.

9 Yet Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil, (he disputed about the body of Moses,) durst not bring against him a railing accusation, but said, The Lord rebuke thee.

10 But these speak evil of those things which they know not: but what they know naturally, as brute beasts, in those things they corrupt themselves.

11 Woe unto them! for they have gone in the way of Cain, and ran greedily after the error of Balaam for reward, and perished in the gainsaying of Core.

ANNOTATIONS on the general Epistle of JUDE.

Verse 6. The angels which kept not their first estate, &c.] The next example set before them is, that of the apostate angels, who, for their rebellion against God, were thrown down from heaven, and are reserved as so many prisoners in chains of darkness to the judgment of the great day; when their condition shall be more miserable than now it is.

9. Yet Michael the archangel, when contending with the devil, &c.] Our apostle having, in the preceding verse, charged seducers with contemptuous speaking against governors and government, in this, aggravates the impudence and impiety of it, by the carriage of Michael towards the devil. This argument is taken from the greater to the less, and runs thus: If Michael, an archangel, so excellent in nature, so high in 12 These are spots in your feasts of charity, when they feast with you, feeding themselves without fear; clouds they are without water, carried about of winds; trees whose fruit withereth, without fruit, twice dead, plucked up by the roots;

13 Raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame; wandering stars, to whom is reserved the blackness of darkness for ever.

14 And Enoch also, the seventh from Adam, prophesied of these, saying, Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousand of his saints,

15 To execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard speeches, which ungodly sinners have spoken against him.

16 These are murmurers, complainers, walking after their own lusts; and their mouth speaketh great swelling words, having men's persons in admiration because of advantage.

17 But, beloved, remember ye the words which were spoken before of the apostles of our Lord Jesus Christ.

18 How that they told you there should be mockers in the last time, who should walk after their own ungodly lusts.

19 These be they who separate themselves, sensual, having not the Spirit.

20 But ye, beloved, building up yourselves on your most holy faith, praying in the Holy Ghost,

21 Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.

22 And of some have compassion, making a difference:

23 And others save with fear, pulling them out of the fire; hating even the garment spotted by the flesh.

24 Now unto him that is able to keep you from falling, and to present you faultless before the presence of his glory with exceeding joy,

25 To the only wise God our Saviour, be glory and majesty, dominion and power, both now and ever. Amen.

office, contending with Satan, an impure spirit, yet used great modesty, without the least indecency of expression towards him; who, and what are these men, who despise dominion, and dare speak evil of dignities?

17. Remember ye the words which were spoken before of the apostles, &c.] Having described those seducers at large, our apostle now comes to exhort them to whom he wrote to beware of such; assuring them, that the apostles of Christ, St. Paul, and particularly St. Peter, had expressly foretold concerning these wicked scoffers, which would rise in the church in the last times; who he shews were such, without any just cause, separating themselves from the communion of the church, pretending greatly to sanctity, but addicted to sensuality, and destitute of the Holy Spirit.

THE

THE REVELATION

OF

SAINT JOHN the Divine.

THE ARGUMENT.

THIS prophetic book is intitled, The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which he sent and signified by his angel to his servant John. There is but little reason to doubt, that the John here mentioned was the evangelist of that name, and the author of the three Epistles. It is generally agreed, that he was banished to the isle of Patmos in the reign of Domitian, for his adherence to the Christian faith. The Apocalypse consists of twenty-two chapters. The three first are an instruction to the bishops of the seven churches of Asia Minor: the fifteen following contain the persecutions which the church was to suffer from the Jews, heretics, and the Roman emperors. St. John likewise prophesies of the vengeance of God, which he will exercise against those persecutors, against the Roman empire, and the city of Rome, which he describes under the name of Babylon, the great whore, seated upon seven hills. The four last chapters describe the triumph of the church over its enemies, the marriage of the Lamb, and the final happiness of the church triumphant. Although the authority of this book was called in question in the beginning of the third century, yet it was universally acknowledged, and mentioned with the highest respect, during the two preceding centuries: and a learned writer observes, that hardly any book has received more early, more authentic, or more satisfactory attestations. Mr. Blackwall says, The Revelation is written much in the same style with the Gospel and Epistles, and entertains and instructs the reader with variety of Christian morals, and sublime mysteries. It is in vain to look for more lofty descriptions or majestic images than are to be found in this book. Could the acclamations and hallelujahs of God's household be expressed with more propriety and magnificence than by the shouts of vast multitudes, the roarings of many waters, and the dreadful sound of the loudest and strongest thunders? The description of the Son of God in the nineteenth chapter, from verse 11 to 17. is in all the pomp and grandeur of language. St. Jerom says, The excellency of this book is above all praise: and Monsieur Saurin makes this excellent observation, That it is a mortifying book to a mind greedy of knowledge and science; but a very satisfactory and agreeable one to a heart solicitous about maxims and precepts, for the regulating of our tempers, and the conducting of our lives.

The coming of Christ.

THE Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave unto him, to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass; and he sent and signified it by his angel unto his servant John:

2 Who bare record of the word of God, and of the testimony of Jesus Christ, and of all things that he saw.

3 Blessed is he that readeth, and they that hear the words of this prophecy, and keep those things which are written therein: for the time is at hand.

4 JOH^N, to the seven churches which are in Asia: Grace be unto you, and peace, from him which is, and which was, and which is to come; and from the seven spirits which are before his throne;

5 And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first-begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth: unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood,

6 And hath made us kings and priests unto God and his Father; to him be glory and dominion for ever and ever. Amen.

7 Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen.

8 I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the ending, saith the Lord, which is, and which was, and which is to come, the Almighty.

9 I John, who also am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ, was in the isle that is called Patmos, for the word of God, and for the testimony of Jesus Christ.

10 I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day, and heard behind me a great voice, as of a trumpet, 11 Saying, I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last: and, What thou seest write in a book, and send it unto the seven churches which are in Asia; unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamos, and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia, and unto Laodicea.

12 And I turned to see the voice that spake with me. And, being turned, I saw seven golden candlesticks;

13 And in the midst of the seven candlesticks, one like unto the Son of man, clothed with a garment down to the foot, and girt about the paps with a golden girdle.

14 His head and his hairs were white like wool, as white as snow; and his eyes were as a flame of fire:

15 And his feet like unto fine brass, as if they burned in a furnace; and his voice as the sound of many waters:

16 And he had in his right hand seven stars; and out of his mouth went a sharp two-edged sword; and his countenance was as the sun shineth in his strength.

17 And, when I saw him, I fell at his feet as dead: and he laid his right hand upon me, saying unto me, Fear not; I am the first and the last:

18 I am

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. I.

Verse 4. From the seven spirits which are before his throne.] Some have explained this of the seven archangels, and urged it as an instance of invocation to them. But we may rather suppose the Spirit of God to be symbolically represented by the seven spirits before the throne; as it is a view very agreeable to the genius of this emblematical book.

7. And all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him, &c.] In this verse is prefixed the great moral which the whole book is designed to illustrate: namely, That though great opposition might be made against the cause and kingdom of Christ, yet it should be altogether in vain, and his kingdom should triumph in the most illustrious manner; so that all who opposed it should have the greatest reason to mourn. And as this series of divine prophecy begins, so it ends with this sentiment, and with the joyful consent of his faithful servants to this glorious truth, which should fill the enemies of Christ with such terror and dismay.

11. The seven churches which are in Asia, &c.] The churches here mentioned were the principal, and the epistles to them contain many things of universal concern. And as there is plainly an intention to represent the regard of Christ to ministers and churches, by his walking among golden candlesticks, and holding stars in his right hand, the number seven may be mentioned, as it seems to harmonize with some other parts of this book; namely, with the seven seals, seven trumpets, seven thunders, and seven spirits before the throne.

ANNO-

18 I am he that liveth, and was dead; and, behold, I am alive for evermore, Amen; and have the keys of hell and of death.

19 Write the things which thou hast seen, and the things which are, and the things which shall be hereafter;

20 The mystery of the seven stars which thou sawest in my right hand, and the seven golden candlesticks. The seven stars are the angels of the seven churches; and the seven candlesticks, which thou sawest, are the seven churches.

CHAP. II.

What is to be written to the angels of the churches of Ephesus, Smyrna, &c.

UNTO the angel of the church of Ephesus write; These things saith he that holdeth the seven stars in his right hand, who walketh in the midst of the seven golden candlesticks;

2 I know thy works, and thy labour, and thy patience, and how thou canst not bear them which are evil: and thou hast tried them which say they are apostles, and are not, and hast found them liars:

3 And hast borne, and hast patience, and for my name's sake hast laboured, and hast not fainted.

4 Nevertheless, I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.

5 Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent.

6 But this thou hast, that thou hatest the deeds of the Nicolaitanes, which I also hate.

7 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God.

8 And unto the angel of the church in Smyrna write; These things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive:

9 I know thy works, and tribulation, and poverty, (but thou art rich,) and I know the blasphemy of them which say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogue of Satan.

10 Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold, the devil shall cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days: be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life.

11 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death.

12 And to the angel of the church in Pergamos write; These things saith he which hath the sharp sword with two edges;

13 I know thy works, and where thou dwellest, even where Satan's seat is: and thou holdest fast my name, and hast not denied my faith, even in those days where-in Antipas was my faithful martyr, who was slain among you, where Satan dwelleth.

14 But I have a few things against thee, because thou hast there them that hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balak to cast a stumbling-block before the children of Israel, to eat things sacrificed unto idols, and to commit fornication.

15 So hast thou also them that hold the doctrine of the Nicolaitanes, which thing I hate.

16 Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth.

17 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the hidden manna, and will give him a white stone, and in the stone a new name written, which no man knoweth saving he that receiveth it.

18 And unto the angel of the church in Thyatira write; These things saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like unto a flame of fire, and his feet are like fine brass;

19 I know thy works, and charity, and service, and faith, and thy patience, and thy works; and the last is more than the first.

20 Notwithstanding, I have a few things against thee, because thou sufferest that woman Jezebel, which calleth herself a prophetess, to teach and to seduce my servants to commit fornication, and to eat things sacrificed unto idols.

21 And I gave her space to repent of her fornication, and she repented not.

22 Behold, I will cast her into a bed, and them that commit adultery with her into great tribulation, except they repent of their deeds.

23 And I will kill her children with death; and all the churches shall know that I am he which searcheth the reins and hearts: and I will give unto every one of you according to your works.

24 But unto you I say, and unto the rest in Thyatira, (as many as have not this doctrine, and which have not known the depths of Satan, as they speak,) I will put upon you none other burden:

25 But that which ye have already, hold fast till I come.

26 And he that overcometh, and keepeth my works unto the end, to him will I give power over the nations;

27 And he shall rule them with a rod of iron: as the vessels of a potter shall they be broken to shivers, even as I received of my Father.

28 And I will give him the morning star.

29 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

CHAP. III.

To the churches of Sardis, Philadelphia, and Laodicea.

AND unto the angel of the church in Sardis write; These things saith he that hath the seven spirits of God, and the seven stars; I know thy works, that thou hast a name that thou livest, and art dead.

2 Be watchful, and strengthen the things which remain, that are ready to die: for I have not found thy works perfect before God.

3 Remember therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee.

4 Thou

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. II.

Verse 4. Nevertheless, I have somewhat against thee, because thou hast left thy first love.] It is very plain, that these epistles, though inscribed to the angels or pastors of the churches, are directed to the church themselves, as represented by the former; just as the Jewish church was represented by Joshua, their high-priest, Zech. 3. 1.

5. Remember—or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick, &c.] This intimates how terrible a thing it would be, to have the gospel taken away from them. And, indeed, it has been executed upon them in a very awful manner; for though there be a little congregation at Smyrna, yet most of these Asiatic churches are quite ruined, and with them the cities in which they stood, though they were once very much celebrated.

20. That woman Jezebel, &c.] When the description of the followers of Jezebel, in this verse, is compared with what was before said of the Nicolaitanes in the two preceding, the resemblance appears so great, that one may be induced to believe, that it is the same heresy which is represented under both these views; namely, the doctrine of those who taught, that it was lawful to dissemble our religious principles, and occasionally conform to superstition and idolatry, in order to avoid persecution. And as Jezebel was so infamous an adulteress, and so great a mistress of seducing arts, there was an evident propriety in such a representation, 1 Kings 16. 31. and 21. 25.

26. To him will I give power over the nations.] This passage seems to be properly explained of that final triumph of Christ over his enemies in the last day, when he shall crush them all to utter and irrecoverable ruin; and all his saints, raised from the dead, and clothed with robes of glory, shall sit down with him on his throne, and constitute that illustrious body which, in and with their exalted Head, shall subdue every opposing power.

ANNO-

4 Thou hast a few names even in Sardis, which have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy.

5 He that overcometh, the same shall be clothed in white raiment; and I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, but I will confess his name before my Father, and before his angels.

6 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

7 And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write; These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, he that hath the key of David, he that openeth, and no man shutteth; and shutteth, and no man openeth;

8 I know thy works: behold, I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it: for thou hast a little strength, and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

9 Behold, I will make them of the synagogue of Satan, (which say they are Jews, and are not, but do lie,) behold, I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, and to know that I have loved thee.

10 Because thou hast kept the word of my patience, I also will keep thee from the hour of temptation, which shall come upon all the world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

11 Behold, I come quickly: hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown.

12 Him that overcometh will I make a pillar in the temple of my God, and he shall go no more out: and I will write upon him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, which is New Jerusalem, which cometh down out of heaven from my God; and I will write upon him my new name.

13 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

14 And unto the angel of the church of the Laodiceans write; These things saith the Amen, the faithful and true Witness, the beginning of the creation of God;

15 I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would thou wert cold or hot.

16 So then, because thou art lukewarm, and neither cold nor hot, I will spue thee out of my mouth:

17 Because thou sayest, I am rich, and increased with goods, and have need of nothing; and knowest not that thou art wretched, and miserable, and poor, and blind, and naked.

18 I counsel thee to buy of me gold tried in the fire, that thou mayest be rich; and white raiment, that thou mayest be clothed, and that the shame of thy nakedness do not appear; and anoint thine eyes with eye-salve, that thou mayest see.

19 As many as I love I rebuke and chasten: be zealous, therefore, and repent.

20 Behold, I stand at the door, and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. III.

Verse 4. They shall walk with me in white: for they are worthy.] It is well known, that white robes were worn on occasions of great joy, and sometimes in triumphant processions; to both which here is probably a reference, as indeed it seems that triumph and feasting would naturally go together.

5. I will not blot out his name out of the book of life, &c.] This plainly implies, that some names shall be blotted out from the book of life; and consequently, as nothing can occasion an alteration in the decrees of God, it proves, that the book of life does not signify the catalogue of those whom God has absolutely purposed to save; but rather, of those who were to be considered as heirs of the kingdom of heaven, in consequence of their Christian profession, till by apostacy from it they threw themselves out of that society to which they before belonged.

7. These things saith he that is holy, he that is true, &c.] This is so peculiarly the prerogative of God, that it may be wondered that no greater stress should have been laid upon it, in proof of the Deity of our blessed Redeemer, by many writers who have pressed other texts, of a much more dubious nature, to serve in the cause.

9. Behold, I will make them to come and worship before thy feet, &c.] Were we more particularly acquainted with the history of these seven churches, in the times immediately succeeding the date of these epistles, we might perhaps find many remarkable illustrations of several passages in them, and of this among the rest.

15. I would thou wert cold or hot.] We must not understand this expression in an absolute, but only in a limited sense, intimating to us

21 To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne.

22 He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches.

C H A P. IV.

The vision of the throne.

AFTER this I looked, and, behold, a door was opened in heaven: and the first voice which I heard was as it were of a trumpet talking with me; which said, Come up hither, and I will shew thee things which must be hereafter.

2 And immediately I was in the Spirit; and, behold, a throne was set in heaven, and one sat on the throne.

3 And he that sat was to look upon like a jasper, and a sardine-stone: and there was a rainbow round about the throne, in sight like unto an emerald.

4 And round about the throne were four and twenty seats: and upon the seats I saw four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white raiment; and they had on their heads crowns of gold.

5 And out of the throne proceeded lightnings, and thunderings, and voices: and there were seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, which are the seven Spirits of God.

6 And before the throne there was a sea of glass like unto crystal; and in the midst of the throne, and round about the throne, were four beasts, full of eyes before and behind.

7 And the first beast was like a lion, and the second beast like a calf, and the third beast had a face as a man, and the fourth beast was like a flying eagle.

8 And the four beasts had each of them six wings about him; and they were full of eyes within; and they rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, Lord God Almighty, which was, and is, and is to come.

9 And when those beasts give glory, and honour, and thanks, to him that sat on the throne, who liveth for ever and ever,

10 The four and twenty elders fall down before him that sat on the throne, and worship him that liveth for ever and ever, and cast their crowns before the throne, saying,

11 Thou art worthy, O Lord, to receive glory, and honour, and power: for thou hast created all things, and for thy pleasure they are and were created.

C H A P. V.

The book with seven seals.

AND I saw in the right hand of him that sat on the throne a book written within and on the backside, sealed with seven seals.

2 And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, Who is worthy to open the book, and to loose the seals thereof?

3 And no man in heaven, nor in earth, neither under the earth, was able to open the book, neither to look thereon.

4 And that the condition of an atheist, or openly profane person, is more hopeful than that of a formal hypocrite.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IV.

Verse 2. Immediately I was in the Spirit, &c.] This phrase signifies, to be under a strong and supernatural impulse, caused by the miraculous operation of the Spirit of God, acting on the imagination in such a manner as to open extraordinary scenes, which had not any exact external archetype.

3. He that sat was to look upon like a jasper, &c.] This seems to refer not so much to the colour of these stones, as to their lustre, and the radiancy of the light as reflected from them when perfectly polished. The rainbow of emerald was, no doubt, to express a covenant of peace, of which the rainbow was, with Noah, an appointed token.

5. Seven lamps of fire burning before the throne, &c.] Lamps of fire, or lambent flames, like those that fell upon the apostles on the day of Pentecost, might perhaps be emblems of the blessed Spirit of God, in its various and powerful operations; especially those by which the mind of intelligent and created beings are illuminated and purified.

6. Round about the throne were four beasts, &c.] It was surely an impropriety in our translators to render the word beasts. It certainly signifies any kind of animals, i. e. creatures which have animal life, as well as beasts.

8. They rest not day and night, saying, Holy, holy, holy, &c.] This anthem is that which Isaiah tells us he heard the seraphim sing; and it is observable, that many other hymns recorded in this book are borrowed from the Old Testament.

4 And I wept much, because no man was found worthy to open and to read the book, neither to look thereon.

5 And one of the elders saith unto me, Weep not: behold, the Lion of the tribe of Juda, the Root of David, hath prevailed to open the book, and to loose the seven seals thereof.

6 And I beheld, and, lo, in the midst of the throne, and of the four beasts, and in the midst of the elders, stood a Lamb, as it had been slain, having seven horns, and seven eyes, which are the seven Spirits of God sent forth into all the earth.

7 And he came and took the book out of the right hand of him that sat upon the throne.

8 And when he had taken the book, the four beasts and four and twenty elders fell down before the Lamb, having every one of them harps, and golden vials full of odours, which are the prayers of saints.

9 And they sung a new song, saying, Thou art worthy to take the book, and to open the seals thereof; for thou wast slain, and hast redeemed us to God by thy blood, out of every kindred, and tongue, and people, and nation;

10 And hast made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.

11 And I beheld, and I heard the voice of many angels round about the throne, and the beasts, and the elders: and the number of them was ten thousand times ten thousand, and thousands of thousands;

12 Saying with a loud voice, Worthy is the Lamb that was slain to receive power, and riches, and wisdom, and strength, and honour, and glory, and blessing.

13 And every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, heard I, saying, Blessing, and honour, and glory, and power, be unto him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb, for ever and ever.

14 And the four beasts said, Amen. And the four and twenty elders fell down and worshipped him that liveth for ever and ever.

CHAP. VI.

The opening of the seals in order, and what followed thereupon.

AND I saw, when the Lamb opened one of the seals, and I heard as it were the noise of thunder, one of the four beasts, saying, Come and see.

2 And I saw, and, behold, a white horse; and he that sat on him had a bow; and a crown was given unto him: and he went forth conquering, and to conquer.

3 And when he had opened the second seal, I heard the second beast say, Come and see.

4 And there went out another horse that was red: and power was given to him that sat thereon to take peace from the earth, and that they should kill one another: and there was given unto him a great sword.

5 And when he had opened the third seal, I heard the third beast say, Come and see. And I beheld, and, lo, a black horse: and he that sat on him had a pair of balances in his hand.

6 And I heard a voice in the midst of the four beasts say, A measure of wheat for a penny, and three measures of barley for a penny; and see thou hurt not the oil and the wine.

7 And when he had opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth beast say, Come and see.

8 And I looked, and, behold, a pale horse: and his name that sat on him was Death, and hell followed with him: and power was given unto them over the fourth part of the earth, to kill with sword, and with hunger, and with death, and with the beasts of the earth.

9 And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held.

10 And they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood on them that dwell on the earth?

11 And white robes were given unto every one of them; and it was said unto them, that they should rest yet for a little season, until their fellow-servants also, and their brethren that should be killed as they were, should be fulfilled.

12 And I beheld, when he had opened the sixth seal, and, lo, there was a great earthquake; and the sun became black as sackcloth of hair, and the moon became as blood;

13 And the stars of heaven fell unto the earth, even as a fig-tree casteth her untimely figs, when she is shaken of a mighty wind.

14 And the heaven departed as a scroll when it is rolled together; and every mountain and island were moved out of their places:

15 And the kings of the earth, and the great men, and the rich men, and the chief captains, and the mighty men, and every bondman, and every free-man, hid themselves in the dens, and in the rocks of the mountains;

16 And said to the mountains and rocks, Fall on us, and hide us from the face of him that sitteth on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb.

17 For the great day of his wrath is come; and who shall be able to stand?

CHAP. VII.

The servants of God sealed.

AND after these things, I saw four angels standing on the four corners of the earth, holding the four winds of the earth, that the wind should not blow on the earth, nor on the sea, nor on any tree.

2 And I saw another angel ascending from the east, having the seal of the living God: and he cried with a loud voice to the four angels, to whom it was given to hurt the earth and the sea,

3 Saying, Hurt not the earth, neither the sea, nor the trees, till we have sealed the servants of our God in their foreheads.

4 And I heard the number of them which were sealed: and there were sealed an hundred and forty and four thousand, of all the tribes of the children of Israel.

5 Of the tribe of Juda were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Reuben were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Gad were sealed twelve thousand.

6 Of the tribe of Aser were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Nephthalim were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Manasses were sealed twelve thousand.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VI.

Verse 2. Conquering, and to conquer.] The first seal may refer to the triumph of Christianity over Jewish and heathen opposition, by the labours of its first preachers.

4. Another horse that was red.] This seems to denote the great slaughter and desolation that was to be made by approaching wars.

5. A black horse.] Which might betoken approaching famine.

6. A measure of wheat for a penny, &c.] This may seem to an English reader a description of great plenty; but it certainly intends the contrary. The penny was about seven-pence halfpenny of our money; and it appears from Tacitus, as well as from Matt. 20. 2. to have been the daily wages of a labourer.

9. The fifth seal, &c.] Mr. Lowman interprets this seal of the severe persecution under Dioclesian, from A. D. 270 to 304; which was the most extensive and furious of all; and so many Christians suffered death, that the heathens boasted, in an ancient inscription, that they had effaced the name and superstition of the Christians.

10. How long, O Lord, holy and true, dost thou not judge and avenge our blood, &c.] We are not to understand this as the language of personal revenge, but zeal for the honour of God, which was so intimately concerned in the punishment to be inflicted upon those blood-thirsty persecutors.

12. Lo, there was a great earthquake, &c.] Awful judgments and calamities are often described by such commotions and alterations in the natural world.

16. The wrath of the Lamb.] This is a very emphatical phrase, signifying, that our Redeemer himself, who loved us, and gave himself for us, will yet finally have no pity on the impenitent.

17. The great day of his wrath is come, &c.] Mr. Lowman interprets this sixth seal, of the great commotions in the empire from Maximilian to Constantine the Great, who put an end to the persecution of heathen Rome, from A. D. 304 to A. D. 323; during which time were many bloody battles fought between the contending emperors, till Constantine abolished paganism, and established the Christian religion.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VII.

Verses 4, 5, 6, 7, 8.] The sense of all these verses seems to be this, That although, within the period of time which is signified under the seventh seal, there shall be great persecutions of the church; yet God would preserve unto himself a great number in all his churches, who should not apostatize from the faith, but persevere unto the end, being sealed unto the day of redemption.

9. Clothed

7 Of the tribe of Simeon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Levi were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Isachar were sealed twelve thousand.

8 Of the tribe of Zabulon were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Joseph were sealed twelve thousand. Of the tribe of Benjamin were sealed twelve thousand.

9 After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands;

10 And cried with a loud voice, saying, Salvation to our God, which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb.

11 And all the angels stood round about the throne, and about the elders, and the four beasts, and fell before the throne on their faces, and worshipped God,

12 Saying, Amen: Blessing, and glory, and wisdom, and thanksgiving, and honour, and power, and might, be unto our God for ever and ever. Amen.

13 And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they?

14 And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb;

15 Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple; and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them.

16 They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more, neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat:

17 For the Lamb, which is in the midst of the throne, shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters; and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes.

CHAP. VIII.

The opening of the seventh seal.

AND when he had opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven about the space of half an hour.

2 And I saw the seven angels which stood before God, and to them were given seven trumpets.

3 And another angel came and stood at the altar, having a golden censer; and there was given unto him much incense, that he should offer it with the prayers of all saints, upon the golden altar which was before the throne.

4 And the smoke of the incense which came with the prayers of the saints ascended up before God out of the angel's hand.

5 And the angel took the censer, and filled it with fire of the altar, and cast it into the earth: and there

9. Clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands;] Alluding to a custom among the Romans, who used thus to adorn those who conquered in war.

14. Washed their robes—in the blood of the Lamb.] This is used as an equivalent expression to that of having never defiled them.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. VIII.

Verse 3. He should offer it with the prayers of all saints, upon the golden altar which was before the throne.] Some have thought, that this is a plain intimation of the doctrine of the intercession of angels, which is urged to have been an erroneous Jewish notion; but we rather agree with those interpreters who consider this angel as an emblem of Christ.

7. There followed hail and fire mingled with blood, &c.] Mr. Lowman interprets this of the bloody wars in Constantine's family; which, together with the invasion of the neighbouring nations, almost ruined the whole strength of the Roman empire, fell heavy on its great men, and particularly on the family of Constantine, which during this period was quite extinguished, from A. D. 337 to A. D. 379.

8. As it were a great mountain, &c.] Grotius explains this of the soldiers' rapine upon the people of Jerusalem, and firing the towers; but Mr. Lowman, of the invasion of Italy by the northern nations, and the taking of Rome by Alaric, general of the Goths, who plundered it, and set it on fire; and this calamity was followed by the spoil of the greatest part of Italy, from A. D. 379 to A. D. 412.

10. There fell a great star from heaven, &c.] Some explain this of Mahomet, whose name signifies illustrious. But Mr. Lowman, with greater probability, interprets it of the succeeding ravages in Italy, by founding the Gothic kingdom there, and putting an end to the Roman empire, from A. D. 412 to A. D. 493. Agreeably to which, historians inform us, that several provinces of the empire were dismembered, the were voices, and thunderings, and lightnings, and an earthquake.

6 And the seven angels, which had the seven trumpets, prepared themselves to sound.

7 The first angel sounded, and there followed hail and fire mingled with blood, and they were cast upon the earth: and the third part of trees was burnt up, and all green grass was burnt up.

8 And the second angel sounded, and as it were a great mountain burning with fire was cast into the sea; and the third part of the sea became blood:

9 And the third part of the creatures which were in the sea, and had life, died; and the third part of the ships were destroyed.

10 And the third angel sounded, and there fell a great star from heaven, burning as it were a lamp, and it fell upon the third part of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters;

11 And the name of the star is called Wormwood: and the third part of the waters became wormwood; and many men died of the waters, because they were made bitter.

12 And the fourth angel sounded, and the third part of the sun was smitten, and the third part of the moon, and the third part of the stars; so as the third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not for a third part of it, and the night likewise.

13 And I beheld, and heard an angel flying through the midst of heaven, saying with a loud voice, Woe, woe, woe, to the inhabitants of the earth, by reason of the other voices of the trumpet of the three angels which are yet to sound!

CHAP. IX.

The fifth angel soundeth.

AND the fifth angel sounded, and I saw a star fall from heaven unto the earth: and to him was given the key of the bottomless pit.

2 And he opened the bottomless pit, and there arose a smoke out of the pit, as the smoke of a great furnace; and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the pit.

3 And there came out of the smoke locusts upon the earth; and unto them was given power, as the scorpions of the earth have power.

4 And it was commanded them that they should not hurt the grass of the earth, neither any green thing, neither any tree; but only those men which have not the seal of God in their foreheads.

5 And to them it was given, that they should not kill them, but that they should be tormented five months; and their torment was as the torment of a scorpion, when he striketh a man.

6 And in those days shall men seek death, and shall not find city of Rome was again taken and plundered, and Italy became a prey to the barbarous nations.

12. The third part of them was darkened, and the day shone not, &c.] Mr. Lowman interprets this of the wars in Italy, between the Goths and Justinian's generals, whereby the Exarchate of Ravenna was erected, and all remaining power and authority at Rome suppressed, and the imperial city became subject to Ravenna, where the exarch, or lieutenant, of the eastern emperors, resided; from A. D. 493 to A. D. 586.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. IX.

Verse 3. There came out of the smoke locusts, &c.] Many protestant writers imagine these locusts to signify the religious orders of monks and friars, &c. Mr. Mede interprets it of the inundation of the Saracens; and, indeed, with considerable circumstances of resemblance. The ingenious Mr. Lowman confirms this interpretation, and shews, that the rise and progress of the Mahometan religion and empire, till checked by intestine divisions, is a remarkable accomplishment of this part of the prophecy: which is further illustrated by the ignorance and error the Mahometans spread every where; their great numbers, and their hardness; their habits, customs, and manners; namely, twisting their hair, wearing beards, and their care of their horses; invading their neighbours in summer like locusts, yet sparing the trees and fruits of the countries they invaded, &c. the captivity of the men, and the miserable condition of the women, exposed to persons who gave an almost unbounded liberty to their lusts, which was enough to make them even desire death, ver. 6. All these circumstances correspond to the character of the Arabians, the history of this period, and to the particulars of the prophecy. This period extends from A. D. 568 to A. D. 675.

5. Five months.] According to the usual method of interpreting spaces of time in this book, it is a day for a year; i. e. a hundred and fifty years.

ANNO-

find it; and shall desire to die, and death shall flee from them.

7 And the shapes of the locusts were like unto horses prepared unto battle; and on their heads were as it were crowns like gold, and their faces were as the faces of men.

8 And they had hair as the hair of women, and their teeth were as the teeth of lions.

9 And they had breastplates as it were breastplates of iron; and the sound of their wings was as the sound of chariots of many horses running to battle.

10 And they had tails like unto scorpions; and there was stings in their tails: and their power was to hurt men five months.

11 And they had a king over them, which is the angel of the bottomless pit, whose name in the Hebrew tongue is Abaddon, but in the Greek tongue hath his name Apollyon.

12 One woe is past, and, behold, there come two woes more hereafter.

13 And the sixth angel sounded, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar, which is before God,

14 Saying to the sixth angel which had the trumpet, Loose the four angels which are bound in the great river Euphrates.

15 And the four angels were loosed, which were prepared for an hour, and a day, and a month, and a year, for to slay the third part of men.

16 And the number of the army of the horsemen were two hundred thousand thousand: and I heard the number of them.

17 And thus I saw the horses in the vision, and them that sat on them, having breastplates of fire, and of jacinth, and brimstone: and the heads of the horses were as the heads of lions; and out of their mouths issued fire, and smoke, and brimstone.

18 By these three was the third part of men killed, by the fire, and by the smoke, and by the brimstone, which issued out of their mouths.

19 For their power is in their mouth, and in their tails: for their tails were like unto serpents, and had heads, and with them they do hurt.

20 And the rest of the men, which were not killed by these plagues, yet repented not of the works of their hands, that they should not worship devils, and idols of gold, and silver, and brass, and stone, and of wood; which neither can see, nor hear, nor walk:

21 Neither repented they of their murders, nor of their sorceries, nor of their fornication, nor of their thefts.

C H A P. X.

John eateth the book.

AND I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud, and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire.

2 And he had in his hand a little book open: and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left foot on the earth,

3 And cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth: and when he had cried, seven thunders uttered their voices.

4 And when the seven thunders had uttered their voices, I was about to write: and I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Seal up those things which the seven thunders uttered, and write them not.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. X.

Verse 1. I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud, &c.] The beauties of this noble description are finely illustrated by that elegant and pious writer, the Rev. Mr. J. Hervey, in his Meditations, vol. ii.

7. The mystery of God should be finished.] Dr. Butler, the late worthy Bishop of Durham, understands by this the great mystery of Providence, in suffering vice and confusion to prevail so much in the world. As it is here said, that the mystery of God should be finished or fulfilled, it seems plainly to intimate, that the things yet to be revealed should extend to the end of time; and when it is declared, that this should be fulfilled in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, who was about to sound it, it intimates, that the remainder of time, even to the end of the world, should be comprehended in that period of prophecy to which the seventh trumpet, introductory to the vials, relates.

5 And the angel, which I saw stand upon the sea, and upon the earth, lifted up his hand to heaven,

6 And sware by him that liveth for ever and ever, who created heaven and the things that therein are, and the earth and the things that therein are, and the sea and the things which are therein, that there should be time no longer.

7 But in the days of the voice of the seventh angel, when he shall begin to sound, the mystery of God should be finished, as he hath declared to his servants the prophets.

8 And the voice which I heard from heaven spake unto me again, and said, Go, and take the little book which is open in the hand of the angel which standeth upon the sea, and upon the earth.

9 And I went unto the angel, and said unto him, Give me the little book. And he said unto me, Take it, and eat it up; and it shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall be in thy mouth sweet as honey.

10 And I took the little book out of the angel's hand, and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it my belly was bitter.

11 And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings.

C H A P. XI.

The two witnesses prophesy.

AND there was given me a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein.

2 But the court which is without the temple leave out, and measure it not; for it is given unto the Gentiles; and the holy city shall they tread under foot forty and two months.

3 And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and three-score days, clothed in sackcloth.

4 These are the two olive-trees, and the two candlesticks standing before the God of the earth.

5 And if any man will hurt them, fire proceedeth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies: and if any man will hurt them, he must in this manner be killed.

6 These have power to shut heaven, that it rain not in the days of their prophecy; and have power over waters to turn them to blood, and to smite the earth with all plagues, as often as they will.

7 And when they shall have finished their testimony, the beast that ascendeth out of the bottomless pit shall make war against them, and shall overcome them, and kill them.

8 And their dead bodies shall lie in the street of the great city, which spiritually is called Sodom and Egypt, where also our Lord was crucified.

9 And they of the people, and kindreds, and tongues, and nations, shall see their dead bodies three days and an half, and shall not suffer their dead bodies to be put in graves.

10 And they that dwell upon the earth shall rejoice over them, and make merry, and shall send gifts one to another; because these two prophets tormented them that dwelt on the earth.

11 And after three days and an half, the Spirit of life from God entered into them, and they stood upon their feet; and great fear fell upon them which saw them.

12 And they heard a great voice from heaven, saying unto

9. It shall make thy belly bitter, but it shall, &c.] To signify, that how pleasant soever it may be to be honoured with such revelations, the contents of these, in thine after-reflections, shall be very bitter and grievous.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XI.

Verse 3. I will give power unto my two witnesses.] A learned interpreter understands this of unpolluted priests, and faithful magistrates, appearing for reformation; others, of the Old and New Testament. Perhaps it may signify any witnesses for reformation who should be raised up during this period.

Clothed in sackcloth.] This was the habit of mourners, and suited to their prophetic character. This period is the same with that afterwards described as the time of the woman's abode in the wilderness.

unto them, Come up hither. And they ascended up to heaven in a cloud; and their enemies beheld them.

13 And the same hour was there a great earthquake; and the tenth part of the city fell, and in the earthquake were slain of men seven thousand: and the remnant were affrighted, and gave glory to the God of heaven.

14 The second woe is past, and, behold, the third woe cometh quickly.

15 And the seventh angel sounded, and there were great voices in heaven, saying, The kingdoms of this world are become the kingdoms of our Lord, and of his Christ; and he shall reign for ever and ever.

16 And the four and twenty elders, which sat before God on their seats, fell upon their faces, and worshipped God,

17 Saying, We give thee thanks, O Lord God Almighty, which art, and wast, and art to come, because thou hast taken to thee thy great power, and hast reigned.

18 And the nations were angry, and thy wrath is come, and the time of the dead that they should be judged, and that thou shouldest give reward unto thy servants the prophets, and to the saints, and them that fear thy name, small and great, and shouldest destroy them which destroy the earth.

19 And the temple of God was opened in heaven, and there was seen in his temple the ark of his testament: and there were lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail.

C H A P. XII.

The dragon overcome.

AND there appeared a great wonder in heaven; a woman clothed with the sun, and the moon under her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars:

2 And she, being with child, cried, travailling in birth, and pained to be delivered.

3 And there appeared another wonder in heaven; and, behold, a great red dragon, having seven heads, and ten horns, and seven crowns upon his heads.

4 And his tail drew the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth: and the dragon stood before the woman which was ready to be delivered, for to devour her child as soon as it was born.

5 And she brought forth a man-child, who was to rule all nations with a rod of iron: and her child was caught up unto God, and to his throne.

6 And the woman fled into the wilderness, where she hath a place prepared of God, that they should feed her there a thousand two hundred and threescore days.

7 And there was war in heaven; Michael and his angels fought against the dragon; and the dragon fought, and his angels,

8 And prevailed not; neither was their place found any more in heaven.

9 And the great dragon was cast out, that old serpent, called the Devil and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world: he was cast out into the earth, and his angels were cast out with him.

10 And I heard a loud voice, saying in heaven, Now is come salvation, and strength, and the kingdom of our God, and the power of his Christ; for the accuser of our brethren is cast down, which accused them before our God day and night.

11 And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb,

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XII.

Verse 1. Clothed with the sun, &c.] i. e. With the rays of Jesus Christ, the Sun of righteousness—having the moon; i. e. the Jewish religion, the new moons and festivals, under her feet; and on her head a crown of twelve stars, an emblem of her being under the guidance of the twelve apostles.

7. There was war in heaven, &c.] The meaning of this passage is not literal, as if the devil had power to fight against the angels of God: but, according to the sublimity of the prophetic style, it is evident it must be understood as a highly figurative description, how wonderfully the gospel of Christ prevailed in the primitive times, by the courage and constancy of the martyrs, against heathen idolatry, then possessed of the powers of the whole earth.

16. The earth helped the woman.] This probably means some persons of power and authority in the world, who protected his witnesses, and secured many of those who faithfully retained the testimony of Jesus, to prevent the pure religion from being entirely overborne.

and by the word of their testimony; and they loved not their lives unto the death.

12 Therefore rejoice, ye heavens, and ye that dwell in them. Woe to the inhabitants of the earth, and of the sea! for the devil is come down unto you, having great wrath, because he knoweth that he hath but a short time.

13 And when the dragon saw that he was cast unto the earth, he persecuted the woman which brought forth the man-child.

14 And to the woman were given two wings of a great eagle, that she might fly into the wilderness, into her place: where she is nourished for a time, and times, and half a time, from the face of the serpent.

15 And the serpent cast out of his mouth water as a flood after the woman; that he might cause her to be carried away of the flood.

16 And the earth helped the woman; and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the flood which the dragon cast out of his mouth.

17 And the dragon was wroth with the woman, and went to make war with the remnant of her seed, which keep the commandments of God, and have the testimony of Jesus Christ.

C H A P. XIII.

The beast with seven heads.

AND I stood upon the sand of the sea, and saw a beast rise up out of the sea, having seven heads and ten horns, and upon his horns ten crowns, and upon his heads the name of blasphemy.

2 And the beast which I saw was like unto a leopard, and his feet were as the feet of a bear, and his mouth as the mouth of a lion: and the dragon gave him his power, and his seat, and great authority.

3 And I saw one of his heads, as it were wounded to death; and his deadly wound was healed: and all the world wondered after the beast.

4 And they worshipped the dragon which gave power unto the beast: and they worshipped the beast, saying, Who is like unto the beast? who is able to make war with him?

5 And there was given unto him a mouth speaking great things, and blasphemies; and power was given unto him to continue forty and two months.

6 And he opened his mouth in blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, and his tabernacle, and them that dwell in heaven.

7 And it was given unto him to make war with the saints, and to overcome them: and power was given him over all kindreds, and tongues, and nations.

8 And all that dwell upon the earth shall worship him, whose names are not written in the book of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world.

9 If any man have an ear, let him hear.

10 He that leadeth into captivity, shall go into captivity: he that killeth with the sword, must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints.

11 And I beheld another beast coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns like a lamb, and he spake as a dragon.

12 And he exerciseth all the power of the first beast before him, and causeth the earth, and them which dwell therein, to worship the first beast, whose deadly wound was healed.

13 And

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIII.

Verse 1. A beast rise up out of the sea, &c.] This we understand of the papal power, as exercised by the Bishop of Rome, supported by his regular clergy, and by those secular princes who have given up their name and power to him. And when the dragon is said to give him his power and throne, it intimates, that he should have his seat of residence there, where the dragon had reigned, even at Rome, which had been the seat of idolatry and persecution during its pagan state.

Seven heads and ten horns.] This intimates the city of Rome standing upon seven hills, and the ten kingdoms into which its dominions were to be divided.

11. Another beast.] Dr. Doddridge interprets this of the religious orders of the church of Rome; particularly that of the Jesuits, who have many of them temporal estates and jurisdictions added to their spiritual, and thus have greatly supported the papacy.

13 And he doeth great wonders, so that he maketh fire come down from heaven on the earth, in the sight of men,

14 And deceiveth them that dwell on the earth, by the means of those miracles which he had power to do in the sight of the beast; saying to them that dwell on the earth, that they should make an image to the beast, which had the wound by a sword and did live.

15 And he had power to give life unto the image of the beast, that the image of the beast should both speak, and cause that as many as would not worship the image of the beast should be killed.

16 And he caused all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and bond, to receive a mark in their right hand, or in their foreheads:

17 And that no man might buy or sell, save he that had the mark, or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

18 Here is wisdom. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast: for it is the number of a man; and his number is Six hundred threescore and six.

CHAP. XIV.

The Lamb and his company.

AND I looked, and, lo, a Lamb stood on the mount Sion, and with him an hundred forty and four thousand, having his Father's name written in their foreheads.

2 And I heard a voice from heaven, as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of a great thunder; and I heard the voice of harpers harping with their harps:

3 And they sung as it were a new song before the throne, and before the four beasts, and the elders: and no man could learn that song, but the hundred and forty and four thousand, which were redeemed from the earth.

4 These are they which were not defiled with women; for they are virgins: these are they which follow the Lamb whithersoever he goeth: these were redeemed from among men, being the first-fruits unto God, and to the Lamb.

5 And in their mouth was found no guile: for they are without fault before the throne of God.

6 And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation, and kindred, and tongue, and people,

7 Saying with a loud voice, Fear God, and give glory to him, for the hour of his judgment is come: and worship him that made heaven and earth, and the sea, and the fountains of waters.

8 And there followed another angel, saying, Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.

9 And the third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, If any man worship the beast and his image, and receive his mark in his forehead, or in his hand,

10 The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire

15. The image of the beast.] The Pope is probably the image and representative of the beast; and likewise properly the idol of the church.

16. To receive a mark.] It was customary for soldiers and slaves to receive a mark in their hands or foreheads, that it might be known to whom they belonged: and idolaters were likewise marked with the signature of the god they worshipped.

18. Let him that hath understanding count the number of the beast, &c.] Among the prodigious variety of interpretations given to this text, none pleases us so well as that of Sir Isaac Newton; that the man of Latium or Rome, whose numeral letters in the original taken together make six hundred and sixty-six, is the number here referred to. And I suppose this number is mentioned to signify, that the appearance of that power, whose efforts were to continue one thousand two hundred and sixty years, was to happen about six hundred and sixty-six years after the date of the Revelation, A. D. 96. And this I take to be the grand key by which the æra of the fall of Babylon is to be calculated, as it fixes the rise of the beast to the year 756, or thereabouts, when, upon the destruction of the exarchate of Ravenna, the Pope became a temporal monarch; i. e. in the prophetic language, a beast.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIV.

Verse 4. They are virgins, &c.] This properly signifies their freedom from idolatry, which is, in a spiritual sense, fornication; nor can it, with any reason, be urged against marriage.

and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb:

11 And the smoke of their torment ascendeth up for ever and ever: and they have no rest day nor night, who worship the beast and his image, and whosoever receiveth the mark of his name.

12 Here is the patience of the saints: here are they that keep the commandments of God, and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice from heaven, saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them.

14 And I looked, and, behold, a white cloud, and upon the cloud one sat, like unto the Son of man, having on his head a golden crown, and in his hand a sharp sickle.

15 And another angel came out of the temple, crying with a loud voice to him that sat on the cloud, Thrust in thy sickle, and reap: for the time is come for thee to reap; for the harvest of the earth is ripe.

16 And he that sat on the cloud thrust in his sickle on the earth; and the earth was reaped.

17 And another angel came out of the temple which is in heaven, he also having a sharp sickle.

18 And another angel came out from the altar, which had power over fire; and cried with a loud cry to him that had the sharp sickle, saying, Thrust in thy sharp sickle, and gather the clusters of the vine of the earth; for her grapes are fully ripe.

19 And the angel thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast it into the great wine-press of the wrath of God.

20 And the wine-press was trodden without the city, and blood came out of the wine-press, even unto the horse-bridles, by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.

CHAP. XV.

The song of them that overcome the beast.

AND I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous, seven angels having the seven last plagues, for in them is filled up the wrath of God.

2 And I saw as it were a sea of glass, mingled with fire; and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God.

3 And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints.

4 Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest.

5 And after that, I looked, and, behold, the temple of the tabernacle of the testimony in heaven was opened:

6 And the seven angels came out of the temple, having the seven plagues, clothed in pure and white linen, and having their breasts girded with golden girdles.

7 And

10. In the presence of the holy angels, &c.] From this passage Mr. Reynolds conjectures, that possibly the torments of the wicked may at certain seasons, through eternal ages, become a spectacle to the inhabitants of the blessed world above.

In the presence of the Lamb.] This, as Dr. Clarke well observes, signifies, that it shall not only be appointed by the infinite majesty of God, the righteous Judge of all, but approved moreover by men and angels, and by him also who loved us unto death, even Christ, that merciful and compassionate high-priest.

20. Blood came out—by the space of a thousand and six hundred furlongs.] As a furlong is one-eighth of a mile, this would amount to two hundred miles. This representation, like the dimension of that temple which Ezekiel saw, may seem extravagantly large; we therefore look upon it only as an hyperbolical expression, to signify its exceeding greatness; unless it may possibly point out the dimensions of that country, over which the judgment should extend, and is here prophetically referred to.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XV.

Verse 2. I saw as it were a sea of glass, &c.] Some suppose the glass to represent the frail nature of this world, and the fire, the mixture of calamity and misery to which they had been exposed, before they arrived at the state of security and happiness in which they then were.

ANNO.

7 And one of the four beasts gave unto the seven angels seven golden vials full of the wrath of God, who liveth for ever and ever.

8 And the temple was filled with smoke from the glory of God, and from his power; and no man was able to enter into the temple, till the seven plagues of the seven angels were fulfilled.

C H A P. XVI.

The seven vials, and the plagues following.

AND I heard a great voice out of the temple, saying to the seven angels, Go your ways, and pour out the vials of the wrath of God upon the earth.

2 And the first went, and poured out his vial upon the earth; and there fell a noisome and grievous sore upon the men which had the mark of the beast, and upon them which worshipped his image.

3 And the second angel poured out his vial upon the sea; and it became as the blood of a dead man: and every living soul died in the sea.

4 And the third angel poured out his vial upon the rivers and fountains of waters; and they became blood.

5 And I heard the angel of the waters say, Thou art righteous, O Lord, which art, and wast, and shalt be, because thou hast judged thus:

6 For they have shed the blood of saints and prophets, and thou hast given them blood to drink; for they are worthy.

7 And I heard another out of the altar say, Even so, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are thy judgments.

8 And the fourth angel poured out his vial upon the sun; and power was given unto him to scorch men with fire.

9 And men were scorched with great heat, and blasphemed the name of God, which hath power over these plagues: and they repented not to give him glory.

10 And the fifth angel poured out his vial upon the seat of the beast: and his kingdom was full of darkness; and they gnawed their tongues for pain,

11 And blasphemed the God of heaven, because of their pains and their sores, and repented not of their deeds.

12 And the sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates; and the water thereof was dried up, that the way of the kings of the east might be prepared.

13 And I saw three unclean spirits like frogs come out of the mouth of the dragon, and out of the mouth of the beast, and out of the mouth of the false prophet.

14 For they are the spirits of devils working miracles, which go forth unto the kings of the earth, and of the whole world, to gather them to the battle of that great day of God Almighty.

15 ¶ Behold, I come as a thief. Blessed is he that watcheth, and keepeth his garments, lest he walk naked, and they see his shame.

16 And he gathered them together into a place, called in the Hebrew tongue, Armageddon.

17 And the seventh angel poured out his vial into the air; and there came a great voice out of the temple of heaven from the throne, saying, It is done.

18 And there were voices, and thunders, and lightnings; and there was a great earthquake, such as was not since men were upon the earth, so mighty an earthquake, and so great.

19 And the great city was divided into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell: and great Babylon came in remembrance before God, to give unto her the cup of the wine of the fierceness of his wrath.

20 And every island fled away, and the mountains were not found.

21 And there fell upon men a great hail out of heaven, every stone about the weight of a talent: and men blasphemed God because of the plague of the hail; for the plague thereof was exceeding great.

C H A P. XVII.

The mystery of the woman.

AND there came one of the seven angels, which had the seven vials, and talked with me, saying unto me, Come hither; I will shew unto thee the judgment of the great whore, that sitteth upon many waters:

2 With whom the kings of the earth have committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth have been made drunk with the wine of her fornication.

3 So he carried me away in the spirit into the wilderness: and I saw a woman sit upon a scarlet-coloured beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns.

4 And the woman was arrayed in purple, and scarlet colour, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls, having a golden cup in her hand, full of abominations, and filthiness of her fornication.

5 And upon her forehead was a name written, MYSTERY, BABYLON THE GREAT, THE MOTHER OF HARLOTS, AND ABOMINATIONS OF THE EARTH.

6 And I saw the woman drunken with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus: and when I saw her, I wondered with great admiration.

7 And the angel said unto me, Wherefore didst thou marvel? I will tell thee the mystery of the woman, and of the beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and ten horns.

8 The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and go into perdition: and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder (whose names were not written in the book of life from the foundation of the world) when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.

9 And here is the mind which hath wisdom. The seven heads are seven mountains, on which the woman sitteth.

10 And there are seven kings: five are fallen, and one is, and the other is not yet come; and when he cometh, he must continue a short space.

11 And

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVI.

Verse 2. The first went, and poured out his vial, &c.] Mr. Pyle interprets the first vial, of the abandoned degeneracy of the popish clergy. Mr. Lowman, with greater probability, refers it to the great commotions in the whole empire, under the family of Charles the Great, by which that family became extinct, and the empire and crown of France were transmitted to other families, from A. D. 830, to A. D. 988.

3. The second angel poured out his vial, &c.] This is generally referred to the great effusion of blood in the holy wars, to recover Jerusalem from the Saracens; when about two millions lost their lives in the several expeditions, from A. D. 1040, to A. D. 1190.

4. The third angel poured out his vial, &c.] This seems to refer to calamities to be brought on some parts of the papal kingdom. According to the order of time, Mr. Lowman refers this to the bloody wars between the Guelphs and Gibellines, or the papal and imperial factions, whereby the popes were driven out of Italy into France, from A. D. 1200, to A. D. 1371. In A. D. 1282, all the French in Sicily were massacred. Thus were they, who shed the blood of the saints, punished by civil contentions and bloodshed.

8. The fourth angel poured out his vial, &c.] Mr. Lowman, with great probability, refers this to the long and bloody wars in Italy, France, Germany, and Spain, occasioned by a schism in the papacy, from A. D. 1373, to A. D. 1530; there being three popes, in three lines of succession, at the same time.

10. The fifth angel poured out his vial, &c.] Mr. Lowman interprets this of the Protestant Reformation, and the confirming of it by the principal states of Europe, notwithstanding all the attempts of the Pope, and in opposition to the popular authority, from A. D. 1560, to A. D. 1630. During this period, several nations renounced subjection to the pope, and have continued free to this day; and in other nations his power has been greatly abridged. This event gave great vexation to the popes and their adherents: it occasioned invasions, assassinations, massacres, and bloody wars; such as the civil wars in France, the wars in Germany about the Reformation, the war between Spain and the United Provinces, the Spanish invasion of England, and the massacre of St. Bartholomew at Paris, &c.

12. The sixth angel poured out his vial upon the great river Euphrates, &c.] This vision is probably not yet accomplished, and therefore not to be explained.

13. The false prophet.] As the false prophet is here joined with the beast, and also in chap. 19. 20. and there said to work miracles before the beast, he seems to be the same mentioned chap. 13. 11, 12. but there described as another beast, and said to do great miracles in the sight of the beast.

15. Blessed is he that watcheth, &c.] Dr. Lightfoot thinks that here is an allusion to what the Jewish officer, called the man of the mountain, i. e. of the house of the Lord, used to do, when taking his round in the temple to examine the watch: if he met with any asleep, he had a liberty to set fire to his garments.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVII.

Verse 1. That sitteth upon many waters.] So ancient Babylon is described; and from thence the phrase is borrowed, and signifies ruling over many people and nations: but the city now intended is undoubtedly Rome.

ANNO-

11 And the beast that was, and is not, even he is the eighth, and is of the seven, and goeth into perdition.

12 And the ten horns which thou sawest are ten kings, which have received no kingdom as yet; but receive power as kings one hour with the beast.

13 These have one mind, and shall give their power and strength unto the beast.

14 These shall make war with the Lamb, and the Lamb shall overcome them; for he is Lord of lords, and King of kings; and they that are with him are called, and chosen, and faithful.

15 And he saith unto me, The waters which thou sawest, where the whore sitteth, are peoples, and multitudes, and nations, and tongues.

16 And the ten horns which thou sawest upon the beast, these shall hate the whore, and shall make her desolate, and naked, and shall eat her flesh, and burn her with fire.

17 For God hath put in their hearts to fulfil his will, and to agree, and give their kingdom unto the beast, until the words of God shall be fulfilled.

18 And the woman which thou sawest is that great city, which reigneth over the kings of the earth.

C H A P. XVIII.

The fall of Babylon.

AND after these things I saw another angel come down from heaven, having great power; and the earth was lightened with his glory.

2 And he cried mightily with a strong voice, saying, Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and is become the habitation of devils, and the hold of every foul spirit, and a cage of every unclean and hateful bird.

3 For all nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, and the kings of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth are waxed rich through the abundance of her delicacies.

4 And I heard another voice from heaven, saying, Come out of her, my people, that ye be not partakers of her sins, and that ye receive not of her plagues:

5 For her sins have reached unto heaven, and God hath remembered her iniquities.

6 Reward her even as she rewarded you, and double unto her double, according to her works: in the cup which she hath filled, fill to her double.

7 How much she hath glorified herself, and lived deliciously, so much torment and sorrow give her: for she saith in her heart, I sit a queen, and am no widow, and shall see no sorrow.

8 Therefore shall her plagues come in one day, death, and mourning, and famine; and she shall be utterly burnt with fire: for strong is the Lord God who judgeth her.

9 And the kings of the earth, who have committed fornication, and lived deliciously with her, shall bewail her, and lament for her, when they shall see the smoke of her burning,

10 Standing afar off, for the fear of her torment, saying, Alas, alas, that great city Babylon, that mighty city! for in one hour is thy judgment come.

11 And the merchants of the earth shall weep and mourn over her, for no man buyeth their merchandise any more:

12 The merchandise of gold, and silver, and precious stones, and of pearls, and fine linen, and purple, and silk, and scarlet, and all thyine wood, and all manner vessels of ivory, and all manner vessels of most precious wood, and of brass, and iron, and marble,

13 And cinnamon, and odours, and ointments, and frankincense, and wine, and oil, and fine flour, and wheat, and beasts, and sheep, and horses, and chariots, and slaves, and souls of men.

14 And the fruits that thy soul lusted after are departed from thee, and all things which were dainty and goodly are departed from thee, and thou shalt find them no more at all.

15 The merchants of these things which were made rich by her shall stand afar off, for the fear of her torment, weeping and wailing,

16 And saying, Alas, alas, that great city, that was clothed in fine linen, and purple, and scarlet, and decked with gold, and precious stones, and pearls:

17 For in one hour so great riches is come to nought. And every ship-master, and all the company in ships, and sailors, and as many as trade by sea, stood afar off,

18 And cried, when they saw the smoke of her burning, saying, What city is like unto this great city!

19 And they cast dust on their heads, and cried, weeping and wailing, saying, Alas, alas, that great city, wherein were made rich all that had ships in the sea, by reason of her costliness: for in one hour is she made desolate.

20 Rejoice over her, thou heaven, and ye holy apostles and prophets; for God hath avenged you on her.

21 And a mighty angel took up a stone like a great mill-stone, and cast it into the sea, saying, Thus with violence shall that great city Babylon be thrown down, and shall be found no more at all.

22 And the voice of harpers, and musicians, and of pipers, and trumpeters, shall be heard no more at all in thee; and no craftsman, of whatsoever craft he be, shall be found any more in thee; and the sound of a mill-stone shall be heard no more at all in thee;

23 And the light of a candle shall shine no more at all in thee; and the voice of the bridegroom, and of the bride, shall be heard no more at all in thee: for thy merchants were the great men of the earth; for by thy sorceries were all nations deceived:

24 And in her was found the blood of prophets, and of saints, and of all that were slain upon the earth.

C H A P. XIX.

The marriage of the Lamb.

AND after these things I heard a great voice of much people in heaven, saying, Alleluia; Salvation, and glory, and honour, and power, unto the Lord our God:

2 For true and righteous are his judgments; for he hath judged the great whore, which did corrupt the earth with her fornication, and hath avenged the blood of his servants at her hand.

3 And again they said, Alleluia. And her smoke rose up for ever and ever.

4 And the four and twenty elders, and the four beasts, fell down, and worshipped God that sat on the throne, saying, Amen; Alleluia.

5 And a voice came out of the throne, saying, Praise our God, all ye his servants, and ye that fear him, both small and great.

6 And I heard as it were the voice of a great multitude, and as the voice of many waters, and as the voice of mighty thunderings, saying, Alleluia: for the Lord God Omnipotent reigneth.

7 Let us be glad and rejoice, and give honour to him: for the marriage of the Lamb is come, and his wife hath made herself ready.

8 And

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XVIII.

Verse 7. Lived deliciously, &c.] The Greek word seems to signify such luxury of diet as cherishes wantonness, and disposes to acts of unchastity, and may well represent the manner in which the Roman clergy have pampered themselves, and the effects it has produced, to the scandal of the Christian profession, in the eyes of all the world, as well as the idolatries which have been established and maintained to support that luxury.

15. The merchants—weeping and wailing.] There is in all this so evident a reference to the lamentation over Tyre, described by Ezekiel, chap. 27. that I suppose few readers can fail to take notice of it. Compare Isaiah 33. 1, 7, 14, &c. Some have interpreted many of these passages, as referring to the circumstances of popish worship, and the trade of their priests; as verse 11. to relics, pardons, and indulgences; verse 12. to their images, and the furniture of their churches and chapels, and the variety of rich dresses for their images and priests; verse 13. to the incense used at their altars; verse 22. to the musical instruments used in their worship; and verse 23. to the vast number of lamps burning before their idolatrous altars, and the like.—But it seems rather to centre in one view, the loss of every thing valuable and desirable, and the utter ruin of this magnificent city.

20. Ye holy apostles, &c.] Nothing can be more lively than this apostrophe, in which the apostles, though honoured in Rome by so many superstitious and idolatrous rites, are nevertheless called upon to rejoice in her destruction.

22. A mill-stone shall be heard no more.] Nor shall the noise of the mill-stone be heard in thee any more, even to prepare bread for the meanest inhabitant.

8 And to her was granted, that she should be arrayed in fine linen, clean and white: for the fine linen is the righteousness of saints.

9 And he saith unto me, Write, Blessed are they which are called unto the marriage-supper of the Lamb. And he saith unto me, These are the true sayings of God.

10 And I fell at his feet to worship him. And he said unto me, See thou do it not; I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren that have the testimony of Jesus. Worship God: for the testimony of Jesus is the spirit of prophecy.

11 And I saw heaven opened, and, behold, a white horse; and he that sat upon him was called Faithful and True; and in righteousness he doth judge and make war.

12 His eyes were as a flame of fire, and on his head were many crowns; and he had a name written that no man knew but he himself:

13 And he was clothed with a vesture dipped in blood; and his name is called, The Word of God.

14 And the armies which were in heaven followed him upon white horses, clothed in fine linen, white and clean.

15 And out of his mouth goeth a sharp sword, that with it he should smite the nations; and he shall rule them with a rod of iron: and he treadeth the wine-press of the fierceness and wrath of Almighty God.

16 And he hath on his vesture, and on his thigh, a name written, KING OF KINGS, AND LORD OF LORDS.

17 And I saw an angel standing in the sun: and he cried with a loud voice, saying to all the fowls that fly in the midst of heaven, Come, and gather yourselves together unto the supper of the great God;

18 That ye may eat the flesh of kings, and the flesh of captains, and the flesh of mighty men, and the flesh of horses, and of them that sit on them, and the flesh of all men, both free and bond, both small and great.

19 And I saw the beast, and the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against him that sat on the horse, and against his army.

20 And the beast was taken, and with him the false prophet that wrought miracles before him, with which he deceived them that had received the mark of the beast, and them that worshipped his image. These both were cast alive into a lake of fire burning with brimstone.

21 And the remnant were slain with the sword of him that sat upon the horse, which sword proceeded out of his mouth: and all the fowls were filled with their flesh.

The first and last resurrection.

AND I saw an angel come down from heaven, having the key of the bottomless pit, and a great chain, in his hand.

2 And he laid hold on the dragon, that old serpent, which is the Devil and Satan, and bound him a thousand years,

3 And cast him into the bottomless pit, and shut him up, and set a seal upon him, that he should deceive the nations no more, till the thousand years should be fulfilled: and after that he must be loosed a little season.

4 And I saw thrones, and they sat upon them, and judgment was given unto them: and I saw the souls of them that were beheaded for the witness of Jesus, and

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XIX.

Verse 8. The fine linen is the righteousness of saints.] The fine linen that I speak of is intended to signify the righteous acts of the saints, whereby they are adorned in the sight of God, and an evidence given of the sincerity of that faith which interests them in the merits of what their Lord has performed.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XX.

Verse 4. They—reigned with Christ a thousand years.] Not that Christ reigned upon the earth a thousand years, but that the martyrs reigned with Christ.

8. The four quarters of the earth, &c.] As it is most certainly known, from convincing arguments and repeated experience, that the earth is of a spherical form, it is certain, that by the four quarters or corners of the earth, we are to understand the nations which lay at the greatest distance from the city of the saints; which seems here particularly to signify Jerusalem. And we may suppose, that those who live in that situation shall be last instructed in the gospel, and so capable of being most easily engaged to rise up against it.—By Gog and Magog many understand the Scythians, and other northern nations, whom the devil will stir up to assault the people of God.

for the word of God, and which had not worshipped the beast, neither his image, neither had received his mark upon their foreheads, or in their hands; and they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.

5 But the rest of the dead lived not again until the thousand years were finished. This is the first resurrection.

6 Blessed and holy is he that hath part in the first resurrection: on such the second death hath no power; but they shall be priests of God and of Christ, and shall reign with him a thousand years.

7 And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison,

8 And shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them together to battle; the number of whom is as the sand of the sea.

9 And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints about, and the beloved city: and fire came down from God out of heaven, and devoured them.

10 And the devil that deceived them was cast into the lake of fire and brimstone, where the beast and the false prophet are, and shall be tormented day and night, for ever and ever.

11 And I saw a great white throne, and him that sat on it, from whose face the earth and the heaven fled away, and there was found no place for them.

12 And I saw the dead, small and great, stand before God; and the books were opened; and another book was opened, which is the book of life: and the dead were judged out of those things which were written in the books, according to their works.

13 And the sea gave up the dead which were in it; and death and hell delivered up the dead which were in them; and they were judged every man according to their works.

14 And death and hell were cast into the lake of fire. This is the second death.

15 And whosoever was not found written in the book of life was cast into the lake of fire.

C H A P. XXI.

New Jerusalem described.

AND I saw a new heaven, and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.

2 And I John saw the holy city, New Jerusalem, coming down from God, out of heaven, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.

3 And I heard a great voice out of heaven, saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God.

4 And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow, nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain: for the former things are passed away.

5 And he that sat upon the throne said, Behold, I make all things new. And he said unto me, Write: for these words are true and faithful.

6 And

11. A great white throne, &c.] It has been observed, that this judgment-seat has been represented by a throne, that there can be no appeal from it; a white throne, to signify the bright glory, the unspotted purity, and inflexible justice, of Him who sits upon it.

14. Death and hell were cast into the lake of fire, &c.] It is very evident that hell, in this passage, cannot possibly signify the state of the damned, but that state of departed souls in general, from whence all shall be summoned at the great day of accounts; and which state of death, or death itself, after the final judgment, shall be no more.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXI.

Verse 2. I John saw the holy city, &c.] It is probable he saw, in the vision, an appearance of a city, which seemed like the sheet that St. Peter saw, to be let down from heaven, and appeared pendent, as it were, in the air, in such a view, that the foundations were visibly distinguishable from the superstructure: and this he considered not as actually the abode of the blessed, but as a figurative representation of the holiness and felicity in which they were to dwell; so that it was a type of what the church itself should be.

C H A P. XXII.

The water and the tree of life.

6 And he said unto me, It is done. I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end: I will give unto him that is athirst of the fountain of the water of life freely.

7 He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son.

8 But the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone; which is the second death.

9 And there came unto me one of the seven angels, which had the seven vials full of the seven last plagues, and talked with me, saying, Come hither, I will shew thee the bride, the Lamb's wife.

10 And he carried me away in the spirit to a great and high mountain, and shewed me that great city, the holy Jerusalem, descending out of heaven from God,

11 Having the glory of God: and her light was like unto a stone most precious, even like a jasper-stone, clear as crystal;

12 And had a wall great and high, and had twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and names written thereon, which are the names of the twelve tribes of the children of Israel.

13 On the east, three gates; on the north, three gates; on the south, three gates; and on the west, three gates.

14 And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and in them the names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb.

15 And he that talked with me had a golden reed to measure the city, and the gates thereof, and the wall thereof.

16 And the city lieth four-square, and the length is as large as the breadth: and he measured the city with the reed, twelve thousand furlongs: the length, and the breadth, and the height of it, are equal.

17 And he measured the wall thereof, an hundred and forty and four cubits, according to the measure of a man, that is, of the angel.

18 And the building of the wall of it was of jasper: and the city was pure gold, like unto clear glass.

19 And the foundations of the wall of the city were garnished with all manner of precious stones. The first foundation was jasper; the second sapphire; the third, a chalcedony; the fourth, an emerald;

20 The fifth, sardonyx; the sixth, sardius; the seventh, chrysolite; the eighth, beryl; the ninth, a topaz; the tenth, a chrysoprasus; the eleventh, a jacinth; the twelfth, an amethyst.

21 And the twelve gates were twelve pearls; every several gate was of one pearl, and the street of the city was pure gold, as it were transparent glass.

22 And I saw no temple therein: for the Lord God Almighty and the Lamb are the temple of it.

23 And the city had no need of the sun, neither of the moon, to shine in it; for the glory of God did lighten it, and the Lamb is the light thereof.

24 And the nations of them which are saved shall walk in the light of it: and the kings of the earth do bring their glory and honour into it.

25 And the gates of it shall not be shut at all by day: for there shall be no night there.

26 And they shall bring the glory and honour of the nations into it.

27 And there shall in no wise enter into it any thing that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie, but they which are written in the Lamb's book of life.

22. And I saw no temple therein, &c.] And whereas the temple made so considerable a part of the view of Jerusalem, the holy city which I had been used to visit; with regard to this heavenly Jerusalem, I saw no temple in it; for the Lord God Almighty, and the Lamb, are the temple of it. God was present in Christ his Son, by a more intimate presence than had ever been known upon earth, and by that presence he made even the whole of the city most holy.

ANNOTATIONS ON CHAP. XXII.

Verse 10. And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings, &c.] And he, that is, our Lord Jesus Christ, from whom I received this revelation,

AND he shewed me a pure river of water of life, clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb.

2 In the midst of the street of it, and on either side of the river, was there the tree of life, which bare twelve manner of fruits, and yielded her fruit every month: and the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations.

3 And there shall be no more curse: but the throne of God and of the Lamb shall be in it; and his servants shall serve him.

4 And they shall see his face; and his name shall be in their foreheads.

5 And there shall be no night there; and they need no candle, neither light of the sun; for the Lord God giveth them light: and they shall reign for ever and ever.

6 And he said unto me, These sayings are faithful and true: and the Lord God of the holy prophets sent his angel to shew unto his servants the things which must shortly be done.

7 Behold, I come quickly: blessed is he that keepeth the sayings of the prophecy of this book.

8 And I John saw these things, and heard them: and, when I had heard and seen, I fell down to worship before the feet of the angel which shewed me these things.

9 Then saith he unto me, See thou do it not: for I am thy fellow-servant, and of thy brethren the prophets, and of them which keep the sayings of this book. Worship God.

10 And he saith unto me, Seal not the sayings of the prophecy of this book: for the time is at hand.

11 He that is unjust, let him be unjust still; and he which is filthy, let him be filthy still; and he that is righteous, let him be righteous still; and he that is holy, let him be holy still.

12 And, behold, I come quickly; and my reward is with me, to give every man according as his work shall be.

13 I am Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the first and the last.

14 Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.

15 For without are dogs, and sorcerers, and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie.

16 I Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. I am the root and the offspring of David, and the bright and morning star.

17 And the Spirit and the Bride say, Come. And let him that heareth say, Come. And let him that is athirst come. And whosoever will, let him take the water of life freely.

18 For I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book:

19 And if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things which are written in this book.

20 He which testifieth these things saith, Surely, I come quickly. Amen. Even so, come, Lord Jesus.

21 The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you all. Amen.

said unto me, Seal not up the words of the prophecy of this book, so that they should not be immediately perused; for the time is near in which the accomplishment of those things shall begin.

11. He that is unjust, &c.] i. e. After the repeated admonitions and invitations given him in the gospel, let him be unjust still.

12. My reward.] i. e. My power of rewarding and punishing.

13. I am Alpha and Omega, &c.] The first author and fountain from whom all things originally proceed, and the ultimate end in whom all things finally terminate.

14. That they may have right.] i. e. Power or free admission.

CHRONOLOGICAL INDEX

OF THE

YEARS and TIMES from ADAM unto CHRIST, from the Collections of divers Authors.

The Sum of the Years of the first Age.

FROM Adam unto Noah's flood are years 1656.

For when Adam was 190 years old he begat Seth.

Seth, being 105 years, begat Enos.

Enos, being 90 years, begat Cainan.

Cainan, being 70 years, begat Mahalaleel.

Mahalaleel, being 65 years, begat Jared.

Jared, at the age of 162, begat Enoch.

Enoch, being 65 years, begat Methuselah.

Methuselah, at the age of 187, begat Lamech.

Lamech, being 182 years, begat Noah.

Noah, at the coming of the flood, was 600 years old, as appeareth in the 7th of Genesis.

The whole Sum of the Years are 1656.

FROM the said flood of Noah unto Abraham's departing from Chaldee, were 363 years and 10 days.

For the said flood continued 1 year and 10 days.

Shem (which was Noah's son,) begat Arphaxad 2 years after that.

Arphaxad begat Salah when he was 35 years old.

Salah, being 30 years old, begat Eber.

Eber, at the age of 34, begat Peleg.

Peleg, being 30 years, begat Reu.

Reu, being 32 years, begat Serug.

Serug, being 30 years, begat Nahor.

Nahor, being 29 years, begat Terah.

Terah, being 70 years, begat Abram.

And Abraham departed from Chaldee when he was 70 years old.

These said Years accounted, are 363 Years and 10 Days.

FROM Abraham's departing from Ur, in Chaldee, unto the departing of the children of Israel, are 435 years, gathered as followeth:

Abraham was in Haran 5 years, and departed in the 75th year.

He begat Isaac when he was 100 years old, and in the 25th year of his departing.

Jacob lived 147 years.

From the death of Jacob to the birth of Moses was 118 years.

When the Israelites departed from Egypt Moses was 80 years old.

Which being added together make 435 Years.

FROM the going of the Israelites from Egypt, unto the first building of the temple, are 505 years, after this chronology and account. Moses remained in the desert or wilderness 40 years.

Joshua and Othniel ruled 40 years.

Ehud and Shamgar, 80 years.

The Israelites oppressed by the Canaanites 20 years.

Deborah and Barak, 40 years.

Gideon, 40 years.

Abimelech, 3 years.

Tola, 23 years.

Jair, 22 years.

Then they were without a captain until the 18th year of Jephthah.

Jephthah, 6 years.

Ibzan, 7 years.

Elon, 10 years.

Abdon, 8 years.

Samson, 20 years.

Heli, judge and priest, 44 years.

Samuel and Saul reigned 40 years.

David was king 40 years.

Solomon in the 4th year of his reign began the building of the temple.

These added together make 505 Years.

FROM the first building of the temple unto the captivity of Babylon, are 419 years and an half.

Solomon reigned yet 36 years

Rehoboam, 17 years.

Abija, 3 years.

Asa, 41 years.

Jehoshaphat, 25 years.

Jehoram, 8 years.

Ahaziah, 1 year.

Athaliah, the queen, 7 years.

Joash, 40 years.

Amaziah, 29 years.

Uzziah, 52 years.

Jehoahaz, 16 years.

Ahaz, 16 years.

Hezekiah, 29 years.

Manasses, 55 years.

Amon, 2 years.

Josiah, 31 years.

Jehoaz, 3 months.

Eliakim, 11 years.

Jehoiachin, Jechonias, 3 months.

And here beginneth the captivity of Babylon.

The Sum of these Years are 419, and 6 Months.

JERUSALEM was re-edified, and built again after the captivity of Babylon, 143 years.

The captivity continued 70 years.

The children of Israel were delivered and restored to their freedom in the first year of Cyrus.

The temple was begun to be built in the second year of the said Cyrus, and finished in the 46th year, which was the 6th year of Darius. After that Darius had reigned 20 years, Nehemiah was restored to liberty, and went to build the city, which was finished in the 32d year of the said Darius.

All the years from the building of the temple again are 26 years.

The whole Sum of Years amount to 143.

FROM the re-edifying of the city unto the coming of Christ are 483 years, after this chronology.

It is mentioned in the 9th of Daniel, that Jerusalem should be built up again, and that from that time unto the coming of Christ are 69 weeks, and every week is reckoned for seven years. So 69 weeks amount to 483 years; for, from the 32d year of Darius unto the 42d year of Augustus, in which year our Saviour Christ was born, are just and complete so many years, whereupon we reckon, that from Adam unto Christ are 4004 years, 6 months, and 10 days.

Then the whole Sum and Number of Years, from the beginning of the World unto the Year of our Lord God 1807, will be just 5811 Years, 6 Months, and the said odd 10 Days.

CHRONOLOGICAL CATALOGUE

OF THE

APOSTLES and their SUCCESSORS, who founded and presided over the five grand Apostolical Churches of Antioch, Rome, Jerusalem, Byzantium or Constantinople, and Alexandria.

ANTIOCH.

IT is generally acknowledged, even by the Romish writers, that a church was founded here by St. Peter some considerable time before that at Rome; and partly because here it was that the venerable name of Christians first commenced. The fathers in the council at Constantinople, under Nectarius, in their Synodicon to them at Rome, style the church of Antioch, The most ancient, and truly apostolical; and St. Chrysostom styles it, The head of the whole world. The succession of its Bishops till the time of Constantine, was as follows:

- I. St. Peter the Apostle, who governed this church at least 7 years.
- II. Evodius, who sate 23 years. In his time the disciples were first called Christians at Antioch.
- III. Ignatius. After presiding near 40 years over this church, he was carried out of Syria to Rome, and there thrown to wild beasts in the Theatre, Ann. Chr. 110, Trajan 11.
- IV. Heron: he was Bishop 20 years. To him succeeded
- V. Cornelius, who kept the place 13 years, dying Ann. Chr. 142.
- VI. Eros, 26, or, (as Eusebius says,) 24 years.
- VII. Theophilus, 13: a man of great parts and learning, many of whose works were extant in Eusebius's time; and some of them we still have at this day.
- VIII. Maximinus, 13. He dying, the next chosen was
- IX. Serapio, 25. Many of his works are mentioned by Eusebius and St. Hierom. To him succeeded
- X. Asclepiades, a man of great worth and eminence, and of invincible constancy in the time of persecution. He continued in this see 9 years.
- XI. Philotus, 8.
- XII. Zebinus, or Zebennus, 6.
- XIII. Babylas, 13. After many conflicts and sufferings for the faith, he received the crown of martyrdom under Decius, who commanded his chains to be buried with him.
- XIV. Fabius, or (as the patriarch Nicephorus calls him) Flavius, possessed the chair 9 years. He was succeeded by
- XV. Paulus Samosatenus, who sate in the chair 8 years, when, for his unepiscopal manners and practices, his unsound dogmata and principles, and especially his mean and unworthy opinions concerning our Saviour, he was condemned and deposed by a synod at Antioch, whose determination is at large extant in Eusebius.
- XVI. Domnus succeeded in his place. He was constituted and ordained to the place by the fathers of that synod, who farther gave him this honourable character, That he was a man endued with all episcopal virtues and ornaments. According to Eusebius, he held the see 6 years, and was succeeded by
- XVII. Timæus, who sate in the chair 10 years.
- XVIII. Cyrillus, who presided over that church, according to Eusebius, 24 years.
- XIX. Tyrænnus: he sate 13 years. In his time began the tenth persecution, under Dioclesian, which raged with great severity.
- XX. Vatalis, 6.
- XXI. Philogonius, 5.

XXII. Paulinus, or, (as Nicephorus calls him,) Paulus, who after 5 years was deposed and driven out by the prevalency of the Adrian faction.

XXIII. Eustathius, formerly Bishop of Beræa, a learned man, and of great note and eminency in the council of Nice, the first general council summoned by Constantine the Great, after he had restored peace and prosperity to the church.

ROME.

THE foundation of this Church is equally attributed to Peter and Paul. The one, as apostle of the circumcision, preached to the Jews; while the other, probably as the apostle of the uncircumcision, preached to the Gentiles. Its Bishops succeeded in the following order:

- I. St. Peter and St. Paul, who both suffered martyrdom under Nero.
- II. Linus, the son of Herculanius, a Tuscan. He is mentioned by St. Paul, and sate between 11 and 12 years.
- III. Cletus, or Anacletus, a Roman, the son of Æmilianus, sate 9 years.
- IV. Clemens, a Roman, born in Mount Coelius, the son of Paustinus, near akin (some say) to the emperor. He was condemned to dig in the marble quarries near the Euxine sea, and, by the command of Trajan, thrown into the sea with an anchor about his neck. He was Bishop of Rome 9 years and 4 months.
- V. Euaristus, by birth a Greek, but his father a Jew of Beth-lehem. He is said to have been crowned with martyrdom the last year of Trajan, and in the ninth of his bishopric.
- VI. Alexander, a Roman, though young in years, was grave in his manners and conversation. He sate 10 years and 7 months, and died a martyr.
- VII. Xystus, or Sixtus, a Roman. He was martyred in the tenth year of his bishopric, and buried in the Vatican.
- VIII. Telesphorus, a Greek, succeeded. Justin, the martyr, flourished in his time. He died a martyr, having sate 11 years and 3 months, and was buried near St. Peter, in the Vatican.
- IX. Hyginus, the son of an Athenian philosopher, was advanced to the chair under Antoninus Pius. He sate (according to Eusebius) eight years.
- X. Pius, an Italian, born at Aquileia. He died after being Bishop 11 years and 4 months.
- XI. Anicetus, born in Syria. He is said, after having sate 11 years, to have suffered martyrdom, and was buried in the Via Appia, in the cemetery of Callistus. In his time Polycarp went to Rome.
- XII. Soter, or (as Nicephorus calls him) Soterichus, was a Campanian, the son of Concordius. There was an intercourse of letters between him and Dionysius, Bishop of Corinth. He died after he had sate 9 years.
- XIII. Eleutherius, born at Nicopolis in Greece. To him Lucius, king of Britain, sent a letter and an embassy. He sate 15 years, died Ann. Chr. 186, and was buried in the Vatican.
- XIV. Victor, an African, the son of Felix, a man of a furious and intemperate spirit, as appeared from his passionate

- sionate proceedings in the controversy about the observation of Esther. He was Bishop 10 years.
- XV. Zephyrinus, a Roman, succeeded, and possessed the chair eight years. He was a pious and learned man.
- XVI. Callistus, or Calixtus, the son of Domitius, a Roman, a prudent and modest man. He suffered much in the persecution under Alexander Severus, under whom he became a martyr, being thrown into a well by the procurement of Ulpian, the great lawyer, but severe enemy to Christians. He sate six years: and though he made a cemetery, called after his own name, yet he was buried in that of Calepodius, in the Appian Way.
- XVII. Urbanus, the son of Pontianus, a Roman, after six years, suffered martyrdom for the faith. He was buried in Pretextatus's cemetery in the Appian Way.
- XVIII. Pontianus, the son of Calphurnius, a Roman. For his boldly reprovng the Roman idolatry, he was banished into the island of Sardinia, where he died. He was Bishop five years.
- XIX. Anteros, a Greek, the son of Romulus. He died after he had kept his place one month; though others, without reason, make him to have lived in it many years. He was buried in the cemetery of Callistus.
- XX. Fabianus, a Roman, was unexpectedly chosen Bishop, (though several others were in competition,) in consequence of a dove suddenly descending, and sitting upon his head, the great emblem of the Holy Spirit. He died a martyr after 14 years, and was buried in the same place with his predecessor.
- XXI. Cornelius, a Roman, opposed and condemned Novatian; and frequent letters passed between him and Cyprian. After somewhat more than two years, he was cruelly whipped, and then beheaded. He was buried in a vault within the grange of Lucina, near the Appian Way.
- XXII. Lucius, a Roman, sate two, or according to some, three years. He suffered martyrdom by the command of Valerian, and was buried in Callistus's cemetery.
- XXIII. Stephenus, a Roman, the son of Julius. Great contests were held between him and Cyprian, about rebaptizing those who had been baptized by heretics. He was beheaded after he had sate two or three years, and was buried with his predecessor.
- XXIV. Xystus, a Greek, formerly a philosopher of Athens. After sitting 2 years and 10 months, he suffered martyrdom.
- XXV. Dionysius, a monk, succeeded. In the judgment of Dionysius, Bishop of Alexandria, he was a truly learned and admirable person. The time of his presidency is uncertainly assigned, but it is supposed to have been above 12 years.
- XXVI. Felix, a Roman. In his time arose the Manichæan heresy. He suffered about the fourth or fifth year of his episcopacy, and was buried in the Aurelian Way, in a cemetery of his own, two miles from Rome.
- XXVII. Eutychianus, a Tuscan, a man exceedingly careful of the burial of martyrs; after one year's space, was himself crowned with martyrdom.
- XXVIII. Caius, or (as Eusebius calls him) Gaius, a Dalmatian, kinsman to the emperor Dioclesian, and in the persecution under him became a martyr. After holding the see 11 years, he was beheaded, and buried in Callistus's cemetery.
- XXIX. Marcellinus, a Roman. Through the fear of torment he sacrificed to the gods; but recovering himself, died a martyr, after he had sate 8 or 9 years. He was beheaded, and buried in the cemetery of Priscilla, in the Salarian Way. To him succeeded
- XXX. Marcellus, a Roman. He was condemned by Maxentius the tyrant to keep beasts in a stable, which yet he performed with his prayers and exercises of devotion. He died after having sate 5 years and 6 months, and was buried in the cemetery of Priscilla.
- XXXI. Eusebius, a Greek, succeeded, the son of a physician. He suffered much under the tyranny of Maxentius. He sate 6 years, and was buried in the Appian Way, near Callistus's cemetery.
- XXXII. Miltiades, an African. He might be a confessor under Maxentius, but could not be a martyr under Maximinus, as some report. He sate 3 or 4 years, and was buried in the cemetery of Callistus.
- XXXIII. Silvester, a Roman. He was elected into the place, Ann. Chr. 314, and fetched from the mountain Soracte, whither he had fled for fear of the persecution. He was highly in favour with Constantine the Great. He sate 23 years.

JERUSALEM.

THE Church of Jerusalem may in some sense be said to have been founded by our Lord himself, as it was for some time cultivated and improved by the ministry of the whole college of Apostles. The Bishops of it were as follow:

- I. St. James the Less, constituted Bishop by the Apostles. He was thrown off the temple, and knocked on the head with a fuller's club.
- II. Simeon, the son of Cleopas, brother to Joseph. He sate in this chair twenty-three years, and suffered martyrdom in the reign of Trajan, in the 120th year of his age.
- III. Justus succeeded in his room, and sate six years.
- IV. Zacheus, or, (as Nicephorus the patriarch calls him,) Zacharias, four years.
- V. Tobias. To him, after four years, succeeded
- VI. Benjamin, who sate two years.
- VII. John, who continued the same space.
- VIII. Matthias, or Matthæus, sate two years.
- IX. Philippus sate one year. Next came
- X. Seneca, who sate four years.
- XI. Justus sate four years.
- XII. Levy, or Lebes, two years.
- XIII. Ephrem, or Ephres, or, (as Epiphanius styles him,) Vaphres, sate two years.
- XIV. Joseph two years.
- XV. Judas two years. Most of these Bishops we may observe to have sate but a short time, following one another in a very quick succession. This was doubtless in a great measure owing to the turbulent and unquiet humour of the Jewish nation, which was frequently rebelling against the Roman power, whereby they provoked them to fall heavy upon them, and cut off all that came in their way, making no distinction between Jews and Christians; as, indeed, they were all Jews, though differing in the rites of their religion. For hitherto the Bishops of Jerusalem had successively been of the circumcision, the church there having been entirely made up of Jewish converts. But the Jews being dispersed, after the destruction of Jerusalem, into all other countries, the Gentiles were admitted not only into the body of the church, but even into the episcopal chair. The first whereof was
- XVI. Marcus, who sate 8 years.
- XVII. Cassianus, 8.
- XVIII. Publius, 5.
- XIX. Maximus, 4.
- XX. Julianus, 2.
- XXI. Caianus, 3.
- XXII. Symmachus, 2.
- XXIII. Caius, 3.
- XXIV. Julianus, 4.
- XXV. Elias, 2. We do not find this Bishop mentioned by Eusebius; but he is recorded by Nicephorus of Constantinople.
- XXVI. Capito, 4.
- XXVII. Maximus, 4.
- XXVIII. Antoninus, 5.
- XXIX. Valens, 3.
- XXX. Dulichianus, 2.
- XXXI. Narcissus, 4. He was a man of eminent piety, famous for the great miracles which he wrought; but not being able to bear the aspersion which some unjustly cast upon him, he left his church, and retired into the deserts and solitudes: In his absence was chosen,
- XXXII. Dius,

- XXXII. Dius, who sate 8 years. After him
 XXXIII. Germanio, 4.
 XXXIV. Gordius, 5. In his time Narcissus, as one from the dead, returned from his solitudes, and was importuned by the people again to take the government of the Church upon him, being highly revered by them for his strict and philosophical course of life. In this second administration he continued 10 years, and suffered martyrdom when he was near 120 years old. To relieve the infirmities of his great age, they took in to be his colleague,
 XXXV. Alexander, formerly Bishop in Cappadocia, who, at that time, had, out of devotion, taken a pilgrimage to Jerusalem. He was an eminent confessor; and after having sate 15 years, died in prison under the Decian persecution. By him Origen was ordained presbyter. He was a great patron of learning as well as religion, and a studious preserver of the records of the church. He erected a library at Jerusalem, which he especially furnished with the writings and epistles of ecclesiastical persons: and out of this treasury it was that Eusebius borrowed a great part of his materials for the composing of his History.
 XXXVI. Mazabanes sate 9 years.
 XXXVII. Hymenæus, 23.
 XXXVIII. Zabdas, 10.
 XXXIX. Hermon, 9. He was (as Eusebius tells us) the last Bishop of this see before that fatal persecution that raged even in his time.
 XL. Macarius, ordained Ann. Chr. CCCXV. He was present in the great Nicene council. He sate, says Nicephorus of Constantinople, 20 years.

BYZANTIUM,

Afterwards called Constantinople.

- THAT this Church was first founded by St. Andrew is incontestible. The succession of its Bishops was as follow:
 I. St. Andrew the apostle. He was crucified at Patræ in Achaia.
 II. Stachys, whom St. Paul calls his beloved Stachys, ordained Bishop by St. Andrew: he sate sixteen years.
 III. Onesimus, fourteen.
 IV. Polycarpus, seventeen.
 V. Plutarchus, sixteen.
 VI. Sedecio, nine.
 VII. Diogenes, fifteen.
 VIII. Elutherus, seven.
 IX. Felix, five.
 X. Polycarpus.
 XI. Athenodorus, four. He erected a church called Elea, afterwards much beautified and enlarged by Constantine the Great.
 XII. Euzoius, sixteen.
 XIII. Laurentius, eleven years and six months.
 XIV. Alypius, thirteen.
 XV. Pertinax, a man of consular dignity. He built another church near the sea-side, which he called Peace. He sate nineteen years, and was succeeded by XVI. Olympianus, who sate eleven.
 XVII. Marcus, thirteen.
 XVIII. Cyriacus, or Cyrillianus, sixteen.
 XIX. Constantius, seven. In the first year of his bishopric he built a church in the north part of the city, which he dedicated to the honour of Euphemia the Martyr, who had suffered in that place. In this oratory he spent the remainder of his life, quitting his episcopal chair to XX. Titus, who sate 35 years and six months. After him came
 XXI. Dometius, brother (as we are told) to the emperor Probus. He was bishop 21 years and six months.
 XXII. Probus succeeded his father Dometius, and sate twelve years. After him,

- XXIII. Metrophanes, his brother, who governed that Church ten years. In his time it was that Constantine translated the imperial court to Byzantium, enlarged and adorned it, called it after his own name, and made it the seat of the empire.
 XXIV. Alexander succeeded, a man of great piety and integrity, zealous and constant in maintaining the truth against the blasphemies of Arius.

ALEXANDRIA.

THE foundations of this Church were laid, and a great part of its superstructure raised, by St. Mark. Its bishops and governors are thus recorded.

- I. St. Mark the Evangelist, who was martyred. Nicephorus, of Constantinople, makes him to sit two years.
 II. Anianus, charactered by Eusebius, a man beloved of God, and admirable in all things. He ruled in throne 22 years.
 III. Avilius sate twelve; or, according to Eusebius, thirteen.
 IV. Cerdo succeeded about the first year of Trajan: he sate ten years.
 V. Primus, twelve.
 VI. Justus, or Justinus, ten.
 VII. Eumenus, ten; or, according to Eusebius, thirteen. St. Hierom, in his Translation, calls him Himenæus.
 VIII. Marcus, or Marcianus, thirteen.
 IX. Caladion, ten.
 X. Agrippinus, fourteen.
 XI. Julianus, fifteen.
 XII. Demetrius, twenty-one. He was a man of great zeal and piety, and underwent many troubles during the persecution at Alexandria. He was at first a great friend to Origen, but afterwards became his enemy, laying some irregularities to his charge, partly out of emulation at the great reputation which Origen had gained in the world, and partly in that Origen had suffered himself to be ordained presbyter by two other Bishops; Alexander, Bishop of Jerusalem, and Theoctistus, Bishop of Cæsarea.
 XIII. Heraclus, a man of philosophical genius, and educated under the instruction of Origen. On the death of Demetrius he was advanced to the government of the Church, the care whereof he took for sixteen years.
 XIV. Dionysius, 17. He was one of the most eminent Bishops of his time. In the persecution under Decius, he was banished first to Taposiries, a little town between Alexandria and Canopus; then to Cephro, and other places in the deserts of Libya. But a large account of his own sufferings, and those of others, with various transactions of those times, we have out of his letters yet extant in Eusebius. He died in the twelfth year of the emperor Galienus.
 XV. Maximus. Of a presbyter he was made Bishop of Alexandria, and sate in that chair eighteen years.
 XVI. Thomas, seventeen. To him succeeded,
 XVII. Petrus, who sate twelve. He began his office three years before the last persecution. He was a man of infinite strictness and accuracy, and of indefatigable industry for the good of the Church. He suffered in the ninth year of the persecution, with the loss of his head gaining the crown of martyrdom. After his death came in the prosperous and happy days of the Church, Constantine the Great turning the black and dismal scene of things into a state of calmness and serenity.
 XVIII. Achilles, nine. By him Arius, upon his submission, was ordained presbyter.

THE SUM OF THE WORKS
OF
OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR JESUS CHRIST.

CHRIST, our Lord and Saviour, in the fulness of time, is born of the blessed Virgin Mary at Beth-lehem, and laid in a manger.

On the eighth day after his nativity he was circum-cised, and named JESUS.

The wise men of the east bring presents to the new-born King of the Jews.

Joseph flees into Egypt with the child Jesus, and Mary his mother.

Herod commands the infants in and about Beth-lehem to be slain.

Christ, by God's appointment, is brought back out of Egypt into Nazareth.

By occasion of the passover, our Lord goes up with his parents to Jerusalem, and there disputes with the doctors in the temple.

Jesus, entering upon the 30th year of his age, comes from Galilee to Jordan, and is baptized of John, at which time a most illustrious manifestation is made of the blessed Trinity; for the Son of God ascending out of the water, and praying, the heavens are opened, and the Spirit of God, in the shape of a dove, descends upon him; and the voice of the Father is heard from heaven, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

John sees it, and bears record, that this is the Son of God.

Jesus, full of the Holy Ghost, returns from Jordan, and is led by the Spirit into the wilderness, where he fasteth forty days and forty nights, and is afterwards tempted by the devil.

After this our Lord returns into Galilee.

John gives testimony to our Saviour passing by him; Andrew, Peter, Philip, and Nathanael, acknowledge him to be the Messiah, and become his disciples.

Christ, at a marriage in Cana of Galilee, turneth water into wine; this was his first miracle.

Jesus cometh to Jerusalem at the time of the passover, and entering into the temple, scourgeth out those that bought and sold there. The Jews require a sign of his authority: Christ bids them destroy that temple, (understanding the temple of his body,) and in three days he will raise it up.

Christ discovers himself to the woman of Samaria.

He goes throughout all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues, and working miracles.

Jesus comes up to Jerusalem at the time of the feast, and heals on the sabbath-day a man that had an infirmity 38 years, lying at the pool of Bethesda. He makes a most divine apology to the Jews that sought to kill him, because he said that God was his Father.

Christ, out of the multitude of his disciples, chooseth twelve, whom he calleth Apostles; namely, Peter, Andrew, James, John, Philip, Bartholomew, Matthew, Thomas, James the son of Alpheus, Simon called Zelotes, Judas the brother of James, and Judas Iscariot.—To these our Saviour chiefly directs his discourse in that glorious, full, and admirable sermon on the mount.

Jesus sends his twelve apostles by two and two to preach, and heal the sick.

Jesus feeds 5000 men, besides women and children, with five barley-loaves and two little fishes.

He refuses to be made a king.

Jesus is transfigured on the mount; Moses and Elias are seen to talk with him; and a voice from heaven is heard a second time, saying, This is my beloved Son; hear him.

Christ payeth tribute to Cesar.

A certain village of the Samaritans refuseth our Saviour entertainment in his way to Jerusalem; the disciples desiring to call for fire from heaven to consume them, are severely reprehended.

The seventy disciples are sent out by two and two to work miracles, and to preach.

Christ teacheth his disciples to pray.

Christ raiseth Lazarus that had been buried four days. Caiaphas, high-priest of the Jews, prophesieth concerning the death of Christ.

Zaccheus, a publican, converted.

Christ restoreth to blind Bartimeus his sight.

Mary, the sister of Lazarus, anoints our Saviour's feet with costly spikenard, and wipeth them with the hair of her head.

Christ rideth in triumph into Jerusalem; the multitude spread their garments in the way, and cry, Hosanna to the Son of David. Coming near the city, he weeps over it, and foretells its destruction. He enters the temple, and casteth out those that bought and sold there, and heals the blind and lame.

He curseth the fruitless fig-tree, and the next morning it is found dried up and withered: thence he taketh occasion to shew the power of faith.

On the first day of unleavened bread, when the pass-over of the Jews was to be slain, in the evening, Jesus eateth the passover with his disciples, and institutes the Sacrament of his body and blood in bread and wine.

Christ washeth his disciples' feet, and exhorteth them to humility and charity.

In the self-same night Jesus is betrayed by Judas, mocked, buffeted, and spit upon, by the soldiers.

Next day he is condemned by Pilate, and crucified; the sun, during the crucifixion, is darkened, and the vail of the temple rent in the midst. Christ, praying for his enemies, gives up the ghost. Joseph of Arimathea begs the body, and lays it in a new sepulchre.

On the third day, the next after the Jewish sabbath, Christ riseth from the dead; his resurrection is declared by angels to the women that came to the sepulchre. Christ first appeareth to Mary Magdalene, and afterwards to his disciples, and dineth with them.

Christ bringeth his apostles to mount Olivet, commandeth them to expect in Jerusalem the sending down of the Holy Ghost; sends them to teach and baptize all nations, and blesseth them; and while they behold, he is taken up, and a cloud receives him out of their sight. After his ascension the disciples are warned by two angels to depart, and to set their minds upon his second coming; they accordingly return, and giving themselves to prayer, choose Matthias to be an apostle in the place of Judas.

On the day of Pentecost, the Holy Ghost descendeth on the apostles in the form of cloven tongues, like as of fire, and enableth them to speak all languages. Peter the same day preacheth Christ and the resurrection, and about 3000 believers are added to the church.

PROOFS

OF THE

Authenticity of the New Testament.

By PROFESSOR MICHAELIS.

SECT I.

The New Testament is proved to be genuine on the same grounds as the works of profane authors.

IT is generally thought sufficient to shew the writings of a classic author to be genuine, if some one among the ancients has merely spoken of the work, as Cicero, Hirtius, and Suetonius, have done of Cæsar's descriptions of his own campaigns, without quoting passages from the book itself. But it may be objected, "It is possible indeed that Cæsar may have written such a treatise, but how can we be certain that the commentaries which we ascribe to him as their author were the same which Cicero, Hirtius, and Suetonius, read? Is it credible that Cæsar was the author of a history in which so frequent remarks are interspersed to the disparagement of the Germans, remarks which excite even suspicion of their timidity, when it is said in the very beginning of the work that the Gauls themselves acknowledged the Germans to be their superiors in bravery? Can suspicions like these proceed from a general who was in a great measure indebted to his German auxiliaries for the victory of Pharsalia, a circumstance again omitted to be mentioned in the Bellum Civile? Are these the commentaries so commended by Cicero and Hirtius, and to which the latter applied the observation: præcepta, non præbita facultas scriptoribus videtur. Could these commentaries have existed in the days of Florus, who likewise describes the battle of Pharsalia, and estimates the number in both armies at three hundred thousand, beside the auxiliaries; when the number given in the commentaries is so considerably inferior? Could Florus have been better acquainted with the state of the army than Cæsar? and would he have neglected to derive his intelligence from the best possible accounts, had such accounts at that time existed?"

Objections like these to the authenticity of Cæsar would be answered by every critic in classical literature, not with a serious reply, but with a smile of contempt. Yet weak and trivial as these arguments may appear, they are stronger than such as can with justice be applied to the writings of the New Testament, which are not only mentioned by the earliest fathers as being written by those Evangelists and Apostles to whom we ascribe them, but quoted and explained at such considerable length, as leaves no possibility of a doubt, that the writings to which they allude are the very same with those which have been transmitted to us under that title.

In fact the objections, which have hitherto been made, have not even the appearance of probability, and when reduced to plain and simple terms, amount only to this single question, Is it not possible that the New Testament is a forgery? A conclusion therefore is drawn a posse ad esse, a conclusion which would banish from the world many of the valued productions of antiquity.

Since then the adversaries of the Christian Religion have advanced all that zeal, penetration, and learning can afford, to prove the New Testament to be spurious, without being able to produce a solid argument in its disfavour, it would not be unreasonable to conclude against the possibility of a real objection, and that therefore these writings are genuine. But instead of immediately drawing this inference from these premises alone, I will arrange under their several heads the reasons which may induce a critic to suspect a work to be spurious.

1. When doubts have been made from its first appearance in the world, whether it proceeded from the author to whom it is ascribed.

2. When the immediate friends of the pretended author, who were able to decide upon the subject, have denied it to be his production.

3. When a long series of years has elapsed after his death, in which the book was unknown, and in which it must unavoidably have been mentioned and quoted, had it really existed.

4. When the style is different from that of his other writings, or, in case no other remain, different from that which might reasonably be expected.

5. When events are recorded which happened later than the time of the pretended author.

6. When opinions are advanced which contradict those he is known to maintain in his other writings. Though this latter argument alone leads to no positive conclusion, since every man is liable to change his opinion, or through forgetfulness to vary in the circumstances of the same relation, of which Josephus, in his Antiquities and Wars of the Jews, affords a striking example.

Now of all these various grounds for denying a work to be genuine, not one can be applied with justice to the New Testament. It is true that Faustus, (whose name I must again introduce, since modern sceptics have objected, without assigning reasons for their doubts,) contends that passages may be found in the same Gospel, or the same Epistle, which are a contradiction to each other. But this objection is different from that alledged in the last of the above-mentioned classes, and cannot be applied in the present instance. To avoid confusion we must make the following distinction: If a work, whose authenticity is questioned, contains principles diametrically opposite to those which are maintained in the indisputable writings of the author, to whom the work in question is ascribed, it may justly be considered as spurious. But no such inference can be drawn from seeming, or even real contradictions in one and the same work, the criterion being in that case wanting which alone can determine the matter in dispute. These premises decide nothing with respect to the author's name, and the only conclusion to be made is, either that the author was not sufficiently precise, or that the passages alledged are either corrupted, or falsely understood.

It has likewise been objected, that not only the same Evangelist contradicts himself, but that the different Evangelists often contradict each other. Were the instances adduced in support of this assertion more happily selected than they really are, or did they even amount to a demonstration, it would not follow that the Gospels were not written by those whose names they bear, but only that the authors were not infallible. Whoever studies with accuracy any part whatsoever of ancient or modern history, will frequently find not only apparent but real contradictions; yet no one would therefore conclude the writings of such historians as Livy, Josephus, or Tacitus, to be spurious.

AUTHENTICITY OF THE NEW TESTAMENT.

There are several passages in the New Testament which differ from the accounts of Josephus, a writer who throws so much light on the evangelic history, that he deserves more diligently to be studied. Now, supposing these difficulties were not to be removed by any critical conjecture; that neither the beginning of the second chapter of St. Luke were to be reconciled with the relation of Josephus or Tacitus; nor St. Luke's account of Theudas, Acts v. 36. with that of the former of these historians; the question would still remain to be determined, which author were in the right: and admitting it to be decided in favour of Josephus, and that St. Luke committed a chronological mistake in ascribing a wrong date to the rebellion of Theudas, it would militate not against the authenticity of the Acts of the Apostles, but only against the inspiration of the author. The case would be entirely different, could passages be found in the Acts of the Apostles, in which events were recorded that happened later than the death of the author, such, for instance, as an account of the false Messiah Barcochab, in the time of the emperor Hadrian, whence we might reasonably conclude the book to have been written in a subsequent period. But nothing of this nature can be produced, which militates either against the Acts of the Apostles, or any other part of the New Testament. In short, to recapitulate the six heads above mentioned, 1. It cannot be shewn that any one doubted of its authenticity in the period in which it first appeared. 2. No ancient accounts are on record, whence we may conclude it to be spurious. 3. No considerable period elapsed after the death of the Apostles, in which the New Testament was unknown, but on the contrary it is mentioned by their very contemporaries, and the accounts of it in the second century are still more numerous. 4. No argument can be brought in its disfavour from the nature of the style, it being exactly such as might be expected from the Apostles, not Attic but Jewish Greek. 5. No facts are recorded, which happened after their death. 6. No doctrines are maintained which contradict the known tenets of the authors, since beside the New Testament no writings of the Apostles exist. But, to the honour of the New Testament be it spoken, it contains numerous contradictions to the tenets and doctrines of the fathers in the second and third century, whose morality is different from that of the gospel, which recommends fortitude and submission to unavoidable evils, but not that enthusiastic ardour for martyrdom, for which those centuries are distinguished; and alludes to ceremonies which in the following ages were either in disuse or totally unknown, all which circumstances infallibly demonstrate that the New Testament is not a production of either of those centuries.

S E C T. II.

Positive grounds for the authenticity of the New Testament.

IT appears from what has hitherto been said, that there is not the smallest reason to doubt of the authenticity of these writings, and that they are as certainly genuine, as the most indisputable works of the Greeks and Romans. One might suppose that this were sufficiently satisfactory for every man, who had not an uncommon inclination to scepticism. But as the truth of the Christian Religion is grounded upon this important article, and the New Testament contains an account of miracles performed, and prophecies afterwards fulfilled, both of which demand a higher degree of evidence than usual events, and doubts therefore might arise, whether the New Testament were not written after the fulfilling of the prophecies, it is no longer a matter of curious speculation, but a conscientious and rational inquiry, if, not satisfied with refuting the arguments in its disfavour, we seek likewise the positive grounds of its authenticity. These positive grounds may be arranged under the three following heads:

1. The impossibility of a forgery, arising from the nature of the thing itself.
2. The ancient Christian, Jewish, and Heathen Testimonies in its favour.
3. Its own internal evidence.

These shall be severally considered in the remaining sections of this chapter.

S E C T. III.

Impossibility of a forgery arising from the nature of the thing itself.

THE Apostles seldom quote either from their own writings or from those of the other Apostles, because they were at that time too recent to be generally known in all the churches, and not because the Apostles were unacquainted with each other's writings. In those cases in which quotations are used, they express themselves thus; "I wrote to you in an Epistle," 1 Cor. v. 9. or, "As our beloved brother Paul also, according to the wisdom given unto him, hath written unto you," 2 Pet. iii. 15. In these and similar instances, they refer only to such epistles as had been written to the same community to which they were writing themselves. To the epistles of St. Paul alone are such references to be found. Now of these apostles St. John lived later than the death of Domitian, and no impostor during his life could be so absurd as to invent and distribute writings under his name, and that of the other apostles; and admitting even so absurd an attempt, they could never have been received without contradiction in all the Christian communities of the three several quarters of the globe. It is equally impossible that they could have been forged between his death, and the middle of the second century, since there lived during that period immediate disciples of St. John, and of the other apostles. And from the middle of the second, throughout all the following centuries, the accounts are too numerous to admit the supposition of a later forgery.

S E C T. IV.

Testimonies of the fathers, and other Christian writers of the first centuries.

IN our enquiry into the early origin of these writings, it is natural to direct our first attention to the persons who read and studied them, and we must here be guided by the evidence of the fathers of the first centuries, or, if their works be lost, by the fragments collected and preserved by the accurate Eusebius. The apostolic fathers, as they are called, Ignatius and Polycarp, who speak of particular books of the New Testament, deserve especially to be mentioned, since it is manifest from their writings, that so early as the first century the New Testament not only existed, but was received as genuine. If the adversaries of the Christian religion contend that the works of these fathers likewise are a forgery, we can produce so early as the beginning of the second century the evidence of Papias, who knew the daughters of Philip, mentioned in the Acts of the Apostles, and without doubt therefore a number of the immediate disciples of the Apostles themselves; and after Papias the authority of Justin Martyr, who wrote so early as the hundred and thirty-third year of the Christian æra. And from this period is the number of those, who have not only quoted, but commented on the New Testament, so very considerable, that no sceptic can have recourse to the desperate refuge of supposing, either that all these writings are a forgery, or that the New Testament was not considered in those ages as ancient and genuine. In the third century the name of Origen deserves particularly to be remembered, a writer of profound erudition and critical judgment, and acquainted with numberless authors of antiquity, which in our days are totally unknown. But to introduce the long series of fathers, who successively appear as evidence for the New Testament, and to quote the various passages in support of its authenticity, would be not only too prolix for the present undertaking, but even useless, after the learned labours of Lardner, to whose works, and those of Less, I refer my readers for further information, and will employ the remaining part of this section in endeavouring to clear up a difficulty, which has perplexed the critics in theological literature.

It has been asked, if the books of the New Testament were really written by the persons to whom they are ascribed, ascribed, what can be the reason, that the Apostles so seldom allude to the writings of each other, and that their writings again are so seldom mentioned and quoted by the Apostolic fathers? The former of these questions has been answered in the preceding section, and with respect to the latter it may be remarked, that the first century was not the age of quotation even among profane writers, being the very reverse of the present, in which it has been fashionable to fill whole pages with passages from other authors. And if the Old Testament, which was read by the Jews and Christians from their childhood, made an exception to that rule, yet this exception cannot be applied to the New Testament, of which the several parts were written at different periods, and were probably not collected into a volume before the end of the first century. It is therefore no objection to the New Testament, if it is so seldom cited by the apostolic fathers; and even could any one be produced, who had not made a single reference to these writings, it would prove as little against their authenticity, as St. Paul's never having quoted the epistles of St. Peter, or the Gospels of St. Matthew and St. Luke. On the contrary, this very circumstance affords a strong presumption that the writings of these fathers themselves are genuine, and that they were composed by contemporaries of the Apostles, at a time when the several books of the New Testament were not universally known, nor become, like the Old Testament, a part of Christian education. This is an observation which has not escaped those who have attempted in later ages to introduce their own productions under the names of the early Christians, as appears from the spurious homilies of Clemens Romanus, and the disputation which is there related between St. Peter and Simon the magician.

But the omission of a single quotation in the genuine epistle, as it is called, of Clemens Romanus, to the Corinthians, is not only striking, but can excite a stronger suspicion against the antiquity of the New Testament, than the united arguments of its professed enemies. His chief object in this epistle is to convince the Corinthians of the resurrection of the dead, and he quotes to that purpose a variety of passages from the Old Testament, all of which, excepting Job xix. 25—27. prove in fact nothing; and after reading this epistle one is rather inclined to doubt, than believe a doctrine so badly supported. Now the question naturally arises, how is it possible, if the first epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians at that time really existed, that Clement could neglect to mention the fifteenth chapter, in which the very doctrine, which he wished to demonstrate, was not only supported by the best arguments, but maintained by the authority of a divine apostle.

Dr. Less, who was the first person that discovered the difficulty, has likewise explained it in the following manner, viz. he is of opinion that the object of Clement was rather to shew the harmony between the Old and New Testament on the subject of the resurrection of the dead, than to demonstrate a doctrine which he presupposed to be true; that a passage is really to be found in the forty-seventh chapter, in which he recommends the first epistle of St. Paul to the Corinthians, Take up, says he, the epistle of the blessed Paul the Apostle: what did he write unto you in the beginning of the Gospel? Of a truth being divinely inspired, he sent unto both concerning himself, and Cephas, and Apollos; and as the contents of this epistle were well known to the Corinthians, he thinks it sufficient to quote the Old Testament, without introducing particular passages from the New. This explanation may serve to remove the difficulty on the supposition that this epistle of Clement be genuine. But I am rather inclined to entertain the same sentiments of this epistle, as the learned entertain in general of the other works attributed to this ancient father. The name of Clement seems well adapted to recommend a fiction, and the author appears to betray the imposture by a too studied affectation of the mode of writing in the first century. Having observed it to be fashionable in those days to avoid quotations, he has carried the rule so far as to transgress the bounds of probability.

S E C T. V.

Testimonies of the Heretics of the first centuries.

THE evidence to be derived from the heretical writers of the first centuries is still more important in proving the New Testament to be genuine, than even that of the orthodox fathers. It was the practice of the former not only to falsify, or wrongly explain particular passages, but to erase such as were not to be reconciled with their own private tenets. Now this very circumstance is a positive proof, that they considered the New Testament, with exception to these single passages, to be a genuine work of the Apostles. They might deny an apostle to be an infallible teacher, and banish therefore his writings from the sacred canon, but they no where contend that the apostle is not the author. This confession from the mouth of an adversary is the clearest evidence that can be given; and as it was made in a period, and under circumstances, when, had objections been possible, they would infallibly have been produced, it serves as an irresistible argument that the New Testament is a genuine work of the Apostles.

The testimonies of this kind, which afford such positive evidence, have not been collected in the same manner as those of the orthodox fathers. Lardner, who has made so ample a collection of the former in his Credibility of the Gospel History, has almost entirely neglected the latter, not because they were unknown to him, but because he regarded them as unfavourable to the Christian cause: not considering that for that very reason their evidence is the safest that can be produced. They may deny as often as they please the divine mission of the Apostles, or the authenticity of particular passages, since by so doing they imply the authenticity of the work in general. Whoever maintains at present that 1 John v. 7. was not written by the Apostle, presupposes the remainder of the epistle to be genuine.

A collection of this nature would swell this chapter to a size disproportionate to the rest of the work, and render disquisitions necessary, which would be improper in a general introduction to the New Testament. I wish that some one among the learned, who is better qualified than myself, would attempt the collection, which would be a valuable supplement to the works of Lardner. At present I will mention only a couple of examples, which may serve as a specimen of the rest.

Cerinthus, a contemporary of St. John, as we are informed by the ancient historians, maintained the necessity of circumcision, and the observation of the Mosaic law; and because St. Paul delivered in his epistles a contrary doctrine, Cerinthus with the rest of his sect denied him to be a divine apostle. They reject Paul, says Epiphanius, (Adv. Hæreses, xxviii. 5.) because he did not believe in circumcision, and they condemn him because he said, As many of you as are justified by the law are fallen from grace: and, that if ye be circumcised, Christ shall profit you nothing.

It follows therefore, 1st, that the epistles of St. Paul existed in the first century, and those too the very same which we have at present, because they are not only mentioned but quoted. 2dly, That Cerinthus and his followers, instead of denying these epistles to have been written by St. Paul, allow them to be a genuine work of that apostle, since they contend, for the very reason, that he was a teacher of falsehood. The Gospel of St. Matthew on the contrary was approved by the Cerinthians, because it contained nothing contrary to their tenets. This Gospel therefore existed in the first century, and was acknowledged to have been written by St. Matthew.

The Ebionites, a Christian sect of Jewish original, who lived in the land of Basan and its neighbourhood, in Pella, Cocaba, Astaroth, and Carnaim, adopted as their principal rule of faith the Gospel of St. Matthew, though they corrupted it by various alterations and additions; but they rejected the authority of St. Paul, because his epistles contradicted the Levitical law, that is, they believed him to be the author of these epistles, and held him for that reason to be a false apostle. I will quote the words of Epiphanius, who being a native of Palestine, Palestine, and acquainted with the Hebrew language, was able to obtain the best information concerning the Nazarenes and Ebionites. He says, "they had the Acts of the Apostles, with various additions, which go so far as to accuse St. Paul of the artifices of a false Apostle. They say that St. Paul has himself confessed, that he was born at Tarsus, and conclude therefore that he was by birth a Greek, appealing to his own words, I am a native of Tarsus, a citizen of no mean city. They pretend that his father and mother were Greeks, that he came to Jerusalem, where he fell in love with the daughter of the High-priest, and that, in order to marry her, he became a proselyte, and permitted himself to be circumcised: but as the marriage did not take place, he was highly offended, and wrote against circumcision, the sabbath, and the law." And again, "what have I not to answer to their blasphemies against St. Paul, that they take him for a Grecian and a Heathen who afterwards became a proselyte, &c." Eusebius gives the same description of the Ebionites, and relates, "that they rejected all his epistles, and called him an apostate, because he departed from the Levitical law." If this sect, which existed so early, being originally composed of Christians who had fled from Jerusalem to Pella, notwithstanding the inconveniences which they must have felt from the authenticity of St. Paul's epistles, still acknowledged him to be the author, there can be no doubt that he was considered as such from the very earliest ages.

Of the heretics, who prove the authenticity of the New Testament by the circumstance of their erasing and altering the text in order to make it harmonize with their own doctrines, we may produce Marcion as an instance. He lived in the beginning of the second century, and, after having discharged during several years the office of priest, he quitted the established church, to publish his heretical tenets so early as the year 136. He lived therefore in an age, when he could easily have discovered if the writings of the New Testament had been forged after the death of the Apostles. And, as he thought himself grossly insulted by the orthodox party, he could not be wanting in inclination to make a discovery, which would have afforded him the most ample means of revenge. He had likewise the experience derived from an acquaintance with foreign countries, having travelled from his birth-place Sinope to Rome, where he afterwards resided, in order to obtain a repeal of the excommunication, which had been denounced against him by his native church. But in the vast extent of country, which lies between Sinope and Rome, he was unable to discover the smallest trace of the New Testament's being a forgery. He was obliged therefore, in order to answer his purposes, to have recourse to other means. The Gospel of St. Matthew, the Epistle to the Hebrews, with those of St. Peter and St. James, as well as the Old Testament in general, he said were writings not for Christians, but for Jews. Of the Gospel of St. Luke, and the ten epistles of St. Paul, viz. to the Romans, Corinthians, Galatians, Ephesians, Colossians, Philippians, Thessalonians, and Philemon, he undertook a very severe critical recension, and published for the use of his disciples a new edition of these books, in which many passages considerably differed from the generally received one. Among these passages, which Epiphanius has collected in the eleventh section of his forty-second heresy, are real instances of what modern critics call variae lectiones, of which several have been received as genuine, and which were probably occasioned by the manuscripts of Marcion differing in various readings from those of Epiphanius. Had he rested here, he would have remained irreproachable, but as this was not sufficient to answer his purpose, he spared not a single text that contradicted his own opinions.

The inference to be deduced from what has been here advanced is this, That between the years 126 and 160, in all the countries which lay between Sinope and Rome, no accounts could be found that the books of the New Testament were spurious, and newly imposed on the world after the decease of the Apostles, who died in the period that elapsed between the years 69 and 100. We must here not forget to remark, that, among the books acknowledged by Marcion to be genuine, are those very epistles of St. Paul, which afford, as we have shewn in the first section of this chapter, the strongest demonstration of the truth of our religion.

S E C T. VI.

Jewish and Heathen testimonies for the authenticity of the New Testament.

THE Jewish and Heathen testimonies to the authenticity of the New Testament are equally important with those which have been last mentioned, and Lardner has made a very large collection of them in a book written for that purpose. Very early Heathen writers can be produced, who considered it as a work of the Apostles and Evangelists, and Chrysostom remarks very justly in his sixth Homily to the first Epistle to the Corinthians, that Celsus and Porphyry, two enemies of the Christian Religion, are powerful witnesses for the antiquity of the New Testament, since they could not have argued against the tenets of the Gospel, had it not existed in that early period. His words are as follow: But Celsus and Porphyry are sufficient witnesses of the antiquity of these books, for they could not have spoken against things which had no existence among them.

I will not appeal to the evidence of Lucian, since, though he speaks of the writings of the Christians, which the Impostor Peregrinus expounds to them, he mentions none of these writings by name: and since the Christians, with whom Lucian was acquainted, made a distinction between clean and unclean meats, for a violation of which law they quitted the society of Peregrinus, and as the Nazarenes frequented the neighbourhood of Lucian's residence, he had probably heard only of the Old Testament, and the Hebrew Gospel of St. Matthew, which were adopted by the Nazarenes, as the only rule of faith. But it is worthy of remark, that sacred writings of the Christians were known to an heathen author so early as the middle of the second century, were it only the Hebrew Gospel of St. Matthew.

His contemporary, Celsus, who wrote against the Christians in the latter half of the second century, not only mentions by name, but quotes passages from the books of the New Testament, so that it is certain they were the same as we have at present. But instead of swelling this introduction with extracts from Celsus, I refer my readers to the valuable works of Lardner. The following observation however deserves attention. Celsus reproaches the Christians with having frequently three or four different readings for the same text, or, as he expresses it, that they had altered the Gospel three or four different times, and, when pressed by their adversaries, recurred to that reading which best suited their purpose. Origen answers very properly that he knew of no alterations, except such as were made by the Gnostics, Marcionites, Valentinians, and others, who dissented from the established church. In this case the question belongs to the foregoing section, and is an additional confirmation from the mouth of an adversary, that the Gnostics (for to those only is applicable what Celsus often says of the Christians) acknowledged the books of the New Testament to have been written by the Apostles, which, it is true, they altered in particular texts, that it might the better correspond with their own tenets. On the other hand, it is possible that the alterations, with which Celsus reproaches the Christians, were nothing else than various readings, such, for instance, as Mark i. 2. where the reading in several manuscripts is: In Isaiah the Prophet. In which instance a Christian might reply to Celsus, "We find in other manuscripts, In the Prophets." From this hypothesis it follows, that the New Testament had existed a considerable time, and been very prudently transcribed, since otherwise three or four different readings would hardly have been found to the same text.

The testimony of Porphyry is still more important than that of Celsus. He lived indeed an hundred years later than the last mentioned evidence, but this deficiency in point of time is abundantly supplied by his profound learning, and severely critical examination of the sacred writings. He was born in the year 233, of Tyrian origin, and called in his native language Malcho: he is also styled the Basanean, from Basan the country of his birth. Unfortunately for the present age, the mistaken zeal of the Christian Emperors has banished from the world a set of writings, which could essentially serve the cause of Christianity; and every real friend of our religion would gladly give the works of a pious father to rescue those of Porphyry from the flames. His objections to particular passages of the New Testament have been briefly collected by Mill in his Prolegomena, and more at length by Lardner in his Jewish and Heathen Testimonies, who remarks, that even in the few fragments that remain there is mention made of the Gospels of St. Matthew, St. Mark, and St. John, the Acts of the Apostles, and the Epistle to the Galatians. What then might we not conclude, were the works of Porphyry entire, especially as Jerom speaks of numberless passages which were the objects of his criticism. Now it appears from the very objections, that the books, to which Porphyry alludes, are the same which we possess at present, and that it never occurred to him to deny that they were written by the Apostles and Evangelists, whom, as authors of these writings, he pronounces illiterate, and unable to quote properly even the Old Testament: but to St. Paul he lays a charge of a different nature.

It is universally allowed that Porphyry is the most sensible, as well as most severe, adversary of the Christian religion that antiquity can produce. He was versed, not only in political, but philosophical history, as appears from his Lives of the Philosophers: and we are indebted to him for some of the best historical accounts for explaining the prophecies of Daniel, as may be gathered from the extracts, which are preserved in the commentary of Jerom upon that subject: the explanations of Porphyry are for the most part superior to those of the learned father; his accurate and extensive knowledge of history enabled him to apply those passages to Antiochus Epiphanes, where Jerom could discover nothing but an account of Antichrist; and if the twelfth book of the writings of Porphyry were now remaining, we should probably find it to be the best commentary on the book of Daniel. His acquaintance with the Christians was not confined to a single country, but he had conversed with them in Tyre, in Sicily, and in Rome: his residence in Basan afforded him the best opportunity of a strict intercourse with the Nazarenes, who adopted only the Hebrew Gospel of St. Matthew; and his thirst for philosophical inquiry must have induced him to examine the cause of their rejecting the other writings of the New Testament, whether it was that they considered them to be spurious, or that, like the Ebionites, they regarded them as a genuine work of the Apostles, though not divinely inspired. Enabled by his birth to study the Syriac, as well as the Greek authors, he was of all the adversaries to the Christian religion the best qualified for inquiring into the authenticity of the sacred writings. He possessed therefore every advantage which natural abilities or political situation could afford, to discover whether the New Testament was a genuine work of the Apostles and Evangelists, or whether it was imposed upon the world after the decease of its pretended authors. But no trace of this suspicion is any where to be found, nor did it ever occur to Porphyry to suppose that it was spurious.

The Prophecy of Daniel he made no scruple to pronounce a forgery, and written after the time of Antiochus Epiphanes: his critical penetration enabled him to discover the perfect coincidence between the predictions and the events, and, denying divine inspiration, he found no other means of solving the problem. In support of this hypothesis he uses an argument which is an equal proof of his learning and sagacity, though his objection does not affect the authority of the prophet, viz. from a Greek paronomasia, which he discovered in the history of Daniel and Susanna, he concludes the book to have been written originally in Greek, and afterwards translated into Hebrew. Is it credible then that so sagacious an inquirer could have failed to have discovered a forgery with respect to the New Testament, had a forgery existed? a discovery which would have given him the completest triumph, by striking at once a mortal blow on the religion which he attempted to destroy.

To the evidence of Porphyry might be added that of the emperor Julian: but as he lived an hundred years later, and was also inferior to Porphyry in his critical inquiries, I shall make no further observations upon this subject, but refer my readers to the works of Lardner.

Ancient Versions.

ANOTHER important evidence for the antiquity of the New Testament, are the ancient versions, of which some were made so early as the first century, viz. a Syriac, and several Latin versions, which latter abounding in Hebraisms and Syriasms, even in a greater degree than the original, were manifestly made by native Jews; and therefore productions of the first century. These versions I barely mention at present, as I shall examine them more fully in their proper place. A book therefore so early and so universally read throughout the East in the Syriac, and throughout Europe and Africa in the Latin Translation, must be able to lay claim to a high antiquity. To the strange and trivial hypothesis, that the New Testament was forged in the fifth century, after the conquest of Italy by the Goths, the Gothic Version of Ulphilas, which was made in the preceding century, may serve for a sufficient answer: but it would be a waste of time to dwell any longer in refuting such trifling objections.

S E C T. VIII.

Internal Evidence: and first, that derived from the Style of the New Testament.

THE first and principal of the internal marks of authenticity, is the language of the New Testament, which is written in a style that must be striking, not only to every man accustomed to the Greek of the classic authors, but even to those who are acquainted only with the writings of the fathers. It is principally distinguished by the Hebraisms and Syriasms, with which these writings abound, a circumstance too often considered as a fault, which pious ignorance, even so late as the present century, has attempted to wipe away: not knowing that these very deviations from Grecian purity afford the strongest presumption in its favour. They shew it to have been written by men of Hebrew origin, a production therefore of the first century, since after the decease of the Jewish converts to Christianity we find hardly any instance of Jews who turned preachers of the gospel; and the Christian fathers were for the most part totally ignorant of Hebrew. This distinguishing mark is to be found in all the books of the New Testament, though in different degrees, even in the epistles of St. Paul, and the Acts of the Apostles; though the former sufficiently evince that the author was master of the Greek, and the latter contains various examples not only of pure but elegant language. Nor have these idioms the appearance of art and design, being exactly such as might be expected from persons who use a language, spoken indeed where they lived, but not the dialect of their country. And if the New Testament were a forgery of the second or third century, its author, the better to disguise his imposture, must have studied to imitate the style of writing which might have been expected from the Apostles; a supposition totally incredible. For the lower order of Christians was too deficient in criticism to perceive these various shades, and too wanting in taste to execute the undertaking with success; while the learned fathers of the second and two following centuries exercised their talents in searching into the authenticity of the writings already received: and had the fathers of those ages been inclined to impose, they were mostly devoid of the means, since those who are ignorant of Hebrew and Syriac would hardly introduce Hebraisms and Syriasms into their writings. The Nazarenes on the contrary, who understood Hebrew, accepted only the Gospel of St. Matthew, and must therefore remain innocent of the charge of having forged the rest of the sacred writings. The difficulty of imitating the oriental style is felt only by those who are conversant with the eastern writers; and the modern novels, written even by men of taste and genius, under the title of Oriental Tales, are as distant from the Asiatic mode of writing, as they deviate from the European. And yet if the New Testament be a forgery, the Christians of the second and third centuries must be supposed capable of an imitation, which cannot be distinguished from an original. On the contrary, the language of the early fathers, though not always the purest classic Greek, has no resemblance to that of the New Testament, not excepting the works of the few who had a knowledge of the Hebrew, Origen, Epiphanius, or Justin Martyr, from whom, as a native of Palestine, it might with some reason be expected.

Should any one reply, that the same Hebraic mode of writing, which I have used as an argument in favour of the New Testament, is found likewise in a very high degree in the book of Revelation, of which it is doubted, and that with justice, whether it were written by St. John, and also in several apocryphal books, which we have long rejected from the sacred canon, I would give the following explanation. It cannot be concluded from these premises alone, that the sacred books of the New Testament were written by those particular persons to whom they are ascribed, but only that they were composed either by native Jews, or by persons who by continual intercourse with that nation had insensibly adopted the Jewish style. It follows therefore from what has been said above, that they were written before the year 120; a conclusion sufficient to answer our present purpose, when applied to the books of undoubted authority.

But similar as these writings are to each other in oriental idioms, they are equally distinct and characteristic in the particular style of their respective authors. They cannot then have proceeded from the hands of a single impostor, and the supposition of their being an accidental collection of spurious writings from different authors, is attended nearly with the same difficulties as the former hypothesis. Whoever reads with attention the thirteen epistles of St. Paul (for at present I do not include the epistle to the Hebrews) must be convinced that they were all written by the same author, who has so many distinguishing marks that he is not easy to be mistaken. On all these thirteen epistles is impressed the character of a man well versed in the Greek language, and possessed of general erudition, who could use the finest and even severest irony, without rejecting the rules of decency, but who, in consequence of his Jewish original, and his indifference with respect to style, abounded in Hebraisms and Syriasms, and sometimes borrowed from the place of his birth even the provincial expressions of Cilicia. An equal degree of similarity is to be found between the Gospel and Epistle of St. John; and the only compositions of the same author, which, notwithstanding the general resemblance, betray a difference of style, are the Gospel of St. Luke, and the Acts of the Apostles; his Gospel abounding with harsh and uncouth Hebraisms, while the Acts of the Apostles, though not free from Hebraisms, are written in a language that approaches nearer to purity and classical correctness. The reason of this difference will be explained at large in the second part.

The writings of St. John and St. Paul discover marks of an original genius, that no imitation can ever attain, which always betrays itself by the very labour exerted to cover the deception; and if we consider attentively the various qualities that compose the extraordinary character of the latter Apostle, we shall find it to be such as no art could ever imitate. His mind overflows with sentiment, yet he never loses sight of his principal object, but hurried on by the rapidity of thought, discloses frequently in the middle a conclusion to be made only at the end. To a profound knowledge of the Old Testament he joins the acuteness of philosophical wisdom, which he displays in applying and expounding the sacred writings, and his explanations are therefore sometimes so new and unexpected, that superficial observers might be tempted to suppose them erroneous. The fire of his genius, and his inattention to style, occasion frequently a two-fold obscurity, he being often too concise to be understood, except by those to whom he immediately wrote, and not seldom on the other hand so full of his subject, as to produce long and difficult parentheses, and a repetition of the same word even in different senses. With a talent for irony and satire he unites the most refined sensibility, and tempers the severity of his censures by expressions of tenderness and affection; nor does he ever forget in the vehemence of his zeal the rules of modesty and decorum. He is a writer, in short, of so singular and wonderful a composition, that it would be difficult to find a rival. That truly sensible and sagacious philosopher, Locke, was of the same opinion, and contended that St. Paul was without an equal.

S E C T. IX.

Coincidence of the accounts delivered in the New Testament with the history of those times.

WHOEVER undertakes to forge a set of writings, and ascribe them to persons who lived in a former period, exposes himself to the utmost danger of a discordancy with the history and manners of the age to which his accounts are referred: and this danger increases in proportion as they relate to points not mentioned in general history, but to such as belong only to a single city, sect, religion, or school. And of all books that ever were written, there is none, if the New Testament is a forgery, so liable to detection; the scene of action is not confined to a single country, but displayed in the greatest cities of the Roman Empire; allusions are made to the various manners and principles of the Greeks, the Romans, and the Jews, which are carried so far with respect to this last nation, as to extend even to the trifles and follies of their schools. A Greek or Roman Christian, who lived in the second or third century, though as well versed in the writings of the ancients as Eustathius or Asconius, would have been still wanting in Jewish literature; and a Jewish convert in those ages, even the most learned Rabbi, would have been equally deficient in the knowledge of Greece and Rome. If then the New Testament, thus exposed to detection, (had it been an imposture,) is found after the severest researches to harmonize with the history, the manners, and the opinions, of the first century, (and since the more minutely we inquire, the more perfect we find the coincidence,) we must conclude that it was beyond the reach of human abilities to effectuate so wonderful a deception.

I shall not enter into a particular detail of the many examples that may be produced, as the task has been so ably executed by Lardner, but shall confine myself to a few particular remarks.

The learned writer has employed much diligence and erudition in answering an objection to St. Matthew's relation of the massacre in Bethlehem, drawn from the silence of Josephus upon that subject. His answer is in my opinion satisfactory, and the objection will be still diminished, if we take into consideration the size of the town, which was small and insignificant. Admitting the inhabitants to amount to a thousand, the number of males born yearly would be between ten and twenty, and since those only were murdered who were two years old and under, it is not probable, allowing for natural deaths in that period, that more than twenty children suffered on that occasion. It was sufficient for this purpose to employ private assassins, and there was no necessity for issuing a public order. Josephus then might be either ignorant of the fact, or think it too insignificant to relate, when compared with the greater cruelties of Herod in Jerusalem. But were the objection unanswerable, it would affect not the New Testament in general, but merely the two first chapters of St. Matthew; which may be separated from the rest of the Gospel, because it is still a question whether they belong to it or not.

When obscure passages, which have perplexed the most learned of the commentators, can at once be explained plained by a more minute knowledge of the special history of the times, it affords sufficient proof that the New Testament is not an invention of later ages. Of this the following may serve as examples.

We read in the Gospel of St. Luke, chap. ii. 14. the answer of John the Baptist to the soldiers, who demanded of him, saying, What shall we do? a question of importance in the Christian morality, whether the life of a soldier be agreeable to the precepts of the Gospel. But what has hitherto occasioned so much difficulty is, who these soldiers were? Some of the commentators have explained them by the guards of the temple, others by Roman soldiers, who would not probably have frequented the baptism of St. John, though Grotius goes so far as to determine their particular destination, saying, they were such as spent their lives in garrison, and never took the field but on the greatest emergency. Now it happens that the expression used by St. Luke is not soldiers, στρωτοί, but the participle, στρωτομενοι, i. e. men under arms, or men going to battle. Whence these persons came, and on what particular account, may be found at large in the history of Josephus. Herod the Tetrarch of Galilee was engaged in a war with his father-in-law Aretas, a petty king in Arabia Petræa, at the very time in which John was preaching in the wilderness. Machærus, a fortress situated on a hill not far from the eastern shore of the Dead Sea, on the confines of the two countries, was the place in which John was imprisoned, and afterwards beheaded. The army of Herod, then in its march from Galilee, passed through the country in which John baptized; which sufficiently explains the doubt, who the soldiers were that proposed to him the above question. So minute a coincidence in a circumstance overlooked by Grotius, and the rest of the commentators, would be hardly discovered in a forgery of later ages.

Another instance is to be found in the account of St. Paul's appearance before the council in Jerusalem, and his answer to Ananias, Acts xxiii. 2—5. Here again the learned have met with considerable difficulties.

1. Who this Ananias was? a question which Krebs has explained in his remarks taken from Josephus, having shewn him to be the son of Nebedeni.

2. How it can be reconciled with chronology, that Ananias was called at that time High Priest, when it is certain from Josephus, that the time of his holding that office was much earlier?

3. How it comes to pass that St. Paul says, "I wist not, brethren, that he was the High Priest," since the external marks of office must have determined whether he were or not? a jest would have ill suited the gravity of a tribunal, and a falsehood still less the character of St. Paul.

On all these obscurities is thrown the fullest light, as soon as we examine the special history of that period, a light which is not confined to the present, but extends itself to the following chapters, insomuch that it cannot be doubted that this book was written, not after the destruction of Jerusalem, but by a person who was contemporary to the events which are there related.

Ananias the son of Nebedeni was High Priest at the time that Helena, queen of Adiabene, supplied the Jews with corn from Egypt, during the famine which took place in the fourth year of Claudius, mentioned in the eleventh chapter of the Acts. St. Paul therefore, who took a journey to Jerusalem at that period, Acts xv. could not have been ignorant of the elevation of Ananias to that dignity. Soon after the holding of the first council, as it is called, at Jerusalem, Ananias was dispossessed of his office, in consequence of certain acts of violence between the Samaritans and the Jews, and sent prisoner to Rome, whence he was afterwards released, and returned to Jerusalem. Now for that period he could not be called High Priest in the proper sense of the word, though Josephus has sometimes given him the title of Ἀρχιεπίσκοπος, taken in the more extensive meaning of a Priest, who had a seat and voice in the Sanhedrim; and Jonathan, though we are not acquainted with the circumstances of his elevation, had been raised in the mean time to the supreme dignity in the Jewish Church. Between the death of Jonathan, who was murdered by order of Felix; and the High-priesthood of Ishmael, who was invested with that office by Agrippa, elapsed an interval, in which this dignity continued vacant. Now it happened precisely in this interval that St. Paul was apprehended in Jerusalem: and, the Sanhedrim being destitute of a President, he undertook of his own authority the discharge of that office, which he executed with the greatest tyranny. It is possible therefore that St. Paul, who had been only a few days at Jerusalem, might be ignorant that Ananias, who had been dispossessed of the Priesthood, had taken upon himself a trust to which he was not entitled; he might therefore very naturally exclaim, "I wist not, brethren, that he was the High Priest!" Admitting him on the other hand to have been acquainted with the fact, the expression must be considered as an indirect reproof, and a tacit refusal to recognize usurped authority.

A passage then, which has hitherto been involved in obscurity, is brought by this relation into the clearest light; and the whole history of St. Paul's imprisonment, the conspiracy of the fifty Jews, with the consent of the Sanhedrim, their petition to Festus to send him from Cæsarea with an intent to murder him on the road, are facts which correspond to the character of the times as described by Josephus, who mentions the principal persons recorded in the Acts, and paints their profligacy in colours even stronger than those of St. Luke.

Whoever attentively reads the New Testament, will continually find examples of this nature. And it is sufficient, in answer to the question, "Is the New Testament ancient and genuine?" to reply, "Compare it with the history of the times, and you cannot doubt of its authenticity."

S E C T. X.

Objections drawn from real or apparent contradictions between the accounts of profane authors and those of the New Testament, particularly those of St. Luke.

IT cannot be denied, that in a few particular facts the writings of the New Testament disagree either really or apparently with the relations which have been given by profane historians. Of all the sacred authors there is no one who so frequently stands exposed to this charge as St. Luke, who in all other respects appears to the most advantage when put in competition with other writers: and perhaps I am not mistaken when I assert, that as many doubts of this nature may be raised against St. Luke alone, as against the other Apostles and Evangelists put together.

These historical objections must be divided into two separate classes, which we must take care not to confound.

1. Such as would demonstrate a book not to have been written by the author to whom it is ascribed.

2. Such as would prove only that the author was mistaken, and therefore not divinely inspired.

The former kind alone belongs properly to this section; but as it may appear difficult to make the proper distinction, and examples of the latter sort, if too numerous in any work, would depreciate its authority, to avoid recurring hereafter to the same subject I will give instances of both.

To the first class belongs the following, which is almost the only instance to be found. St. Paul relates, in his second epistle to the Corinthians, chap. xi. 32. that in Damascus the governor under Aretas the king kept the city of the Damascenes with a garrison, desirous to apprehend him; and that through a window in a basket he was let down by the wall, and escaped his hands. The question which naturally arises is, what authority could a governor under Aretas, a petty king in Arabia Petræa, have in Damascus, a city belonging to the Romans? We read neither in the works of Josephus, nor in those of any other author, that Damascus was ever subject to the dominion of Aretas; and to judge from the eighteenth book of the Jewish Antiquities, which corresponds with the period of St. Paul's journey to Damascus, the city must have belonged at that very time to the Romans, since Flaccus is described as judge judge in a dispute between the Damascenes and Sidonians relating to the boundary of the two districts. And what increases the difficulty is, the circumstance that the governor, who might be supposed an Heathen, was so partial to the Jews, that St. Paul was exposed to more danger than in Jerusalem itself. Now, if the description of the circumstance of St. Paul's escape were an actual violation of historical truth, it would prove not only the epistle was not divinely inspired, but that the Apostle was not the author, since he could not have been ignorant, during his stay at Damascus, to whom the city was subject, and whether the governor was an Heathen or a Jew.

The force of these objections has been considerably weakened, in a dissertation published in 1755, De ethnarca Aretæ Arabum regis Paulo insidiante, by J. C. Heyne, who has shewn it to be highly probable, first, that Aretas, against whom the Romans not long before the death of Tiberius made a declaration of war, which they neglected to put in execution, took the opportunity of seizing Damascus, which had once belonged to his ancestors; an event omitted in Josephus, as forming no part of the Jewish History; and by the Roman historians, as being a matter not flattering in itself, and belonging only to a distant province: secondly, that Aretas was by religion a Jew, a circumstance the more credible, when we reflect that Judaism had been widely propagated in that country, and that even kings in Arabia Felix had recognized the law of Moses. The difficulty then is so far removed, that it ceases to create suspicion against an epistle, which has so many evident marks of authenticity; and it is only to be regretted that, in order to place the subject in the clearest point of view, we are not sufficiently acquainted with the particular history of Damascus. I can produce, however, a fragment which is taken from an ancient tradition preserved in the Tabulæ Syriæ of Abulfeda; but I would recommend to those who would criticise on this matter, to read the Arabic original, and not the Latin translation. In speaking of the great mosque at Damascus, he says, "the walls existed from the days of the Sabii, (i. e. Heathens,) whose house of worship (temple) it had been. Afterwards it belonged to the Jews, and after that again to idolaters. About this time John, the son of Zacharias, (i. e. the Baptist) was put to death, and his head stuck on that gate of the mosque which is called the Gate Girun. From that time the Christians had it in possession, and kept it till the beginning of the Muhammedan religion." It appears then that this house of worship, which was originally a Heathen temple, was in the hands of the Jews about the time of John the Baptist, and that it afterwards returned to its former destination. Now this is hardly to be explained on any other than the following hypothesis, viz. that Aretas, who was a contemporary of John the Baptist, made a conquest of Damascus, and being himself a Jew, permitted that nation to convert the temple into a synagogue, an indulgence hardly to be expected from the Romans; and that, when the city again submitted to the arms of Rome, the temple was restored to its original possessors. With respect to the head of John, it is probable that this part of the account, as heard by Abulfeda, was a mistake, and that the ancient tradition of Damascus had been disfigured by being modelled into the form of Muhammedan manners. It is true that John was beheaded at that period, though not at Damascus; but the Jews were not accustomed to adorn their synagogues with the heads of the executed. Herod, on the other hand, would have avoided a measure which would perpetuate the memory of an event painful to himself, and odious to his subjects, and Aretas would rather have canonized than have exposed to public shame the head of a person who had forfeited his life for censuring the marriage of Herod with Herodias, the rival and enemy of Aretas's daughter. If that part of the tradition be true, it can mean only, that a head had been carved in stone over the door of the temple, and dedicated to John the Baptist, during the time that the city was subject to Aretas; for the opinion that the Jews admitted in no case the introduction of images is ungrounded. By this explanation then the passage in the epistle to the Corinthians is not only freed from a heavy charge, but, if I may use the expression, acquitted with honour. And hence we may explain the reason why the Jews were permitted to exercise in Damascus persecutions still severer than those in Jerusalem, where the violence of their zeal was awed by the moderation of the Roman policy. Of this we find an example in the ninth chapter of the Acts, where Paul is sent by the High Priest to Damascus to exercise against the Christians cruelties, which the return of the Roman governor had checked in Judea. These accounts agree likewise with what is related in Josephus, that the number of Jews in Damascus amounted to ten thousand, and that almost all the women, even those whose husbands were Heathens, were of the Jewish religion.

But to proceed to examples of the second kind. These are such as would shew a writer to have committed a chronological or historical error, and therefore that he was not divinely inspired, but afford no ground to conclude that he was not the author of the writings which bear his name, since mistakes may be discovered in the most accurate historian. Could it be proved, for instance, beyond the possibility of a doubt, that St. Luke was mistaken in the time that Quirinius held the taxation in Judea, or that Theudas excited a sedition; were it certain that he had wrongly related either the riot of the Egyptian, or the death of John the Baptist; the inference indeed might be deduced, that he was not so accurate in his inquiries as he had promised in the preface to his Gospel, and that the accounts which he gathered from eye-witnesses to the several facts, were either falsely understood or imperfectly remembered: but since the name determines nothing in the present instance, and the Acts of the Apostles, with the Gospel ascribed to St. Luke, must have had an author, there is no ground whatsoever for denying them to be a work of the evangelist, and ascribing them to an anonymous writer.

It has been remarked above, that the chief difficulties of this nature are to be found in St. Luke, who was not a native of Palestine, but having accompanied St. Paul thither, made only a short stay in Jerusalem, and spent the greatest part of his time in Cæsarea. The objection then would only relate to the writings of St. Luke, and not to those of the Apostles, Matthew, John, Paul, and Peter. St. Luke was not an Apostle; and I must confess, that in treating this subject more fully in the following chapter, I shall be under the necessity of making a distinction between the inspiration of his writings and those of the above-named Apostles.

But even admitting some trifling errors, from which no human being is exempt, he ceases not to be a most valuable historian, especially in the Acts of the Apostles, where he speaks either as an eye-witness himself, or instructed by St. Paul, the companion of his journey. It cannot be denied, on the other hand, that this hypothesis would lower the degree of certainty in the accounts contained in his Gospel alone, and not mentioned by the other evangelists; and would in some manner affect his beautiful and pathetic relation of the dying malefactor on the cross, a relation which is difficult to be reconciled, without violating the laws of criticism, with that of St. Matthew and St. Mark.

But impartiality requires that we should examine this subject more at large, and inquire who are the writers that contradict him, and whether the difference is by no explanation to be removed. The principal person is Josephus, who is indeed a valuable author, but whose excellencies by no means exempt him from the danger of error; and I could produce examples, not only of his relating the same story differently in different places, but even where he is equally mistaken in each. When St. Luke then, and Josephus, differ in their accounts of the same fact, the question is, which of the two writers has given the true one? And here it is not a little extraordinary, that without further inquiry it is universally determined in favour of the latter, as if Josephus were inspired, and whoever contradicted him must of course be mistaken. This is a method of proceeding which is applied on no other occasion; and it is usual, when we estimate the respective merits of two historians, to place them both in an equal balance, that the scale may preponderate in favour of the most deserving. And among the circumstances which tend to this preponderance, is surely the preference due to an historian, who describes events to which he is himself contemporary, above him who relates from hearsay or tradition; or to an author who makes a particular study of that single portion of history which is the object of inquiry, and is personally acquainted with the respective characters which are introduced, above an author who writes only a general history of a nation or empire. For instance, if I wished to be minutely informed in any circumstance relating to the blockade and the taking of Gottingen by the French in the seven years' war, I would rather have recourse to an author who had written a particular history of that city, than to one who had written a history of Germany at large. For the same reason, in the case of John the Baptist's imprisonment and death, I would sooner give credit to the Evangelists than Josephus.

The difference which I have mentioned between a contemporary and a later historian deserves more minutely to be examined. The period of history, in which we are most frequently deficient, is that which relates to the last twenty or thirty years before our birth, and the time of our childhood and youth: and we are more apt to make mistakes in matters belonging to this interval than in those of a remoter age. The reason is, that our historical works usually cease before the commencement of that period: our knowledge therefore of the former part is grounded on hearsay, and for the latter part we are too young to observe the transactions of the times. In the ages of antiquity this was more remarkably the case than in the present times, in which the daily papers and periodical journals may supply the place of more regular annals; but it was far otherwise in the days of Josephus, who had no predecessor in the Jewish History, from whom he could derive a knowledge of the times that immediately preceded his birth. There is a period then of forty or fifty years, in which, even with the most diligent inquiry, he was more exposed to error, especially in the dates, than in more distant ages, where he had the advantage of written accounts. This period is easy to be determined, as he was born in the first year of Caligula, and therefore not long before St. Paul's escape from Damascus: it commences between twenty and thirty years before his birth, and continues to his eighteenth or twentieth year, before which time he was hardly capable of collecting materials for a history. To this must be added, that he spent three years in the desert with Banun, an ascetic enthusiast, whence he returned in his one and twentieth year, and therefore about three years before the journey of St. Paul to Jerusalem, described in the twenty-first and twenty-second chapters of the Acts.

To apply these principles to one of the most obvious contradictions between Josephus and St. Luke. Gamaliel, in a speech held in the same year in which Christ was crucified, speaks of one Theudas, who had raised a sedition before the first taxation of the Jews under Quirinius: Josephus on the contrary refers the sedition of Theudas to the government of Fadus, a period eleven years later than the time in which Gamaliel made his speech; and he differs so materially from St. Luke, even in the chief circumstances, as to give it the appearance of a different event. The Theudas mentioned in the Acts has only four hundred followers; the Theudas in Josephus persuades a very considerable number (τὸν πλείστον ὄχλον) to follow him to the river Jordan: the former is mentioned by Gamaliel as an instance in which the moderation of government had, without the intervention of arms, permitted a sedition to die away of itself: of the latter Josephus says, that "Fadus left not Theudas and his party in quiet possession of their fanaticism, but sent a troop of horse, who killed many of them, and made a still greater number prisoners, among whom was Theudas himself, whose head was cut off, and brought to Jerusalem."

Now if these opposite relations are not to be reconciled, I should not hesitate a moment to give the preference to

St. Luke. It is true, that the point in question lay without the circle of his own experience, but he was on the other hand instructed by St. Paul, a disciple of Gamaliel, and who could not be unacquainted with what his master had publicly spoken on so remarkable an occasion. And instead of supposing that St. Luke has woven into the speech of Gamaliel an account of an insurrection that happened later than the period of his speaking, I should rather believe that St. Luke had never heard of a commotion, which was raised long after he had quitted the province. But Josephus was only nine years of age when Fadus left the government of Judæa: a mistake therefore relating to the transactions of those days was by no means improbable, and the mistake is easy to be explained, by supposing only the confusion of a single name. There lived at the time assigned by the speech of Gamaliel an impostor of the name of Theudas, who excited a sedition that soon dwindled to nothing, and is not recorded by Josephus: but during the administration of Fadus there arose an insurrection of a more serious nature, which Josephus, in writing his history, remembered from the days of his childhood, and having heard of a similar disturbance occasioned by Theudas, confounded in his relation of the last event the names of the two impostors.

Another remarkable instance of contradiction between Josephus and the Evangelists, is the relation of the imprisonment and death of John the Baptist. The cause ascribed by the Evangelists for his imprisonment is the liberty he had taken in rebuking Herod for his marriage with Herodias, the wife of his brother Philip. But Herod, notwithstanding this act of violence, respects the holy character of the Baptist, and frequently converses with him on different subjects. This excites the jealousy of Herodias, who is apprehensive that a continuance of this intercourse might be attended with danger to herself. She takes therefore the opportunity of an unguarded promise, which Herod in the height of his zeal had given her daughter, to demand the head of John the Baptist in a charger: a request which Herod in consequence of his oath is unable to refuse. Now in this relation there is not the least appearance of improbability; the story, as related at large by the Evangelists, Matt. xiv. 1—13. Mark vi. 14—29. is minute and circumstantial: St. Matthew and St. Mark were both in the number of Christ's disciples, among whom was the brother of St. Peter, John i. 41. and others who had been the disciples of John, and those very persons who had buried the body, came and told Jesus, Matt. xiv. 12. No historian then whatsoever could be better qualified to attest an event, than St. Matthew and St. Mark were the imprisonment and death of John the Baptist.

On the other hand, the relation of Josephus has no internal marks of improbability, though he is not so circumstantial as the Evangelists, except in determining the place of John's imprisonment and death, which was at Machærus, a fortress on the borders of Arabia Petræa. It happened therefore during the campaign which Herod made against Aretas, and hence the reason that the military officers, mentioned by St. Mark, were present at his table. Josephus then, after describing John as a preacher of virtue, and one who recommended the purifying the heart, not by baptism alone, but by a reformation of manners, continues his relation as follows, "As the number of persons that flocked to him daily increased (for his preaching met with applause) Herod was apprehensive that the aggrandisement of John's authority might end in a rebellion, since the populace refused nothing that he commanded. He thought it therefore more prudent to remove him in time before any accident happened, than to wait till it was arrived, when all remedy might be fruitless. On this suspicion therefore John was apprehended, brought to the above-mentioned fortress, Machærus, and there put to death. But the Jews were persuaded that the defeat of their army, which happened soon after, was inflicted by the wrath of the Deity as a punishment on Herod."

The difference between these accounts is striking: for according to Josephus, Herod alone is to blame, who puts John to death on a suspicion that is totally ungrounded: but he is much more excusable according to the Evangelists, who relate, that he was artfully surprised into a consent against his inclination; they give therefore a proof of their moderation and impartiality in relating the death of a friend, qualities which must excite a favourable opinion in our judgment of an historian. If we compare the Evangelists with Josephus in point of age, we shall find the presumption still greater in their favour; Josephus was born some years after John was beheaded, and was neither known to his disciples, from whom he could have derived intelligence, nor interested like the Evangelists to inquire minutely into the circumstances of the event. He had heard, in general terms, that John was beheaded by the command of Herod a few years before the time of his birth, and like many profound historians, who think to discover a serious political reason for events that were occasioned by a trifling accident, ascribed perhaps a cause which had no other ground than his own imagination. This at least is certain, that if we found the same contradiction in the relation of a fact between either Greek, or Roman, or modern historians, we should not hesitate to prefer the author who was contemporary to the event related, and who to a knowledge of the person described joins minuteness and impartiality, to him who lived in a later period, and wrote a general history, of which the subject in question was only an inconsiderable part.

As this last example applies chiefly to the two first Evangelists, I will mention another which applies only to St. Luke, and setting, as before, inspiration aside, without which no comparison can be made, examine which of the two historians, Josephus or St. Luke, is most deserving of credit. The instance to which I allude is the history of the death of Herod Agrippa, a history in which both authors agree in the principal point, and yet each introduces into his narration circumstances unconnected with, though not contradictory to, those related by the other. They are likewise unanimous in their opinion of the cause of the painful disease which befell Agrippa amid the acclamations of the multitude, and considered it as a punishment inflicted by the immediate intervention of the Deity. According to both historians the accident happened at Cæsarea, during a public festivity, in which Herod appeared in solemn pomp. St. Luke relates, that he had been offended with the Tyrians and Sidonians, who were desirous of regaining his friendship, because they imported from his dominions their chief articles of consumption. For this purpose they bring over Blastus the king's chamberlain to their party, and Herod consents to give them a public audience, and according to the manner of those ages, to make them a speech from his throne. Josephus relates that Herod Agrippa, having heard on his arrival at Cæsarea that a festival was to be celebrated in honour of the Roman Emperor, in order to render it more brilliant, commanded public exhibitions to be made in the theatre, at which persons of the first rank and dignity in the province were present, and that on the second day of these exhibitions happened the above-mentioned accident. The account then is so far not contradictory to that of St. Luke, since deputies from Tyre and Sidon, though not mentioned by Josephus, might have been present at the solemnity, and have had political motives for coming at that time to Cæsarea, independent of the public games. We know from other writers that these cities were obliged to draw their supplies of corn from foreign countries; the circumstance related by St. Luke is therefore extremely probable in itself, and, as he spent two years at Cæsarea shortly after the event, he had the best opportunity of being informed of the truth. But it might be easily unknown to Josephus, who wrote in a later period, and who betrays by his very language that he borrowed his accounts from a Jewish tradition, which, neglecting the political motive, had been careful only to preserve the story of the public exhibitions, which being unlawful according to Jewish principles, were considered perhaps as the cause of Herod's misfortune.

On the appointed day the king appears in royal apparel, ἐνδύσας αὐτὸς ἐθὺς βασιλικήν, as St. Luke expresses it, which is saying all that is necessary on that subject: but Josephus relates, "that he came at break of day in a garment woven entirely of silver, which was a wonderful piece of workmanship: and as the beams of the rising sun fell on it, it gave a wonderful lustre, which was terrible to behold." This is a description which no modern historian would wish to have written: had Josephus himself beheld the garment, it would hardly have appeared so wonderful, or produced so terrible an effect; and the circumstance of a king's appearing in his robes of state at break of day is attended with a very low degree of probability.

The exclamation of the multitude after Herod had finished his oration is, according to St. Luke, It is the voice of a god, and not of a man; which is short, and such as might be expected from a shouting populace: according to Josephus, Be thou merciful to us! for although we have until now revered thee only as a man, yet from henceforth we shall acknowledge thee as superior to mortal nature. Here St. Luke has clearly the advantage on his side, since Josephus, through affectation of a florid style, has converted the sudden shout of a multitude into a rounded period.

They are unanimous in attributing what followed to a preternatural cause, and consider it as a punishment for Herod's acquiescing in the infamous flattery: the only difference is, that Josephus relates it in better Greek, and St. Luke says, in a style that is half Hebrew, The angel of the Lord smote him, because he gave not God the glory. With respect to the nature of the disorder, they both agree in its being a complaint in the bowels, which St. Luke as a physician more particularly determines, and says he was eaten of worms; but the account of Josephus is as follows: "Soon after he looked up, and beheld an owl sitting on a cord over his head. This, which had been formerly a messenger of good, he then considered as a token of evil, and was greatly dejected. He was immediately attacked with a violent pain in his bowels," &c. Here then I can make no further commentary, and leave my readers to determine which of the two historians deserves the preference. Compare Acts xii. 19—23. with Josephus, Antiq. xix. c. 8.

If after so minute an examination of this last example, and the consequence which must be necessarily drawn from it, we find other examples of disagreement, it is surely unreasonable to condemn St. Luke because he is contradicted by Josephus, who, as Lardner has observed in the history of the Egyptian impostor, is sometimes more difficult to be reconciled with himself than with the Evangelist.

A contradiction between the Evangelists and the Talmud, a book replete with fables, composed long after the destruction of Jerusalem, and grounded on oral tradition, will hardly be adduced as an argument against the authenticity of the Gospels. The distinction which is made by many, between that which is related in the Talmud, as coming from the mouth of a Rabbi who lived before the destruction of Jerusalem, and that which is there related as coming from a later Rabbi, is totally ungrounded, since the question still remains to be determined, whether that ancient Rabbi had really asserted what was put to writing so long after the age in which he lived. It is therefore a poor objection, and unworthy of a reply, (when, in order to invalidate the relation of Peter's denial of Christ, which is recorded by all the Evangelists, of whom two lived a considerable time in Jerusalem, and St. Mark wrote under the immediate inspection of Peter himself,) to contend that, according to the Bava Kama, cocks were not permitted in Jerusalem. This is to confute an historian who relates an event that happened in the city where he lived, and in the circle of his own experience, by means of a tradition heard a century after the city was destroyed. To this must be added, that what the Jews relate of certain privileges belonging to Jerusalem is not only contradictory to Josephus, but manifestly false, as E. A. Schulze has fully shewn in a dissertation that deserves to be read, De fictis Hierosolymæ privilegiis. It is there-therefore a matter of surprise, that this objection from the Talmud should have appeared so important to many learned and sensible writers. Reland, who has taken great pains on this subject in his essay, De galli cantu Hierosolymis audito, is willing to allow "æquum esse, ut Judæis, cum de suis rebus narrant, eandem fidem habeamus, quam Græcis et Romanis scriptoribus;" but he ought to have added after Judæis the words coævis aut qui coævus legerunt, and then the argument from the Talmud would be no longer applicable.

The divine Authority of the New Testament, and the truth of the Christian Faith, further proved, by the Predictions of our Lord relative to the judgments which should fall on the Jewish nation for their infidelity, and for their rejecting and condemning the Messiah.

THE things which Christ foretold concerning the destruction of Jerusalem, and the calamities which shortly were to happen to that nation, were of that signal nature, and mentioned such various events, then future and contingent, and yet were so exactly and so particularly fulfilled, as to afford us a most pregnant demonstration of the truth of Christ's prophetic office.

1st, Our blessed Lord foretold the destruction of the Jewish temple, after it had stood well nigh 500 years, in these words, Seest thou these great buildings? there shall not be left one stone upon another which shall not be thrown down; to complete which prediction, Titus commanded his soldiers, saith Josephus, to dig up the foundation both of the temple and of the city: and both the Jewish Talmud, and Maimonides, add, "That Terentius Rufus, the captain of his army, did with a ploughshare tear up the foundations of the temple;" and so more signally fulfil those words of Micah, chap. iii. 12. Therefore shall Zion, for your sakes, be plowed as a field, and Jerusalem shall become heaps, and the mountain of the Lord as the high places of the forest. And here two things seem worthy of our observation.

1. The exact time when this was done, viz. on the same month and day on which it formerly was burnt by Nebuzar-adan, the captain of the king of Babylon, which therefore by Maimonides is styled, the fatal day of vengeance, and which is by Josephus reckoned to be a matter of just admiration, and a plain indication, that this happened so by divine appointment.

2. That this destruction and conflagration of the temple happened against the will, command, and the endeavours of Titus to prevent it, for he calls heaven and earth to witness that he would never violate that sacred place, unless the Jews compelled him so to do; "yea," said he, "I will preserve your temple against your own wills;" when his own generals declared it necessary to destroy that temple, he answered, "I will never suffer such a structure to be destroyed by the flames;" and when the fire began to seize upon it, he called, he beckoned to, yea, he commanded his soldiers to extinguish it; but they not hearkening to his commands, animated one another to the burning of it: "Thus," says Josephus, "was the temple burnt against the will of Cæsar, God himself assisting with the Romans to the ruin of it;" that so the words of Christ might be verified, He will send forth his armies, and destroy those murderers, and burn up their city.

2dly, Our Lord foretels, with like exactness and particularity, the ruin of their famous city, declaring, Luke xxi. 24. that Jerusalem should be trodden down of the Gentiles, until the time of the Gentiles be fulfilled. And again, The day, saith he, shall come upon thee, that thine enemies shall cast a trench about thee, and compass thee round, and keep thee in on every side, and shall lay thee even with the ground, and shall not leave in thee one stone upon another, Luke xix. 43, 44. Now, that the event completely answered to these plain predictions, is evident from their own historian, who expressly says, that "Titus having commanded his soldiers to dig up the city and the "temple, this was so fully done, by levelling the whole compass of the city, except three towers, that they who came to see it were persuaded it would never be built again." The same historian informs us, "that when Vespasian besieged Jerusalem, his army compassed the city round about, and kept them in on every side;" and though it was judged a great and almost an impracticable work to compass the whole city with a wall, "yet Titus, animating his soldiers to attempt it, they in three days built a wall 39 furlongs, having 13 castles on it, and so cut off all hopes that any of the Jews within the city should escape."

3dly, Whereas our Saviour said, Jerusalem should be trodden down, (παύσηται) possessed, and trodden by the feet of the Gentiles, this so exactly came to pass, that Vespasian commanded the whole land of Judea to be sold to those Gentiles that would buy it; and Hadrian, about sixty-three years after, made a law, "That no Jew should come into the region round about Jerusalem," as Aristo Pellæus, who was himself a Jew, and flourished in the very time of Hadrian, relates: "Thus," says Eusebius, "it came to pass, that the Jews being banished thence, and there being a conflux thither (ἀλλοφύλων γένους) of aliens, it became a city and colony of the Romans, and was in honour of the Emperor named Ælia." Now here it is especially observable, that Julian the apostate, designing to defeat this prophecy of Christ, resolved on the rebuilding of the city and temple of Jerusalem in its old station, which was till this time left in ruins, Ælia being built without the circuit of it; for, in his epistle to the community of the Jews, he writes thus, "The holy city of Jerusalem, which you have so long desired to see inhabited, rebuilding by my own labours, I will dwell in." Thus he began with an endeavour to build that temple, in which alone the Jews would offer up their prayers and sacrifices; but the immediate hand of Providence soon forced the workmen to desist from that unhappy enterprise. Ammianus Marcellinus, an Heathen, who lived in those very times, gives us the story thus, That Julian endeavoured to rebuild the temple at Jerusalem with vast expences, and gave it in charge to Alypius of Antioch to hasten the work, and to the Ruler of the province to assist him in it; in which work, when Alypius was earnestly employed, and the Ruler of the province was assisting, terrible balls of flame bursting forth near the foundations with frequent explosions, and burning divers times the workmen, rendered the place inaccessible; and thus the fire obstinately repelling them, the work ceased." The story is very signal, and remarkable for many circumstances, as,

1. The persons that relate it, Ammianus Marcellinus an Heathen, Zemus David a Jew, who confesseth that Julian was divinitus impeditus, "hindered by God in this attempt." Nazianzen and Chrysostom among the Greeks, St. Ambrose and Rufinus among the Latins, who flourished at the very time when this was done: Theodoret and Sozomen, orthodox historians, Philostorgius an Arian, Socrates a favourer of the Novatians, who wrote the story within the space of fifty years after the thing was done, and whilst the eye-witnesses of the fact were yet surviving.

2. The time when it was performed, not in the reign of Christian Emperors, but of the most bitter enemies of Christians, when they were forced to hide, and had not liberty of speaking for themselves. Observe,

4. With what confidence the Christians urge this matter of fact against the Jews, as a convincing demonstration of the expiration of their legal worship, and of the certainty of Christian faith against the Heathen philosophers, enquiring, "what the wise men of the world can say to these things?" and against the Emperor Theodosius, to deter him from requiring them to rebuild a synagogue which had lately been burnt by a Christian bishop.

3. And lastly, the unquestionable evidence of the thing: "this," say the Christians, "all men freely do believe and speak of; it is in the mouths of all men, and is not denied even by the Atheists themselves: and if it seem yet incredible to any one, he may repair for the truth of it both to witnesses of it yet living, and to them who have heard it from their mouths; yea, they may view

"the

“ the foundations lying still bare and naked : and if you ask the reason, you will meet with no other account besides that which I have given : and of this all we Christians are witnesses, these things being done not long since, in our own time.” So St. Chrysostom.

This also may be farther argued from the exactness of the parallel betwixt the punishments which they inflicted on the holy Jesus, and those they after suffered for so doing : and betwixt the crimes for which they did condemn our blessed Lord, and those which they themselves were after guilty of, and for which tremendous judgments fell upon them. For,

1. Whereas they, by their clamours to Pontius Pilate, crucified the Lord of life, they, many of them, perished by the same kind of death ; for many Jews of the equestrian order, and of Roman dignity, were treated thus by Florus, says their own historian ; and Titus crucified so many of them, that he at last could find no more crosses for their bodies.

2. They crucified him at the feast of the passover ; and, being the true paschal Lamb, he expired, though not on the same day, yet at the very hour when the paschal lamb was to be slain ; but then their own Josephus has observed, that “ at that very feast the whole nation was inclosed in Jerusalem, and that the war compassed the city when it was thus stuffed with men, and so the slaughter of them became incredibly great ; ” “ God’s providence,” which he styles fate, “ so ordering matters,” says Eusebius, “ that at that time, when they had crucified the holy Jesus, they being shut up all as in one prison, should receive the punishment of that iniquity.”

3. They not only chose a thief, a murderer, and a seditious person, before Christ, but also crucified him between two thieves ; and “ many of them,” says Josephus, “ were miserably harrassed and destroyed by the bands of thieves which rose up among them : ” And when Felix had destroyed these thieves, then, says he, “ there sprang up among them another kind of thieves, called the Sicarii, who slew many of their fellow Jews at broad day, in the middle of the city, and especially at the feasts ; and these thieves also were seditious, as well as murderers, threatening death to them who obeyed the Romans ; and of them, one Jesus was the leader.

4. They condemned our Lord as worthy to die, Mark xiv. 64. and they themselves were forced to confess, that God had condemned their whole nation to death, as has been proved before.

5. They said of Christ, We have a law, and by our law he ought to die, John xix. 7. and they were so infatuated as to conceive, that by their law they ought to die rather than yield to the Romans. Josephus does himself confess it, saying to Vespasian, “ I am not ignorant of the Jewish law, and how our commanders ought to die ; ” and when he refused to die with his companions, they cry out, “ What is now become of our laws ! ” Eleazar, exhorting them to kill themselves rather than fall into the hands of the Romans, cries out, Our laws command us to do this.

6. They condemned him as an enemy to Cæsar, and they themselves all perished for that crime ; for Josephus, speaking of the sect of Judas Gaulonites, who allowed God alone to be King and Governor, and chose rather to die than acknowledge Cæsar, saith, “ they laid the foundation of all the calamities which fell upon the nation ; they indeed instigated the people, and even forced them to that war by which they were destroyed.”

7. They condemned him as a false prophet, and a deceiver of the people ; and their own Josephus often testifies, that their false prophets and deceivers were the very causes of their ruin.

8. They laid their accusations against him and his followers, as persons who profaned, and who designed to destroy, their temple ; and they themselves, as has been shewn already, first horribly profaned it with the blood of Jews and Gentiles, and then forced the Romans to destroy it ; they “ hastened the slow fire,” says Josephus, “ and even drew it to the temple.”

They thought it expedient he should be put to death, lest the Romans should come and take away their place and nation : and this expedient brought upon them those very Romans, who took away their temple and their city, sold their whole land, says Josephus, and would not suffer them so much as to come into Judea, or to the ruins of Jerusalem. Josephus informs us, that “ they had a prophecy that one of their country should then reign over the whole earth ; that this caused many to take upon them to be kings, and animated the people to that war which brought this ruin on their nation.”

Lastly, They rejected that Jesus who came with glad tidings of salvation to them, and would not hear him preaching the words of life unto them ; and they were forced, about seven years together, to hear another Jesus sounding forth continually, Sad is the omen which I bring from God unto you. Josephus, speaking of the dreadful prodigies, or, as he styles them, God’s warnings of their approaching desolation, concludes with this as the most terrible of all, that four years before the war, when the city was in peace and plenty, “ one Jesus began at the feast of tabernacles to cry, A voice against Jerusalem, and the temple, and against all the people ; and thus he went about the city, crying day and night ; and being whipped, so that the flesh was torn to the very bones, he neither wept nor begged mercy, but at every lash cried out, Woe, woe, to Jerusalem, the temple, and the people ; and that, crying thus above seven years, he never waxed hoarse nor weary ; ” whence even Josephus concludes thus, “ If any man considers, he will find that God, by many ways, shews to men the things which do belong to their peace, especially to our nation, but that they perished through their own madness, and their wilful sins.”
